TOPICAL INDEX.

Use the index in your latest number. Ignore all previous indexes in volumes and numbers. The latest index cites by volume and page to the latest treatment of any subject.

You do not have to study classification. This index contains the name of every subject you are familiar with and not merely the titles of our articles.

The page citation at the beginning of each article directs to the particular subdivision wanted. There you can find its latest treatment and also a volume and page citation to the same points in earlier volumes.

Black figures refer to volumes; light figures to pages.

This index is revised and reprinted every month. Remember to start with the latest index and you cannot go astray or miss anything.

ABATEMENT AND REVIVAL.

§ 1. Causes of Abatement (1). The Pendency of Another Suit or Action (1). Death of a Party (3). Failure to Acquire Jurisdiction (4). A Misjoinder or Nonjoinder (4). Alienation of Party's Interest (4). Insanity

(4). Cessation of Incumbency of Official Party (4).

§ 2. Raising Objection; Walver (4).

§ 3. Survivability of Causes of Action (5).

§ 4. Effect of Abatement, Revival, and Continuation of Suits (5).

§ 1. Causes of abatement. The pendency of another suit or action.<sup>6</sup>—There must be identity of the causes of action<sup>7</sup> and of the relief appropriate,<sup>8</sup> and sub-

1. See Indictment and Prosecution, 8 C. L. 139.

2. See Equity, 7 C. L. 1323. As to abatement of suit in equity see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 915 et seq.; Effect on crossbill. Id. § 968. Bills of revivor in equity, and bills in the nature of bills of revivor see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. §§ 962-968.

3. See Judgments, 8 C. L. 530.

4. See Limitation of Actions, 8 C. L. 768; Bankruptcy, 7 C. L. 387.

5. See Attachment, 7 C. L. 300, and like titles.

6. See 7 C. L. 1. Effect in equity of another suit pending, see Fletcher, Eq. Pl. & Pr. § 293 et seq.

7. Though the result of a suit in one court may affect the determination of another suit in another court, yet, where the causes of action are not identical, "lis pendens" cannot be properly pleaded. Central Impr. & Cont. Co. v. Grasser Cont. Co. [La.] 44 So. 10. The pendency of an appeal by a defendant, from a judgment against him by a justice for the possession of premises and rent to a certain time, is a bar to suit by the plaintiff for the possession and rent since the time of the former action. McLain v. Nurnberg [N. D.] 112 N. W. 245. While a contest of an alleged will is in progress of trial, it is improper for the administrator to file a separate contest, as he could have entered into the one pending if he desired. Rainey v. Ridgway [Ala.] 41 So. 632. During the pendency on appeal of a divorce decree dividing certain real estate between the parties, one of them cannot maintain an action against the other to recover one-half the products of the land. Richardson v. Richardson [Wash.] 86 P. 1069.

Not identical: Action on quantum meruit after partial payment made, and action to recover partial payment. Tyler v. Standard Wine Co., 102 N. Y. S. 65. An action to foreclose an equitable mortgage is not a bar to an action to foreclose another mortgage not an equitable one. Koppang v. Steenerson, 100 Minn. 239, 111 N. W. 153. Action by insurer to reform policy not barred by pendency of an action on the policy. National Fire Ins. Co. v. Hughes [N. Y.] 81 N. E. 562. Where in an action for unlawful detainer the issue is whether the defendant as tenant is holding over, he cannot plead pendency of another suit between him and a former owner to settle alleged contract rights in the land. Chambers v. Irish [Iowa] 109 N. W. 787. An action to recover possession of corporate stock, held by defendant to secure notes given by plaintiff to the seller for the purchase price, is not barred by pendency of another suit between the same parties involving different stock. Leigh v. Laughlin, 222 Ill. 265, 78 N. E. 563. An action by an insured for the cancellation of the policy and return of a note given for the first premium, on the ground of fraudulent representations, is not abated by the pendency of a suit by the agent of the insurer on the note. Mutual Life Ins. Co. v. Hargus [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 580. A plaintiff is not barred from suing for a rescission of a contract of sale of land by the pendency of a suit against him and the defendant, brought by certain heirs who were in possession to establish their interest. Olschewske v. King [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 635, 96 S. W. 665. The pendency of a suit against a mutual benefit association for funeral expenses is no stantial identity of parties in interest and suable.<sup>9</sup> If in respect to the suits two courts are concurrent, it does not matter that one is ordinarily above the other.<sup>10</sup> While the jurisdiction of the Federal courts will ordinarily prevail over that of a state court having an identical controversy before it,<sup>11</sup> this does not apply where the objects of the suits differ.<sup>12</sup> The rule that the same person cannot maintain more than one action against the same defendant on the same cause applies no less to the state than to other litigants, and it has been uniformly applied in actions for penalties.<sup>13</sup> A suit is pending from the time it is commenced<sup>14</sup> until finally determined.<sup>15</sup> The pending of a suit may have ceased, though the formal entry of a defense to a suit between the same parties for sick benefits in which the association claimed it was only liable for funeral expenses. Courtney v. Fidelity Mut. Aid Ass'n, 120 Mo. App. 110, 94 S. W. 768, 101 S. W. 1098. In Alabama the pendency of an action of unlawful detainer is no bar to an action in ejectment brought by the same plaintiff against the same defendant, concerning the same land. Williams v. Gaston [Ala.] 42 So. 552. A suit to quiet title need not be suspended until the final determination of a pending suit by defendant claiming that the conveyance to plaintiff's grantor was fraudulent, and of a contemplated suit to set such conveyance aside. Dorris v. McManus [Cal. App.] 86 P. 909. A suit to enjoin the cutting of timber on the ground that the right to do so has terminated is not abated by the pendency of a former suit alleging that only certain trees could be cut, though an amended answer in the first suit alleges the right to cut. Baker v. Davis [Ga.] 57 S. E. 62. An action at law for an injury does not abate by the pendency of a suit in equity to cancel a release alleged to have been obtained by fraud. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Ark.] 100 S. W. 884. In New Jersey the pendency of a bill seeking to impose a lien on lands of an administrator claimed to have been fraudulently transferred does not bar a petition asking that the administrator be required to pay petitioner a distributive share under a decree of distribution. In re Bayley's Estate [N. J. Eq.] 63 A. 1117.

8. Where an action for trespass involving damages for taking goods is pending, an action of trover for the goods is properly found for the defendant. Charron v. Thivierge [R. I.] 66 A. 835. Where a non-resident is proceeded against by substituted process, the judgment can operate only on the property seized in the suit, hence, where such suit is against two parties and the property of only one of them is seized, the suit can be invoked as lis pendens only by the party whose property has been seized. Henderson Iron Works & Supply Co. v. Howard [La.] 44 So. 296.

9. A suit involving the right to personal property in which summons was issued but not served on one of the defendants abates a subsequent suit by such defendant for the same property in another county. Love-land-Garrett Co. v. Day, 30 Ky. L. R. 879, 99 S. W. 924. A suit by a bank on a note indorsed to it for value is not barred by a recovery against the defendant by the bank's president for the amount paid for the note in a pending action to which the bank was not a party, though it had advanced the consideration for the note at the request of its president as his agent. Empire Trust Co. v. Magee, 102 N. Y. S. 9. Then pendency of a garnishee action is a good defense by way of plea in abatement in an action by the garnishee's creditor to recover the debt sought to be reached by garnishment proceedings. The proper practice in such cases is to stay proceedings pending the determination of the garnishee's liability in the garnishee action. American Hardwood Lumber Co. v. Joannin-Hansen Co., 99 Minn. 305, 109 N. W. 403. A suit to foreclose a mortgage on an undivided interest in land is not abated by the pendency of a partition suit brought by the owner, to which the mortgagee was not a party. Van Houten v. Stevenson, 69 N. J. Eq. 626, 64 A. 1094; Id., 68 N. J. Eq. 490, 64 A. 1058.

10. The pendency of a mandamus proceeding in the superior court to compel police commissioners to issue an occupation permit is a bar under the California statute, to an identical proceeding between the same parties, in the court of appeals. Goytino v. McAleer [Cal. App.] 88 P. 991.

11. See note 3 C. L. 3.

12. Suit in Federal court by gas company making city gas commission and officers parties defendant, does not deprive state court of jurisdiction of suit by private citizen against company to enjoin cutting off gas. Richman v. Consol. Gas Co., 186 N. Y. 209, 78 N. E. 871. The pendency in another court of an action in personam, involving no issue or property of which a Federal court has acquired jurisdiction, presents no ground to stay the action in the Federal court. Guardian Trust Co. v. Kansas City So. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 146 F. 337. A suit in a Federal court to quiet title is not barred by the pendency in a state court of a suit, to recover the land, in which the positions of the parties were reversed. North Carolina Min. Co. v. Westfeldt, 151 F. 290.

13. A plea of the pendency of another suit, in another county, for the same cause, states a good defense to a suit by the commonwealth, on relation of a school superintendent, to recover the penalty of a statutory bond given by a school book publisher to the commonwealth, but where the actions are not identical they may be prosecuted at the same time, prior to judgment in one of them, for different breaches of the bond, though there can be but one recovery. Johnson Pub. Co. v. Com., 30 Ky. L. R. 148, 97 S. W. 749.

final order therein has not yet been made.<sup>16</sup> By the later decisions a plea of another suit pending may be defeated by dismissing the other suit after plea filed.<sup>17</sup>

Death of a party.<sup>18</sup>—If the action has come to judgment it does not abate, though the cause of action be not survivable unless vacated or reversed,<sup>19</sup> and a new trial as to one defendant does not effect a total vacation of the judgment so as to fall outside this rule.<sup>20</sup> And statutes provide that death after verdict or decision of fact shall not frustrate judgment.<sup>21</sup> In equitable code actions a suspension and not abatement results.<sup>22</sup> A suit by a guardian abates by the ward's death, and the personal representative succeeds.<sup>23</sup> The frustration by death of a statutory mode of procedure not jurisdictional does not abate the proceeding.<sup>24</sup> By statutes the death of a coplaintiff<sup>25</sup> or a codefendant severally liable does not abate the action,<sup>26</sup> even in the case of a partnership where the only one served has died.<sup>27</sup> If a penal liability accrues to each of two persons, the death of one pending his action does not abate the other.<sup>28</sup> Under the United States bankruptcy acts, the death of a bankrupt after the filing of an involuntary petition, though prior to service, does not abate the proceedings, but his heirs and personal representatives should be made parties before adjudication.<sup>29</sup> The death of a party, pending his appeal, who has had permission from the legislature to sue the state, does not abate the suit on the ground that the permission was personal.<sup>30</sup>

16. The fact that the clerk failed to enter a dismissal, after being so directed by the plaintiff, does not render another suit by the latter for the cause abatable. McIntosh v. Robb [Cal. App.] 88 P. 517.

17. Jerseyville Shoe Mfg. Co. v. Bell, 125 Ill. App. 496, citing cases.

18. See 7 C. L. 2.

19. Plaintiff's death pending an appeal from an order granting defendant a new trial does not preclude the appeal from being prosecuted by his personal representatives. Wright v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 832. The death of a plaintiff pending an appeal from a judgment in her favor, in a suit on a liquor dealer's bond for sales to her minor son, does not abate the suit so long as the judgment is unreversed, but reversal does abate it. Ellis v. Brooks [Tex.] 102 S. W. 94.

20. An action for personal injuries does not abate by the death of the plaintiff, after judgment and denial of a motion for a new trial, but before an appeal. Fowden v. Pacific Coast S. S. Co., 149 Cal. 151, 86 P. 178.

21. The death of plaintiff pending the determination of a divorce suit does not impair the power of the court to enter final judgment for him, under the California statute. John v. Superior Ct. of Los Angeles County [Cal. App.] 90 P. 53.

22. An equitable action to have a deed delivered up and canceled on the ground of fraud in its procurement does not abate upon the death of the grantor, who was the original plaintiff. Talbott v. Southern Oil Co. [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 1009. In a foreclosure proceeding a decree entered after the death of plaintiff, and without revivor, is an irregularity not open to collateral attack. Wardrobe v. Leonard [Neb.] 111 N. W. 134.

23. Where a guardian obtained a judgment as such, and, after the death of the ward, an appeal notice is served on the plaintiff as guardian, the appellate court acquires no jurisdiction of him individually or otherwise. Hurst v. Hawkins [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 42.

24. Bastardy proceeding where death of mother prevents her presence in court. Bennett v. Briggs [N. J. Law] 65 A. 717.

25. Under U. S. Rev. St. § 956 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 697), an action in a Federal court by several plaintiffs as joint owners of bonds does not abate by the death of one of the plaintiffs, but may proceed in the name of the survivors upon suggestion of the death on the record. Thomas v. Green County [C. C. A.] 146 F. 969. The death of a coplaintiff pending an appeal by defendant does not abate the suit, under the Missouri statute. McManus v. Oregon Short Line R. Co., 118 Mo. App. 152, 94 S. W. 743.

26. Under the Alabama statute, judgment may be rendered against one defendant, in an action for tort, without revivor on the death of his codefendant. Hays v. Miller [Ala.] 43 So. 818.

27. An action against two partners does not abate, though the partner who was served with summons dies before trial. Nor need the personal representative be made a party, as the action survives against the surviving partner who is primarily liable. Latz v. Blumenthal, 50 Misc. 407, 100 N. Y. S. 527.

28. The abatement of an action, brought under the Texas statute by a father against a liquor dealer on his bond for selling liquors to his minor child, by the death of the father, does not preclude the mother from maintaining another action, though she objected to the abatement of the former. Brooks v. Ellis [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 967, 98 S. W. 936.

29. U. S. Rev. St. § 955 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 697) providing for bringing in the personal representative by scire facias, applies only to personal actions. Shute v. Patterson [C. C. A.] 147 F. 509.

30. Durbridge v. State, 117 La. 841, 42 So. 337.

Failure to acquire jurisdiction,<sup>31</sup> as where defendant is resident and entitled to be sued elsewhere,<sup>32</sup> is matter for abatement.

A misjoinder or nonjoinder<sup>33</sup> of parties is ground for abatement at common law, but statutes in some states modify the common-law rule.<sup>34</sup> The nonjoinder of the trustee in a subsequent bankruptcy proceeding has no such effect.<sup>35</sup> Nonjoinder of a merely proper but not necessary party does not abate the suit.<sup>36</sup>

Alienation of party's interest.—A plaintiff who assigns his interest to another can no longer prosecute the suit, and it abates until revived by the successor in interest,<sup>37</sup> nor does a reassignment to the original plaintiff operate to restore the suit to its original status.<sup>38</sup> But a transfer subject to the outcome of the suit avoids such an effect,<sup>39</sup> and the sale of a note by the payee pending a suit thereon, with the understanding that the purchaser should have the recovery, does not abate the suit where there was no indorsement of transfer on the note and no plea of counterclaim.<sup>40</sup>

Cessation of incumbency of official party.<sup>42</sup>—The resignation of a city officer does not abate a suit against him in his official capacity, but his successor should be substituted as respondent.<sup>43</sup>

§ 2. Raising objection; waiver.<sup>44</sup>—While plea is the technical mode, under the codes a motion<sup>45</sup> or demurrer is sometimes allowable for this purpose. Demurrer for want of jurisdiction of the person will not reach the failure to sue defendant ex contractu in the county of his residence.<sup>46</sup> In the Federal courts the denial of the plaintiff's allegation of citizenship is preferably raised by plea rather than by motion.<sup>47</sup> The plea or equivalent should precede answer to the merits,<sup>48</sup>

34. Virginia statute, providing that court may abate action as to parties improperly joined, and proceed as to the others, does not confer jurisdiction not otherwise existing. McIlvane v. Big Stony Lumber Co., 105 Va. 613, 54 S. E. 473. In an action for injury caused by the negligence of defendant in constructing an unsafe sidewalk in front of his property, the fact that defendant was tenant in common with another who was not joined cannot be pleaded in abatement, the action being in tort, and the plaintiff entitled to sue one or both. McDonald v. McAdams, 151 P. 781. An action against several persons alleged to be partners for an injury to plaintiff through the negligence of the firm, while he was in its employ, is not abatable because one of the defendants is not a member of the firm, or because one of the members is not made a defendant. Warner v. De Armond [Or.] 89 P. 373.

35. A pending suit for rent under which there has been a seizure is not ipso facto abated and the seizure released by the adjudication of the defendant, a voluntary bankrupt. Nor can the trustee in bankruptcy by making himself a party defendant to the pending suit insist on its being dismissed and the property seized turned over to him. Schall v. Kinsella, 117 La. 687, 42 So. 221.

36. The failure of a husband to join in a suit commenced by his wife before the marriage does not abate it, under the Texas statute giving him the privilege of making himself a party. Western Cottage Piano & Organ Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1061.

37, 38. Automatic Switch Co. v. Cutler-Hammer Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 250.

39. After the institution of a suit to quiet title, but before trial, a conveyance by plaintiff of part of the land does not defeat his right to prosecute it to final judgment, especially where a portion of the purchase price is withheld until the cloud is removed from the title. Boyer v. Robinson [Wash.] 86 P. 385.

45. A defendant may object, by motion in the nature of plea in abatement, to being designated in any other than by his true name, and when he so objects the court should require the pleading and process to be amended by insertion of his true name. Davis v. Jennings [Neb.] 111 N. W. 128.

46. In that case the defect goes to the subject-matter, not to the person. Continental Life Ins. & Inv. Co. v. Jones [Utah] 88 P. 229.

47. Gaddie v. Mann, 147 F. 955.

48. Plea in abatement to the jurisdiction for insufficiency of amount involved cannot be considered after continuance of case and else it is waived.<sup>49</sup> The sufficiency of such pleas is also discussed in another article.<sup>50</sup> The facts of such a plea are in some states triable by jury.<sup>51</sup>

§ 4. Effect of abatement, revival, and continuation of suits.<sup>62</sup>—Where the abatement does not oust jurisdiction, the validity of the judgment does not depend on a revivor.<sup>63</sup> Abatement due to failure to acquire jurisdiction makes subsequent answer to the merits. O'Neil v. Murray [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 1090.

49. Oakes v. Barbere, 127 Ill. App. 208.

50. See Pleading, 6 C. L. 1031; 8 C. L. 1355. Sufficiency of plea in abatement alleging agreement pending suit. O'Neil v. Murray [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 1090. It must appear from the plea that a prior action is pending between the same parties for the same cause, as distinguished from actions for different causes depending in whole or in part on the same subject-matter. An action on a quantum meruit for balance due after partial payment for services rendered, and an action for the recovery of the partial payment for nonperformance and failure of consideration, are not for the same cause. Tyler v. Standard Wine Co., 102 N. Y. S. 65.

51. According to the Texas practice, the question whether a nonresident could be sued in the county from which mortgage chattels are removed by his agent, under the statute giving jurisdiction in that county, is submitted to the jury. *American Nat. A cause of action by a husband for loss of services and medical attendance, occasioned by a negligent injury to his wife, is both survivable and assignable. Forbes v. Omaha [Neb.] 112 N. W. 226. In Virginia an action of ejectment brought in the name of a husband and wife does not abate on the death of the husband, but survives as to the wife. McMurray v. Dixon, 105 Va. 605, 54 S. E. 481.

54. On death of the plaintiff in a divorce case after the granting of a decree, his executors cannot be substituted as plaintiffs in a proceeding to have the decree set aside for want of proper service of process on defendant, since they do not represent plaintiff or the heirs with reference to the subject-matter of the action. Dwyer v. Nolan, 40 Wash. 459, 82 P. 746.

55. South Carolina Act of 1905, providing for survivability, does not apply to existing causes of action. Lorick v. Palmetto Nat. Bank [S. C.] 57 S. E. 527.

56. Actions for damages to property caused by smoke and vibration from passing trains survives, under the Maryland statute, and devolves upon the personal representative. Baltimore Belt R. Co. v. Sattler [Md.] 65 A. 752. An action for the recovery of money paid on a lost wager, under the Alabama statute, survives the death of the plaintiff. Motlow v. Johnson [Ala.] 44 So. 421.

57. Contra: Where pending a suit for personal injuries, plaintiff dies unmarried and without issue, leaving a mother, brother, and sisters, the action survives in favor of the mother alone, under the Louisiana Code, and she may recover for his pain and disfigurement and pecuniary loss. Payne v. Georgetown Lumber Co., 117 La. 933, 42 So. 475.

58. Under the Georgia statute, where a father has a cause of action for injury to his minor child and dies before bringing suit, the cause of action does not survive to the mother. King v. Southern R. Co., 126 Ga. 794, 55 S. E. 965.

Contra: Action against commissioner of public works for failure to give plaintiff preferences in employment guaranteed him as a veteran, by statute, survives the latter's death. Burke v. Holtzmann, 102 N. Y. S. 162. Under the Texas statute if a plaintiff in an action for personal injuries dies from the injuries his personal representatives cannot recover therein, but if he die from other causes they may recover, and the question is for the jury. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Ellyson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 580, 94 S. W. 910. See, also, Death by Wrongful Act, 7 C. L. 1033.

59. The Connecticut statute giving a right of action against a town to recover damages caused by a defective highway is not penal, under the act excepting from actions which survives "any civil action upon a penal statute." Town of Waterford v. Elison [C. C. A.] 149 F. 91.

60. A suit by a wife against her husband for maintenance abates on the death of the husband pending an appeal by him from a judgment in her favor. Johnson v. Bates [Ark.] 101 S. W. 412.

63. The death of a party pending an appeal does not oust the supreme court of jurisdiction under the Nevada statute, and a proceedings void in an equitable action, but does not affect the pendency of the action or the rights of the plaintiff in any way, and leaves the issue undetermined and open for future consideration.<sup>64</sup> The proper practice when the suit is revived in the name of the administrator is to file an amendment to the petition, or a supplemental petition setting out when the original plaintiff died and other necessary facts of succession.<sup>65</sup> A bill of revivor is preferable to the code procedure by substituting the personal representative when intervening matters require the bringing in of new parties, but in Colorado both modes are applicable to an equitable action.<sup>66</sup> In many jurisdictions it is now provided that on suggestion the suit may continue and the personal representative appear to be cited in<sup>67</sup> at the adverse party's motion,<sup>68</sup> but, when a coparty dies and the suit may continue by or against the survivors this may be unnecessary.<sup>69</sup> If the succession is not to a representative the proper successor in interest should be brought in.<sup>70</sup> In case of an alienation of interest the transferee should be substituted,<sup>71</sup> it being in some states alternative to a continuation in the original name,<sup>72</sup> as a matter of right.<sup>73</sup> A court rule for the substitution of the personal representative should not be construed to apply where he would not succeed in interest.<sup>74</sup> When continued against an ancillary representative only, the domiciliary estate will not be bound.<sup>75</sup> When before judgment one of several failure to substitute his personal representatives does not nullify its judgment. Twaddle v. Winters [Nev.] 89 P. 289.

67. Under Massachusetts statute, when one codefendant dies after suit commenced, the court may on motion of plaintiff order defendant's representative to appear and defend. Electric Welding Co. v. Prince [Mass.] 81 N. E. 306. Where a trustee dies after filing a petition in error, in an action against him in his representative capacity, the appellate court will direct that his successor be substituted, instead of entering an order disposing of the cause at a date prior to the trustee's death. Field v. Leiter [Wyo.] 90 P. 378.

68. The defendant or the personal representative of a deceased defendant in a replevin suit may compel the substitution of the executor of the deceased sole plaintiff in such replevin suit. Strauss v. Merchants Loan & Trust Co., 119 Ill. App. 588.

69. Where one of several defendants dies after the submission of the case to an appellate court, the failure of the court upon its record to substitute his heirs and personal representative is not substantial error. Wilhite v. Skelton [C. C. A.] 149 F. 67. Where defense may be made by the codefendant as surviving partner, the personal representative of the other need not be brought in. Latz v. Blumenthal, 50 Misc. 407, 100 N. Y. S. 527. Where a litigant conveys interest to several parties as tenants in common, and after final determination of the case dies, it is not necessary to substitute all the tenants in common as parties. Twaddle v. Winters [Nev.] 89 P. 289.

70. Under the California statute, where a note and mortgage were assigned pending an action thereon, and the assignee died and his estate was distributed to his widow, she was properly substituted as plaintiff, neither her husband or his representative having been substituted. Blinn Lumber Co. v. McArthur [Cal.] 89 P. 436. Where pending a suit, by a substituted trustee against his predecessor's executor for an accounting of the new trust property, the beneficiary dies, the suit should continue, under the New York statute, though not revived by the personal representative. Farmer's Loan & Trust Co. v. Pendleton, 101 N. Y. S. 340. Where a party to a suit concerning land dies, after final judgment in his favor, and leaves a will which is probated before an appeal is taken, his heirs should be made parties appellee, under the Indiana statute. La Porte Land Co. v. Morrison [Ind.] 78 N. E. 321. In South Dakota an action for the cancellation of a deed may, after plaintiff's death, be continued by his executor, who is entitled to the possession of the estate until delivered over to the heirs or devisees. Subera v. Jones [S. D.] 108 N. W. 26.

71. The transferee of a deceased litigant's interest in an action should be substituted as a party, rather than his personal representative, where there is no counterclaim. Twaddle v. Winters [Nev.] 89 P. 289.

72. By statute in Oklahoma, where a party to a suit concerning land transfers his interests pendente lite, the action may be continued in the name of the original party, or the court may allow the transferee to be substituted. Gillett v. Romig [Ok.] 87 P. 325.

73. Under the North Carolina statute, where a plaintiff in ejectment has parted with his interest in the land before trial, the defendant has a right to have the transferee made a party thereto. Burnett v. Lyman, 141 N. C. 500, 54 S. E. 412.

74. The Nevada supreme court rule, providing that, upon the death or other disability of a party pending on appeal his personal representative shall be substituted, does not conflict with the statute providing for the survival of actions. Twaddle v. Winters [Nev.] 89 P. 289.

75. Where a resident of Michigan is sued in Massachusetts and process served on him while there, and pending the action he dies in Michigan leaving a will and estate in Massachusetts, and the court appoints an administrator with the will annexed, and defendants dies, the action cannot be revived jointly against his personal representative and the survivors, but only as separate actions.<sup>76</sup> Where pendente lite the complainant dies, and her daughter files a bill of revivor alleging that she was sole deviser and heir, it is immaterial to her right of revivor whether she took as devisee or heir.<sup>77</sup> The power and practice of a territorial court of Indian Territory, in the revival of a suit upon the death of a party, is governed by the territorial statutes and not by those pertaining to Federal courts.<sup>78</sup> A motion to substitute should be seasonably made, but delay may be excusable.<sup>79</sup> A party who without excuse neglects to revive an action, after the death of the defendant, until after the claim is barred by the statute of limitations, cannot then revive it.<sup>80</sup>

ABDUCTION.<sup>81</sup>

Under most statutes a taking for the specified purpose is all that is necessary<sup>82</sup> if force or persuasion be used.<sup>83</sup> The accomplishment of the purpose is not essential.<sup>84</sup> Under a statute defining the crime as a taking or receiving for the unlawful purpose, either act is sufficient.<sup>85</sup> The gist of the offense under the Minnesota statute is the taking from the custody of the legal guardian, and not the marrying of the child.<sup>86</sup> In order to constitute the offense of detaining a female against her will for the purpose of having carnal knowledge of her, it is sufficient if with intent to do so force is applied sufficient to prevent to any extent the exercise of her free power of locomotion.<sup>87</sup> Under the North Carolina statute the fact of the parents consent is a matter of defense.<sup>88</sup> An information charging the offense substantially in the language of the statute is sufficient.<sup>89</sup> The conduct of the accused prior to renders a decision against him, such decree was satisfied by a distribution according to the Massachusetts laws, and did not bind the decedent's executor in Michigan. Brown v. Fletcher's Estate [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 818, 109 N. W. 686.

77. Miller v. Ahrens, 150 F. 644.

78. In the Indian Territory courts, where one of several plaintiffs or defendants dies, and the right of action survives to or against the remaining parties, the court may suggest the death on the record and proceed to judgment without substituting the heirs or personal representatives; but, where any part of the right of action survives against the personal representative, he may be substituted, and the suit proceed against him. Wilbite v. Skelton [C. C. A.] 149 F. 67.

79. After great delay in the prosecution of an action, owing to acts of both parties which neither could control, one of the defendants died. A motion to permit the action to proceed against his personal representative should be granted. Folts v. Remington, 51 Misc. 224, 100 N. Y. S. 834. In Colorado the failure to renew an action after plaintiff's death, in the name of his representative, for more than one year, does not discontinue it, as Mills' Ann. Code, § 15, fixes no particular time in which a motion for substitution shall be made, and Mills' Ann. St. §§ 2916, 2917, do not apply. Barlow v. Hitzler [Colo.] 90 P. 90.

