AN ENCYCLOPEDIA OF SPORTS

Containing All the World's Records in all the World's Sports

PRICE 50 CENTS
FOREWORD

IN compiling Sport-Cyc the author has endeavored to place before the sport-loving public a book that will be both versatile and interesting at the same time.

Records, perhaps, that are not known to the generation of today have been given the greatest consideration, and this little volume, the reader must admit, holds every conceivable record one would care to know in the well-known sports.

It has eliminated the consultation of dozens of books, some rather incomplete insofar as fulfilling the purposes for which they are meant.
Every record herein contained is authentic and accurate, having been obtained from sources which are affiliated very closely with that very sport.

If the reader obtains as much enjoyment and pleasure from the perusal of Sport-Cyc as the author had in compiling same, the purpose of this little volume will not have gone amiss.

PITCHING RECORDS
Chas. ("Babe") Adams

Born, Tipton, Ind., May 18, 1883.

In 1920, Adams led the National League in shut-out games (8), second to Alexander in point of earned runs scored. In the 35 full games he pitched, he issued but 18 bases on balls, hit one batsman, pitched 263 innings, faced 1,035 batters. So splendid in his "control" he issued one pass for each 15 innings he pitched. The most remarkable pitching feat ever credited to any pitcher was in 1914, when he pitched 21 innings against the New York Giants, failed to either issue a base on balls, hit a batter, or make a wild pitch.

Baseball Records Held by Ruth

Hitting

Ruth has yet to make two home runs in one inning. But he already holds records aplenty as follows:

Fifty-nine home runs for a season.
Seven home runs in five successive games.
Three home runs in three successive times at bat, June 13 and 14, 1921.
One hundred and sixty-two home runs for his major league career.
Greatest number of home runs with bases filled in one season—Four, in 1919.

Four-Hundred Hitters

Few batters can claim honor of a batting average of 400 or better for a season; making 300 is the ambition of all players.

Jess Burkett holds the record, having been in the four hundred per cent class three seasons, 1895, 1896, and 1899. Players who batted 400 or better twice, are: Anson; Stovey; Thompson; Delehanty, and Cobb.

Here Is the Complete Record of "400" Hitters

Hugh Duffy, Boston, N. L., 1894—.438.
George Turner, Philadelphia, N. L., 1894—.432.

George Sisler, St. Louis, A. L., 1920—.407.
Fred Clarke, Louisville, N. L., 1897—.406.
Larry Lajoie, Athletics, A. L., 1901—.405.
Records Made in 1887

In 1887 players were allowed four strikes: A base on balls counted as a base hit, consequently batting averages of that season should not be compared with those of other seasons, as only three strikes are allowed and a "walk" is not credited as a hit.

"Tip" O'Neill, who played the outfield for St. Louis, American Association, made the wonderful record of .492 during 1887. He is credited with 277 hits in 123 games.

Records of this season are separated, and should be borne in mind when speaking of the wonderful batters in the "good old days." Here they are:

J. E. "Tip" O'Neill, St. Louis, A. A., 1887—.492.
Pete Browning, Louisville, A. A., 1887—.471.
Denny Lyons, Athletics, A. A., 1887—.469.
Bob Carruthers, St. Louis, A. A., 1887—.459.
Willie Keeler, Baltimore, N. L., 1887—.432.
Bill Robinson, St. Louis, A. A., 1887—.426.
A. C. Anson, Chicago, N. L., 1887—.421.
Dan Brouthers, Detroit, N. L., 1887—.419.

World’s Record Hitting

To make five or six hits in a game is heralded as phenomenal, but Wilbert Robinson, playing for Baltimore, and now managing the Brookylns, made seven hits in one game against St. Louis on June 10, 1892. This performance is all the more remarkable when we note that the pitchers were none other than “Cy” Young, Theodore Breitenstein and “Pretzel” Getzein, three cracker-jacks of those times.

On September 6, 1883, Tom Burns, Chicago third baseman against Detroit, was at bat three times in one inning, making a home run and two doubles. Burns made these hits in the seventh inning when Chicago scored 18 runs.

On April 21, 1883, Robinson, one of the players with Saginaw against Dayton, was at bat three times in the sixth inning, making two triples and a double. Saginaw made twenty (20) runs in that game.

Bill George in a game with St. Paul vs. Kansas City on June 21, 1896, was at bat twice in the sixth inning, making two home runs. The St. Paul team won. The winners made thirty-five hits for a total of fifty-six bases. Scored thirteen runs in the sixth.

In 1884 Captain A. C. Anson, of the Chicago N. L. Club, made five home runs in two games.

7 Hits—two home runs, three doubles, two singles in succession, a total of 16 bases by Hans Wagner, Pittsburg, N. L. Aug. 22, 1910.