82. Evidence sufficient to show the taking of a female under the age of 18 years from her father for the purpose of concubinage under Ann. St. 1906, p. 1273. State v. Beverly [Mo.] 100 S. W. 463. To constitute abduction under Revisal 1905, § 3358, it is not necessary to prove that the taking was against the father's will and consent. State v. Burnett, 142 N. C. 577, 55 S. E. 72.

83. The offense as defined by Revisal 1905, § 3358, is not established where no force or inducement is used and the departure of the child from the custody of her father was voluntary. State v. Burnett, 142 N. C. 577, 55 S. E. 72. Instructions held proper. Id.

84. Under Ann. St. 1906, p. 1273, if it appear that the taking was for the purpose of concubinage, the offense is complete without showing accomplishment of the intent. State v. Beverly [Mo.] 100 S. W. 463.

85. Under Pen. Code, § 282, providing that one who takes, receives, employs or harbors a female under 18 years of age for the purpose of prostitution or intercourse is guilty of abduction, proof of "taking" is not essential, proof of receiving is sufficient. People v. Smith, 114 App. Div. 513, 100 N. Y. S. 259.

86. State v. Sager, 99 Minn. 54, 108 N. W. 812. Inference of legal custody follows as a matter of law from the fact of relationship of parent and child and an indictment need not show that the parents had legal custody of the person of the child. Id.

87. Robb v. Com. [Ky.] 101 S. W. 918.

88. One charged with abduction in violation of Revisal 1905, § 3358, has the burden to prove the defense that the carrying away was with the father's consent. State v. Burnett, 142 N. C. 577, 55 S. E. 72.

89. Information alleging that defendant the commission of the offense is admissible.<sup>90</sup> In a prosecution the court may pointedly draw the attention of the jury to a material inquiry, if so authorized by rule of court.<sup>91</sup>

ABETTING CRIME; ABIDE THE EVENT; ABODE, see latest topical index.

ABORTION.<sup>92</sup>

An abortion under the Nebraska statute is the expulsion of the foetus at any stage of pregnancy.<sup>93</sup> Under some statutes any one who aids or assists in the operation is guilty.<sup>94</sup> If death of the woman results, the person responsible is guilty of murder in Illinois.<sup>95</sup> In Massachusetts it is a crime to distribute an advertisement stating where abortions will be performed.<sup>96</sup> Such offense is complete when the advertisement is intentionally given to one seeking such information.<sup>97</sup>

An indictment need not particularly describe the instrument or means used if it appears that such description was unknown.<sup>98</sup> and failure to do so is not ground for quashing the indictment where the defect may be remedied by a bill of particulars.<sup>99</sup> An indictment which charges that the woman died includes the offenses of murder in the first and second degree, manslaughter and assault.<sup>1</sup> in a certain county, on a certain date took a female, under the age of 18 years from her father who had legal charge of her person, without his consent for the purpose of concubinage, held sufficient under Ann. St. 1906, p. 1273, defining the crime. State v. Beverly [Mo.] 100 S. W. 463. An indictment under Gen. St. 1894, § 4769, which sufficiently alleges that the taking was for the illegal purpose, is not bad for failure to show to whom it was intended that the child was to be married. State v. Sager, 99 Minn. 54, 108 N. W. 812. Nor was it insufficient for failure to allege the intent that the child should be married before she attained the age of 16 years. Id.

90. In a prosecution for abduction, evidence of defendant's conduct prior to the time alleged tending to show his intention is admissible. People v. Spriggs, 104 N. Y. S. 539.

91. People v. Smith, 114 App. Div. 513, 100 N. Y. S. 259.

93. The words "at any stage of the utero gestation period" held to mean at any stage of pregnancy. Edwards v. State [Neb.] 112 N. W. 611.

94. Under Rev. Laws, c. 212, § 15, penalizing the use of an instrument or aid or abetment therein with intent to procure a miscarriage, one is guilty if he aids and assists, though he does not himself handle the instrument. Commonwealth v. Sinclair [Mass.] 80 N. E. 799.

95. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, p. 665, if death results from an abortion or an attempt to produce one, the person responsible is guilty of murder. Clark v. People, 224 Ill. 554, 79 N. E. 941. Under Rev. Code 1852, amended by 1893, p. 930, providing that one who causes a miscarriage unless the same be necessary to preserve life is guilty of a felony, if death results from the use of an instrument used for the purpose of procuring a miscarriage, the perpetrator is guilty of murder in the second degree. State v. Fleetwood [Del.] 65 A. 772.

96. Under a statute making it an offense to knowingly distribute an advertisement giving notice of where abortions will be performed, and one providing that a crime may be charged in the words of the statute, an indictment charging that one "distributed an advertisement" was not bad because not more specifically alleging guilty knowledge of the contents of the advertisement. Commonwealth v. Hartford [Mass.] 79 N. E. 784. Under a statute making it a crime to distribute an advertisement giving notice of a place where abortions may be performed where accused gave her card to an officer, her statements relative to the origin of her acquaintance with the officer and evidence describing her rooms, and envelopes addressed to others containing similar cards, were admissible as descriptive of her place of business as well as of her guilty knowledge. Id. Where a card was handed to an officer who represented that he was seeking a place where another could have an abortion performed, such fact did not render the officer's testimony incompetent. Id.

97. An offense under such statute is complete when an advertisement is intentionally handed to one seeking such treatment or to one inquiring on behalf of another. Commonwealth v. Hartford [Mass.] 79 N. E. 784.

98. Indictment charging that the defendant with intent to procure an abortion did use upon said woman certain instruments and other means, a particular description of which was unknown and did produce a miscarriage, held sufficient. State v. Bly, 99 Minn. 74, 108 N. W. 833.

99. Where an indictment charged that one with intent to procure an abortion did unlawfully use a certain instrument upon her body, failure to describe the instrument or state that it was unknown to the grand jurors is not ground for quashing the indictment where a bill of particulars could be demanded. Commonwealth v. Sinclair [Mass.] 80 N. E. 799. Under Rev. Laws, c. 2188, § 39, the defendant was entitled as of right to a bill of particulars describing the instrument and manner of its use. Id.

1. State v. Fleetwood [Del.] 65 A. 772.

The degree of proof corresponds to the degree required in all criminal prosecutions,<sup>2</sup> and the evidence admissible to establish the crime is governed by the general rules.<sup>3</sup> The venue of the offense is sufficiently proven if there is evidence sufficient to warrant a finding that it was committed at a certain place.<sup>4</sup>

ABSENTEES.<sup>5</sup>

The estate of an absentee is liable for debts proved against him,<sup>6</sup> but he may not be divested of his property rights without a hearing or security for their restoration.<sup>7</sup>

ABSTRACTS OF TITLE.<sup>8</sup>

An abstractor must incorporate into the abstract all the records called for by the contract,<sup>9</sup> and is liable if injury results because of an error in an abstract which could have been avoided by the exercise of ordinary skill.<sup>10</sup> He is liable only to the person to whom he furnishes the abstract,<sup>11</sup> and not to a third person to whom the customer furnishes the abstract unless it has been republished to him.<sup>12</sup> Where an abstract purports to state the contents or substance of instruments and there is nothing on the face of the abstract to indicate mistake or error, the customer may rely upon it without making an independent investigation.<sup>13</sup> A complaint in an action against an abstractor for damages sustained because of errors in the abstract is subject to the general rules of pleading,<sup>14</sup> and need not negative matters of de-

2. Evidence sufficient though it did not appear what particular kind of an instrument was used or the manner in which defendant operated. State v. Bly, 99 Minn. 74, 108 N. W. 833.

3. Evidence that after commission of the offense defendant wanted to borrow money held admissible as bearing on his guilt or innocence. Commonwealth v. Sinclair [Mass.] 80 N. E. 799. Experts may give their opinion as to the kind of instrument and mode of using it which would produce the condition found. Id. In a prosecution for homicide in an abortion, dying declaration may be admitted under the same conditions as in prosecutions for murder. Edwards v. State [Neb.] 112 N. W. 611.

4. Where the prosecuting witness testified that she visited the accused at his office on a certain street without stating the city, and the street was a well known one in St. Louis, and accused stated that he advertised in St. Louis papers that he would treat women at his office on such street, the venue was held sufficiently proved. State v. Hogan [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 528.

5. See 7 C. L. 9.

6. The claim of a divorced wife under a decree for alimony is a debt against the estate of her former husband within Rev. Laws, c. 144, § 9, providing that the court may order the property of absentees to be applied to the payment of debts proved against them. Purdon v. Blinn [Mass.] 78 N. E. 462. Such claim may be proved and allowed, without personal notice to the absentee, on proper general notice to the receiver and persons within the jurisdiction, interested in the estate. Id.

7. A statute authorizing the appointment of an administrator for the estate of a person absent and unheard of for more than seven years to judicially pronounce him dead without a hearing as to the fact of death and administer his estate, in the absence of heirs for the benefit of the school board, violates the due process clause of the Federal constitution. Savings Bk. v. Weeks, 103 Md. 601, 64 A. 295.

8. See 7 C. L. 9.

9. Where an abstract contained a certificate stating that it contained all the conveyances shown of record and referred to a will a part of the chain of title, as shown by the will book, held the contract for the abstract included the will. Equitable Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Bank of Commerce & Trust Co. [Tenn.] 102 S. W. 901.

14. A complaint against abstractors for furnishing a defective abstract, which alleges that in reliance upon such abstract plaintiff was induced to purchase land, is sufficient against general demurrer without an allegation that the purchase depended upon the abstract defendants were employed to furnish or on what it might disclose. Hirshiser v. Ward [Nev.] 87 P. 171. A complaint against abstractors for furnishing a defective abstract which alleges a hiring to furnish a full and complete abstract is sufficient without alleging that the abstract was to be made from a particular date. Id. An allegation that abstractors furnished an ab-

fense.<sup>15</sup> A vendor is not required to furnish an abstract unless he contracts to do so.<sup>16</sup> An abstractor has the same right as the public to inspect public records of title but no right to quasi public books kept to facilitate the business of abstracting which the county by statutory authority conducts.<sup>17</sup>

ABUSE OF PROCESS; ABUTTING OWNERS; ACCEPTANCE, see latest topical index.

ACCESSION AND CONFUSION OF PROPERTY.<sup>18</sup>

One who mingles property of another with his own has the burden to separate and identify his property,<sup>19</sup> and if such identification is impossible the owner of the property so confused may claim the entire mass.<sup>20</sup>

The right to recover value of improvements made upon the land of another<sup>21</sup> is generally prescribed by statute.<sup>22</sup> The Nebraska Occupying Claimant's Act applies to land occupied by the adverse claimant at the time the statute was enacted,<sup>23</sup> but does not require conveyances to him upon tender of the value of the land.<sup>24</sup> Where one builds a house on land of another with his consent or the owner of the land subsequently consents to its remaining there as property of the builder, the house abstract showing that certain persons were the owners of certain land "free from incumbrances" sufficiently alleges that the abstract showed that there were no incumbrances. Id. An allegation in a complaint against abstractors for furnishing a defective abstract, in reliance upon which they purchased property for $1100 and lost it because they acquired no title and that the grantor has refused to return the money, impliedly shows demand for its return. Id. Such a complaint sufficiently alleges as an ultimate fact as against general demurrer that the purchaser suffered damage to the extent of $1100. Id.

15. A complaint against abstractors for negligently furnishing a defective abstract by reason of which the purchaser lost the property need not show exhaustion of remedy against the grantor. Hirshiser v. Ward [Nev.] 87 P. 171.

16. A real estate broker cannot impose upon his principal the burden of furnishing an abstract of title where his contract of employment only fixes the price and does not provide for an abstract. Hunt v. Tuttle [Iowa] 110 N. W. 1026.

17. Davis v. Abstract Const. Co., 121 Ill. App. 121.

19. When goods purchased from one person were mixed with goods purchased from another under a sale fraudulent as to the vendor's creditors, and the purchaser took no steps to point out or separate the goods, a writ of attachment was properly executed on the property as a whole. Johnson v. Emery [Utah] 86 P. 869. In such case the purchaser has the burden to separate the goods and identify them. Mugge v. Jackson [Fla.] 43 So. 91. A deed of trust on a stock of goods is given to secure an indorser on a note, and the debtor while in possession mingles the goods conveyed with others, the trustee not consenting. The entire stock was levied upon. Held the trustee was not required to pick out the goods covered by his deed but the execution creditor must identify additional goods. Weaver v. Neal & Co. [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 909.

20. Where one knowingly mingles the property of another with his own in such manner that it becomes undistinguishable, the true owner may claim the entire mass, and if it has been disposed of may follow it or the proceeds thereof for the purpose of fastening upon it a lien for the property of which he has been dispossessed. Smith v. Township of Au Gres [C. C. A.] 150 F. 257. Where a husband has so commingled his separate property with the community property as to be unable to identify it, he cannot on the dissolution of the marriage charge the community with the value of his separate estate. Edelstein v. Brown [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 338, 95 S. W. 1126.

22. Rev. Laws, c. 179, § 17, providing for compensation for betterments where one has been in possession of land for six years, in case he is ousted by judgment in writ of entry or partition, apply where relief is sought in equity. Sunter v. Sunter, 190 Mass. 449, 77 N. E. 497. This statute applies where a sale of a ward's land to her guardian is avoided by the ward. Id. See, also, Ejectment (and Writ of Entry), 7 C. L. 1212; Implied Contracts, 8 C. L. 155.

23. The Occupying Claimants Act (Laws 1883, p. 249), affording protection to persons not in possession of disputed lands who have paid taxes and made lasting improvements thereon in good faith, claiming title, and having an apparent title, applies to lands of which an adverse claimant had actual possession at the time the statute was enacted. Flanagan v. Mathisen [Neb.] 110 N. W. 1012. The right under such statute to compensation for lasting improvements is not affected by the fact that they were made in supposed compliance with a municipal regulation which was void. Id.

24. The owner of the real title to lands upon which improvements have been made for which a claimant is entitled to reimbursement cannot be compelled to convey to the claimant upon being tendered the appraised value thereof. Flanagan v. Mathisen [Neb.] 110 N. W. 1012.

remains personal property,<sup>25</sup> and the fact that structures are wrongfully built in a street does not vest title thereto in the fee owner.<sup>26</sup> Where one purchases land from an incompetent and places improvements thereon, such improvements remain a part of the land when the conveyance is set aside.<sup>27</sup> Nothing can be deemed an improvement for which compensation may be allowed which does not benefit the land and increase its value to the owner.<sup>28</sup>

Evidence sufficient to show a compromise and settlement and that the attorney acting for one of the parties had authority to effect such settlement. Flora v. Chapman [Neb.] 110 N. W. 664. A telephone company procured an injunction restraining one from interfering with poles set in front of his premises. After the injunction was dissolved, it was agreed that if the company would pay costs of the suit and move the poles to the other side of the street, all differences would be considered settled. Held an accord and satisfaction and a defense to an action on the injunction bond. Weierhauser v. Cole [Iowa] 109 N. W. 301. A payment by a debtor of a less sum than is due his creditor who executes a release not under seal is not a satisfaction though the debtor borrowed the money to make the payment where such fact was unknown to the creditor. Schlessinger v. Schlessinger [Colo.] 88 P. 970. Where a creditor releases his debtor on payment of a less sum than where in consideration of the debtor's not taking the benefit of the bankruptcy act is without consideration where the debt is one which would not have been released by a discharge in bankruptcy. Id. Partial payment of a liquidated debt is no consideration for its discharge in full. Weidner v. Standard Life & Acc. Ins. Co. [Wis.] 110 N. W. 246. Work was done under a contract which was to continue from January 1st to July 1st and the work was done for that period. After such date a check was given on the assumption that the contract was rescinded April 1st. There was no evidence of rescission. The check was given as the balance due. Held not a settlement. Detlaff v. Ideal Mfg. Co., 144 Mich. 342, 13 Det. Leg. N. 258, 108 N. W. 76. There cannot be an unliquidated demand unless there is a dispute as to the amount due and the amount is doubtful. Id.

42. The rule that partial payment of a matured debt is not a satisfaction does not apply where the debt is not yet due or payment is at a place other than where the debt is made payable. Flenor v. Flenor, 30 Ky. L. R. 543, 99 S. W. 258.

43. Northwestern Traveling Men's Ass'n v. Crawford, 126 Ill. App. 468; Snow v. Greisheimer, 120 Ill. App. 516. The payment of the face of an award for property taken for public use with a receipt in full from the owner reciting the facts was held an accord and satisfaction of the accrued interest on the award in view of a disputed claim by the public to the mesne rents and profits of the land. In re Seybel, 105 N. Y. S. 145.

44. Where one rendered an itemized statement which was rejected, such statement was not binding and he could subsequently prove full value though the amount exceeded the amount in the statement rendered. Wright v. St. Louis Sugar Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 866, 109 N. W. 1062. An offer of compromise by the creditor which is not accepted is not admissible in an action on the original claim. Gillespie v. Scottish Union & Nat. Ins. Co. [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 213. Where a master placed a servant's pay in an envelope making a deduction for materials broken and when the servant demanded the balance refused it and the servant said he would have some one else get it for him and the master told him to go ahead, and the servant took the envelope and left, there was no accord and satisfaction. Stratton v. Hunt Sullivan Co., 100 N. Y. S. 846.

ance must be of the very terms proposed.<sup>45</sup> To constitute an accord and satisfaction it must not only appear that the debtor gave the amount in satisfaction but that it was accepted as such,<sup>46</sup> but where a sum is tendered in full payment, the creditor may not by notice that he does not accept the condition, evade or modify it, so as to enable him to retain it without being bound by the condition.<sup>47</sup> A mere executory accord is not binding where the agreement is to accept performance of a new promise and partial execution thereof does not extinguish the original demand.<sup>48</sup> Con-

45. No settlement shown where one who lost baggage wrote "What will you settle the claim for?" Reply "I am authorized to allow you $652.05. Please advise promptly that voucher may be issued at once." Reply "Provided you send voucher at once I will take $652.05." Reply "Beg to advise you that voucher should reach you in 15 days." Batavia v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 103 S. W. 140.

46. Where a landowner employed a broker to sell land on commission and deposited a certain amount to the broker's credit which he refused to accept but sued for a greater sum, but on learning that the deposit still stood unconditionally to his credit used it, held insufficient to show an accord and satisfaction as a matter of law. Rustler Realty Co. v. Swecker [Iowa] 112 N. W. 169. An accord and satisfaction is not shown where after service of a summons an amount less than that demanded was sent to the plaintiff and retained by him where it did not appear that it was not sent unconditionally. West Side Laundry Co. v. Calumet Hotel Co., 103 N. Y. S. 820. Where one sold nine cows to another but prior to time of delivery one died and the seller delivered only eight cows and the hide of the dead one, held acceptance of payment for the eight cows on the buyer's refusal to pay for the dead one did not constitute an accord and satisfaction. Shaver v. Armstrong, 103 N. Y. S. 926. Where a buyer of lumber in paying for it deducted without authority a certain discount, from the purchase price the seller's acceptance of the check did not waive the discount, it appearing that the seller elected to pocket the loss of the discount and repudiate liability for any further shipments under the contract. Taussig v. Southern Mill & Land Co. [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 602. Evidence sufficient to show that the acceptance of partial payment was not regarded as an accord and satisfaction by either party where the creditor so stated at the time it was received and the debtor left without demanding back what he had paid and thereafter the creditor opened correspondence looking to a compromise. Beattie Mfg. Co. v. Heinz, 120 Mo. App. 465, 97 S. W. 188. An attorney collected money by suit and retained a certain per cent for services in the trial court and $500 for services on appeal. His client objected to the charge of $500 and the attorney gave him a check for $225 indorsed, in full of all demands. In an action to recover the over charge on the fee and overcharges for disbursements, the attorney admitted that his client was entitled to recover $43.41, but set up accord and satisfaction to the entire claim. Held the accord and satisfaction was a defense only as to the $500 fee and the client could recover the balance of his claim. Levi Cotton Mills Co. v. Fried, 102 N. Y. S. 802.

47. Where one claimed a certain amount and the debtor gave him a check stating that it was all he would get and such check was accepted with the statement that the debtor would be given credit for the amount, held the check was accepted according to the terms on which it was offered and an accord and satisfaction was shown. Williams v. Bienenzucht, 104 N. Y. S. 438. The acceptance of a sum tendered as in full of an unliquidated simple contract indebtedness is a release by operation of law of any further claim, acceptance, and collection of check held binding as release of unliquidated claim for legal services. Hand Lumber Co. v. Hall [Ala.] 41 So. 78.

48. Where a land looker directed the attention of a lumberman to certain land and it was agreed that if the latter should purchase, he should share profits with the former. The lumberman purchased and denied the locator any interest but it was agreed that he would pay him a certain sum in satisfaction of his claim. A portion was paid and the balance refused. Held the locator could sue on the original contract. An accord and satisfaction is not binding unless its terms are executed. Howard v. Norton-Morgan Commercial Co. [Ariz.] 89 P. 541. Where a debtor offered land in settlement of a debt and the creditor accepted a portion of such land, but there was no evidence of a conveyance of such land or a surrender of the note evidencing the debt, there was no accord. Grimmett v. Ousley, 78 Ark. 304, 94 S. W. 694. Agreement to accept $300 and land in lieu of a claim is not an accord where before the debtor cleared the title to the land he died, and the creditor presented a claim for the original debt. Bull v. Payne, 47 Or. 580, 84 P. 697. Where there is an agreement to settle a controverted demand for a fixed consideration, all or a portion of which is executory it may be set up as an accord and satisfaction by making proper averments in regard to performance. Hayes v. Atlanta & C. Air Line R. Co. [N. C.] 55 S. E. 437.

Note: In matters of accord and satisfaction, there is a well defined and easily recognized distinction between two classes of agreements: (1) where the agreement of the creditor is to accept the performance of the debtor's new promise or agreement in satisfaction of the demand. (2) where such promise or agreement itself based upon a sufficient consideration is accepted in satisfaction of the demand. Chitty, Contracts [11 Am. Ed.] 1124. And in this class of cases it must clearly appear that the intention of the party was to accept such promise in satisfaction of the original demand. In the first class of cases the accord must be fully executed in order to bar an action on the original demand. 1 Cyc. 312. In the second class the original demand is extinguished and cannot furnish foundation for an action. 1 Cyc.

cessions made are not binding unless a settlement is reached.<sup>49</sup> A parol compromise of a boundary dispute between adjoining owners is valid.<sup>50</sup> In Alabama by statute a composition evidenced by a writing is binding.<sup>51</sup>

An accord adjusts no matters not within the contemplation of the parties,<sup>52</sup> nor before them for consideration,<sup>53</sup> but it being the policy of the law to favor compromises, a settlement in general terms is presumed to include all matters of difference between the parties.<sup>54</sup> It is binding on all the parties thereto<sup>55</sup> who act within the scope of their authority,<sup>56</sup> or who subsequently ratify it,<sup>57</sup> and constitutes a good defense to an action on the original obligation.<sup>58</sup>

49. Where parties meet to adjust matters in dispute and agree upon the terms of the contract, the agreement is binding, but if they meet to compromise and a settlement is not effected, concessions made are not binding. Rikerd Lumber Co. v. Charles Hoertz & Son [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 809, 109 N. W. 664.

51. Where a debtor forced into bankruptcy wrote to his creditor offering to pay 15 per cent. of the debt and the creditor wrote accepting the offer and also wrote to a bank to receive the 15 per cent. in full satisfaction and the debtor sent a check to the bank, Code 1896, § 1806, was held complied with. Norton v. Clayton Hardware Co. [Ala.] 43 So. 185.

52. A father, mother, and minor son were injured in a collision, suits for damages were commenced by the father and mother, but before trial a settlement was made. Held that the evidence did not show that the son's claim was included in the settlement. Johnson v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [Minn.] 112 N. W. 534. Where a contractor paid a subcontractor a certain sum on condition that the contractor's losses by reason of delay of the subcontractor in furnishing materials under the contract would be adjusted thereafter, the contractor did not waive his right to damages caused by such delay. Modern Steel Structural Co. v. English Const. Co., 129 Wis. 31, 108 N. W. 70. A receipt settles only such matters as are comprehended in it by the intention of the parties. Stubbs v. Franklin & M. R. Co., 101 Me. 355, 64 A. 625. Retaining check to pay for goods "received" not accord and satisfaction of dispute as to those rejected by buyer. Olson v. Wabash Coal Co., 126 Ill. App. 253.

53. A receipt and check evidencing a settlement of all demands will not be considered as including a claim not known to the attorney of one of the parties who represented such party, all other evidences of indebtedness being before them. Crosthwaite v. Saturday Night Sav. & Loan Ass'n, 30 Ky. L. R. 461, 98 S. W. 1044.

54. In an action on a note it appeared that plaintiff payee as cashier of a bank in which he held stock and of which the defendant maker was president and principal stockholder, had made excessive and unlawful loans to an insolvent; that the parties had agreed that the maker should pay to the bank its total loss and receive a credit on his note to the extent of the payee's share of such loss as stockholder. Held to constitute an accord and satisfaction of the transaction including claim for impairment of the value of the maker's stock, and that the bank having been paid in full had no assignable cause of action for the payer's misconduct. Balch v. Grove, 98 Minn. 259, 108 N. W. 807. In the absence of fraud or mistake it is conclusively presumed that unpaid portions of prior debts are merged in the obligation evidenced by the new contract. Crabtree's Adm'x v. Sisk, 30 Ky. L. R. 572, 99 S. W. 268.

55. Code 1896, § 138, does not prohibit an administrator from compromising a doubtful claim without authority of court. Hence a plea that an administrator settled a claim is not bad because it is not alleged that he received a reasonable amount and that the settlement was authorized by the court. Loveman v. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. [Ala.] 43 So. 411. Where an insured person had been absent and unheard of for seven years and the company elected to pay the beneficiaries rather than question his death, the compromise and settlement based on the assertion of his death was binding on the company though it subsequently appeared that he was alive. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Chittenden [Iowa] 112 N. W. 96. Where after judgment in favor of a corporation in an action for rescission of a contract for fraud or damages for deceit the parties settled the controversy, such settlement was a bar to any action against the officers of the corporation for deceit. Krolik v. Curry [Mich.] 111 N. W. 761. Where the settlement of a suit brought by the next friend of an infant was made without objection of his counsel and the agreement after being signed by the next friend was filed in court by counsel for defendant, a judgment rendered pursuant thereto was not void because the agreement was not signed by defendant's counsel. Wallace v. Boston El. R. Co. [Mass.] 80 N. E. 461. The entry of judgment on such settlement by the clerk without a special order of the court did not render the settlement void where the case was ripe for judgment after the agreement was filed, under the general order, and under that order went to judgment. Id. Compromise by which land is sold and proceeds divided binds co-parties on one side of the compromise not to claim as against each other more than the share they would have had in the land. Dangertield v. Williams, 26 App. D. C. 508.

56. One of two stockholders in a corporation may not as stockholder settle and discharge corporate claims against the other though such two own all the stock. Petersen v. Elholm [Wis.] 109 N. W. 76.

58. The giving of a note by one party to another in settlement of differences between them is a good defense in an action by the maker against the payee to recover prior existing claims in the absence of fraud or mistake. Gandy v. Wiltse [Neb.] 112 N. W. 569. Where the only issue was as to whether a certain item had been included in a settlement, evidence as to an independent transaction was inadmissible. Simpson v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 352, 95 S. W. 94. Where the evidence was contradicted that a certain item had been included in a settlement, the creditor was not entitled to recover it though he did not know it was included and would not have made the settlement had he known it. Id. Where after a settlement a dividend was paid to the creditor for the debtor's benefit, the creditor was entitled to retain it and apply it on the debt. Id. Where it appeared that a dividend paid to a creditor for the benefit of his debtor was included in a settlement, the debtor in order to recover it had the burden to prove that he had not been credited with the amount of the dividend in such settlement. Id.

60. A parol agreement by a creditor to accept from his debtor less than is due by way of compromise is without consideration and void. Eckert v. Wallace [N. J. Law] 67 A. 76. Settlement between one individual and a trust company who had had dealings relative to the procurement of funds for the construction of a railroad held based on a sufficient consideration. Alexander v. Maryland Trust Co. [Md.] 66 A. 836. Where one's right to cut and remove timber from land had been extended by parol and the owner of the land sold to one who had notice of such extension, an agreement between vendee and licensee that he could remove the timber cut if he would relinquish the right to cut any more timber was based on a consideration. York v. Westall [N. C.] 55 S. E. 724.

61. The compromise of a doubtful claim is usually valid and the mutual release by the parties of their respective rights and the desire to avoid litigation are sufficient consideration for such compromise. Dickie v. Steiger [Cal. App.] 88 P. 814. The compromise of a contention as to property rights, the final outcome of which, if settled by litigation, the parties consider doubtful, furnishes a consideration for an accord and satisfaction. Belt v. Lazenby, 126 Ga. 767, 56 S. E. 81.

Mutual concessions of adjoining owners in fixing a disputed boundary is sufficient consideration for the dismissal of an action by one to receive a tract notwithstanding one of the parties had acquired title to such tract by adverse possession. Martin v. Conley, 30 Ky. L. R. 728, 99 S. W. 613.

62. An offer by a company to settle in full with its agents by paying them at once one-half of all commissions accrued or to accrue when accepted is a good accord and satisfaction; anticipation of time of payment is a sufficient consideration. Singer Sewing Mach. Co. v. Lee [Md.] 66 A. 628.

63. Where it was in settlement of a dispute as to the right of the judgment creditor to hold the trustee in the pending trustee process proceeding, and such right could be honestly questioned. Mann v. Haley [Vt.] 64 A. 449.

64. The compromise of a claim on a note given for a gambling debt is not sufficient consideration for a new note. Union Collection Co. v. Buckman [Cal.] 88 P. 708.

65. See 7 C. L. 15.

66. Where an ignorant and easily influenced man confessed to a friend to having had improper relations with a young girl, and on the advice of his friend consulted an attorney and employed him to represent him in case of criminal prosecution, and the attorney consulted with the father of the girl and accepted employment from him to prosecute the case for one-half that could be recovered and thereafter on representation to the other party that he was subject to prosecution procured a settlement, held such settlement was the result of undue influence arising from confidential relations and could be set aside. Whitcomb v. Collier [Iowa] 119 N. W. 836. The vacation of such settlement would place the parties in statu quo and render unavailing a mortgage executed to secure the money, since it never became a lien. Id. Where one deceives another into believing that he owes him a certain sum, but states that he will take a less amount, which is paid, the law of settlements will not defeat the right to recover the amount fraudulently procured. Shearer v. Hill [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 673. Where a railroad company had notice that one of the attorneys for a claimant was practicing a fraud on his former partner who was interested in the case to the extent of a contingent fee, but did not know that he was practicing fraud on the claimant, the settlement could be set aside as to the former partner but not as to the claimant. Bush v. Prescott & N. W. R. Co. [Ark.] 103 S. W. 175. A supervisor was indicted for embezzlement, and it appearing that funds drawn by him, except a certain amount, had been used by him for road purposes, and on payment of such amount he was given a release from liability for all funds theretofore coming into his hands. Prior to such settlement he had purchased claims for labor against the county which he was forbidden to do by law. Held the settlement did not preclude the county from refusing to pay such claims. Harrison County v. Ogden [Iowa] 108 N. W. 451. A compromise for 15 per cent. of a debt is not fraudulent where the debtor wrote to the creditor, as was the fact that he was making the same offer to all of his creditors, though some of the creditors got more. Norton v. Clayton Hardware Co. [Ala.] 43 So. 185. Where a landowner contracted to give another the sole control of the output of lime, cement, rock, and clay from his land for 20 years on faith of representations that the buyer would conduct large works on his land employing many men, allegations that the buyer's representations were false, that the seller was old and was required to pay $1,500 to get a release from such contract, do not state a cause of action for the recovery of such money without allegations as to when the improvements were to be erected or how long it had been since the contract was made. Dickie v. Steiger [Cal. App.] 88 P. 814.

71. An act of congress ratifying a compromise and settlement made between the secretary of the treasury and a number of persons interested in judgments in pending suits in which the United States was plaintiff and the bondsmen of certain public officials were defendants, and directing a satisfaction of all judgments and dismissal of all suits, held to discharge the surety on a bond given by one defendant, though such sureties were not parties because the judgment was embraced in the settlement. U. S. v. Knabe, 147 F. 802.

72. A voluntary composition between a debtor and his creditors after involuntary bankruptcy proceedings have been instituted, by which the debtor agrees to pay a certain per cent. of his debts, one-half in cash, balance in notes, does not operate as an accord and satisfaction until the notes are paid, and where the debtor subsequently goes into voluntary bankruptcy, the creditors may prove their original claims less the cash payment. In re Carton & Co., 148 F. 63. A settlement between a buyer and seller of buggies provided for the return of certain buggies to the seller and the return of notes to the buyer. The buggies were to be returned complete as described in the contract of sale, freight prepaid. Held title to such returned buggies did not pass until delivered according to the contract and until that time there was no settlement. Capital City Carriage Co. v. Moody [Iowa] 110 N. W. 903. An agreement of accord and satisfaction in full release of a promise of marriage is without binding force so long as it remains unexecuted, or so long as the party complaining of the failure to execute the agreement of accord is unable to show a surrender of anything or the loss of any right by reason of entering into the agreement. Conard v. Bare, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 118.

73. The giving to a creditor of an order on a third person for merchandise is not a satisfaction by delivery to him of property. Flenor v. Flenor, 30 Ky. L. R. 543, 99 S. W. 258.

74. Where a compromise provided for the return of certain goods, freight prepaid, and in an action on the original contract it was claimed that the freight had not been prepaid in full, whether the defendants had fully performed in this regard held a question of fact. Capital City Carriage Co. v. Moody & Son [Iowa] 110 N. W. 903. Where a compromise contract provided for the return of certain goods in a specified condition and they were refused because not in such condition, the evidence being conflicting as to the condition, the question should have been submitted to the jury. Id. Where a compromise contract required the payment of certain money on the return of certain notes, whether the party required to make such payment had sufficient funds on deposit to make it was immaterial where it appeared that the notes had never been tendered. Id.

75. See 7 C. L. 17.

76. Evidence of a settlement, in an action for conversion of corporate funds, is not admissible unless pleaded. Peterson v. Elholm [Wis.] 109 N. W. 76. Accord and satisfaction as a defense must be pleaded. Gandy v. Wiltse [Neb.] 112 N. W. 569; Bare v. Ford [Kan.] 87 P. 731. Evidence of a compromise and settlement is not admissible unless pleaded. Auerbach v. Curie, 104 N. Y. S. 233.

77. Stitzel v. Franks, 126 Ill. App. 260.

One who sets up an accord and satisfaction has the burden to prove it.<sup>73</sup> In an action to enforce the accord, evidence of the claim satisfied by it is irrelevant,<sup>79</sup> and in an action on the original obligation, evidence of an unaccepted offer of compromise is not admissible.<sup>80</sup> A release is admissible to show what matters were adjusted.<sup>81</sup>

Fraud vitiating the accord may be shown though not pleaded where the defense was interposed under such circumstances as to take the plaintiff by surprise.<sup>82</sup>

Where there is evidence in support of the plea, the party by whom it is interposed is entitled to have it submitted by an instruction embodying a hypothetical statement.<sup>83</sup>

89. A contract by which one was to advance money to another to establish an office for the sale of a certain article which was to be sold to the first party at a fixed price does not show the second party to be a trustee so that a suit for an accounting for such advances can be maintained by him. Mahler v. Sanche, 223 Ill. 136, 79 N. E. 9. Allegations that moneys were received by defendant, an attorney employed by plaintiff, to be used in his behalf, held insufficient to show that such moneys were received by him in a fiduciary capacity. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Hamilton, 102 N. Y. S. 771. Allegations that moneys received by defendant from plaintiff were to be used for plaintiff's benefit and that they were used for purposes unknown to plaintiff imports a gift rather than a trust. Id. A contract authorizing one to act as agent for others and gives him an irrevocable power for a term of years to manage their property, accounting to them for the balance after retaining an amount requiring in his discretion for disbursements enumerated, creates a fiduciary relation justifying a bill for accounting. Campbell v. Cook [Mass.] 79 N. E. 261.

90. Berg v. Mead, 100 N. Y. S. 792.

91. A bill alleging that plaintiff sold stock in defendant corporation to one of the other defendants, and was to receive a certain sum as liquidated damages in case such

The remedy is available though the items are all on one side, they being complicated,<sup>92</sup> and it will also lie though the transaction is not yet closed.<sup>93</sup> It must also appear that there exists no adequate remedy at law,<sup>94</sup> and the mere fact that equitable relief is prayed for will not confer jurisdiction.<sup>95</sup>

The proceeding is an equitable one and courts of equity have jurisdiction,<sup>96</sup> and where a court of law has concurrent jurisdiction, the judgment of a court of equity to which the cause is transferred by it will not be disturbed unless manifest prejudice to the complaining party is apparent.<sup>97</sup>

§ 2. Persons liable and entitled to accounting.<sup>98</sup>

§ 3. Practice and procedure. Parties.<sup>99</sup>—One who has no interest in the proceeding is not a necessary party.<sup>1</sup>

Pleading.<sup>2</sup>—A bill for an accounting must state a cause of action<sup>3</sup> of equitable cognizance.<sup>4</sup> Failure of a complaint to show the existence of a fiduciary relation is not cured by alleging an agreement to account where failure to do so is not also alleged.<sup>5</sup>

Evidence.<sup>6</sup>—In a suit for an accounting the complainant is entitled to a full discovery,<sup>7</sup> and where the term during which a joint adventure was to continue has stock was sold for less than a certain sum and should be entitled to certain accrued dividends, that the stock had been sold in violation of such agreement to the president of the corporation who had notice of the facts held to state a cause of action for equitable relief. Phillips v. Jacobs, 145 Mich. 108, 13 Det. Leg. N. 542, 108 N. W. 899.

92. An accounting may be had where the accounts are on but one side, they being complicated, and a discovery being sought which is material to the relief prayed for. Miller v. Russell, 224 Ill. 68, 79 N. E. 434.

93. Where one was entitled to one-fourth of the net profits from the sale of land whenever they were received, and the expense of the sale and original outlay had been returned and substantially the sum found to be subject to division was on hand, he was entitled to an accounting though the transaction was not yet closed. Rust v. Fitzhugh [Wis.] 112 N. W. 508.

94. An action for an accounting will not lie where there exists an adequate remedy at law. Where the bill shows that the amount due was ascertainable from records and the knowledge of the parties. Hunt v. O'Connor, 151 F. 707. A court of equity is without jurisdiction of a suit for an accounting for profits, damages, or royalties based on a contract granting a license under a patent. Adequate remedy at law. Allen v. Consol. Fruit Jar Co., 145 F. 948. Where four separate actions of assumpsit would be required, a bill for an account will lie. Simpson v. Summerville, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 17.

95. Such jurisdiction is not conferred by the fact that the bill prays for equitable relief which cannot be granted in such proceeding. Cancellation of patents prayed for. Allen v. Consol. Fruit Jar Co., 145 F. 948.

96. Equity has jurisdiction of a case which involves an accounting between principal and agent covering business transactions between them for several months in which there were many items for and against each party to the contract. Harris v. Remmel [Ark.] 102 S. W. 716.

97. In many matters of account the jurisdiction of equity and law are concurrent, yet though a court of law has jurisdiction and transfers the cause to a court of equity which assumes jurisdiction, the cause will not be reversed on that ground unless the complaining party was manifestly prejudiced. Harris v. Remmel [Ark.] 102 S. W. 716.

1. Where one with six brothers executed a deed as tenants in common to themselves except one as joint tenants, and such deed was without consideration, and thereafter the property was conveyed to three of their number and part of the land was thereafter sold by such three, and after the death of two of them the remainder was sold by the survivor, in an action by the first party for an accounting of the proceeds of the sale last made, and of the rents and profits of the other tract, on the ground that the first deed was procured by undue influence, the other brothers were not necessary parties. Nichols v. Nichols [Conn.] 66 A. 161.

2. See 7 C. L. 21.

3. A complaint for an accounting of profits made on land sales held to state a cause of action and to show that a portion of the items were not barred by limitations. Hays v. Peavey [Wash.] 86 P. 170.

4. In an action on contract creating a joint adventure, where the complaint fails to state a cause of action for accounting or contribution because the prayer is for a sum of money only, it may be sufficient to state a cause of action for terminating the engagement. Jones v. McNally, 103 N. Y. S. 1011.

5. A defect in a complaint in failing to show that moneys were received in a fiduciary capacity is not cured by an allegation that defendant gave receipts for such moneys, agreeing to account for them, where it is not alleged that he failed to render an account. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Hamilton, 102 N. Y. S. 771.

6. See 7 C. L. 22.

7. Where in an action against a trustee for an accounting it appeared that the trust property was insured in companies of which the trustee was agent, the beneficiaries were expired, there should be a general accounting of all transactions so that all matters may be finally adjusted.<sup>8</sup> A defendant may without pleading prove items constituting offsets if they are directly connected with matters alleged in the bill, but not those not so connected.<sup>9</sup> Book accounts shown to be erroneous will not support a decree.<sup>10</sup>

Decree.<sup>11</sup>—An interlocutory judgment is not necessary where it appears that the referee took a full account of all matters in dispute.<sup>12</sup> The court may apportion costs in its discretion.<sup>13</sup> Under a rule that the judgment shall bear interest, interest runs from the date of the judgment and not from the date of filing the report of the referee.<sup>14</sup> Exceptions to the report of a referee should be specific.<sup>15</sup>

§ 4. Requisites, form, substance, and statement of the account.<sup>16</sup>—One who does not show that he has any interest is not entitled to an accounting.<sup>17</sup> In an accounting on the bill of an insane person, a statement should be rendered for the transactions for each year.<sup>18</sup>

§ 2. Blinding Effect Rights, and Liabilities (20).

§ 3. Remedies on Account Stated (21).

§ 4. Remedies on Open Accounts (21).

§ 1. Nature and elements of the several kinds of accounts.<sup>19</sup>—An account is an agreement between the parties fixing the amount due in respect to transactions between them and promising payment,<sup>20</sup> mutual assent, express or implied, being entitled to an itemization of the amount of insurance premiums showing what companies carried the risks and the rates, though it appears that such companies were solvent. Campbell v. Cook [Mass.] 79 N. E. 261. In an action for an accounting between joint owners of real estate, evidence sufficient to sustain the finding of the trial court. First Nat. Bank v. Krause [Neb.] 111 N. W. 382. See, also, the topic Discovery and Inspection, 7 C. L. 1167.

8. Where parties agreed to purchase, develop, and sell real estate for a specified time, one to have active management of the affairs, developing the property and selling it. Berg v. Mead, 100 N. Y. S. 792. Where a bill for an accounting involved mutual accounts, the defendant without pleading could prove items constituting his offsets and expenses if they were directly connected with the matters alleged in the bill. Dettering v. Nordstrom [C. C. A.] 148 F. 81.

9. Where a bill by a cotenant of a mining claim was limited to the output of the mine and expense of mining, expenses incurred in surveying and in litigation over the location could not be shown where not pleaded. Dettering v. Nordstrom [C. C. A.] 148 F. 81.

10. Book accounts shown to have been irregularly and inaccurately kept and not disclosing known credits will not support a judgment for the amount shown by them to be due. Barnes v. Barnes' Adm'r [Va.] 56 S. E. 172.

11. See 7 C. L. 22.

12. In an action by an employee to recover a share of the profits of his employer in accordance with the terms of their contract, where the referee took full account of all matters in dispute, an interlocutory judgment in accounting was not necessary. Smith v. Smith, 101 N. Y. S. 521.

13. In an accounting between partners. Brown v. Rogers [S. C.] 56 S. E. 680.

14. Under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 1660, providing that judgments shall bear interest, interest does not run from date of filing of the report of a referee but from the date of the judgment. Brown v. Rogers [S. C.] 56 S. E. 680.

15. An exception to the report of a referee in stating accounts between partners, in that he should have first stated the same in the form of an account with an individual with the firm, is too general. Brown v. Rogers [S. C.] 56 S. E. 680.

16. See 7 C. L. 22.

17. Evidence insufficient to show one entitled to an accounting of the profits of an electric light company, it not appearing that any stock was ever issued to him, and after his discharge as manager he made no claim for ten years. Ruthenburg v. Hoffman [C. C. A.] 150 F. 578.

18. Where in an accounting it appeared that one of the parties was insane, an account should be taken for each year during plaintiff's insanity, he should be charged with all necessities furnished him and credited with amounts paid, and if for any year he overpaid the account for such year it should be credited on final settlement if not barred by limitations. Gross v. Jones [Minn.] 42 So. 892. Where it appeared that plaintiff while sane purchased goods of defendant and sold goods to him, he should be charged with the current price of the goods purchased and credited with the goods sold. Id.

19. See 7 C. L. 22.

20. Wroten Grain & Lumber Co. v. Minneola Box Mfg. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 167, 95 S. W. 744. A complaint alleging that goods were sold to defendant, the amounts and prices of which were item-essential.<sup>21</sup> An account stated constitutes one debt.<sup>22</sup> An account stated may result from the retention for an unreasonable length of time of an account rendered,<sup>23</sup> but it must be predicated on a preexisting debt or liability.<sup>24</sup> A statement of account must be certain as to the subject-matter of the debt.<sup>25</sup> Whether an account stated exists may be a question of fact.<sup>26</sup> An open account is one in respect to which nothing has occurred to bind either party; one which is fully open to be disputed.<sup>27</sup> An indebtedness is the proper subject of a book account though arising on written contract for sale.<sup>28</sup>

ized in an exhibit, had paid certain freight charges for defendant, and that correct bills and invoices were made out to defendant at the time and that he agreed to pay the sums set forth, shows an account stated. Id. Where parties who had had dealings for years had a settlement and one of them executed a note for the balance found due, such note constituted an account stated in the absence of proof that unlawful charges had been incorporated into it. Gross v. Jones [Miss.] 42 So. 802. When an attorney makes a charge for services and the same is accepted by the client, it becomes an account stated. Lane & Bodley Co. v. Taylor [Ark.] 97 S. W. 441. Where an attorney collected money for a corporation and sent his check to an assignee of such corporation after the commencement of bankruptcy proceedings, and shortly afterwards an attorney for the assignee protested that the assignee could not accept the check but no agreement was made, held such facts together with the fact that the check was not returned did not show an account stated. In re Klein, 101 N. 22. Payment on an account stated tolls the statute of limitations as to all items included therein. Nunn v. McKnight, 79 Ark. 393, 96 S. W. 193. An instruction that it must appear that each item became due within the statutory period was properly refused. Id. Where the whole of a running account is by agreement regarded as due on a certain date, an instruction that each item is to be regarded as a separate contract is properly refused. Id.

23. An account stated results where no objection is made to an account rendered within a reasonable time. Shively v. Eureka Tellurium Gold Min. Co. [Cal. App.] 89 P. 1073. An account rendered and retained for an unreasonable length of time becomes an account stated. Little & Hays Inv. Co. v. Pigg, 29 Ky. L. R. 809, 96 S. W. 455. Is of more or less weight according to circumstances. Hamilton-Brown Shoe Co. v. Choc-taw Mercantile Co. [Ark.] 97 S. W. 284.

24. There can be no account stated where there is no pre-existing debt or liability. Cooper v. Upton [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 180 [Advance sheets only]. Where there is no pre-existing debt or liability, the rendering of an account to one who keeps it without objection does not make an account stated. Id.

25. A statement of account "To Mdse.," giving dates of debits and credits with amount thereof, but not showing the sort of merchandise, is insufficient. Moffitt-West Drug Co. v. Crider [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 1099.

26. Whether an account stated existed was held a question for the jury where a broker bought and sold stock for a client and his books showed a loss to the client who claimed he had no account with the broker, and was not indebted to him. Little & Hays Inv. Co. v. Pigg, 29 Ky. L. R. 809, 96 S. W. 455.

Where it appeared that an insane person had purchased goods from another and had sold him goods, he should be charged with the current contract price of the goods bought and credited with the goods sold. Gross v. Jones [Miss.] 42 So. 802. An account may be an open one though it arises by reason of contract. Davidson v. McCall Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 640, 95 S. W. 32.

28. Vallee Bros. Elec. Co. v. North Penn. Iron Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 111.

29. See 7 C. L. 23.

30. An account stated, in the absence of fraud, mistake, error, or omission, determines only the amount of the debt when a liability exists. Alone it cannot create a liability where none previously existed. Cooper v. Upton [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 180 [Advance sheets only].

31. Account stated limits amount of a prior claim of set-off by party rendering account. Aygarn v. Fraser Co., 123 Ill. App. 93.

32. In an action on an account stated for labor done, a breach of the contract for such labor may be set up as a defense. Gutshall v. Cooper [Colo.] 86 P. 125.

33. May be impeached for mistake. Smith v. Allmon, 74 S. C. 502, 54 S. E. 1014. An account stated can be assailed only for fraud or mistake. Little & Hays Inv. Co. v. Pigg, 29 Ky. L. R. 809, 96 S. W. 455. Where an electric light company furnished power through a meter and by reason of negligence and mistakes of its servants a cus-

§ 3. Remedies on account stated.<sup>36</sup>—Limitations run against an account stated from date of rendition,<sup>37</sup> and a partial payment thereon tolls the statute as to all items therein.<sup>38</sup>

A debtor who indorses a note in payment of an account may be sued on his indorsement instead of on the account.<sup>39</sup> A statutory presumption in favor of the correctness of an open account does not apply to an account stated.<sup>40</sup> Assumpsit on an account stated will lie where a bid for repairing loss was accepted by several insurance companies and the pro rata share of defendant was agreed to.<sup>41</sup>

§ 4. Remedies on open accounts.<sup>42</sup>—A cause of action on an account may be pleaded by attaching an itemized statement to the complaint.<sup>43</sup> Such statement may be amended by adding a sum to the original account.<sup>44</sup> A complaint on an open account should state the items thereof with reasonable certainty.<sup>45</sup> The date on which the transactions occurred should be alleged.<sup>46</sup> One suing on an account has the burden to establish the correctness thereof.<sup>47</sup> A verified statement is in some states made prima facie proof of the correctness of the account,<sup>48</sup> unless denied under oath.<sup>49</sup>

have been entered in an account book. Frontier Supply Co. v. Loveland [Wyo.] 88 P. 651.

44. An amended account adding a sum to the original account may be filed. Davidson v. McCall Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 640, 95 S. W. 32.

45. A cause of action on an open account is set forth with sufficient certainty where it is alleged that defendant owed plaintiff so much for the price of goods sold on credit in the amounts and on the dates set out in a detailed statement annexed to the complaint. Fox v. Barksdale [La.] 42 So. 957.

46. Where in an action on an open account containing a number of items no date except the year is alleged, an objection should be sustained unless the defect is cured by amendment. Overstreet v. Nashville Lumber Co. [Ga.] 56 S. E. 650.

47. Evidence sufficient to show that defendant's account against plaintiff exceeded plaintiff's account against him by something over one dollar. Co-Operative Mfg. P. & H. Co. v. Rusche, 30 Ky. L. R. 790, 99 S. W. 677. Evidence sufficient to show that a certain amount was due according to the books kept by the creditor. Barron v. Lance, 102 N. Y. S. 1007. Evidence as to defendant's liability for work and labor done held a question for the jury. Steele v. Ancient Order of Pyramids [Mo. App.] 103 S. W. 108. In an action on an account for goods, an entry in an account book of a debit for a note where unexplained was too detached from ordinary business between merchant and merchant to be admissible. *Bader v.  § 6. Operation and Effect (25).
 § 7. Defects and Invalidities (26). Liability of Officer (26).

§ 1. Nature, office, and necessity.<sup>51</sup>—Acknowledgment is, as a general rule, necessary to admit an instrument to record or registration,<sup>52</sup> or to entitle it to be received in evidence without further proof of execution,<sup>53</sup> and an instrument, deed, mortgage, or contract not properly proved or acknowledged, but nevertheless recorded, is not constructive notice,<sup>54</sup> nor is such instrument admissible to prove title.<sup>55</sup> It is also essential in case of agreement or conveyances by husband and wife in order to cut off dower and homestead rights,<sup>56</sup> and to a deed or other instrument executed by a married woman intended to divest her of title to her separate estate.<sup>57</sup> Under the Code of North Dakota, in order to authorize the entry of judgment upon motion, account proves itself unless its correctness is denied under oath, applies where the debt arises by reason of contract express or implied. Davidson v. McCall Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 640, 95 S. W. 32. An account verified by the treasurer of a corporation is sufficient though affiant does not state that he is agent of such corporation. Id.

A chattel mortgage cannot, under the New Jersey chattel mortgage revision of 1902, be recorded until its execution "shall be first acknowledged or proved, and such acknowledgement or proof certified thereon in the manner prescribed by the act respecting conveyances." Longley v. Sperry [N. J. Eq.] 66 A. 1062. Section 5630 of B. & C. Comp. provides that "any mortgage, deed of trust, conveyance, or other instrument of writing intended to operate as a mortgage of personal property alone, or with real property, shall be executed, witnessed, and acknowledged in the same manner as a conveyance of real property." Williams v. First Nat. Bank [Or.] 87 P. 890.

Proof by subscribing witnesses as entitling to recordation: Section 2 of chap. 73, of the W. Va. Code of 1899, provides for the recordation of deeds and other instruments upon proof of the execution thereof by two witnesses before the clerk of a county court. Simpson v. Belcher [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 211. Under the Texas statute of 1846, proof of an instrument of writing for the purpose of being recorded might be made by one or more of the subscribing witnesses appearing before some authorized officer and stating on oath that "he or they saw the grantor or person executing the instrument sign the same or that the grantor * * * acknowledged in his or their presence that he had subscribed and executed the same * * * and that he or they had signed the same as witnesses at the request of the grantor," etc. It was held in Williams v. Cessna [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 162, 95 S. W. 1106, that this did not require a witness to state on oath that he signed as witness at the grantor's request, but that under the statute of 1895, § 4624, it would seem that the certificate should show that such signature was at the request of the grantor.

Harris* [Ga.] 56 S. E. 252. In North Carolina it is well settled and conceded that the registration of an ancient deed upon an unauthorized probate is invalid, and such deed is inadmissible in evidence as an essential link in a chain of title. *Allen v. Va. Code 1899 (Code 1906, § 3075), is not the equivalent of such acknowledgement and cannot be substituted therefor.

as upon a statutory award, the agreement for submission must be acknowledged by the parties thereto in the same manner as a conveyance of real property.<sup>58</sup>

An acknowledgment is not necessary as between the parties to a deed,<sup>59</sup> and even as to third persons, actual notice is equivalent to due acknowledgment and recording.<sup>60</sup> In Kentucky<sup>61</sup> and Minnesota the taking of the proof or acknowledgment of the execution of an instrument by an officer is an act ministerial and not judicial in its nature.<sup>62</sup>

§ 3. Taking and making acknowledgments.<sup>72</sup>—An acknowledgment of a deed is intended to show that the grantor of the premises conveyed executed the Wood* [Ala.] 43 So. 968.

68. Kee v. Ewing [Okla.] 87 P. 297. A deed cannot be acknowledged before nor the privy examination of a feme covert be taken by an officer who has any interest in such conveyance, either as a party, trustee, or cestui que trust, and the registration upon such certificate will be invalid and not even notice to creditors and subsequent purchasers. Smith v. Ayden Lumber Co. [N. C.] 56 S. E. 555.

69. A deed the execution of which is not proved otherwise than by a certificate of acknowledgment, reciting that it was acknowledged by the grantor before his deputy, as such deputy, and signed by the grantor himself as clerk of a county court, is inadmissible in evidence. Webb v. Ritter [W. Va.] 54 S. E. 484. A deed the execution of which is not proved otherwise than by a certificate of acknowledgement, signed by the grantee as clerk of a county court, is properly rejected when offered as evidence. Id. The Indiana curative statute of March 7th, 1891 (Acts 1891, p. 336, c. 127), will obviate the insufficiency of a record as evidence arising from the fact that the acknowledgment, before a justice of the peace, of a deed, executed and recorded in 1885 was authenticated by the clerk of the circuit court who was the grantor in the deed. *Hornet v. 70. Stoker v. Fugitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 742. Thus, for instance, it is often the case that a notary public is a clerk in a bank, but this does not disqualify him to take acknowledgment of papers executed by or to the bank. Smith v. Ayden Lumber Co. [N. C.] 56 S. E. 555. A notary is not disqualified to take an acknowledgment of a partition deed by reason of the fact that he was employed and paid by one of the parties to survey the land in question and established a division line in controversy, or by the fact that he prepared the deed in accordance with the survey, it appearing that he was not engaged by either to write the deed or to take the acknowledgments thereto, that he made no charge and received no compensation for preparing the deed. Such evidence does not show that the notary was an agent or had a disqualifying interest. Stoker v. Fugitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 742.

deed.<sup>73</sup> When an acknowledgment is presented without declaring of what the acknowledgment shall consist, it is meant that the person or persons executing an instrument, must appear before a duly authorized officer and state that he or they executed the same,<sup>74</sup> and such facts must appear from the certificate.<sup>75</sup> In some states the officer taking the acknowledgment must, before certifying the same, make known the contents of deed or instrument to the party making the acknowledgment,<sup>76</sup> and must also be satisfied that such party is the grantor in such deed or instrument,<sup>77</sup> and that he executed such instrument as his act and deed.<sup>78</sup> In many states a deed by a married woman and her husband must be acknowledged by her on a privy examination separate and apart from her husband,<sup>79</sup> or it will be void and convey no title.<sup>80</sup> In New Jersey no estate or interest of a feme covert in any lands, tenements, etc., in the state will pass by her deed or conveyance without a previous acknowledgment, made by her on a private examination apart from her husband before the proper officer, that she signed, sealed, and delivered the same as her voluntary act and deed, etc.<sup>81</sup>

78. In Minnesota there are two essential matters to which the officer must direct his attention in taking an acknowledgment. They are the identity of the person appearing before him as the party described in the instrument, and his unequivocal acknowledgment that he executed the instrument as his act and deed. Having satisfied himself as to these points, he may certify to them. Barnard v. Schuler, 100 Minn. 289, 110 N. W. 966.