8 Hits—Seven singles, one triple, Larry Lajoie, Cleveland, A. L., vs. St. Louis, Oct. 9, 1910.

Greatest Number of Hits Consecutively

11 safe hits, Tris Speaker, Cleveland, A. L., 1920.

Memphis Club (Southern Assn.) defeated Little Rock, scoring 29 runs on 30 hits at Memphis, Tenn., Aug. 9, 1921. The previous minor league record was 24 runs made by Atlanta against Birmingham in 1920.

Sam Rice of Washington Holds World’s Record of Outfield Chances

Sam Rice in 1920 placed the record for chances accepted at 478 against the old record by Max Carey of the Pirates, who in 1917 accepted 468 chances.
Brother Against Brother in World’s Series Games

Since 1884, when the World’s Series games were first played, there have been only two such series where brothers have played on opposing teams, once in 1920, when Jimmy Johnston of the Brooklyn team had his brother Wheeler “Doc” Johnston of the Cleveland team as his opponent; and in 1921 Bob Meusel of the New York Yanks opposed his brother Emil “Irish” Meusel of the New York Giants.

Longest Drive on Record

On June 14, 1921, Babe Ruth, in a game against St. Louis, made a hit that traveled 430 feet. This was his second home run into the center field bleachers. The hit was made on the Polo Grounds.

Some Home Runs

In a series between Philadelphia and Detroit, played in the former city, there were fifteen home runs made by the two teams, the Athletics cracking out ten of them. During the series, sixty-five runs scored in the four games. The ball was hit for 106 safeties for a grand total of 174 bases.

SIX HITS IN A GAME

Ed. Delehanty, One Major League Player, Did It Twice

O’Rourke Had Two Such Streaks in 1919

Ed. Delehanty is the only player in Major Leagues who made six hits in a game twice.
first time was with Cleveland Players League in 1890, and in 1894 with Philadelphia.

Only Player to Do it Twice in One Season

Frank O'Rourke, who formerly played with Toronto, now with Washington, is the only player who ever did it twice in one season. On the opening day of the International League Season, he made his first six hits, and in the latter part of the season he did it again.

Both Willie Keeler and Jack Doyle on the Baltimore, N. L. Club, made six hits each the same day, Sept. 3, 1897.

From 1902 when Jimmy Williams made six hits in a game with Baltimore until George Cutshaw of the Brooklyn team did it in 1915, no player made six hits in a game.

Here is the complete record of all players who have made six hits in a game, excepting season of 1887, when players had four strikes.

A WONDERFUL PERFORMANCE BY GUY HECKER, WHICH PROBABLY WILL NEVER BE EQUALLED

The wonderful accomplishments in all-around baseball of such players as Sisler, Ruth, Lajoie, Wagner, Hornsby and others rightly excite our admiration. Compared with the record established by Guy Hecker—a star of the Eighties—they must necessarily take second place.

He Is Credited With—

having pitched a no-hit game, playing first base, in which position he was not offered a chance. He also has to his credit the remarkable record of having scored seven runs in a regular nine-inning game.

SLOW GAMES

July 30, 1862, it required four hours to score 12 runs between the Unions of Morrisania and Eckfords of Green Point to play a game.

A game played at Carrollton, Ky., on July 18, 1863, between two picked teams, started at ten o'clock in the morning, and was called on account of darkness at six P. M. with only seven innings played. The score was a tie with 58 runs each.

THREE EXCEPTIONAL RECORDS

Once in the history of Baseball have two clubs from two leading Baseball Leagues captured the pennants (Chicago), and the same year two other clubs (Boston) in the same city finished last.

In 1920 two batters from the same city in two leagues led the other players in batting.

A FEW OPINIONS

I have many books on sport. Your edition is one that can be relied upon. It is the best on the market with every item in all lines of sport recorded. Every newspaperman should have a copy on his desk. Send to my home address twenty-five copies, as this one may be missing every day.

Pete Herman,
Bantam Champion of the World.

Your book is great. After perusing it, I find there is not a record missing in any sport. It is absolutely the best publication I have ever seen. It ought to go very “big.” Wishing you success, I am,

Johnny Dundee,
Junior Lightweight Champion of the World.
Your book is the greatest in its line. It's got every record in every sport. You ought to sell millions. Every sport-lover ought to have one. Send me another dozen.

Charlie Ross,
World's Famous Trainer, Earl Caddock, Charlie White, Johnny Coulon, Pete Herman, Jack Britton, Freddie Welsh, Willie Jackson, Frank Klaus, Carl Morris, Jimmie Hanlon, Etc.

Say, it's a wonder. It will settle more disputes than a thousand sporting writers. Every one interested in sports will buy one, even if you asked Five Dollars a book instead of fifty cents.

Lew Tendler.