A certificate beginning thus: "State of California, Monterey County—s.s.," and reciting that "before me John Runrds, notary public in and for said Monterey County, personally appeared," etc., and signed by the notary public with the words "Notary Public" after his signature, is a sufficient statement of the name of the office under the above requirement. Id.

Where the officer is required to make known the contents of the deed or instrument to the party making the acknowledgment, and also to satisfy himself that such party is the grantor therein, a failure of the certificate to show compliance with such requirements, will render the certificate fatally defective. *Longley v. 89. It should appear from the certificate that all the persons executing the instrument acknowledged such execution. Cook v. Pitman [N. C.] 57 S. E. 219. The certificate must show that the maker of the instrument appeared before the officer and stated that he executed the same. Hughes v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 122, 97 S. W. 525. Where more than one person is mentioned in the certificate of acknowledgment as maker of the deed, and as appearing before the officer for the purpose of acknowledging the execution of the instruments, the acknowledgment of each of the executions should be made, and this fact should be stated in the certificate of the officer. When more than one of the makers appear for this purpose and the certificate states this fact, and that "he" acknowledged he executed it, renders the certificate uncertain, and to a certain extent meaningless. Id. In North Dakota, under § 5022, Rev. Code 1905, the acknowledgment by a corporation must show that the officer assuming to act for it in executing the instrument acknowledged that the corporation executed it. *Gessner v. Sullivan v. Gum [Va.] 55 S. E. 535. The fact that the name of the party acknowledging the instrument was left blank will not invalidate the acknowledgment. Tennis v. Gifford [Iowa] 110 N. W. 586. In Middlebrooks v. Stephens [Ala.] 41 So. 735, the certificate objected to was as follows: "I, M. K. Stephens, and M. C. Stephens, in and for said county, hereby certify that M. K. Stephens and M. C. Stephens, whose names are signed to the foregoing conveyance, and who are known to me, acknowledged before me this day that, being informed of the contents of this conveyance, they executed the same voluntarily on the day the same bears date. Given under my hand this the 5th day of Jan. A. D. 1887. [Signed] S. J. Cummings, N. P. ee off. J. P." It was shown that said Cummings was a notary public at that time, that the signature was his handwriting, and that he was dead. It was held that the names of the grantors first appearing might be excluded as inserted by mistake and that this being done, there remained a good and sufficient acknowledgment containing every essential of the statutory form.

91. See 3 C. L. 34.

92. In Wisconsin where it appears that the deed was executed in the presence of subscribing witnesses and acknowledged by the grantors outside of the state before a notary public who certified to the same substantially in the form prescribed by the statutes, and made the impression of his official seal as such notary public upon the instrument, such acknowledgment is sufficient without the annexation of an additional certificate to the effect that such notary public was such officer. Washburn Land Co. v. Swanby [Wis.] 110 N. W. 806.

93. See 7 C. L. 26.

94. The question is not whether there was in fact a compliance with the law by the officer in taking the acknowledgment, but whether the certificate made by him is in compliance with the law so as to admit the instrument to record. Hughes v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 122, 97 S. W. 525. Though when a recorded instrument shows on its face that the acknowledgment was taken by a party in interest, it is improperly recorded, and is not constructive notice, yet when it is fair upon its face it is the duty of the register to receive and record it, and its record operates as notice notwithstanding there may be some hidden defect. *Kee v. certificate vary according to the relations of parties affected.<sup>95</sup> The certificate of the officer cannot be called in question except upon the allegation of fraud or duress in the party benefited thereby, or a mistake on the part of the officer unless in a direct proceeding against the officer or his sureties.<sup>96</sup>

§ 7. Defects and invalidities.<sup>97</sup>—A certificate of acknowledgment will be defective if it fails to show at least substantial compliance with the statutory requirements as to authentication,<sup>98</sup> identity of person signing and acknowledging with the person described in the instrument,<sup>99</sup> separate examination of married woman,<sup>1</sup> and explanation of contents of instrument.<sup>2</sup> In Texas the right is given by statute to correct a defective certificate when the acknowledgment was in fact properly taken but defectively certified.<sup>3</sup>

95. A certificate of acknowledgment to a deed is prima facie proof of the recitals it contains and parol evidence to impeach it must be clear and convincing. Ford v. Ford, 27 App. D. C. 401. Between the parties it is prima facie correct, but impeachable for fraud or gross concurrent mistake; as to bona fide purchasers it is conclusive of all acts which it is the officer's duty to verify; as to all other persons it is disputable. Evidence held not to impeach signature. Id., citing many cases and discussing various doctrines.

96. Long v. Branham, 30 Ky. L. R. 552, 99 S. W. 271; Cason v. Cason [Tenn.] 93 S. W. 89. Under § 3760, Ky. St. 1903, the certificate to a feme covert's acknowledgment of a mortgage cannot be collaterally attacked for duress where the party benefited by the mortgage is not shown by the evidence to have been guilty of the duress under which the wife claims to have acted, and where, even though there is evidence that in signing and acknowledging the mortgage she acted under coercion from her husband, it does not sufficiently appear that the party benefited, though present, knew of such coercion at the time or when he accepted the mortgage. Long v. Branham, 30 Ky. L. R. 552, 99 S. W. 271.

97. See 7 C. L. 27.

98. A certificate of a notary public not authenticated by a statement, either engraved upon his seal or written under his official signature, of the date of the expiration of his commission or term of office is void. County of Sheridan v. McKinney [Neb.] 112 N. W. 329.

99. Sims v. McLaren, 117 Mo. App. 67, 94 S. W. 792. A certificate which merely shows that the officer saw the grantor in a deed sign his name thereto is in no sense an acknowledgment of the deed. Punchard v. Masterson [Tex.] 101 S. W. 204.

1. In Cook v. Pitman [N. C.] 57 S. E. 219, the probate to the deed offered as color of title certified that the justice had "privately examined Elisha Carroway, Nancy Carroway, his wife, grantors of the above deed, and Nancy his wife doth state that she signed the same freely and voluntarily without fear or compulsion of her said husband or any other person," etc. This certificate was held insufficient both because it does not appear therefrom that E. Carroway ever acknowledged the execution and because it failed to state that the privy examination of the wife was taken separate and apart.

2. The requirement that the officer taking the acknowledgment of a married woman should certify that he explained the deed to her is not complied with by a certificate that the wife, after understanding the deed and subscribing it, privately and apart from her husband, declared the same to be her voluntary act and deed. Kopke v. Votaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 316, 95 S. W. 15.

3. Kopke v. Votaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 316, 95 S. W. 15, in which it was held that to entitle a person to this relief he must plead a state of facts which show his right to it, and upon which a judgment granting it can be predicated, and in the absence of such pleading parol evidence that the officer complied with the law is not admissible. The deed of a married woman to which the certificate of acknowledgment is insufficient is not void if it was in fact acknowledged by her in the manner required by the statute, and by timely suit for that purpose the grantee in such deed, or any one holding title thereunder, may have the certificate corrected and made to conform to the facts. Tex. Rev. St. 1895, arts. 4662, 4663. Downs v. Peterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 751.

Such subsequent correction will not relate back and validate a previous void registration upon the defective certificate. Hughes v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 122, 97 S. W. 525.

Limitation of action: The right to have a certificate corrected by a decree of the court has been held to be barred by the four-year statute of limitations where the action, which was trespass to try title, was brought more than that length of time after the deed in question was executed. Kopke v. Votaw [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 316, 95 S. W. 15.

Evidence held insufficient to require correction: Testimony by the notary taking the acknowledgment of a married woman to a power of attorney that he was well posted as to the law prescribing the duties of a notary public, that he has no specific recollection of the transaction but believes that in taking the acknowledgment he complied with all the requirements of the statute, is not sufficient to require the correction of the certificate of acknowledgment, defective for failure to state that the instrument was explained to her. Downs v. Peterson [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 751.

4. Nor does he undertake to certify that to the effect that if, in taking an acknowledgment, he exercises that diligence which a reasonably prudent and cautious man would exercise under like circumstances, he performs faithfully the duties of his office and complies with the terms of the bond and oath of office.<sup>5</sup>

ACTIONS.<sup>6</sup>

This topic includes only questions relating strictly to actions. Causes of action and defenses,<sup>7</sup> forms of action,<sup>8</sup> questions of consolidation and joinder,<sup>9</sup> and matters relative to procedure,<sup>10</sup> are elsewhere treated.

As a general rule the creation of a right includes a remedy for its enforcement.<sup>11</sup> A cause of action must exist at the time of commencement of the suit.<sup>12</sup> If it does not exist the defect is fatal and cannot be cured by subsequent amendment.<sup>13</sup> In actions ex delicto demand against the wrongdoer is not a prerequisite of the right to sue,<sup>14</sup> unless made so by statute.<sup>15</sup> The commencement of an action usually dates from the issuance of summons,<sup>16</sup> filing of the original complaint,<sup>17</sup> or service of the person acknowledging the instrument owns or has any interest in the land therein described, but he does undertake to certify that the person personally appearing before him is known to him to be the person described in and who executed the instrument. Barnard v. Schuler, 100 Minn. 289, 110 N. W. 966. He is not an insurer of the identity of persons who execute conveyances. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 29 Ky. L. R. 897, 96 S. W. 801.

5. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 29 Ky. L. R. 897, 96 S. W. 801. He is, however, responsible for his errors unless he can show that they occurred notwithstanding the use of reasonable care and diligence on his part to prevent them. Id. If a notary public certifies to an acknowledgment of an instrument without personal knowledge as to the identity of the person appearing before him, and without a careful investigation of such facts, he is guilty of negligence, and he and the sureties on his bond are liable for all damages proximately resulting therefrom. Barnard v. Schuler, 100 Minn. 289, 110 N. W. 966.

Liability for negligence of deputy: Where it is shown that a deputy county clerk took the acknowledgment of an imposter to a mortgage, then a prima facie case of negligence is made out against the clerk, and it devolves upon him to show that his deputy, in taking the acknowledgment, used care and diligence to prevent the fraud and imposition. Commonwealth v. Johnson, 29 Ky. L. R. 897, 96 S. W. 801.

ADJOINING OWNERS.<sup>26</sup>

In many states<sup>27</sup> there is an absolute right of lateral support which is infringed by any excavation of adjoining lands irrespective of negligence,<sup>28</sup> and such right is not subordinate to any right of his neighbor.<sup>29</sup> This rule is limited to injury to the land itself and does not extend to damage to improvements thereon.<sup>30</sup> Where such absolute right is recognized, it is a property right, and if the effect of a statute is to abrogate the common-law rule with reference to existing rights, such provision is unconstitutional.<sup>31</sup> A cause of action for deprivation of lateral support accrues when injury occurs and not when the support is removed.<sup>32</sup> The measure of

The effect of § 2676, Revised Statutes, relative to injuries caused by excavations, is to amplify the common-law rule as to lateral support so as to create a liability for removing lateral support of buildings, where an excavation goes more than nine feet below the street grade. It does not modify the common-law rule as to lateral support of the soil itself. Id.

32. Schmoe v. Cotton [Ind.] 79 N. E. 184. A cause of action for removal of lateral sup-damages for deprivation of lateral support is the depreciation in the value of the land.<sup>33</sup> The fact that the source of injury was the settling of a party wall does not change the rule.<sup>34</sup> An adjoining owner is under no duty to so construct his buildings that they will not be injured by water falling upon them from buildings on adjacent land.<sup>35</sup> One who is without right to use a wall standing upon the lot of his neighbor may be enjoined from cutting into it or otherwise using it.<sup>36</sup>

§ 1. Jurisdiction and courts.<sup>38</sup>—In order that a contract may be enforceable in admiralty, it must be maritime in character,<sup>39</sup> but if of that character, the court will inquire into all its breaches and all the damages suffered thereby, however peculiar they may be, and whatever issues they may involve.<sup>40</sup> The test of jurisdiction is the nature and subject-matter of the contract,<sup>41</sup> and it is not dependent upon the existence of a maritime lien giving a right to proceed in rem.<sup>42</sup>

Cotton* [Ind.] 79 N. E. 184. Evidence that one whose land had been injured by deprivation of lateral support had made a claim for loss of rental against a railway company because of noise and smoke held admissible to show that such loss was not caused wholly by deprivation of lateral support. *Hopkins v. Agreement for raising of vessel, and to pay cost thereof, maritime liens for labor and supplies, and cost of repairs out of proceeds of insurance policy on vessel, balance of which was to go to mortgagees, held maritime. Id. Fact that such agreement was not fully executed held not to affect admiralty jurisdiction. Id. Admiralty held to have jurisdiction of action

Bond given by charterer to secure performance of charter, which did not obligate or authorize surety to perform in case of default, but merely bound him to pay damages in event of nonperformance by charterer, held not maritime contract so that court of admiralty had no jurisdiction of libel in personam passed thereon. Pacific Surety Co. v. Leatham & Smith T. & W. Co. [C. C. A.] 151 F. 440.

40. Suit to recover advances made by charterer to master, and which, by mistake, were not deducted on settlement of accounts, as provided by charter, held suit on contract of affreightment and within jurisdiction of court of admiralty. The Oceano, 148 F. 131. Though no pure case of storage, even on water, can be regarded as maritime in character, where storage is an incident of transportation it is maritime and jurisdiction follows. Evans v. New York & P. S. S. Co., 145 F. 841. 41. United States Shipping Co. v. U. S., 146 F. 914.

42. Existence of admiralty jurisdiction in suit in personam is not dependent upon ex-

Courts of admiralty have exclusive jurisdiction to enforce maritime liens against vessels, whether created by the general maritime law<sup>42</sup> or by state statutes.<sup>44</sup> State statutes may however, create liens not maritime in character and confer on their own courts power to enforce them,<sup>45</sup> and the state court is not deprived of jurisdiction in such cases by reason of the fact that the vessel is engaged in interstate commerce,<sup>46</sup> or because she may in the future become subject to superior maritime liens enforceable in a court of admiralty.<sup>47</sup> A valid maritime lien created by a state statute may be enforced by a proceeding in rem in the admiralty courts of any district provided the court has possession of the vessel.<sup>48</sup> Though a court of admiralty has no jurisdiction to foreclose mortgages on vessels, when it has a fund to dispose of it may entertain claims based on mortgages.<sup>49</sup>

Courts of admiralty have exclusive jurisdiction in salvage cases.<sup>52</sup>

The test of jurisdiction in tort cases is whether or not the tort is a maritime one.<sup>53</sup> Though a court of admiralty has no jurisdiction in a proceeding in rem to seize a vessel owned by a municipal corporation, devoted to public use, and necessary for carrying on some essential operations of the government,<sup>54</sup> there is a remedy istence of right to proceed in rem. United States Shipping Co. v. U. S., 146 F. 914. Admiralty court held to have jurisdiction of suit in personam on contract of affreightment, brought against the United States under Act March 3, 1887, c. 359, 24 St. 505, though under such act no decree in rem could be entered against U. S. Id.

43. Jurisdiction to administer proceeds of insurance policy applicable in part to payment of maritime liens held not affected by fact that mortgagees having claims against same fund had previously commenced foreclosure proceedings in state court. The Conveyor, 147 F. 586.

44. The Vigilant [C. C. A.] 151 F. 747.

45. Lien given by Mich. Comp. Laws 1897, § 10,789, for materials furnished in construction of ship, may be enforced in state court. Iroquois Transp. Co. v. De Laney Forge & Iron Co., 205 U. Contention that act is unconstitutional as in conflict with exclusive jurisdiction of Federal courts of admiralty over maritime liens cannot be raised in Federal supreme court in case appealed from state court in which no maritime lien is asserted. 49. Jurisdiction to administer proceeds of insurance policy held not affected by fact that mortgagees had claims against fund. The Conveyor, 147 F. 586.

50. Under Treaty Dec. 11, 1871, art. 13 (17 St. 921, 928), between Germany and the U. S., reserving to consuls of each government respectively exclusive power to take cognizance of and determine differences between the captains and crews of its vessels, and particularly in reference to wages, etc., held that U. S. court of admiralty had no jurisdiction of libel against German vessel to recover wages brought by seamen not citizens of U. S., who signed articles before German consul at U. S. port and were discharged at another U. S. port after completion of voyage. The Bound Brook, 146 F. 160. Contention that seamen were not members of crew because they were paid advance wages in violation of Act Dec. 21, 1898, c. 28 (30 St. 763), held untenable, that statute not being applicable to foreign vessels where treaties conflict with it. Id. In any event contract of shipment was not void under Rev. St. § 4523, since unlawful payment was not shown to have entered into contract as one of the things agreed upon by the parties. Id. Even if contract was void, held that libelants, having voluntarily rendered services throughout voyage, would still be members of crew within meaning of treaty. Id.

51. Jurisdiction assumed where libelant was an American citizen who signed articles on British ship before British consul in American port, and claimed to have been wrongfully discharged in foreign port, parties and vessel being within reach of court's process and voyage having ended. The August Belmont, 153 F. 639.

52. Where charge for landing steamer was really claim for salvage, held that it was properly withdrawn from suit in state court upon an account for services rendered, it being rightly cognizable by court of admiralty in proceeding in which members of crew of salving vessel could participate. Neel v. Iron City Sand Co. [C. C. A.] 149 F. 980.

53. Action for injury to pier by moving vessel is not cognizable in admiralty. The Curtin, 152 F. 588.

54. Vessel owned by the port of Portland, a municipal corporation created by state law for purpose of improving navigation, held not subject to seizure in suit by in personam in such cases.<sup>55</sup> Courts of admiralty have jurisdiction of an independent libel by one of two vessels, equally in fault for a collision, to compel contribution by the other for damages which the former has been compelled to pay cargo owners.<sup>56</sup> They also have exclusive jurisdiction to determine whether a vessel owner has a right to limit his liability,<sup>57</sup> but the right may be interposed as a defense in an action in personam in a state court where there is only a single claim, and hence no need for apportionment.<sup>58</sup> Where the vessel has not been libeled but her owner has been sued, proceedings for limitation of liability may be brought either in the district in which such suit has been commenced or the district in which the vessel may be.<sup>59</sup> When a court has once acquired jurisdiction in the matter, it cannot be divested thereof by any act of one claiming damages in attempting to reduce his claim.<sup>60</sup>

§ 2. Remedies and remedial rights.<sup>61</sup>—Unless explicitly excluded by the charter party both shipper and owner may pursue their remedies for a breach thereof by actions in rem.<sup>62</sup> An action in rem against the vessel will not lie for an assault by the master on a member of the crew.<sup>63</sup>

§ 3. Practice and procedure. A. Pleading, process, interlocutory orders, etc.<sup>64</sup> Process in personam may be a simple monition in personam, or a monition united with a clause of attachment of defendant's goods and chattels if he is not found.<sup>65</sup> Consent cannot confer jurisdiction as to the subject-matter.<sup>66</sup> The filing by owners of a foreign vessel, which has been seized in a suit in rem, of a claim to such vessel and the giving of a bond for her release does not constitute a general appearance so as to give the court jurisdiction to render judgment against them in personam without service of monition.<sup>67</sup>

New parties necessary to a complete determination of the controversy in one suit may ordinarily be brought in by petition<sup>68</sup> provided it is done promptly.<sup>69</sup>

The Crown of Castile, 148 F. 1012. On libel by

The substitution of a new owner as claimant of a libeled vessel previously released on stipulation is not the bringing in of a new party so as to release the surety if done without notice to him.<sup>70</sup>

The aim of the court is to bring all parties before it and determine the controversy on the merits as it appears from the proof, regardless of technical rules of pleading.<sup>71</sup> Whether the libel is intended as one in rem or as a joint proceeding in rem and personam is a question of construction.<sup>72</sup> In collision case the grounds of fault relied on should be pleaded and cannot be first raised in argument after the case has been litigated and closed on other issues.<sup>73</sup> Technical inaccuracies in the statement of facts in collision cases,<sup>74</sup> and surplusage,<sup>75</sup> may be disregarded. Where seamen intervene with claims for wages in a suit in rem against a vessel, their rights will be determined regardless of the disposition of the original libel.<sup>76</sup> Claims having no relation to the transaction out of which the litigation arose cannot be pleaded as a set-off.<sup>77</sup> The rule as to amendments is practically the same as in chancery.<sup>78</sup> The allowance of amendments to conform the pleadings to the proof is discretionary where no new facts are introduced and the cause of action is not changed.<sup>79</sup> A libel in rem on a claim not constituting a maritime lien cannot be converted into one in personam by amendment, where no monition has been served and the owner has not entered a general appearance.<sup>80</sup>

Under the statutes relating to the limitation of liability, the unoffending owner of an offending vessel has the absolute right to relieve himself of personal liability by turning over the vessel and her freight, for the benefit of those claiming damages, to a trustee appointed for that purpose by any court of competent jurisdiction.<sup>81</sup>

bankers to recover advances made on bills of lading on theory that goods had been improperly delivered to third persons, held that, since it appeared that, if libelants were entitled to recover against vessels, latter might have a right of recovery against such third persons, claimant was entitled, by analogy to rule 59, to have such persons made parties, though libelants had previously brought actions at law against them. The Cerea, 149 F. 924.

81. Rev. St. § 4285. Ohio Transp. Co. v. Davidson S. S. Co. [C. C. A.] 148 F. 185.

The admiralty rule providing for the appraisalment of the owner's interest, and the payment of the aforesaid value into court, or the giving of a stipulation therefor, is permissive only, and he has the right, before an appraisalment had or his petition has been accepted, or acted upon by the court, to dismiss that part of his petition asking for it, and to substitute therefor the method of a transfer to a trustee.<sup>82</sup>

One holding a fund substituted for a vessel may be compelled to bring it into court to meet the exigencies of suits to enforce claims against it.<sup>83</sup>

Objections to jurisdiction should be made by plea, or, where the defect is palpable, by demurrer.<sup>84</sup> Want of jurisdiction of the subject-matter may, however, be raised at any time.<sup>85</sup> An objection to the seizure of a vessel owned by a municipal corporation, and devoted to a public use, may be raised by motion to vacate or set aside the warrant of arrest, where it sufficiently appears from the facts set out in the motion and libel that the seizure cannot be maintained in any event.<sup>86</sup> Exceptions to the petition not argued will be disregarded.<sup>87</sup>

(§ 3) B. Evidence, proof, hearing, and decree.<sup>88</sup>—Where a jury is authorized to try issues of fact, its verdict is advisory merely.<sup>89</sup> The findings of a commissioner upon questions of fact depending upon conflicting evidence, or the credibility of witnesses, will not ordinarily be disturbed unless clearly erroneous.<sup>90</sup> As in other cases, a final judgment or decree on the merits is conclusive between the parties as to all matters determined, or which might have been litigated and determined under the issues.<sup>91</sup> Controversies arising collaterally between the parties, or involving an adjudication against strangers to the original action, cannot be summarily determined on motion to set aside or satisfy a decree theretofore entered.<sup>92</sup>

§ 4. Appeals and subsequent proceedings.<sup>93</sup>—There is no pecuniary limitation on the jurisdiction of the circuit court of appeals in admiralty cases.<sup>94</sup> Parties aggrieved<sup>95</sup> may ordinarily appeal from any final judgment on the merits.<sup>96</sup> A

Decree dividing damages to vessels resulting from collision on ground that both were equally in fault, but refusing to divide damage to cargo because such question was not raised by pleadings, held not a bar to subsequent libel by vessel paying entire cargo damage to compel contribution by other vessel, right to division of liability for injury to vessels and contingent claim to indemnity for cargo damage being separable, and libellant not being bound to adopt procedure permitted by rule 59. Erie R. Co. v. Erie & W. Transp. Co., 204 U. S. 220, 51 Law. Ed. 450.

94. Rev. St. § 631, limiting appeals from district to circuit court to cases where sum in dispute exceeds $50, held inapplicable, it having been superseded by Act March 3, 1891, c. 517, 26 St. 827. The Joseph B. Thomas [C. C. A.] 148 F. 762. Claims of several seamen for wages, though united in one suit under Rev. St. § 4547, held not joint but several, so that, if jurisdiction depended upon amount in dispute, test would be amount of each claim and not aggregate of all. Id.

95. In suit for wages against owner of vessel and insurers, where only controversy was as to which was liable for wages admittedly due, and court dismissed libel as to vessel not appealing cannot dispute findings of the lower court against her.<sup>97</sup> Evidence not made a part of the bill of exceptions, though appended, will be disregarded,<sup>98</sup> and questions not properly assigned as error will not be considered.<sup>99</sup> Findings of fact by the trial judge,<sup>1</sup> or a commissioner,<sup>2</sup> depending upon conflicting evidence or the credibility of witnesses, will not ordinarily be disturbed unless clearly erroneous.

ADOPTION OF CHILDREN.

§ 1. Adoptive Acts and Proceedings (34). | § 2. Consequences of Adoption (36).
Contracts of Adoption (36).

Statutes prescribing the method of adoption generally require the consent of the parents or guardian of the adopted child,<sup>10</sup> unless such child has been abandoned.<sup>11</sup> insurer and entered decree in favor of libelant against owner, held that owner had right to appeal though libelant did not do so. Hume v. Frenz [C. C. A.] 150 F. 502.

96. Order denying motion to set aside or satisfy decree previously entered held not appealable. Carroll v. Davidson [C. C. A.] 152 F. 424.

97. The Gladiator [C. C. A.] 144 F. 681.

98. Exhibits. The Wyandotte [C. C. A.] 145 F. 321.

99. Assignment that court erred in not dismissing the libel with costs held more nearly an expression of opinion of counsel than an assignment. The Wyandotte [C. C. A.] 145 F. 321.

1. Where witnesses examined in open court. Coastwise Transp. Co. v. Baltimore Steam Packet Co. [C. C. A.] 148 F. 837; The Inca [C. C. A.] 148 F. 363.

2. See § 3 B, ante.

3. See 7 C. L. 35.

4. 5. Hockaday v. Lynn, 200 Mo. 456, 98 S. W. 585.

6. Where the records of such a proceeding have been destroyed by fire, one relying on its validity must prove that the court had acquired jurisdiction. Kennedy v. Borah, 226 Ill. 243, 80 N. E. 767.

7. Are in derogation of the common law. Purlinton v. Jamrock [Mass.] 80 N. E. 802. A statute providing that the petition shall be presented to the court of the county where the petitioner resides does not require that the petition should state that the petitioner was a resident of the county where the petition was presented. Kennedy v. Borah, 226 Ill. 243, 80 N. E. 767.

In computing time under Comp. St. Neb. 1901, § 6322 a, requiring notice of hearing on a petition for adoption to be published "at least 10 days prior to said day of hearing," the last day of publication is to be excluded and the date of hearing included. Omaha Water Co. v. Schamel [C. C. A.] 147 F. 502.

8. People v. Sullivan, 126 Ill. App. 389.

9. Hockaday v. Lynn, 200 Mo. 456, 98 S. W. 585.

An indenture of apprenticeship reciting that it was the intention of the party of the first part to place and of the party of the second part to receive the apprentice as an adopted child, to be treated with like care as his own child, held to constitute such child an adopted child and heir. In re Wallace's Estate [Pa.] 66 A. 1098.

10. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. 6480, where no guardian has been appointed for a child at the time adoption proceedings are instituted, it is necessary that both parents consent to the adoption. State v. Wheeler [Wash.] 86 P. 391. When both parents of a child are living, there can be no consent by guardian, next of kin, or next friend, to the adoption of such child unless both parents have abandoned such child and ceased to provide for its support. Taber v. Douglass, 101 Me. 363, 64 A. 653. Where the parent of a child had neither actual nor constructive notice of adoption proceeding and was not a party thereto, the order of adoption was not binding upon her and she could attack it collaterally in habeas corpus proceedings. Beatty v. Davenport [Wash.] 88 P. 1109. Under Comp. St. Neb. 1901, § 6318, providing that one who has had lawful custody of a child for six months last past for the support of which neither parent has contributed may consent to an adoption, a consent stating that the child was two years old, had been abandoned by its parents at birth, that the person giving the consent had assumed and retained control of the child and did not know who its parents were, held sufficient as against collateral attack to show that such person had authority to consent. Omaha Water Co. v. Schamel [C. C. A.] 147 F. 502. A resolution of the state board of charity as to the constitutional right of every citizen and his family while any of them were under the wardship of the state to be instructed in their own religion or that they at least be served with notice of the proceeding<sup>12</sup> if their whereabouts be known,<sup>13</sup> but statutes authorizing adoption without the consent of the parent where the child has been abandoned are constitutional.<sup>14</sup> Notice must by common-law principles be given to the deserting father of a child though the statute does not require it.<sup>15</sup> A mere conjecture as to future conditions which turns out to be incorrect is not a mistake vitiating consent founded thereon.<sup>16</sup>

Unless expressly required by statute, it is not essential that the adoptive parent be of the same religious faith as the parents of the child.<sup>17</sup>

In some states direct averments of illegitimacy on the records are prohibited.<sup>18</sup> The affluence of relatives who owe the children no duty is not controlling as against the care and interest of their mother.<sup>19</sup>

Before a court can make a decree of adoption, it must acquire complete jurisdiction,<sup>20</sup> and if the conditions precedent to the exercise of the authority to make the decree are not fulfilled, the proceedings are irregular and the decree void,<sup>21</sup> but mere clerical orders in the order of adoption will not vitiate it,<sup>22</sup> especially after is not admissible to show that such board refused to consent to the adoption of a child by persons of a religious faith different from its parents, as the consent of such board was not required. Purinton v. Jamrock [Mass.] 80 N. E. 802. Under the Domestic Relations Laws of New York, a paternal grandparent who had adopted a grandchild may consent to a second adoption by the maternal grandparent of such child, and the natural parent of the child need not consent. In re MacRae [N. Y.] 81 N. E. 956.

11. The Nebraska statute of adoption (Abbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 1733), is based primarily on the consent of the parents, if living and accessible, and an adoption without such consent must clearly come within the exceptions contained in the statute. In re Wright [Neb.] 112 N. W. 311. Under the Nebraska statute, to warrant an adoption against the objection of a living parent it must clearly appear that such parent has abandoned the child for a period of six months, and that the person consenting to the adoption has had lawful custody during such period to the exclusion of all other control. Id.

12. A decree of adoption rendered in a proceeding in which a resident parent has no notice is void. Sullivan v. People, 224 Ill. 468, 79 N. E. 695.

13. Under a rule that the petition shall state whether either parent of the child is living and if so where they reside, an order of adoption reciting that the mother of the child died soon after his birth and the residence of the father, if living, was unknown, shows substantial compliance with the statute in the absence of the petition. Coleman v. Coleman [Ark.] 93 S. W. 733. Under a statute requiring a petitioner to show by two witnesses that the residence of neither parent of the child is known if either be living, held the jurisdiction of the court did not depend on such evidence, and an order made without such evidence could not be attacked by a brother of the adoptive parent. Id. Under Comp. St. Neb. 1901, § 6322 a, providing for notice by publication of proceedings for adoption, to interested person, a record of an adoption reciting that the parents of the child were unknown, held to show that they could not be served personally and sufficient to sustain the judgment on collateral attack. Omaha Water Co. v. Schamel [C. C. A.] 147 F. 502.

14. A law authorizing the adoption of children without consent of their parents, where such parents permit the child to be supported by the public as a pauper, is constitutional. Purinton v. Jamrock [Mass.] 80 N. E. 802. A finding that a mother had suffered her child to be supported by the public as a pauper for more than two years is justified where it appears that she never made more than cursory inquiry and none within two years, and made no opposition to the commitment though notified of the proceeding. Id.

15. People v. Sullivan, 126 Ill. App. 389.

16. Decree not revoked on ground of mistaken belief by consenting parent that she would soon die. Nelson v. Nelson, 127 Ill. App. 422.

17. The policy of the commonwealth to rear children in the religious faith of their parents will not be allowed to interfere with the best interests of the child. Purinton v. Jamrock [Mass.] 80 N. E. 802.

18. A petition for adoption alleging that the child is the child of a single woman is not express averment of illegitimacy within a statute prohibiting such averments upon the records in adoption proceedings. Purinton v. Jamrock [Mass.] 80 N. E. 802.

19. Graviess v. Graviess, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 135.

20. Faber v. Douglass, 101 Me. 363, 64 A. 653. A recital in the decree that jurisdictional facts existed is not conclusive. The record of the proceeding must show jurisdiction. Id. Whether the facts in an adoption proceeding justified a decree of adoption may not be inquired into in a collateral proceeding. Kennedy v. Borah, 226 Ill. 243, 80 N. E. 767. Where the records of an adoption proceeding which occurred 38 years ago were destroyed by fire, testimony of the attorney for the foster parents that all proceedings were regular and that the court had jurisdiction held sufficient to show that jurisdiction was acquired in such proceeding. Id.

21. Faber v. Douglass, 101 Me. 363, 64 A. 653.

22. Where it appeared that all persons interested were present in court at the time the order was made, the fact that the name of the real parent was written in the order

it has been acted upon as valid for several years by all the parties.<sup>23</sup> The discretion in a trial court with reference to the custody of children will not be inquired into by a reviewing court except on a charge of abuse of discretion or that a grave mistake has been made.<sup>24</sup>

Contracts of adoption.<sup>25</sup>—A contract of adoption under which the adopted child is to be made an equal heir with the foster parents' other children is valid,<sup>26</sup> but such contract must be made by one with authority to consent to the adoption.<sup>27</sup> Under the statutes of Missouri a deed of adoption need be executed only by the adoptive parent.<sup>28</sup> A lost or destroyed deed of adoption may be established by parol evidence.<sup>29</sup> A proceeding to establish it is not one to establish property rights.<sup>30</sup> where the name of the foster parent should have been written will be disregarded, it being an apparent oversight. Cubitt v. Cubitt [Kan.] 86 P. 475.

23. Cannot be avoided by the heirs at law of the foster parent. Cubitt v. Cubitt [Kan.] 86 P. 475.

24. Graviess v. Graviess, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 135.

25. See 7 C. L. 37.

26. Fugate v. Allen, 119 Mo. App. 183, 95 S. W. 980.

27. Where a decree of divorce awarded the custody of a child to its mother, the father alone could not enter into a valid contract of adoption by which the child was to be made an equal heir with other children of the foster parent. Such contract was unenforceable and the foster parent could disinherit the child. Fugate v. Allen, 119 Mo. App. 183, 95 S. W. 980.

28. Ann. St. 1906, p. 2728, does not require that a deed of adoption be executed by another than the adoptive parent, and it need not be consented to by the child, his parent, or guardian. Haworth v. Haworth [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 531. Nor need the adoptive parent's wife join in such deed, though it is void as to her if she does not join. Id.

29. Where a deed of adoption and the record thereof had been destroyed, evidence of the adoptive parent that he adopted the child, that the child lived with him from infancy until he attained majority, testimony of others that they saw the child and that it recited a consideration of love and affection and was recorded held sufficient to establish it. Haworth v. Haworth [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 531.

30. A petition to establish a lost deed of adoption need not allege that defendants, next of kin of the adoptive parent, claimed any interest in the estate of such parent adverse to the child, the object of the proceeding being to establish lost evidence and not to establish property rights. Haworth v. Haworth [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 531.

31. See 7 C. L. 37.

32. Hockaday v. Lynn, 200 Mo. 456, 98 S. W. 585. Under the statutes of Missouri the act of adoption does not bring the adopted child into relationship with any one except the adoptive parents, and the child will not inherit from a brother of his foster parent his foster parents' share. Id.

33. Where the life beneficiary with remainder to her heirs under a deed executed in 1853, adopted a child during that year and died in 1905 without issue, held Laws 1896, p. 225, amended by Laws 1897, p. 333, preventing an adopted child from defeating by inheritance the limitation over of property dependent on the foster parent dying without heirs, did not prevent the adopted child from taking the property in remainder as heir under the statute giving it the right of inheritance. Gilliam v. Guaranty Trust Co., 186 N. Y. 127, 78 N. E. 697. Laws 1896, p. 225, providing that nothing in regard to an adopted child inheriting from its foster parent shall apply to any "will, devise or trust" created before a specified date, etc., does not prevent an adopted child adopted prior to such date from taking the remainder of an estate of which its foster parent was life beneficiary. Id.

34. Cochran v. Cochran [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 1, 95 S. W. 731.

35. Coleman v. Swick, 120 Ill. App. 381.

36. Under a statute providing that after adoption the parents of the child are relieved of all duty towards it and have no rights over it, which duties and rights are assumed by the foster parents, a valid adoption divests the natural parents of the relation theretofore sustained toward the child. Such change of relation is not affected by death of the foster parents. In re MacRae [N. Y.] 81 N. E. 956.

ADULTERATION.<sup>37</sup>

§ 1. Legislation and Regulation (37).

§ 2. The Offense (37).

§ 3. Prosecutions and Penalties (37).

§ 1. Legislation and regulation.<sup>38</sup>—Statutes prohibiting the sale of adulterated foods apply to all persons connected with the sale.<sup>39</sup> One who asserts that he comes within an exception to the statute has the burden to establish such fact.<sup>40</sup>

§ 2. The offense.<sup>41</sup>

ADULTERY.

§ 1. The Offense (37).

§ 2. The Indictment or Information (37).

§ 3. Evidence (38).

§ 4. Practice and Trial (38).

§ 1. The offense.<sup>45</sup>—The offense is statutory and the elements thereof vary in the several states. In Alaska it consists in the voluntary sexual intercourse by a married person with another than his or her wife or husband.<sup>46</sup> Where cohabitation is not requisite, each act constitutes a separate offense.<sup>47</sup>

§ 2. The indictment or information.<sup>48</sup>—Though the statute defines the offense as consisting in an act of intercourse between persons within its terms and does not recognize the offense of living in adultery, an indictment charging the offense with a continuendo is good<sup>49</sup> and is not double.<sup>50</sup>

37. See, also, Food, 7 C. L. 1670, as to regulation of food products; Health, 8 C. L. 36, as to health regulations and officers charged with their execution.

38. See 7 C. L. 38.

39. Where a nonresident manufacturer makes sales in Massachusetts through an agent, both the manufacturer and the agent must comply with the statutes prohibiting the sale of adulterated food. Sullivan v. Crave & Martin Co. [Mass.] 79 N. E. 792. Title "an act to provide against" adulteration sufficiently embraces prohibition of sale of adulterated food. Commonwealth v. Arow, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

40. Law 1900, § 199, providing that § 197 prohibiting the sale of pharmaceutical preparations below standard quality does not apply to sales of cream of tartar, etc., by merchants, construed and held merely to except merchants from the provision of the statute relative to visitatorial duties of the state board of pharmacy, and not from the general prohibition against adulteration which had not yet been enacted. State Board of Pharmacy v. Gasau, 102 N. Y. S. 539. And see Commonwealth v. Arow, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 1.

41, 42. See 7 C. L. 38.

43. The New York statute requiring the inspector to deliver a duplicate sample of the milk is imperative and no penalty can be recovered if it is not complied with. People v. Weaver, 101 N. Y. S. 961. Where in an action for a penalty under Laws 1893, p. 655, for selling adulterated milk, it appeared that the sample taken at place of delivery was below standard and the one taken at the herd was above standard, the fact that the inspector was not present at the entire milking of the herd does not bar recovery, since the provision for the inspector's presence at the milking is for the protection of the people. Id. Under Laws 1893, p. 659, requiring a milk inspector to take a duplicate sample and deliver it to the person who delivers the milk, where it appeared that when the inspector had gotten the samples sealed the person who delivered the milk had gone, and later in the day the inspector delivered the samples to such person's wife, held a sufficient delivery, though at the time the husband was but a short distance from the house, the sample having been given to him at night by his wife. Id.

44. Under Laws 1893, p. 659, c. 338, providing that before an inspector takes a sample of milk he shall request the owner to stir it himself, where it appeared that the inspector handed the owner a dipper and he gave the milk a few turns and the inspector did not further stir it or cause it to be stirred, and the sample was very slightly below the required standard, held a question for the jury whether the sample was a fair one, part of the milk being night's milk on which cream had risen. People v. Weaver, 101 N. Y. S. 961.

45. See 7 C. L. 39.

46. Under Alaska Code (Act March 3, 1899, c. 429), defining adultery as the voluntary sexual intercourse by a married person with another than the offender's husband or wife, a complaint must allege that the accused was married at the date of the alleged offense. Cartier v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 143 F. 804.

47. State v. Thompson [Utah] 87 P. 709.

48. See 7 C. L. 39.

49, 50. State v. Thompson [Utah] 87 P. 709.

§ 3. Evidence.<sup>51</sup>—The evidence must show that the accused was married,<sup>52</sup> the intercourse,<sup>53</sup> proof of opportunity and inclination, being usually sufficient,<sup>54</sup> and that it was habitual if that is an element of the offense.<sup>55</sup> All circumstances tending to establish the crime may be shown,<sup>56</sup> but evidence of the offense, committed with another is not admissible.<sup>57</sup> Evidence of the conduct of the parties prior to the offense charged is admissible,<sup>58</sup> though the circumstances occurred in a different county from that wherein the prosecution is being conducted.<sup>59</sup> Admissions of the accused of specific facts not in themselves constituting the crime but furnishing links in a chain of circumstances are admissible.<sup>60</sup> The woman is an accomplice within the rule requiring corroboration.<sup>61</sup>

Instructions are to be considered as a whole<sup>67</sup> but must be consistent.<sup>68</sup> A fact

51. See 7 C. L. 40.

52. The state must show that the defendant's wife was alive at the time of the alleged offense. Dixon v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 308, 97 S. W. 692.

53. Circumstantial evidence as to intercourse insufficient. Quinn v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 101 S. W. 248.

54. Till v. State [Wis.] 111 N. W. 1109. Inclination means more than ordinary human tendencies and extends to conduct reasonably suggesting specific libidinous tendency of each of the parties toward the other. Id. Opportunity in such case must be understood as meaning more than mere chance. The parties must have been together under such circumstances as would lead the guarded discretion of a prudent man to the conclusion of guilt beyond a reasonable doubt. Id. The crime cannot be inferred from the mutual disposition of the accused and another to have sexual intercourse when coupled with no proof save that of opportunity to indulge therein. State v. Thompson [Iowa] 111 N. W. 319. Evidence insufficient to justify a conviction. Id.

55. Proof of four acts of intercourse held insufficient. Curlee v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 98 S. W. 840.

56. On a prosecution for adultery with a woman who had never been married, it is admissible to show, where it appears that the woman is pregnant, that conception took place about the date of the alleged crime, though such testimony did not indicate that accused participated therein. State v. Thompson [Utah] 87 P. 709.

57. On a prosecution of a woman it is not competent to prove that she ran off with other men before she was indicted in the case at bar. Quinn v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 101 S. W. 248. On prosecution of a woman the state may not prove by a witness who was on the jury, which acquitted defendant's codefendant, that he believed both parties guilty and acquitted him on a technicality. Id.

58. Under an information alleging that the crime was committed on one date, proof of an adulterous act committed on a prior date is admissible. State v. Thompson [Utah] 87 P. 709. Where an information charged that the crime was committed February 15, 1905, but the state elected to prove an act of adultery committed February 1, 1905, testimony of a physician that conception took place during the early or middle part of such month was not objectionable as tending to prove a subsequent act. Id.

59. Evidence tending to show improper conduct between the accused and his coadventurer, in a different county from that wherein the prosecution is conducted, is admissible as a circumstance pointing to guilt and as showing relations between the parties. Nobles v. State [Ga.] 56 S. E. 125.

60. Till v. State [Wis.] 111 N. W. 1109. Such admissions are not within the rule as to order of proof of confessions and may not be received before proof of corpus delicti. Id.

61. Jackson v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 101 S. W. 807. Evidence insufficient to corroborate. Id. Pregnancy is not sufficient because it goes only to the commission of the offense and does not connect accused therewith. State v. Thompson [Utah] 87 P. 709.

62. See 7 C. L. 40.

63, 64. State v. Harmann [Iowa] 112 N. W. 632.

65. State v. Harmann [Iowa] 112 N. W. 632. An allegation in an indictment that the prosecution was instituted by the wife of the accused need not be established beyond a reasonable doubt. Preponderance of evidence is sufficient. State v. Athey [Iowa] 108 N. W. 224. Where a prosecution was commenced on the voluntary complaint of the wife and at the trial she appeared and testified for him and stated that she did not intend to institute proceedings against him, her agency was held sufficiently shown. Id.

66. State v. Harmann [Iowa] 112 N. W. 632.

67. An instruction that testimony of an accomplice must be corroborated, and leaving to the jury to determine whether the witness was an accomplice, and also charging that she was an accomplice, held not misleading. State v. Athey [Iowa] 108 N. W. 224. Where the state claimed the offense to have been committed at a certain time and place, an instruction that the jury might consider whether there was anything unusual or suspicious in the episode held not error, when considered with instructions that the crime must be proved beyond reasonable doubt. Till v. State [Wis.] 111 N. W. 1109.

68. An instruction that if the jury be-not of the essence of the offense and as to which the evidence is undisputed may be assumed.<sup>69</sup> Requests which are argumentative or misleading are properly refused.<sup>70</sup> Where in a prosecution the state is required to elect as to which act it would rely upon and does so, it is error to disregard such election in charging the jury.<sup>71</sup>

§ 2. Against whom available.<sup>76</sup>—Adverse possession does not run against the state<sup>77</sup> unless expressly so provided by statute,<sup>78</sup> but the mere fact that the state claims land will not prevent adverse possession from running against the true owner.<sup>79</sup> As a general rule adverse possession does not run against a municipality as to streets or property held by it in its governmental capacity<sup>80</sup> unless otherwise lieved that prosecutrix was pregnant they should consider such fact with other evidence tending to connect accused with the crime, but that the fact of pregnancy was not of itself any evidence that defendant had had intercourse with prosecutrix, is contradictory. State v. Thompson [Utah] 87 P. 709.

69. If the evidence as to this fact is undisputed, it is not error for the court to state in instructions that the prosecution was properly commenced. State v. Harman [Iowa] 112 N. W. 632.

70. An instruction describing the female as a self-confessed felon and declaring that her testimony must be corroborated, not only as to commission of the offense but as to the circumstances thereof was prejudicial. State v. Athey [Iowa] 108 N. W. 224. An instruction that the crime was one against the wife of the accused and if she condoned the offense the state could not complain, not connected with the question whether the wife commenced the proceeding was erroneous. Id.

71. Permitting the jury to inquire whether the offense had been committed on any other date than the one relied upon. State v. Harman [Iowa] 112 N. W. 632.

72. See 7 C. L. 41.

73. A right of way acquired by grant. Woodbury v. Alian, 215 Pa. 390, 64 A. 590. The fee owner may extinguish the easement of the public of a way over the land by adverse possession for the statutory period where such possession in acquiesced in by the public for a sufficient length of time to raise a presumption of abandonment. Nelson v. Randolph, 222 Ill. 531, 78 N. E. 914. Adverse possession by the husband bars the dower rights of his widow under Comp.

Laws 1897, § 8938, giving a nonresident wife dower in lands of which the husband dies seised. Putney v. Vinton, 145 Mich. 219, 13 Det. Leg. N. 459, 108 N. W. 655. A right to have dower assigned is barred by ten years adverse possession of the land after the death of the husband. Joplin Brew. Co. v. Payne, 197 Mo. 422, 94 S. W. 896. Rev. St. 1899, § 4262, providing that actions for the recovery of land must be brought within ten years, applies to a homestead. Id.

74. Reading Co. v. Seip, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 330.

75. Where the United States makes a grant to a railroad company for a specific purpose a private individual cannot acquire title thereto by adverse possession. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Watson [Kan.] 87 P. 687. An easement cannot be acquired across a railroad right of way. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 101 S. W. 317.

76. See 7 C. L. 41.

77. Green v. Pennington, 105 Va. 801, 54 S. E. 877. Bed and banks of a navigable stream. Board of Park Com'rs v. Taylor [Iowa] 108 N. W. 927.

78. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 2523, statutes of limitation apply to the state as well as to individuals. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 101 S. W. 317.

79. Hardie v. Bissell [Ark.] 94 S. W. 611.

80. Not against a city, town, or village as to a street, alley, or other public land. City of Lincoln v. McLaughlin [Neb.] 112 N. W. 363. Title to streets cannot be acquired. De Land v. Dixon Power & Lighting Co., 225 Ill. 212, 80 N. E. 125. B. & C. Comp. § 4820, expressly provides that adverse possession does not run against a municipality as to streets and alleys. Christian v. Eugene [Or.]

expressly provided by statute,<sup>81</sup> but this rule does not protect the owner of the fee;<sup>82</sup> and adverse possession may run against a city holding certain lands in trust for persons whose possession antedated a certain time in the absence of a showing of the existence of some person entitled to a conveyance because of such possession,<sup>83</sup> and the mere fact that the act creating such trust provides a method by which one in possession could obtain a conveyance of the land does not alter the rule.<sup>85</sup> Adverse possession does not run against one whose title has not so matured and vested as to support a possessory action.<sup>85</sup> Accordingly it does not run against a remainderman during the life of a life tenant<sup>86</sup> nor against infants,<sup>87</sup> nor against married women during coverture,<sup>88</sup> unless it was held adversely at the time title was cast upon her.<sup>89</sup>

89 P. 419. Rev. St. 1895, art. 3351, expressly provides that streets or grounds dedicated to the public cannot be acquired by adverse possession. Krause v. El Paso [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 828. Where one purchased land bounded by a road laid out under a statute providing that all roads should be 60 feet wide, he was charged with notice of the width of the road and had no honest claim of right or color of title to claim by adverse possession a portion of the road fenced by him. Biglow v. Ritter, 131 Iowa, 213, 108 N. W. 218. Where one fenced a portion of the highway and planted a hedge on the portion fenced, the action of county authorities in permitting the hedge to grow did not estop them from afterward removing the fence. Id.

Contra: There is a marked difference between an encroachment upon a part of a street and the entire occupation of the street where the exclusion is entire for twenty-one years, the fact that the barrier was frail and unsubstantial does not prevent the possessor from successfully asserting title, and the public loses its rights both in and to the street. (Wright v. Oberlin, 3 Ohio C. C. [N. S.] 242, and Morehouse v. Burog, 22 Ohio C. C. 174, questioned; Mott v. Toledo, 17 Ohio C. C. 472, approved.) Seese v. Village of Maumee, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 497. Whether § 4977, having reference to actions to quiet title to streets, held adversely for more than twenty-one years, and more especially that part of it which was added by the amendment of 1889, applies to a case where the streets have been opened, is a matter of grave doubt. But notwithstanding the uncertainty as to the application of the statute, it is entirely clear under the authorities that one may by adverse possession obtain title to streets which have been regularly laid out and opened. Id.

81. Ky. St. 1903, § 2546, providing that limitations do not run against a city as to its streets until the council has been notified by the party in possession that he holds adversely, applies to persons in possession of any street at the time the statute was enacted providing the city was not yet barred. City of Covington v. Hall, 30 Ky. L. R. 356, 93 S. W. 317. Ky. St. 1903, § 2546, providing that limitations do not run in respect to an action by a city to recover a street until notice has been given by one in possession that he holds adversely, applies to actions brought by a party asserting title as well as to actions brought by the city. Id.

82. Rev. St. 1895, art. 3200, amended by the act of 1887, providing that adverse possession does not run against streets, pro-

TECTS THE PUBLIC BUT DOES NOT PROTECT THE OWNER OF THE FEE. Cocke v. Texas, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 407.

83. The so called Van Ness ordinance authorizing the conveyance of Pueblo lands by the city and county of San Francisco to persons who were in possession thereof prior to a certain time vests the title to such lands in the municipality in trust for those entitled thereto, but does not prevent the acquisition of title by adverse possession where there is no other person entitled to a conveyance because of such possession. Orack v. Powleson [Cal. App.] 85 P. 129.

84. Pueblo lands included in Van Ness ordinance. Orack v. Powleson [Cal. App.] 85 P. 129.

85. Railway company which has complied with all conditions of land grant has title against which adverse possession will run though patent has not issued. Iowa R. Land Co. v. Blumer, 206 U. S. 482, 51 Law. Ed. 1148.

86. Meurin v. Kopplin [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 984. See, also, Life Estates, Reversions, and Remainders, 8 C. L. 762; Pryor v. Winter, 147 Cal. 554, 82 P. 202. A remainderman is not affected by adverse possession against a life tenant. Mitchell v. Cleveland [S. C.] 57 S. E. 33. Where a woman was the owner and in possession of land at the time of her marriage and she and her husband lived thereon until her death, and after her death the husband remarried and conveyed to his second wife, held the possession of the husband after the death of his first wife was not adverse as he was a life tenant by curtesy. Hinton v. Farmer [Ala.] 42 So. 563. Where a grantor reserved a life estate in the land, his subsequent possession and the making of certain improvements after his marriage was insufficient to establish adverse possession or a trust for his wife's benefit. Beechley v. Beechley [Iowa] 108 N. W. 762. Possession under life tenant is not hostile to owner of fee though it is generally known in the vicinity that the life tenant had made a will attempting to devise the fee. Weaver v. Oberholtzer, 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 425.

87. Meurin v. Kopplin [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 984. Title is not acquired by fifteen years' adverse possession where during that period one under disability had within two years after removal of such disability asserted a superior claim to the land. Fortner v. Pell [Kan.] 88 P. 66.

88. Surghenor v. Tallafiero [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 411, 93 S. W. 648. Where land was deeded to one in 1860, she afterwards married and her disability of coverture was not removed until 1896, she died 1898, and one claiming under her brought action in 1904 against the decedent's grantor who had remained in possession and had deeded to another in 1889. Held the decedent's title was not lost under the ten-year statute. McAllen v. Alonzo [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 475.

89. Where land was in adverse possession at the time descent was cast on a married woman, the statute was not tolled as to her. De Hatre v. Edmunds, 200 Mo. 246, 98 S. W. 744.

90. See 7 C. L. 42.

91. A railroad company which takes land for its right of way without compensation does not hold adversely. Connellsville Gas Coal Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co., 216 Pa. 309, 65 A. 669.

92. Under Code, § 3451, limitations do not run in favor of a nonresident until conveyance of the land to a resident, hence nonresidents who collected rents and paid taxes were not in adverse possession. Stern v. Selleck [Iowa] 111 N. W. 451.

93. See 7 C. L. 43.

94. Requisites generally: Actual, open, exclusive, continuous, and hostile possession, under a claim of right for the statutory period, is essential. McCreary v. Jackson Lumber Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 822. The requisites of adverse possession are that it be "actual, open, continuous, hostile, and exclusive" for a period of twenty-one years, and a charge of court is erroneous which includes among these requisites the word "undisputed." Heller v. Hawley, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 265.

95. See post, § 5, Hostility. Definition of adverse possession held not prejudicial. Taylor v. Hover [Neb.] 108 N. W. 149.

96. Actual possession is essential. Lisso & Bros. v. Giddens, 117 La. 507, 41 So. 1029. To overcome the constructive seisin in deed of the elder patentee, where two patents conflict, there must be actual invasion of the boundary of the senior patentee by some act palpable to the senses which would give him notice that his seisin was molested. Green v. Pennington, 105 Va. 801, 54 S. E. 877.

97. Possession must be of such character as will notify the owner of the intention of the occupant to appropriate it to his own use. Nona Mills Co. v. Wright [Tex.] 102 S. W. 1118. Where one entered land of another and commenced cutting timber under a bill of sale of all timber he could remove prior to a certain date, knowing that his seller claimed under tax title, he could not thereafter secretly acquire the original title and hold it adversely. Petroski v. Minzgoehr, 144 Mich. 356, 13 Det. Leg. N. 241, 103 N. W. 77. Record of deeds under which one held, occupied and improved land and paid taxes for five years was sufficient notice of adverse possession. Stubblefield v. Hanson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 36, 94 S. W. 406. Hostile acts must be such as to carry with them a presumption that they would be observed by the owner were he to visit the property. Costello v. Muheim [Ariz.] 84 P. 906. The statute of limitations, for want of adverse possession, does not apply in favor of one claiming coal in a state of nature in place not developed. Newman v. Newman [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 377.

98. Where a woman at the time of her marriage owned and was in possession of land, and she and her husband occupied the land until her death and during her life her husband procured a deed from one who held no title, held that during the marriage the possession of the husband was not adverse under color of title. Hinton v. Farmer [Ala.] 42 So. 563. A prescriptive right to an easement cannot accrue while both dominant and servient tenements are owned by the same person. Wells v. Parker [N. H.] 66 A. 121. Where one had a common right with another to the use of an alley, the fact that he used it for twenty years exclusively as a means of ingress and egress, and a place to store wagons, etc., is not adverse to the easement of the cotenant. Hofherr v. Mede, 226 Ill. 320, 80 N. E. 893. Exclusive and hostile possession is essential. Boltz v. Colsch [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1106. Tide land bounded on one side by the shore on which were railroad tracks and lying between a training wall built by the United States and a mole built out to deep water and the fourth side open to the bay is not enclosed within Code Civ. Proc. Cal. § 323, so to be deemed in the actual possession of the owner. Western Pac. R. Co. v. Southern Pac. Co. [C. C. A.] 151 F. 376. Whether use as means of access to plaintiff's church building on adjoining lot was hostile and exclusive held for jury. Davis v. Robinson, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 90.

99. See post, § 6.

1. Where a grantee in a deed executed in 1869 and recorded 1879, held possession, executed mortgages on the land in which he asserted complete ownership, but allowed his children to believe that he claimed only as life tenant and in random conversations asserted only a life estate, held he acquired title by adverse possession as the children were charged with record notice of his deed and that he claimed his rights thereunder. McCarthy v. Colton [Iowa] 108 N. W. 217. Must be under a claim of right. Salt Lake Inv. Co. v. Fox [Utah] 90 P. 564. The fact that the tenant of a landlord who is in adverse possession returns the property for taxation and pays taxes does not affect the character of his landlord's possession where it appears that it was done under arrangement with the landlord. Roberson v. Downing Co., 126 Ga. 175, 54 S. E. 1020. Where one was in adverse possession by tenants, the fact that a tenant at one time consulted counsel with a view to setting up an adverse claim did not affect the character of his possession where it also appeared that occupant must in some way appropriate the land to some purpose to which it is adapted,<sup>2</sup> but he need not make claim thereto by limitation.<sup>3</sup> Possession must originate under some claim or color of title having reference to some distinct source from which it is claimed to have been designed.<sup>4</sup> Good faith is an essential element in some states,<sup>5</sup> and in others additional elements have been made essential by statute, such as filing a declaration of intention to claim adversely,<sup>6</sup> and payment of taxes.<sup>7</sup> Exclusive use means that a right does not depend on a like right in others.<sup>8</sup>

the tenant did not remove from the premises so as to be in a position to set up adverse title. Id. Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 3344, providing that peaceable possession shall be construed to embrace not more than 160 acres or the area actually enclosed if it contained more than 160 acres, does not require that all land be enclosed or improved but does require that all land be claimed. Webb v. Lyerla [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 199, 94 S. W. 1095.

2. Nona Mills Co. v. Wright [Tex.] 102 S. W. 1118.

3. Where one held land adversely, it was immaterial under Rev. St. 1895, art. 3343, that he made no claim thereto "by limitation" at the time he went into possession or afterwards. Logan v. Meade [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 158, 98 S. W. 210.

4. The taking of possession by a mere squatter does not work a disseisin of the true owner. Jasperson v. Scharnikow [C. C. A.] 150 F. 571. A prescriptive right to an easement may arise in parol gift. Wells v. Parker [N. H.] 66 A. 121. Possession under a tax sale certificate is not adverse during the period of redemption but is an admission that possession is subject to the owner's right to redeem. Salt Lake Inv. Co. v. Fox [Utah] 90 P. 564.

5. Possession by one who claims title under a warranty deed from the purchaser at a foreclosure sale is adverse even though the foreclosure sale is void. Brynjolfson v. Dagner [N. D.] 109 N. W. 320. Where one buys at tax sale under the honest belief that he is acquiring a good title and goes into possession under the sheriff's deed, he is not chargeable with moral fraud merely because he made a mistake of law as to the validity of the sale. Bower v. Cohen, 126 Ga. 36, 54 S. E. 918.

6. Adverse possession is not available where no declaration of intention to claim adversely has been filed in the office of the probate judge as required by statute. Campbell v. Noble [Ala.] 41 So. 745.

7. See post, § 9.

8. That other persons used a way does not preclude a claimant's user from being exclusive. Schmidt v. Brown, 226 Ill. 590, 80 N. E. 1071. Where for a time land was fenced with other land belonging to claimant and for a time was not fenced at all, the possession was not exclusive. Webber v. Wannemaker [Colo.] 89 P. 780.

9. See 7 C. L. 41.

10. Lancey v. Parks [Me.] 66 A. 311; Salt Lake Inv. Co. v. Fox [Utah] 90 P. 564. Possession is admitted to have been adverse where one in possessory action alleges possession in defendant and asks possessory relief. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Spokane [Wash.] 88 P. 135. The test of adverse possession must be that it is such as would subject the one claiming adversely to a possessory action. Id.; Purtle v. Bell, 225 Ill. 523, 80 N. E. 350. Where on death of an ancestor his heirs become the owners of land subject to the right of the ancestor's widow, who conveys to one who claims the whole estate, his holding is adverse to the heirs. First Nat. Bank v. Pilger [Neb.] 111 N. W. 361. Where one had not paid taxes for thirty years and had apparently abandoned all claim to the land during which period another had purchased at tax sale, improved it, and paid taxes, the rights of the former were barred by laches. Osceola Land Co. v. Henderson [Ark.] 100 S. W. 896. Evidence sufficient to show that occupancy was not adverse. Cruse v. Richards [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 205. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 379, providing that an action to redeem from a mortgage may be maintained unless the mortgage has been in adverse possession for twenty years, the word "adverse" means rightful possession as mortgagee. Becker v. McCrea, 103 N. Y. S. 963. Where one fenced a part of an original highway which has been used for several years and established a new road in another place with the intention that the road as changed should be used by the public, the act not being hostile to the right of the public did not prevent the whole road from becoming a public highway by adverse possession. Berry v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 714.

11. Where one purchased a tract of land and for twenty five years cut and sold timber from an adjacent tract, she did not acquire title to such adjacent tract where she asserted no claim thereto except under deed in which it was not included. Perry v. Stevens [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 944, 97 S. W. 1075. Where land was devised to one for life, remainder to charity if he died childless, title to be vested in trustees appointed by the court, the possession of an heir at law of the life tenant after his death was not adverse to the trustees prior to their appointment. Kennedy's Adm'r v. Linn Orphan Asylum Trustees [Ky.] 103 S. W. 340. Where one in possession of land acknowledges, before the statutory period has run, that another owns the land, such acknowledgment shows that his possession is not adverse. Shirey v. Whitlow [Ark.] 97 S. W. 444.

cence,<sup>14</sup> or pursuant to an agreement,<sup>15</sup> is not adverse. A void attornment by the adverse holder's tenant to the true owner does not affect the possession.<sup>16</sup> The question whether one holds adversely is one of intention,<sup>17</sup> but such intention need not be declared affirmatively.<sup>18</sup> A possession commencing in subordination to the true title does not change into a hostile one until notice is brought home to the true owner by open acts unequivocal in character.<sup>19</sup> Notice to the true owner, however,

350. To acquire title under the twenty-year statute, possession must have been hostile in its beginning. Id.

13. A permissive possession is not. Balty v. Colsch [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1106. No presumption of grant arises from permissive use. Woodbury v. Allan, 215 Pa. 390, 64 A. 590. The use of an easement with the knowledge and consent of the owner is not adverse. Zerbey v. Allan, 215 Pa. 383, 64 A. 587. Where one had oral permission to take ice from a pond but had not exercised his right for the full statutory period, had not acquired title by adverse possession. Carville v. Com., 192 Mass. 570, 78 N. E. 735. Where removable ornamental fixtures encroached a few inches over the line an assumption that they existed by leave and did not constitute adverse possession was warranted. Van Horn v. Stuyvesant, 50 Misc. 432, 100 N. Y. S. 547. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 346, declaring that an action to redeem from a mortgage may be maintained against a mortgagee unless he has been in adverse possession for five years, held, so long as a mortgagee was in possession by consent of the mortgagor and under a contract to apply rents and profits to the indebtedness, his possession was not adverse. Wadleigh v. Phelps [Cal.] 87 P. 93. Where one enters permissively unless he at some time has distinctively and bona fide abandoned the premises. McCutchen v. McCutchen [S. C.] 57 S. E. 678. Where one used a passway belonging to another more or less regularly for fifteen years when a gate leading to it was not locked and had attempted to make arrangements for uninterrupted use, but made no attempt to use it when the gate was locked, he did not hold adversely. Prewitt v. Hustonville Cemetery Co. [Ky.] 101 S. W. 892.

14. One who enters under a license cannot acquire title by adverse possession. Staples v. Cornwall, 99 N. Y. S. 1009.

15. One who enters under a contract cannot obtain title by adverse possession without showing that his occupancy had assumed an adverse character and continued so during the statutory period. Lanham v. Bowlby [Neb.] 112 N. W. 324. A vendee of land in possession under bond for title and in recognition of the contract does not hold adversely until some act has been done that places the parties in a hostile attitude. Worth v. Wrenn [N. C.] 57 S. E. 388. Where a father conveyed land to his children reserving the right to convey any portion of the same and reinvest in other property, and thereafter he and some of the children conveyed a right for ten years to remove standing timber which was subsequently extended, held the possession of the purchaser was not adverse to other children. Gulf Red Cedar Lumber Co. v. Crenshaw [Ala.] 42 So. 567. Where after a grant had been procured from the state a partition agreement had been entered into between the parties reciting that a certain person had an undivided interest for his services in locating and procuring title and authorizing one cotenant to adjust such claim, the possession of such cotenant would be regarded as in subordination to the locative rights and not adverse thereto. Surghenor v. Taliaferro [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 411, 98 S. W. 648. Where one occupied under an agreement, no prescriptive rights could be acquired. Preston v. West Beach Corp. [Mass.] 81 N. E. 253. Where a son is given money to pay for land on condition that the donor have a home there, the donor's subsequent possession is not adverse. Hoyt v. Zumwalt [Cal.] 86 P. 600.

16. Briel v. Jordan, 27 App. D. C. 202.

17. A possession is not adverse where it appeared that one did not intend to claim to a certain marked line regardless of where the true line might be. Boltz v. Colsch [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1106. Mere occupancy without evidence of an intention to appropriate the land is insufficient. Nona Mills Co. v. Wright [Tex.] 102 S. W. 1118. The possession relied upon must be accompanied and characterized by an intention to claim adversely to the true owner. Sawbridge v. Fergus Falls [Minn.] 112 N. W. 385. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 3349, defining adverse possession as actual and visible possession under claim of right inconsistent with and hostile to the claim of another, one who enters with knowledge that he has no title and that another has, but with intention to occupy in hostility to the world, is in adverse possession. Link v. Bland [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 616, 95 S. W. 1110.

18. It may be established by circumstances. Sawbridge v. Fergus Falls [Minn.] 112 N. W. 385.

19. McCune v. Goodwillie [Mo.] 102 S. W. 997. One who enters permissively does not hold adversely until he discovers the owner's title and notice of such fact is brought home to the owner. Thompson v. Camper [Va.] 55 S. E. 674. A husband purchased land paying substantially all the purchase price and he and his family went into possession. His wife and child remained on the land when he went to the army. The wife held the land after his death. No dower was assigned to her. Held her possession not adverse after her husband's death notwithstanding failure to have dower assigned. Moore v. Guley, 30 Ky. L. R. 442, 98 S. W. 1011. Where entry was permissive, possession will be presumed to continue permissive until distinctly repudiated by some hostile act brought home to the knowledge of the owner. Meurin v. Kopplin [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 984. One in possession under parol gift is a tenant at will until there has been such adverse possession by him as, if continued for the statutory period, would work a divestiture of the donor's title. Gillespie v. Gillespie [Ala.] 43 So. 12. One who constructs a stone wall about three need not be actual,<sup>20</sup> but it must be such as to put him on his guard and notify him that possession is hostile to him,<sup>21</sup> or be such as to cause him injury.<sup>22</sup> To constitute constructive notice there must be some visible change in the character or nature of the occupancy calculated to put the owner on his guard and notify him that such possession is hostile.<sup>23</sup>

One who under mistake as to the true boundary takes possession up to a certain line, claiming it as his own, encloses it and holds possession for the statutory period, acquires title,<sup>24</sup> but if he intends to claim only to the true line, wherever it may be, he does not.<sup>25</sup>

The possession of one cotenant is not adverse to the others<sup>26</sup> until there has

and one-half feet thick so that the center of it is on the boundary line is not in adverse possession of any land covered by the wall. Dewire v. Hanley [Conn.] 65 A. 573. Where one enters land of another with his consent, his possession is not adverse until such owner has actual or constructive notice of its character. Lancey v. Parts [Me.] 66 A. 311.

20. Notice to the owner that one claims adversely may be inferred from attending circumstances and actual notice need not be proven. Wells v. Parker [N. H.] 66 A. 121.

21. Where one enters on land bid in at a tax sale, his intention to hold adversely during the redemption period must be shown by some unequivocal act, hostile to the owner's title, brought home to his knowledge, or which he ought to have known in the exercise of reasonable care in regard to the property. Lancey v. Parks [Me.] 66 A. 311. The remark incidentally made by one who had fenced in a parcel of land that the street was included within the fence does not amount to a declaration on his part that the right of the public is superior to his own in the strip once platted as a street which has been enclosed. Seese v. Village of Maumee, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 497. Occupation of land to which another made no claim does not charge him with notice that a hostile claim was made to adjoining land and does not put him on inquiry as to the nature of the possession. Rich v. Victoria Copper Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 380.

22. Mere notice to an upper riparian owner of a lower owner's claim to maintain a dam at a certain height, though persisted in for the requisite period or even actual maintenance at such height, does not give a prescriptive right to maintain it. It is only when the upper owner is injured by the backwater that prescription begins to run. Dutton v. Stoughton [Vt.] 65 A. 91.

23. Lancey v. Parks [Me.] 66 A. 311. A diverse user of a road imports an assertion of right on the part of those traveling the road hostile to the owner. Township Com'rs of St. Andrews Parish v. Charleston Min. & Mfg. Co. [S. C.] 57 S. E. 201.

24. See, also, Boundaries, 7 C. L. 446; Shirey v. Whitlow [Ark.] 97 S. W. 444. One who by mistake encloses land of another and claims it as his own holds adversely. Thornely v. Andrews [Wash.] 88 P. 757. If one claims against the world he holds adversely, but a mere tentative claim subject to the result of inquiry as to whether or not the land is within his boundaries is not adverse. Wless v. Goodhue [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 793. Title by adverse possession may be acquired under a claim of title although the interested parties were mistaken as to the true boundary. Weeks v. Upton, 99 Minn. 410, 109 N. W. 828. In 1890 an owner sold adjacent lots to separate persons. The boundary was staked off on the ground and lots improved with reference thereto. Held owners of lots claiming title to the line as staked held adversely. Thornely v. Andrews [Wash.] 88 P. 757. Where the description contained in a deed reads "north with the half section line," the phrase denotes direction and not necessarily that the line intended is identical with the half section line, and the line connecting the corners and not the half section line must be taken as the dividing line. But where it was believed by the grantor and the grantee that the corners were located in the half section line, and both have acted on that belief, the grantee acquires title by adverse possession to the strip lying between the half section line and the true line. Puntt v. Zimmer, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 455. One who lives on land and claims title to a well defined boundary and uses it openly and uninterruptedly for thirty years acquires title. Aikman v. South, 29 Ky. L. R. 1201, 97 S. W. 4. One who took and held peaceable possession for ten years under a mistake as to the boundary, intending to claim to a certain fence, and when he found that there was doubt as to the boundary claimed by limitation, acquires title. Logan v. Meade [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 158, 98 S. W. 210.

25. Shirey v. Whitlow [Ark.] 97 S. W. 444. One ignorant of the true line makes a mistake in erecting his fence and makes no claim of title up to the fence but only to the true line as it may subsequently be ascertained does not hold adversely. Thornely v. Andrews [Wash.] 88 P. 757. One who occupies an adjacent strip and claims title under mistake as to the true boundary of his lot does not hold adversely. Fieldhouse v. Leisberg [Wyo.] 88 P. 214. One who has title to a certain tract and by mistake as to the boundary occupies a strip of adjoining land belonging to another without intention to hold beyond the true line does not hold such strip adversely. Scott v. Williams [Kan.] 87 P. 550. Where an adjacent owner through mistake takes possession beyond the true line intending to claim only to the line, he does not hold adversely, but where his possession is under belief that he owns the land, incloses it, and claims it, he does hold adversely. Goodwin v. Garibaldi [Ark.] 102 S. W. 706. Where adjacent owners held possession up to a certain line under an agreement that the true line should be ascertained at some future time neither held adversely. Crosby v. First Presbyterian Church [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 534.

been an ouster and notice of the hostile claim has been brought home to him.<sup>27</sup> Where one tenant in common attempts to convey by warranty deed the whole estate and his grantee records the deed and enters into possession and claims the whole estate, his possession is adverse to the cotenant.<sup>28</sup> It does not run in favor of one holding under<sup>29</sup> or as fiduciary for<sup>30</sup> the owner.

Joint Tenants, 8 C. L. 2114. Mere possession by one cotenant is not sufficient to establish ouster and adverse possession. Dahlem v. Abbott [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 894, 110 N. W. 47. There can be no adverse possession against a cotenant until actual ouster, or exclusive possession after demand, or express notice. Harriss v. Howard, 126 Ga. 325, 55 S. E. 59.

27. Where one cotenant purchases the share of another from such other's agent and has been in possession for thirty-five years, and such other had acknowledged that he had received his pay and had no interest in the land, held the possession was adverse. Godsey v. Standifer [Ky.] 101 S. W. 921. Where one cotenant conveys the entire estate with covenants of seisin and warranty and his grantee enters and holds exclusive possession, the entry and holding must be deemed adverse to the cotenant. Wiese v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 108 N. W. 175.

Where one cotenant gave a mortgage on the entire estate which was foreclosed and the land sold to a person and the sheriff took the purchaser to the land which was vacant, and pointing to it informed him that he delivered it to him, held not an ouster. Harriss v. Howard, 126 Ga. 325, 55 S. E. 59.

28. Sanford v. Safford, 99 Minn. 380, 109 N. W. 819. The rule that one tenant in common who has knowledge of the existence of a deed executed by his cotenant may assume that such cotenant has conveyed only his interest does not apply where it appears that the other cotenant had no knowledge that the party in possession was claiming under a deed. Id. In such case, where other cotenants did not know of the existence of the deed but did know of the possession, held that the possession of the grantor was that of an apparent stranger. Id.

29. A mortgagee in possession may hold adversely to the mortgagor. Nash v. Northwest Land Co. [N. D.] 108 N. W. 792. When one who in good faith claims title under a void foreclosure sale takes possession under such claim but with the consent of the mortgagor, although he is deemed a mortgagee in possession, his possession is adverse to the mortgagor from its inception. Id. Such possession puts limitations in motion against the remedies of the mortgagor. Id. The fact that the grantee of a purchaser at a void foreclosure sale may be deemed in equity a mortgagee in possession does not make him such in fact so that his possession under his supposed valid claims of title is not to be regarded as adverse to the mortgagor. Brynjofson v. Dagner [N. D.] 109 N. W. 320. Possession of purchaser under contract is not adverse until payment is made. Poston v. Ingraham [S. C.] 56 S. E. 780.

30. A guardian of minors who is in possession of their land as such cannot claim adversely to them so as to set in motion Gen. Laws 1896, c. 205, though literally construed the statute is effective in all relations. Searle v. Laraway, 27 R. I. 557, 65 A. 269.

31. See 7 C. L. 48.

32. Proctor v. Maine Cent. R. Co., 101 Me. 459, 64 A. 839. Evidence insufficient to show continuous possession. Id. Evidence insufficient to show continuous possession for the statutory period. Bolen v. Hoven [Ala.] 43 So. 736. Evidence held not to show a break in continuity where one was in actual possession by operating a saw mill on the premises under color of title to a tract, and after a sale of the mill left the premises for nine months when he returned and cultivated and improved the land for a period sufficient to acquire title. Roberson v. Downing Co., 126 Ga. 175, 54 S. E. 1020. Continuous and adverse possession for ten years is necessary to divest the owner of the paper title to underlying minerals of his title under Ann. St. 1906, p. 2335. Gordon v. Park [Mo.] 100 S. W. 621. Where one laid a pipe line over land of another and used it continuously for five years under a claim of right, he acquired an easement. Collins v. Gray [Cal. App.] 36 P. 983. Evidence sufficient to show continuous use. Id.

Continuity was not broken where one in possession had cleared and cultivated land but for a year had left it, and while fences were broken down in places, clear fields and buildings remained. Bradbury v. Dumond [Ark.] 96 S. W. 390. The commencement of an action which is voluntarily discontinued does not toll the statute. Foster v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co., 103 N. Y. S. 531. Interruption of a possession is not shown where the claimant in a casual conversation stated that he knew the fence was not on the line and that the parties would have it moved as soon as possible, where the parties subsequently joined in repairing the fence and the claimant held possession for several years thereafter. Closuit v. John Arpin Lumber Co. [Wis.] 110 N. W. 222. Such conversation does not show seisin in the other party within the statutory period. Id. A party in possession as owner may protect such possession by purchasing any outstanding claim. There is not thereby any break in possession nor does the occupant rely upon his purchase title in preference to the one previously possessed. Wiese v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 108 N. W. 175.

33. Boltz v. Colsch [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1106. No title to water rights can be acquired where the possession was interrupted annually. Bree v. Wheeler [Cal. App.] 87 P. 255. A railroad which simply opens out and clears a right of way to a certain width does not necessarily remain in adverse possession to suspended,<sup>34</sup> or the premises temporarily abandoned during the period, no title is acquired.<sup>35</sup>

such width. Instructions disapproved as leaving out of view subsequent abandonment of the whole or a portion of the right of way. Bennett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 126 Ga. 411, 55 S. E. 177.

34. Evidence that the land had been sold to the state for taxes is admissible to show that operation of the statute had been suspended between time of sale and redemption. Spotswood v. Spotswood [Cal. App.] 89 P. 362. Laws 1861, p. 17, suspended the operation of the statute of limitations as to actions to recover land from 1861 until 1872. Winn v. Coggins [Fla.] 42 So. 897. Death of an owner suspends for one year the running of limitation in favor of one in possession. Meurin v. Kopplin [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 984. Under Rev. St. 1879, art. 3195, providing that a person can acquire title by adverse possession to only 160 acres, one who went into possession in 1861 could not acquire title to a greater area under Pasch Dig. art. 4624, because the statute of limitations was suspended from 1861 until 1870. Poland v. Porter [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 214.

36. See 7 C. L. 49.

37. Holdredge v. Livingston [Neb.] 112 N. W. 341. Where a father devised land to his wife on condition that one son should receive a certain amount when he attained majority and another son to receive a certain amount when he attained majority, and after the first son became of age he collected his share of the rents until the wife and other son leased to a third person, held the possession of the wife was not adverse to the first son and could not be tacked to that of the lessee. Pierce v. Lee, 197 Mo. 480, 95 S. W. 426. Where title is claimed by one and his successive grantees, it must appear that each grantee went into possession at the expiration of his predecessor claiming under or through him. Hoyle v. Mann, 144 Ala. 516, 41 So. 835. Where successive adverse occupants hold in privity with each other under the same claim of title, the time limited for maintaining an action may be computed by the last occupant of action accrued against the first occupant. Nash v. Northwest Land Co. [N. D.] 108 N. W. 792.

39. See 7 C. L. 49.

40. Where an owner permits a railroad to be built on his land and operated for twenty years, he cannot reclaim the property free from the servitude. McCutchen v. Texas & P. R. Co. [La.] 43 So. 42. His action would be barred for any relief in ten years. Id. Where one who took possession of the bed of a non-navigable lake had not held it for the statutory period, riparian owners were not barred. Rhodes v. Cissell [Ark.] 101 S. W. 758. Evidence that an owner attorned to one who claimed the land and that such claimant leased a portion of the land to one who cleared and fenced a small tract, but it did not appear how long the lease continued, and there was testimony that it was generally understood that the claimant was in possession, held insufficient to show title in the absence of proof that the act occurred more than seven years prior to action brought. Connerly v. Dickinson [Ark.] 99 S. W. 82. Where one went into possession in 1889 under purchase of improvements and did not set up claim to the land until 1891, when he purchased it, which was less than the statutory period from the time he sued, held insufficient to show title by adverse possession. Fisher v. Giddings [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 288, 95 S. W. 33. Evidence insufficient to show that title had been acquired where possession was not continued for the statutory period. Winn v. Coggins [Fla.] 42 So. 897. Evidence insufficient to show adverse possession for the statutory period. Covtino v. Los Angeles [Cal.] 88 P. 1091. Under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 3846, the shortest period within which a highway can be established by user is seven years, and such period is required as to a highway over public lands notwithstanding the act of congress granting such way over lands not reserved for public use. Vogler v. Anderson [Wash.] 89 P. 551. Equity will not divest a title for laches until there has been an equal or greater lapse of time than that permitted by the statute of limitations. Updegraff v. Marked Tree Lumber Co. [Ark.] 103 S. W. 606.

41. See ante, § 6.

42. Civ. Code 1882, § 109, providing a forty year period, does not apply where forty years have not elapsed since the enactment of such statute. Mitchell v. Cleveland [S. C.] 57 S. E. 23.

43. When land is sold at a judicial sale, the five year statute runs in favor of the purchaser only against the parties thereto. Gaither v. Gage [Ark.] 100 S. W. 80. Under the rule that if a plaintiff dies the action shall not abate if it be one that survives, the death of a plaintiff in a suit to quiet title did not abate the suit as to his heirs, and the defense of adverse possession was not affected, the ten years being measured from the commencement of the action. Upson v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1129. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4268, requiring one who claims or might claim an interest color of title<sup>44</sup> or is accompanied by payment of taxes,<sup>45</sup> or the extent of the owner's rights.<sup>46</sup> The period is sometimes made to depend on the character of the land.<sup>47</sup> Possession to avail under the five year statute of Texas must be under a sufficient<sup>48</sup> and duly recorded deed.<sup>49</sup> The two year statute in Louisiana applies only where there has been a judgment of expropriation,<sup>50</sup> and the ten year statute applies only where there has been actual possession under title translatif of property.<sup>51</sup>

in land and who has not paid taxes thereon for thirty years to sue within one year, where one has in possession and paying taxes at the time descent was cast on a married woman, her failure to pay taxes or bring action within thirty years barred her rights. De Hatre v. Edmonds, 200 Mo. 246, 98 S. W. 744. Rev. St. 1899, § 4268, expressly provides that, where neither one claiming land nor one claiming under him has been in possession or paid taxes for thirty years, he has only one year within which to bring action, and on failure to do so title rests absolutely in another. Crain v. Peterman, 200 Mo. 295, 98 S. W. 600. The 30 year period applies where there was corporal possession in the beginning, which has been continued, or else the possession must be preserved during the entire period by external and public signs announcing such possession and intention to possess. This rule applies to swamp lands. Ramos Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Sanders 117 La. 615, 42 So. 158. Under Laws 1847-48, adverse possession for seven years was necessary. Winn v. Coggins [Fla.] 42 So. 897.

44. The three year statute is inapplicable where claimant has neither title nor color of title. Beale's Heirs v. Johnson [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1045. Time should be reckoned from the date of the color of title to commencement of the action. Wade v. Goza, 78 Ark. 7, 96 S. W. 388. Where an owner mortgaged land and it was sold under a power contained in the mortgage, the color of title of the mortgagor was divested by sale under the mortgage and the seven year statute was inapplicable. Call v. Pancy [N. C.] 57 S. E. 220. Seven years actual possession under color of title gives title in North Carolina. Broadwell v. Morgan, 142 N. C. 275, 55 S. E. 340.

45. See, also, post, § 9. Allegations that one had been in quiet and peaceable possession under color of title and had paid taxes for seven years does not show title by adverse possession because not showing that he paid all taxes for seven consecutive years or to set up any paper title as basis for color of title, or allege claim of title in good faith. Webber v. Wannemaker [Colo.] 89 P. 780. Where one alleges in an action commenced in 1906 that he had been in possession under color of title and paid taxes for more than seven years "last past" before the commencement of the action, 3 Mill's Ann. St. Rev. Supp. § 2922, prescribing a seven year period, and not 2 Mills' Ann. St. § 2923, prescribing a five year period, applies. Id. Under 3 Mill's Ann. St. Rev. Supp. § 2923 e, giving title for payment of taxes for seven successive years no title is acquired where taxes were paid for one of such years by the true owner. Id. A redemption from tax sale does not constitute payment of taxes. Id. Under 2 Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5591, prescribing a seven year period where taxes are paid on vacant property, seven years must elapse between the date of the first payment and the commencement of suit to recover the land. Tremmel v. Mess [Wash.] 89 P. 487. Under the seven year statute requiring payment of taxes under claim and color of title, payment of taxes outside the taxpayer's boundaries under an error as to the location thereof is insufficient. Miller v. O'Leary [Wash.] 87 P. 113. Code, § 1448, limiting an action for the recovery of land sold for taxes to five years from execution of the tax deed, applies where the deed is merely irregular and not void. McCash v. Penrod, 131 Iowa, 631, 109 N. W. 180.

46. Arizona Rev. St. 1901, § 2941, fixing a two years' period as against one claiming a possessory right only, does not apply to possession against one claiming under a railroad company lands within the place limits of its grant. Howard v. Perrin, 200 U. S. 71, 50 Law. Ed. 374.

47. "Improved lands" within Civ. Code 1895, § 3065, providing that a right of way may be acquired over improved land in seven years and over wild land in twenty years, means an entire tract though only a part of it be under cultivation. The woodland on such tract is not wild land, but in connection with the cultivated portion constitutes a single tract. Hopkins v. Roach [Ga.] 56 S. E. 303. Where the allegation in a complaint to quiet title that the land was vacant and unoccupied was not denied, evidence of payment of taxes under color of title for seven successive years held sufficient to show title in plaintiff. Hardie v. Bissell [Ark.] 94 S. W. 611.

48. A deed by a husband and wife of land owned by the wife, duly recorded but purporting to be the deed of the husband, was sufficient to sustain title under the five-year statute though the acknowledgment of the wife was defective. State Nat. Bank v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 454. Where one purchased and paid for land and had the deed run to another to secure an indebtedness, such deed was sufficient to enable the vendee to acquire title under the five-year statute. Kirby v. Hayden [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 746. A deed is not sufficient under the five-year statute where the description therein is so indefinite that the land cannot be identified. Young v. Trahan [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 956, 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 20, 97 S. W. 147.

49. A deed containing a defective certificate of acknowledgment not being entitled to record is not a recorded instrument sufficient to support title under the five-year statute. Hughes v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 122, 97 S. W. 525.

50. The two-year period applies only where there has been a judgment of expropriation and the corporation has entered into possession before payment of compensation awarded. Amet v. Texas & P. R. Co., 117 La. 454, 41 So. 721.

51. The ten-year period applies only where there has been actual possession in good faith under a title translativ of property. Ramos Lumber & Mfg. Co. v. Sanders, 117 La. 615, 42 So. 158. Where one who is unable to read receives a tax deed containing interlineations under circumstances which justify the belief on his part that they were made by the officer executing the deed, he is held a possessor in good faith under the ten-year statute. Hickey v. Smith [La.] 42 So. 762. Where one entered under a decree which was construed and enforced as a feri facias, he was held a purchaser in good faith protected by the ten-year statute. Decuir v. Loeb [La.] 42 So. 955. A plea of the three, five, and ten-year statutes by one who had never been in possession cannot be sustained. Kernan v. Young [La.] 44 So. 1.

52. See 7 C. L. 50.

53. Little v. Crawford [Idaho] 88 P. 974. Where a person has always paid his taxes upon his entire property, a sale of it under another assessment in the name of another person is void and cannot serve as a basis for the three-year prescription. Bernstine v. Leeper [La.] 43 So. 889. A sale made on condition that it shall be found that the vendor is owner of the property cannot serve as a basis for prescription if it be found that the vendor is not the owner. Albert Hanson Lumber Co. v. Angelloy [La.] 43 So. 529.

54. Deed to religious association without legislative authority in violation of Maryland Bill of Rights, § 34. Dangerfield v. Williams, 26 App. D. C. 508.

An agreement void under the statute of frauds is color. Schmidt v. Brown, 226 Ill. 590, 80 N. E. 1071.

55. A sheriff's deed, valid in form and translativ of title, showing a sale made under a writ issued pursuant to a judgment of a competent court, together with such writ and judgment, constitutes just title which may serve as basis for the prescription of ten years. Leverett v. Loeb, 117 La. 310, 41 So. 584. Though personal jurisdiction of defendant in divorce was not obtained, a sheriff's deed on sale under execution based on personal money judgment for alimony was color of title. Joplin Brew. Co. v. Payne, 197 Mo. 422, 94 S. W. 896.

An act of sale is sufficient to furnish a basis for the operation of the ten-year statute. Railsback v. Leonard [La.] 43 So. 548. Whether the mortgagee and his adjudicatee has examined the title of his debtor, or otherwise informed himself of its defects, is a question of fact, and in the absence of affirmative proof he is entitled for the purpose of the plea of prescription to the benefit of the presumption of good faith. Leverett v. Loeb, 117 La. 310, 41 So. 584.

A tax deed based on a void sale is color. Osceola Land Co. v. Chicago Mill & Lumber Co. [Ark.] 103 S. W. 609.

A will duly recorded is color. Harris v. Howard, 126 Ga. 325, 55 S. E. 59. A will duly recorded devising "all my lands" contained a sufficient description to operate as color of title to land in the county of testator's residence to which he had recorded deeds and deed in possession of. Id.

56. Where one purchased land at a partition sale and the commissioner's deed purported to convey the entire property, and the purchaser took possession of all of it and paid taxes thereon and worked it, the deed gave color of title to all the land. Lang v. Osceola Consol. Min. Co., 145 Mich. 370, 13 Det. Leg. N. 474, 108 N. W. 678. A partition contract defining boundaries and binding the parties to make good any loss to each other under which possession is taken and held is color of title. Stover v. Stover [W. Va.] 54 S. E. 350. One who enters under a deed from an agent who has authority to sell is in adverse possession of which the vendor is presumed to have notice. Godsey v. Standifer [Ky.] 101 S. W. 921.

57. To serve as a basis for prescription the title need not be recorded. Registry is required only for transferring the property and in the law of prescription the title does not operate to transfer the property but merely to establish the good faith of the possessor and fix the limits of his possessions. Bernstine v. Leeper [La.] 43 So. 889. Where one was in possession under a donation deed valid on its face based on a sale of lands forfeited to the state in 1882, he was entitled to hold the land in the absence of evidence impeaching such deed. Wade v. Goza, 78 Ark. 7, 96 S. W. 338. Where one who claims under a defective sheriff's deed is not in actual possession, he cannot rely on the deed as color of title. Dixon v. Hunter [Mo.] 102 S. W. 970.

58. A quitclaim deed given by one not shown to have title, not sealed as required by law, and acknowledged in a county other than where the land was located, is color of title. Perkins Land & Lumber Co. v. Irvin, 200 Mo. 485, 98 S. W. 580.

59. A tax deed is color of title. Morgan v. Pott [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 717. A deed based on a void tax sale describing the land and purporting to convey it constitutes color. Bradbury v. Dumond [Ark.] 96 S. W. 330. A void tax deed is sufficient upon which to base a title by adverse possession. Gilbert v. Southern Land & Timber Co. [Fla.] 43 So. 754.

60. A deed void because not joined in by the grantor's husband is color of title. Southern R. Co. v. Hayes [Ala.] 43 So. 487. A void tax deed. McCash v. Penrod, 131 Iowa, 631, 109 N. W. 180. A deed is color of title though it does not appear that the grantor therein had any title. Hoyle v. Mann, 144 Ala. 516, 41 So. 835.

61. Where when one became a bankrupt he was owner of certain land and thereafter while title was in his assignee in bankruptcy he took title to adjoining land from another under a deed which included the original strip, held such deed constituted color of title and he acquired title by adverse possession. Ledoux v. Samuels, 102 N. Y. S. 43. A deed executed while another is in adverse possession of the land is good as color of title. Hoyle v. Mann, 144 Ala. 516, 41 So. 825.

cient description is not color of title.<sup>61</sup> Good faith is sometimes deemed essential to color of title.<sup>62</sup> Color of title is not essential<sup>63</sup> except to extend the title acquired beyond the limits of actual possession.<sup>64</sup>

61. A deed which is void both as a conveyance and color of title because of insufficient description is not admissible to show title in the grantee though he entered into possession of some land thereunder. Whitehead v. Pitts [Ga.] 56 S. E. 1004. A deed describing land different from that claimed is not translatiive of title and does not furnish a basis for operation of the ten-year statute. Albert Hanson Lumber Co. v. Angelloz [La.] 43 So. 529.

62. Knowledge by entryman that his first entry has been rejected does not impute bad faith to a taking of possession on advice of counsel under a second entry which was subsequently canceled without his knowledge. Iowa R. Land Co. v. Blumer, 206 U. S. 482, 51 Law. Ed. 1148.

63. Bradbury v. Dumond [Ark.] 96 S. W. 390.

64. Bradbury v. Dumond [Ark.] 96 S. W. 390. In order to constitute a deed color of title the grantee must have taken possession of some part of the land described claiming title to the whole. Henry v. Frohlichstein [Ala.] 43 So. 126. Where there was a hiatus in the chain of title under which one claimed the defect was fatal to his claim of adverse possession as to land claimed under color of title. Morgan v. Pott [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 717.

65. See 7 C. L. 52.

66. Kirby's Dig. § 5057, providing that payment of taxes under color of title to wild land is possession, does not apply where part of the particular tract is improved and occupied by another. Wheeler v. Foote [Ark.] 97 S. W. 447. A statute providing that unimproved and uninclosed land shall be deemed to be in the possession of the person who pays taxes does not apply where part of the tract is improved and occupied by another. Connerly v. Dickinson [Ark.] 99 S. W. 82.

67. Acts 1889, p. 117, c. 66, provides that unimproved land shall be deemed to be in the possession of one who pays taxes for seven years, and that at least three of the payments must have been made subsequent to the statute. Held one invoking the statute has the burden to prove that the land was unimproved in order to bring the payments within the operation of the statute. Gaither v. Gage [Ark.] 100 S. W. 80.

68. Under Acts 1899, p. 117, providing that unimproved and uninclosed land is deemed to be in the possession of one who pays taxes for seven years, the possession begins from the first payment and continues though he subsequently takes actual possession. Gaither v. Gage [Ark.] 100 S. W. 80.

69. The fact that lands were assessed to a certain person was not proof that he had paid taxes thereon as an evidence of ownership to establish a claim of adverse possession. Kennedy v. Sanders [Miss.] 43 So. 913.

70. Taxes must be paid for seven years. Osceola Land Co. v. Chicago Mill & Lumber Co. [Ark.] 103 S. W. 609.

71. Under Kirby's Dig. § 5057, there must be payment of taxes on vacant land for seven successive years, and the person claiming must have had color of title during an entire period of seven years. Updegraff v. Marked Tree Lumber Co. [Ark.] 103 S. W. 606.

72. See 7 C. L. 52.

73. Where one has no color of title, he acquires title only to the area of land actually in his possession. Grant v. Oregon Nav. Co. [Or.] 90 P. 178. One who claims under the ten-year statute by naked possession cannot extend such possession by construction unless he has maintained an open claim to a well defined, larger survey of which his actual possession forms a part, or has maintained a claim to a well defined tract. Rice's Ex'r v. Goolsbee [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1031. Evidence insufficient to show that one entering a survey exceeding 160 acres, and taking actual possession of a small portion of the tract, held constructive possession of any land in the survey outside his enclosure. Id. One cannot enter on a survey exceeding 160 acres and by actual possession of a small tract of it and a maintained assertion of a general and indefinite claim to 160 acres, for ten years, become entitled to select 160 acres out of a larger survey or have the court select it for him. Id.

74. Actual possession of part of a tract under color of title to the whole in general constitutes possession of the whole as to lands of the state as against persons not lawfully claiming under it. Green v. Pen-

the title until invalid by actual occupancy of a portion of the tract.<sup>76</sup> This rule does not apply as between intruders.<sup>77</sup> Where two patents to state land conflict and the junior patentee takes possession of the strip within the interlock, claiming the whole within the boundary, he thereby ousts the senior patentee of his constructive seisin and becomes actually possessed to the extent of his grant.<sup>78</sup> But if his settlement be outside the interlock, he only acquires possession of that part of the land within his boundaries and without the interlock.<sup>79</sup>

nington, 105 Va. 801, 54 S. E. 877. Actual possession of a portion of a tract under a tax deed extends to the entire tract where the residue is not in the actual possession of another. Jones v. Pond & Decker Mfg. Co., 79 Ark. 194, 96 S. W. 756. The fact that one owning a survey had the lines run when he acquired title and continued in actual possession of a portion of the tract paying taxes and claiming title to the extent of the boundaries gives him constructive possession of all land within the true boundaries of the survey. Davidson v. Equitable Securities Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 95, 96 S. W. 787. One who enters under a deed duly recorded and improves or encloses a portion of the tract is in actual possession to the extent of his enclosure and in constructive possession as to the remainder of the tract. Id. Possession of twenty acres of a quarter section under a donation deed gives constructive possession coextensive with the limits of the grant. Connerly v. Dickinson [Ark.] 99 S. W. 82.

Occupancy through a tenant of part of a tract under color of title to the whole gives the occupant title to the whole. Wheeler v. Foote [Ark.] 97 S. W. 447. Proof of adverse possession against a patent must show actual, adverse, and uninterrupted possession to a well defined boundary. Kountze v. Hatfield, 30 Ky. L. R. 589, 99 S. W. 262. In an action to establish adverse possession against a patent, the court should define adverse possession and charge that the patentee was owner of all land within the description of the patent except the tract which had been held adversely by another for the statutory period. Id. Under Rev. St. 1895, arts. 3343, 3344, a trespasser cannot acquire title to more than 160 acres, but one who takes possession and holds under a deed or memorandum duly recorded has possession coextensive with the description in the instrument. State Nat. Bk. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 454. Under Sayle's Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 3344, adverse possession may extend to an entire tract of 160 acres though all of it is not enclosed. Webb v. Lyerla [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 199, 94 S. W. 1095. A deed from husband and wife of the wife's land purporting to be the deed of the husband, together with deeds from other heirs, duly recorded, was sufficient to authorize recovery by the grantee to the extent of the boundaries of the tract described under the ten-year statute, though the deed was defectively acknowledged by the wife. State Nat. Bk. v. Roberts [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 454.

75. Constructive possession exists where a person having paper title to a tract is in actual possession of a part only of it. Hence adjacent owners may be in constructive possession of the same land which is included in the boundaries of both tracts. In such case adverse possession runs in favor of neither. Harriss v. Howard, 126 Ga. 325, 55 S. E. 59.

76. An actual occupancy of a part of a contiguous tract owned by another does not oust the possession of the true owner even though both tracts be described in the same instrument. Hardie v. Investment Guaranty Trust Co. [Ark.] 98 S. W. 701. Where two persons each claim title to an entire tract by adverse possession and each was in actual possession of a portion of the tract claiming title to the whole by constructive possession, neither could claim as against the other land of which he was not in possession. Morris v. Jacks [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 764, 96 S. W. 637.

77. The principal that an owner in actual possession of a portion of a tract claiming title to the whole has constructive possession of all land not actually possessed by an intruder, though his actual possession is not within the limits of the deed under which the intruder claims, does not apply as between two intruders. Morris v. Jacks [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 764, 96 S. W. 637.

78, 79. Green v. Pennington, 105 Va. 801, 54 S. E. 877.

80. See 7 C. L. 53.

81. Possession of defendant in ejectment required in order to sustain such action under Rev. St. 1899, § 3056, need not be sufficient to sustain adverse possession. Hunter v. Wethington [Mo.] 103 S. W. 543.

Occasional breaks in an inclosure will not destroy the character of the possession. Where a river forming a part of the inclosure went dry at times. Dunn v. Taylor [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 669, 94 S. W. 347.

Evidence sufficient to show adverse possession within Code Civ. Proc. §§ 369, 370. Freedman v. Oppenheim [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 841.

Evidence insufficient to show adverse use of the waters of a stream for the statutory period. Burson v. Percy [Neb.] 110 N. W. 544. Evidence sufficient to show that occupancy was by sufferance and not under a claim of ownership. Page v. Bellamy, 222 Ill. 556, 78 N. E. 938. Evidence insufficient where it appeared that all that was done was to pay taxes, that there was no building on the land, that scows and houseboats tied up there, but were not used continuously. Seabrook v. Coos Bay Ice Co. [Or.] 89 P. 417.

Possession held sufficient: Evidence sufficient to show adverse possession where one improved, fenced, and sowed land. Vanderbilt v. Johnson, 141 N. C. 370, 54 S. E. 298.

In the absence of a license which precludes the possibility of a claim of adverse possession, or the execution of an agreement in accordance with law granting the right of occupancy for a fixed period, the placing of a permanent structure on the land of another constitutes adverse and hostile possession under which title may be claimed after twenty-one years. McCleery v. Alton, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 481. Evidence sufficient to show hostile and adverse possession where the land was platted as part of an addition to a city, stakes driven to mark lot boundaries, plats filed for record, and taxes paid by occupants, and that there was general recognition of the occupant's ownership. Northern Pac. R. Co. v. Spokane [Wash.] 88 P. 135. Evidence sufficient to show that one who had been in possession for thirty years with the knowledge of others who might have an interest in the property and who had made improvements had acquired title. Morris v. Morris, 99 N. Y. S. 964. Where the description of land shows the boundary line to be a straight line, it is established by the wall of a permanent building standing for the statutory period even though the building does not extend the entire length of the boundary. The occupancy was such as to give notice of the extent of the adverse claim. Wilson v. Sidle, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 465.

Cutting wood and grass, pasturing cattle, etc., are regarded as acts tending to show adverse possession, but such acts must be exclusive and continued for twenty years. Nevin v. Disharoon [Del.] 66 A. 362. Pasturing land, taking timber from it, clearing a portion of it (an island), and having had possession and owned land on both sides of it for fifty years, held sufficient. Wall v. Wall, 142 N. C. 387, 55 S. E. 283. A railroad which lays out a right of way 200 feet wide and maintains it to that width by keeping it clear of trees and undergrowth acquires title to such width though its grant is only of a "right of way." Bennett v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co., 126 Ga. 411, 55 S. E. 177. Where adverse possession was asserted by one cotenant against another, an instruction that it was not necessary that the occupation should be such that a mere stranger passing would see that some one was in possession claiming title to the whole section, but that it was sufficient if those in the neighborhood appreciated that he was in possession and claimed title. Rich v. Victoria Copper Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 380. To establish a prescriptive right in the public to use a strip of land as part of a highway where no act has been done by the owner or public to indicate that the same is part of the highway, it must appear that a well defined line of travel has existed over the property for at least 15 years, and that the use by the public has been adverse, continuous, and with the knowledge of the owner. City of Chicago v. Galt, 224 Ill. 421, 79 N. C. 701. To acquire title under the twenty-year statute it is essential that the occupancy be under a claim of ownership. Page v. Bellamy, 222 Ill. 556, 78 N. E. 938.

Payment of taxes for ten years together with actual use and cultivation of the land is a strong circumstance tending to show adverse possession and sufficient to support a finding that the party held under a claim of ownership. Dredla v. Patz [Neb.] 111 N. W. 136. Where a mortgage foreclosure proceeding was prosecuted to judgment, but there was no sale but the mortgagee went into possession, held that he held adversely. Becker v. McCrea, 103 N. Y. S. 963. The possession of one who entered under parol gift to be adverse must be accompanied by a claim of right and hostility to the donor's title. Gillispie v. Gillispie [Ala.] 43 So. 12. The occupation of pine land by annually making turpentine on it is such an actual possession as will oust a constructive possession by one claiming merely under a superior paper title. Richbourg v. Rose [Fla.] 44 So. 69. Where land was enclosed by a fence on all sides except where bounded by impassable water barriers, and such fences were maintained for many years to restrain cattle, and all taxes on the land were paid, held sufficient to show title by adverse possession under both the five and ten-year statutes. Loring v. Jackson [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 19. Where at the time one acquired title to his inclosure it contained a portion of an adjoining railroad's right of way, and he held it adversely for fifteen years, the rights of the railroad company were barred. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 101 S. W. 317.

Held insufficient: Encroachments over the line of mere ornamental fixtures held not adverse possession. Van Horn v. Stuyvesant, 50 Misc. 432, 100 N. Y. S. 547. Adverse possession of a mine is not initiated by sinking deeper by six or eight feet a shaft of un-stated depth already existing. Costello v. Muheim [Ariz.] 84 P. 906. Evidence insufficient to show adverse possession under color of title where one went into possession as a squatter, acquired a deed and had it recorded only a few days prior to suit brought against him, had paid no taxes, and cleared only five acres in twelve years. Hunter v. Wethington [Mo.] 103 S. W. 543. Where the lessor of a lot had no title to a strip thereof, the construction thereon of a sidewalk was not adverse possession under the twelve-year statute. Miller v. O'Leary [Wash.] 87 P. 113.

Hunting, fishing, and trapping on land useless for any other purpose where it appeared that other persons had enjoyed it in these respects also held insufficient to show adverse possession. Austin v. Minor [Va.] 57 S. E. 609. An instruction that to support title by adverse possession the possession must have been actual, open, notorious, and exclusive, and where possession was of such a small tract that a reasonably prudent owner would not have notice that his lands were included, the possession would be insufficient as to lands outside the inclosure was proper. Lawrence v. Alabama State Land Co., 144 Ala. 524, 41 So. 612. An instruction that if the evidence failed to show that a sufficient portion of lands was enclosed by a person claiming title by adverse possession, that would give notice to a reasonably prudent owner that the inclosure included a portion of his lands, such inclosure would not be sufficiently notorious to extend possession outside the inclosure, was not erroneous as going beyond the rule of notoriety. Id. The doctrine of constructive possession of an entire tract by a cultivation of a part accompanied by color of title to the whole does not apply to large tracts not purchased for cultivation, nor where one cultivates a few acres in an uncultivated township for the purpose of claiming the entire township. Id. Proof of payment of taxes for eleven years raises no presumption of possession during such period. Lutcher v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 149, 95 S. W. 572. Mere payment of taxes is insufficient. Overton v. Overton, 29 Ky. L. R. 736, 96 S. W. 469.

Occasionally cutting timber from land is insufficient. Auxier v. Herald, 29 Ky. L. R. 1093, 96 S. W. 915. An open and notorious claim of ownership for a long time does not raise a presumption of law that there has been a conveyance. Poland v. Porter [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 214.

Mere cutting of timber, selling others the right to do so, and pasturing the land, do not amount to adverse possession though done under color and claim of title. Crain v. Peterman, 200 Mo. 295, 98 S. W. 600.

Payment of taxes, occasional cutting of timber, and employing others to prevent trespass. Connerly v. Dickenson [Ark.] 99 S. W. 82. Evidence that one who purchased a tax title cut timber on the land to the extent of several hundred cords, and that no one except himself did cut timber after he acquired the tax title, held insufficient where such cutting was not all done upon a continuous incursion nor by many continuous trespasses. Earle Improvement Co. v. Chatfield [Ark.] 99 S. W. 84.

Obtaining conveyances of land does not constitute adverse holding. Collingsworth v. Enterprise Land, Mineral & Lumber Co., 30 Ky. L. R. 467, 99 S. W. 234. Where minerals underlying the surface have been severed from the land by conveyance, possession of the surface is not possession of the minerals. Gordon v. Park [Mo.] 100 S. W. 621.

Actual possession, use, and enjoyment is insufficient. Earnest v. Lake [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 479. Under Sayle's Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 3346, providing that possession by one owning or claiming 5,000 acres or more enclosed by a fence in connection therewith or adjoining thereto shall not be in peaceable and adverse possession under the ten-year statute unless the land belonging to another is segregated by a fence from the adjoining lands or unless one-tenth thereof is cultivated, held, where 555 acres was included in an inclosure containing 10,000 acres belonging to various parties, and there was no segregation as required, possession for ten years was insufficient. Plack v. Branan [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 537. Where one entered land not knowing where the boundaries were or who owned it, never listed it for taxation nor paid taxes, but simply claimed that he had more right to it than any one else, his possession was not adverse. Heckescher v. Cooper [Mo.] 101 S. W. 658.

Cutting timber, paying taxes, and protecting the land from trespass is insufficient where there was no color of title. Morgan v. Pott [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 717. Where one without deed or right entered 320 acres intending to acquire it by limitation, cleared and fenced 40 acres, and claimed the entire tract until he was told that he could acquire only 160 acres, whereupon he claimed only the south half but never had it surveyed. He had 40 acres surveyed and paid taxes on it but on no more of the land. He admitted that his claim had been merely mental until within two or three years. Held not to show adverse possession to more than 40 acres. White v. Eavenson [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1029. The fact that one who claimed land by adverse possession camped upon it for the purpose of hunting and on his return after an absence found certain buildings erected on the land without evidence of who erected them does not show an adverse occupation. Nona Mills Co. v. Wright [Tex.] 102 S. W. 1118.

Mere occupancy of a tract of wild land for camping and hunting purposes is insufficient. Nona Mills Co. v. Wright [Tex.] 102 S. W. 1118. Where the fee owner built and maintained fences across a highway for twenty years and for thirteen years maintained a stable on the inclosed land the public continuing to pass without hindrance, did not show adverse possession. Nelson v. Randolph, 222 Ill. 531, 78 N. E. 914.

Mere living on land and cultivating it at times for short periods only is insufficient. Overton v. Overton, 29 Ky. L. R. 736, 96 S. W. 469.

82. See post, § 13.

83. Adverse user of a way for twenty years conclusively shows an abandonment to the public. Riverside Tp. v. Pennsylvania R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 66 A. 433. Where trustees of a church go into possession under a void deed and hold possession for twenty years, they acquire title. Regents of University v. Calvary M. E. Church South Trustees [Md.] 65 A. 398; Dickerson v. Franklin Street Presbyterian Church Trustees [Md.] 66 A. 494. Where one offers to dedicate land for a public park but continues in possession, excluding the public for twenty years, he acquires title. Canton Co. v. Baltimore [Md.] 66 A. 679. Where land is claimed by dedication, the fact that the owner in a mortgage excepted such tract and referred to it as dedicated does not interfere with his claim of title by adverse possession where he occupied it for over thirty years after the date of the mortgage, and it did not appear that the dedication was ever accepted. Id. Where one took possession of a lot belonging to a city and used it for twenty years, and the lines were marked by city officials and he paid taxes on it for six years, held he acquired title. Baltimore City v. Rowe [Md.] 67 A. 93. One who was in adverse possession for twenty-five years before action brought to recover the land had title by limitations. Hudson v. Stillwell [Ark.] 98 S. W. 356.

84. See 7 C. L. 55.

85. A plea that the defendant states that the cause of action if cause of action it be did not accrue within seven years next prior to commencement of the action, and the defendant here sets up, etc., sufficiently pleads the statute. McKewen v. Allen [Ark.] 96 S. W. 392. "Defendants, for a further defense,

Evidence.<sup>86</sup>—Every presumption is indulged in favor of a possession in subordination to the title of the true owner,<sup>87</sup> and one who asserts title by adverse possession has the burden to prove it<sup>88</sup> by clear and positive evidence.<sup>89</sup> The evidence plead the statute of limitations of 20 years adverse possession under known and visible lines and boundaries in such cases provided as a bar to plaintiff's recovery" sufficiently pleads the statute. Duckworth v. Duckworth [N. C.] 57 S. E. 396.

<sup>87</sup>. The law will not presume that the possession is adverse, but every presumption is in favor of possession in subordination to the title of the true owner. Johanson v. Atlantic City R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 64 A. 1061. Every presumption is in favor of a possession in subordination to the title of the true owner and an adverse possession must be established by clear and positive proof. Gilbert v. Southern Land & Timber Co. [Fla.] 43 So. 754.

Alabama State Land Co.*, 114 Ala. 524, 41 So. 612; Pennington v. Underwood, 59 W. Va. 340, 53 S. E. 465. One who asserts a prescriptive right to flow lands has the burden to prove it. Dutton v. Stoughton [Vt.] 65 A. 91. Claimant must show adverse possession by preponderance of evidence. Morrison v. Bomer, 195 Mo. 535, 94 S. W. 524. Where in ejectment the defense of adverse possession is based on a mixed possession by both parties, the right of possession is in the one who shows legal title. Nevin v. Disharoon [Del.] 66 A. 362.

<sup>89</sup>. Where the evidence offered to establish adverse possession is uncertain as to the date when the acts constituting adverse possession were commenced, and it does not clearly appear that they were commenced seven years prior to action brought by the record owner, a verdict for the record owner will not be disturbed. Gilbert v. Southern Land & Timber Co. [Fla.] 43 So. 754.

Evidence sufficient. Daniels v. Murray [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 425; Clay City Nat. Bank v. Townsend, 30 Ky. L. R. 1219, 100 S. W. 1196; Blackburn v. Hall, 30 Ky. L. R. 134, 97 S. To show that a county had acquired title by adverse possession. City of Victoria v. Victoria County [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 873, 94 S. W. 368. It is sufficient that a defendant claiming title by adverse possession prove by a preponderance of the evidence that his building which stands in part on his own land and in part on the disputed strip covers exactly the same and no more ground than it has covered for twenty-one years, and he should not be required by the charge of the court to establish this fact by "clear" proof. Heller v. Hawley, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 265. Where one tenant in common executes a deed to the entire premises, the possession of the purchaser thereunder is adverse to other cotenants. Gulf Red Cedar Lumber Co. v. Crenshaw [Ala.] 42 So. 564. Where one entered under color of title and held possession for fifteen years, he acquired title by adverse possession. Interstate Coal & Iron

Co. v. Clintwood Coal & Timber Co., 105 Va. 574, 54 S. E. 593. Where one in possession conveyed by quitclaim deed to another who took possession under color of title and held open and notorious possession, paid taxes, and made valuable improvements for five years, he acquired title by adverse possession. Little v. Crawford [Idaho] 88 P. 974. Where one was in actual possession in good faith under a tax deed and conveyances from the common source as color of title and had paid taxes for nine years, she acquired title. Laws v. Newkirk [Colo.] 88 P. 861. Evidence sufficient to show that one purchased land in 1860, at once took possession, and thereafter exercised acts of exclusive ownership over the land. Cornett v. Moore, 30 Ky. L. R. 280, 97 S. W. 380. Evidence sufficient to show that title had been acquired where the claimant had been in possession under color of title and had paid taxes. Samuel & Jessie Kenney Presbyterian Home v. Kenney [Wash.] 88 P. 108. Evidence sufficient to show that one had been in adverse possession of a strip of land under the eaves of his barn for the statutory period. Weeks v. Upton, 99 Minn. 410, 109 N. W. 828. Evidence sufficient to show that a city had acquired a prescriptive right to a strip of land as part of a highway. City of Chicago v. Galt, 224 Ill. 421, 79 N. E. 701.

Evidence insufficient. Taylor v. Doom [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 172, 95 S. W. 4; McMahon v. Yazoo Delta Lumber Co. [Miss.] 43 So. 957; Dahlem v. Abbott [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 894, 110 N. W. 47; Miller v. Tyson [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1199. Evidence insufficient to show that the owner of the paper title to underlying minerals had been divested of his title by adverse possession. Gordon v. Park [Mo.] 100 S. W. 621. Evidence that a person bought an improvement, went into possession, and claimed 60 acres of a league claimed by a company; that an agent of the company agreed to give him 160 acres if he would look after the entire league; that before the five years expired he sold his interest to another, held insufficient to show possession in the company during the possession of successive holders of the improvement within the five and ten-year statutes. Wright v. Nona Mills Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 620, 98 S. W. 917. Evidence insufficient to show adverse possession where one went into possession under a purchase of improvements on land believing that it belonged to the government. He subsequently learned that another person had title and offered to purchase from him. It did not appear that such third person was ever advised that the occupant claimed adversely. Held insufficient to show adverse possession as against him. Missouri Lumber & Mining Co. v. Jewell, 200 Mo. 707, 98 S. W. 578. Evidence insufficient to show that defendant held actual possession of an entire quarter section, notwithstanding possession of another portion of the same survey by another person. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Haynes [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 422, 97 S. W. 849. Evidence insufficient to give title under either the five or ten-year statutes. Mann v. Hossack [Tex. Civ. App.]

must suffice to bound or define the area possessed,<sup>90</sup> and establish all the essential elements.<sup>91</sup> The question as to whether one holds adversely is generally one of fact.<sup>92</sup> The law presumes a grant from adverse possession for the statutory period,<sup>93</sup> but such presumption is not conclusive where the possession relied upon is for less than the statutory period or is of a mixed character.<sup>94</sup> Evidence of all acts of the claimant tending to show the extent<sup>95</sup> and nature of his claim<sup>96</sup> is admissible.

16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 835, 96 S. W. 767. The rights of the legal owner of land not held adversely are not affected by his mere non-claim for several years, or failure to pay taxes, or the payment of taxes by another claiming under a void deed. Hunter v. Hodgson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 110, 95 S. W. 637. Evidence insufficient to show that possession under a parol gift was adverse to the donor's title. Gillespie v. Gillespie [Ala.] 43 So. 12. Evidence insufficient to show adverse possession of a public road. Perry v. Staple [Neb.] 110 N. W. 652. Evidence insufficient to show adverse possession where one cotenant of wild land permitted it to be pastured without the other cotenant's consent. No particular thing was done, however, during subsequent years and the land was assessed as nonresident and vacant. The claimant paid taxes for some years and bid off the land or purchased from others at tax sales. Rich v. Victoria Copper Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 380.

90. Smith v. Combs, 29 Ky. L. R. 731, 96 S. W. 1134. Where one relies on actual possession of a portion of a tract without color of title, he has the burden to identify the portion of which he was possessed. Whitehead v. Pitts [Ga.] 56 S. E. 1004.

91. One claiming by adverse possession has the burden to prove actual adverse and continuous possession. Gaither v. Gage & Co. [Ark.] 100 S. W. 80. He must prove that persons against whom he asserts his rights were not under disability during the prescriptive period. Dees Bros. v. Harrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1093. Where one claimed by adverse possession the entire title to land which he previously owned in common with another who had been in rightful possession, the burden was on him to prove that his possession was accompanied by tortious and disloyal acts so as to preclude all doubt as to the character of his holding or of notice thereof to his cotenant. Rich v. Victoria Copper Min. Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 380.

92. Henry v. Frohlichstein [Ala.] 43 So. 126; Ball v. Loughridge, 30 Ky. L. R. 1123, 100 S. W. 275. Where there was some evidence of adverse possession for the statutory period, it was not error to refuse to take the case from the jury. Gordon v. Park [Mo.] 100 S. W. 621. The uncontradicted testimony of two witnesses as to the fact of adverse possession does not require a finding of adverse possession. Hunter v. Wethington [Mo.] 103 S. W. 543. Where when one predecessor in title went into possession an old spring was located on adjoining land from which water was taken by him. Some time later he dug a well and when the land was conveyed asserted that the grantee gave him a right to use the well. Held a question of fact whether such use was adverse. Wells v. Parker [N. H.] 66 A. 121. Where one adjacent owner asserted title by adverse possession and the true owner alleged that such possession was under an agreement to surrender when the true line was determined, and the testimony was conflicting as to the terms of the agreement, the question was for the jury, as the plaintiff had the burden to prove it. Crosby v. First Presbyterian Church of El Paso [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 584. Evidence as to the good faith of an occupant's claim held for the jury. Perkins Land & Lumber Co. v. Irvin, 200 Mo. 485, 98 S. W. 580. The presumption of grant arising from possession is one for the jury. Carlisle v. Gibbs [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 405, 98 S. W. 192. Evidence as to whether there was an ouster by one cotenant so as to give title by adverse possession held for the jury. Hamby v. Folsam [Ala.] 42 So. 548. Whether one had acquired title held a question for the jury where his ancestor had been in possession for several years, and thereafter employed persons to look over the land and paid taxes thereon. McCreary v. Jackson Lumber Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 822. Question of adverse possession held for the jury where evidence was conflicting. Theodore Land Co. v. Lyon [Ala.] 41 So. 682. Question as to whether one held adversely held for the jury where a plaintiff in a suit to recover the land testified that a short time before the action was brought the claimant stated that he did not claim the land, but the claimant testified that he did not make such statement. Lawrence v. Alabama State Land Co., 144 Ala. 524, 41 So. 612.

93. Adverse possession for twenty years gives title. Nevin v. Disharoon [Del.] 66 A. 362. The law presumes title from such fact. Id. It is error to refuse to charge in an action against an adverse claimant that, "If the plaintiff has not derived his chain of title to the land in dispute by a chain of conveyances from the government, or from a grantor proved to have been in possession of the land in dispute when he executed the conveyance therefor, your verdict should be for the defendant." Heller v. Hawley, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 265. The right to maintain the projection of the eaves of a building over the land of another becomes absolute at the end of twenty-one years equally with the right to maintain a foundation or superstructure. McCleery v. Alton, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 481.

statute is complete, it is a circumstance tending to show recognition to title in the vendors and that his possession was not adverse. Hughes v. Wright [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 122, 97 S. W. 525. Where one disclaimed title to property in his return of property for taxation, such disclaimer operated as a waiver of his claim by adverse possession as against the city. Baltimore City v. Rowe [Md.] 67 A. 93. Where one had title by adverse possession, the fact that after judgment against her in an action for broker's services with reference to the property, where the purchaser refused to complete the sale because of a defect in her title, she did not immediately bring suit to quiet title, did not show want of good faith. Laws v. Newkirk [Colo.] 88 P. 861. Where a county claimed land as against a city, different orders of the commissioner's court with reference to such property through a series of years were admissible to show exercise of authority by the county over such property. City of Victoria v. Victoria County [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 873, 94 S. W. 368. A map on which the property in question was designated as "Court House Square," which had been in the possession of the county for 17 years, was admissible. Id. An assessor's inventory in his own handwriting is admissible to show that a taxpayer did not claim certain land under a statute requiring the taxpayer to subscribe an oath attached to the inventory. Webb v. Lyerla [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 199, 94 S. W. 1095.

97. See 7 C. L. 56.

98. Where evidence showed that one had been in possession for the statutory period and afterward acknowledged another title by offering to purchase it, an instruction that if he recognized a superior title before the period had run he did not hold adversely on the weight of evidence. Shirey v. Whitlow [Ark.] 97 S. W. 444.

99. An instruction that possession must have been "peaceable, distinct, notorious, continued, and hostile," and an appropriation "actual, open, peaceable, under a claim of right inconsistent with the rights of the true owner, and must disseise the owner," is erroneous under a statute requiring actions for the recovery of land in the peaceable and adverse possession of another to be brought within ten years, "peaceable possession" being defined as "continuous and not interrupted by adverse suit," and "adverse possession" as the visible appropriation of land held under a claim inconsisent and hostile to another's. Logan v. Meade [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 158, 98 S. W. 210.

1. See 7 C. L. 57.

2. Where an adverse possession has continued for a sufficient length of time so that all remedies of the owner are barred, such possession divests the original owner of his title and vests it in the occupant. Nash v. Northwest Land Co. [N. D.] 108 N. W. 792. One claiming title to land in the adverse possession of another cannot as against such occupant make a dedication of such land. Bruce v. Seaboard Air Line Ry. [Fla.] 41 So. 883. In an action for recovery of possession of land from a defendant claiming title by adverse possession, it is error to admit evidence which forces on him a claim of title coming from the common source of title. Heller v. Hawley, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 265. Performance of the requisites of the five-year statute will vest the claimant with title. Stubblefield v. Hanson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 36, 94 S. W. 406.

3. A purchaser at tax sale in good faith who has a title from the proper officer, valid in form, and who has possessed by himself and another for ten years has acquired an indefeasible title. Soniat v. Donovan [La.] 43 So. 462. Where one had acquired title by adverse possession, the fact that his grantor had made no claim to certain underlying minerals was immaterial. Interstate Coal & Iron Co. v. Clintwood Coal & Timber Co., 105 Va. 574, 54 S. E. 593.

4. Nash v. Northwest Land Co. [N. D.] 108 N. W. 792.

5. Where one has acquired title by adverse possession, a mere recognition of some other title does not revest the title acquired. Shirey v. Whitlow [Ark.] 97 S. W. 444. A subsequent act recognizing the validity of another's claim does not operate to reinvest the title in him. Hudson v. Stillwell [Ark.] 98 S. W. 356. A title acquired by adverse possession is not vitiated by subsequent acceptance of a deed thereto from a third person. Nor does such acceptance estop him to deny that the title was in such third person. Levi v. Mathews [C. C. A.] 145 F. 152.

6. Stumpe v. Kopp [Mo.] 99 S. W. 1073.

7. An act done by one who claims under grant or inheritance from one who acquired title by limitations is not important for any purpose. Hudson v. Stillwell [Ark.] 98 S. W. 356.

AFFIDAVITS.

Who may take.<sup>8</sup>—Affidavits may be taken before any official authorized by law to take them.<sup>9</sup> They should be taken by persons not interested in the outcome of the proceeding in which they are to be used.<sup>10</sup>

Form and requisites.<sup>11</sup>—Judicial notice is taken of the seals of notaries.<sup>12</sup> It is presumed that an officer who takes an affidavit acted within the scope of his authority,<sup>13</sup> hence, omission of the venue is not a fatal defect,<sup>14</sup> nor is the omission of a notarial seal in the absence of a statute requiring the jurat to be so attested;<sup>15</sup> but under the statutes of Nebraska an affidavit must have attached the certificate of the officer before whom taken that the oath was administered by such officer.<sup>16</sup> Failure of the notary to certify when his term of office will expire does not render the affidavit ineffective.<sup>17</sup> In Alabama a statute permits a notary of another state to take affidavits therein for use in Alabama authenticating his act under his own seal without proof of his authority.<sup>18</sup>

AFFIDAVITS OF MERITS OF CLAIM OR DEFENSE.<sup>21</sup>

The occasion and necessity of affidavits of claim and defense is governed by statute or rule of court.<sup>22</sup> They are designed to clear the issues and prevent sham and frivolous pleading or predicate a default if defense be not made.<sup>23</sup> The right in Pennsylvania to take judgment for the amount admittedly due and to proceed on the remainder is restricted to such as is clearly admitted.<sup>24</sup> An amendment does not necessarily require a new affidavit.<sup>25</sup> The plaintiff's affidavit which cuts off jury trial is to be strictly construed while defendant's is to be liberally con-

9. Under Code 1896, § 923, giving circuit court clerks power to take affidavits, a deputy may make a jurat to an affidavit in his own name. Southern R. Co. v. Hundley [Ala.] 44 So. 195. It is presumed that a deputy clerk in whose name a jurat was made was a de jure deputy. Id.

10. It is not commendable practice for one of the solicitors of record in a suit in chancery, especially where an injunction is sought, to have the affidavits of his client or of other parties to be used in the cause sworn to before himself as an official empowered to administer oaths. Savage v. Parker [Fla.] 43 So. 507. It is improper for affiant's solicitor to act as notary in taking an affidavit. McBride v. People, 127 Ill. App. 344.

20. Under Laws 1896, p. 609, amended by Laws 1903, p. 978, and Code Civ. Proc. § 844, an affidavit taken in another state with the certificate duly annexed, and where it appears that the notary was duly commissioned and qualified to take acknowledgments to be recorded in that state, is admissible in evidence in a New York court. Isman v. Wayburn, 104 N. Y. S. 491. Under Code 1896, § 1799, providing that affidavits required in a suit may be taken outside the state before a notary who shall certify under his hand and seal, it is no objection to the admission of a verified account that the notary outside the state cannot administer an oath unless authorized to do so by the state of his residence. Owensboro Wagon Co. v. Hall [Ala.] 43 So. 71; Connellsville Gas Coal Co. v. Baltimore & O. R. Co. [Pa.] 65 A. 669.

strued.<sup>26</sup> The plaintiff cannot turn his affidavit into a pleading, and by anticipating a defense force defendant to a specific denial thereof.<sup>27</sup> The statement of claim must embrace all the facts of a cause of action and not mere conclusions thereof.<sup>28</sup> In so far as the affidavit of defense serves also as a demurrer, its defensive allegations do not eke out the affidavit of claim.<sup>29</sup> A positively verified statement of facts within personal knowledge is not impaired by adding an averment of belief.<sup>30</sup> The statement should not be served till after the writ or at the same time, and if served before it may be bad if it fails to identify the court and case.<sup>31</sup> but a defendant who should have taken notice and defended waives his right to open default entered on such service.<sup>32</sup>

An affidavit of defense may be filed at any time before judgment is entered,<sup>33</sup> and a rule of court authorizing the judge to extend the time within which to plead but not to file an affidavit of defense does not authorize the court to enter judgment for plaintiff after an affidavit has been filed.<sup>34</sup> Judgment may not be entered for want of an affidavit of defense if the statement of claim is insufficient to sustain a judgment.<sup>35</sup> It is proper to deny leave to file an affidavit of defense which contains no defense.<sup>36</sup> If the affidavit be made by a stranger, reason for his so doing must be shown.<sup>37</sup> An affidavit of defense setting forth the nature and character of the defense relied on is sufficient.<sup>38</sup> If by any fair construction the affidavit of defense is within the scope of the plea, trial must proceed in ordinary course.<sup>39</sup> It is not tested as strictly as a special plea on demurrer,<sup>40</sup> but it is to be taken most

The statement consisting of a copy of an account must be capable of certain understanding as to what was furnished. Leek v. Livingston Manor Mfg. Co., 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 377.

29. Question whether informal demurrer to plaintiff's statement of claim, contained in affidavit of defense, was improperly overruled is to be determined from inspection of statement alone, question not being whether statement, viewed in light of averments of affidavit of defense, was sufficient to entitle plaintiff to summary judgment. *McGiffin v. 38. Affidavit of defense in an action on a note setting up that there was nothing due thereon held sufficient. Marquis v. McKay [Pa.] 65 A. 678. Where a subcontractor sued a contractor alleging that work was to be paid for on monthly estimates and that the work had been accepted by the city for which it was done, an affidavit of defense denying such facts and alleging that work was not to be paid for until payment was made by the city was sufficient. Vulcanite Pav. Co. v. McNichol, 215 Pa. 100, 64 A. 325. An affidavit of defense in an action on a bond given to protect materialmen, and subcontractors setting forth damage because of failure to deliver material, held sufficient. Brown v. Goweley, 214 Pa. 154, 63 A. 607. Where a landowner delivered a deed in escrow and the person holding it delivered the deed without performance of the conditions, an affidavit of defense denying breach of the conditions was sufficient to prevent judgment. Gochner v. Union Trust Co., 214 Pa. 177, 63 A. 595. Statement of non-delivery of goods held sufficient as a defense of want of consideration of notes sued on. Kessler v. Connor, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 145.

one to deal for his own interest with another's property.<sup>55</sup> Agency is not enlarged into partnership unless all the elements of the latter are present.<sup>56</sup> An engagement to do a purely ministerial<sup>57</sup> or mechanical<sup>58</sup> service is not agency, nor is the operation of plant under lease,<sup>59</sup> and the actual relation of the parties must be judged from a fair construction of the contract and not from the name they give their relation.<sup>60</sup>

(§ 1) B. Creation and existence of the relation.<sup>66</sup>—No particular form of words is necessary to convey the authority or define the agent's powers respecting ordinary chattel property,<sup>67</sup> but writing is sometimes required by statute as in the case of authority to make a contract for the sale of lands.<sup>68</sup> There are a few other

55. Illustrations: Contract that brokers should be compensated by what they got over a sum fixed was agency and not option. Tate v. Aitken [Cal. App.] 90 P. 836. A letter to a person from the defendant that he might sell defendant's land if able to do so within a certain time, the "letter to be an option," created an agency to sell and not an option to buy, especially as the alleged agent assumed to act throughout as agent. Winders v. Hill, 141 N. C. 694, 54 S. E. 440.

56. A contract made by a traveling buyer with a mill corporation providing that the buyer should receive for his services two-fifths of the net profits of the business with a monthly salary payable out of his share of the profits is a contract of agency and not of partnership. Van Duzer v. Zimmerman Lumber Co. [Miss.] 43 So. 177.

57. Where plaintiff employed defendant to sell land and the agent fraudulently made an offer himself and the plaintiff requested a third party to see if a better price could not be obtained and subsequently told the third party to close the original offer, such third party acting purely in ministerial capacity, was not an agent of the plaintiff so that the plaintiff was bound by his knowledge of the defendant's fraud. Storms v. Mundy [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 258.

58. Where a publishing house was employed to manufacture certain books and certain plates for the state in getting out the court reports for which the state paid a certain price upon delivery, this was a special employment and not an agency. State v. State Journal Co. [Neb.] 110 N. W. 763.

59. A contract whereby one street railroad agreed to lease another held not to establish an agency whereby the former company operates as agent for the latter. Moorthead v. United Rys. Co. [Mo.] 100 S. W. 611, affg. 119 Mo. App. 541, 96 S. W. 261.

60. Instrument considered and held to be a conditional sale and not creating an agency for the sale of goods. Bradley, Alderson & Co. v. McAfee, 149 F. 254.

The mere designation of a person as agent does not change the nature of his contract. Defendant agreed to sell all its product to plaintiff who was designated its sole agent within a certain territory, but the contract was held one of sale not agency. Heywood Bros. & Wakefield Co. v. Doernbecher Mfg. Co. [Or.] 86 P. 357.

65. Agent for infant. Jackson v. Gallagher [Ga.] 57 S. E. 750. Insurance agent whose appointment was not filed. Penn. Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Ornauer [Colo.] 90 P. 846. Authority to sell mules and apply the proceeds to the payment of debts need not be in writing. Hirsh & Co. v. Beverly, 125 Ga. 657, 54 S. E. 678. Even where a statute, such as the statute of frauds, requires an instrument to be in writing in order to bind the party, he may, without writing, authorize an agent to sign in his behalf, unless the statute positively requires such authority to be in writing also. Brandon v. Pritchett, 126 Ga. 286, 55 S. E. 241.

67. Lindsley v. McGrath [Mont.] 87 P. 961, citing 5 C. L. 65.

68. California subd. 6, § 1624, Civ. Code. Authority to sell real estate. Davis v. Trachsler [Cal. App.] 86 P. 610. A husband not having written authority from his wife in reference to the sale of land cannot appoint an agent to sell by a written instrument. Kirkpatrick v. Pease [Mo.] 101 S. W. 651. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 3418, where the employment of an agent was not evidenced by a writing signed by the landowner, a written contract of sale made by the broker with a purchaser was unenforceable against the landowner. Young v. Ruhwedel, 119 Mo. App. 231, 96 S. W. 228. Where a real estate broker procures a purchaser according to the terms of a verbal agreement, he is entitled to his commission although the agreement for purchase could not be enforced by the owner. Id. Where the statute requires an agent's authority to sell land to be in writing, yet if the principal admits in open court that the agent was his agent and had authority, there is no necessity for proving that the agent had written authority. Chouteau Land & Lumber Co. v. Chrisman [Mo.] 102 S. W. 973. See Whitworth v. Pool, 29 Ky. L. R. 1104, 96 S. W. 880, where a parole authorization was held sufficient.

instances in which statutes require an agent's authority to be in writing,<sup>69</sup> and in some cases, by statute, the power must be recorded,<sup>70</sup> but a conveyance by an attorney in fact made in pursuance of an unrecorded power is good between the grantor and grantee and those claiming under the grantee.<sup>71</sup> A contract under seal cannot ordinarily be made by an agent in the exercise of an authority resting upon simple contract.<sup>72</sup> Upon the taking over of the principal's business by a corporation and the subsequent practice of dealing with the corporation, a new relation is formed.<sup>73</sup>

If an agency is created by a written instrument, the construction thereof and the determination of the nature and extent of the agent's powers are for the court,<sup>74</sup> and so also is an oral contract when the facts are not in dispute and the inferences from them are not in doubt,<sup>75</sup> but where the fact of agency rests in parol and is a matter of dispute, it is a question for the jury.<sup>76</sup>

Intermediaries and dual agencies.<sup>77</sup>—One person may act for two principals if they consent thereto,<sup>78</sup> but where an agent acts in a dual capacity for both parties to a contract without their consent, the contract is voidable by either party upon discovery<sup>79</sup> and it is not necessary to show injury,<sup>80</sup> but one acting for two separate principals may transact business with a third party without a disclosure of his dual agency to such third party.<sup>81</sup> An intermediary may be agent for one principal in some dealings and for the other in other dealings in the same transactions.<sup>82</sup>

69. By statute in New Jersey leases made by an agent for terms exceeding three years must be in writing signed by the agent whose authority also must be in writing, and where an agent signs a lease without the written authority required by statute, such a lease has the effect of a mere lease at will. Gen. St., p. 1602. Clement v. Young-McShea Amusement Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 67 A. 82. By statute in Missouri it is a misdemeanor for any person in cities of a certain size to offer for sale any property without a written authority. Staehlin v. Höffmeister, 121 Mo. App. 24, 97 S. W. 970. By statute in New York an agent's authority to make a written lease of real estate for more than a year must be in writing. Laws 1896, p. 592, c. 547, § 207. Larkin v. Radosta, 104 N. Y. S. 165.

70. By statute in Kentucky (1903, § 499), a power of attorney to sell real estate must be recorded in order that a conveyance may be good as against creditors and purchasers. Godsey v. Standifer [Ky.] 101 S. W. 921. In South Carolina an agreement to receive and sell goods as the agent of another, title to remain in the principal until paid for, must be recorded to be valid against purchasers. Plaintiff shipped meat to an agent to be sold, title to remain in plaintiff until sold. Armour & Co. v. Ross [S. C.] 55 S. E. 315.

75. Agent to make investment not an agent to receive interest and principal. Belcher v. Manchester Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [N. J. Err. & App.] 67 A. 85; Ryle v. Manchester Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [N. J.] 67 A. 87; Hoskins v. O'Brien [Wis.] 112 N. W. 466.

76. Robinson & Co. v. Green [Ala.] 43 So. 797; Bloch v. De Lucia [Conn.] 66 A. 769; Groscup v. Downey [Md.] 65 A. 930; Norden v. Duke, 104 N. Y. S. 854; Heinzerling v. Agen [Wash.] 90 P. 262. Where after a real estate broker has failed to make a sale the owner requests the broker to let him know if he finds any one willing to take the land but giving him no authority to dispose of it, and the broker later makes an exchange to himself with the owner who examines the land exchanged for himself, is informed of all the facts connected therewith, and announces himself as satisfied with the bargain, the true character of the broker's relation was a question for the jury. Pomeroy v. Wimer [Ind.] 78 N. E. 233.

77. See 7 C. L. 63.

78. An attorney acting openly for both parties. Taylor v. Vail [Vt.] 66 A. 820. Where real estate brokers named in a contract of sale as purchasers inform the owner of land that they are selling through other brokers to an unknown purchaser and no objection is made, there is no fraud by the agents which will avoid the sale. Woodward v. Davidson, 150 F. 840. Evidence held not to show consent of both parties to double agency in land brokerage. Marshall v. Reed, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 60.

79. Agent to obtain options upon lands took commissions for the sale of same from both owners. Truslow v. Parkersburg Bridge & Terminal R. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 51.

80. Truslow v. Parkersburg Bridge & Terminal R. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 51.

81. Insurance agent representing two companies may cancel the policy of one and issue a policy of the other to the insured upon which such other company is liable. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Stambaugh-Thompson Co. [Ohio] 81 N. E. 173.

82. Where a party was the agent of a purchaser of land for the purpose of corresponding with the owner, he is not the agent to receive the deed if it is intrusted to him

Acts of a subagent are not binding on the principal unless the power of delegation was granted the agent.<sup>83</sup> The authority to employ subagents may be implied from the nature of the duties and powers committed to the general agent.<sup>84</sup>

(§ 1) C. Implied agency from relation of parties.<sup>85</sup>—For certain purposes incidental to the relation one person may be the implied agent for another to whom he sustains a particular relation.<sup>86</sup> Where a husband signs a lease for premises he is not the implied agent of his wife in so doing or of any other member of the family.<sup>87</sup>

(§ 1) D. Evidence of agency.<sup>88</sup>—Except as statutes provide for a writing, agency may be shown by parol,<sup>89</sup> and the fact that one is the agent of a corporation may be so shown as in the case of private persons.<sup>90</sup> The want of the necessary writing does not exclude parol proof of agency in a connection where the contract is not relied on.<sup>91</sup> The relation must be proved by facts and not by conclusions.<sup>92</sup> Agency may be established by inference from the circumstances and facts of his dealings for the principal,<sup>93</sup> and if it is proved that the alleged principal knew or ought to have known that an agent assumed authority and made no objection, together with proof of the acts of the agent it may be sufficient.<sup>94</sup> Facts consistent with the existence of agency alone or facts inconsistent therewith may be adduced to show agency or disprove it.<sup>95</sup> Thus, where there is prima facie evidence of agency, the

to be delivered to the purchaser upon payment of the purchase price, but becomes the agent of the owner for that purpose. Sennett v. Melville [Neb.] 107 N. W. 991. The plaintiff authorized P to invest her money and the defendants had arranged with P to raise money to pay off certain bonds. Plaintiff delivered to P the full amount necessary to pay off the bonds receiving the defendants' note therefor. The defendants then refused to receive the full amount at that time and the balance was retained by P. Subsequently the money was lost by a bank failure. Held that P was solely the agent of the defendants after the money was paid to him, hence the loss must fall upon them. Bemiss v. Robertson, 30 Ky. L. R. 521, 99 S. W. 291.

83. Chouteau Land & Lumber Co. v. Chrisman [Mo.] 102 S. W. 973. An agent has not as a matter of law authority to delegate his authority to another. Agent to sell real estate. Groscup v. Downey [Md.] 65 A. 930.

84. The superior officer of a railroad having charge of mail transportation may direct a station agent to make contracts for the handling of mail at his station. Blowers v. Southern R. Co., 74 S. C. 221, 54 S. E. 368. Where a landowner employed the general manager of a large railroad to sell lots, and he being some distance from the premises engaged the station agent to point out and describe lots to prospective purchasers, the subagent is the agent of the landowner. Wright v. Isaacks [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 991, 95 S. W. 55; Groscup v. Downey [Md.] 65 A. 930. Where an agent for a consideration agrees to collect a bill of exchange and employs another agent for that purpose, the act of the subagent is the act of the original agent and not of the principal. Bank accepted a draft for collection and sent it to another for collection with authority to collect and place the proceeds to its credit. The second bank was agent of the first, and for loss was liable to such first bank and not to the principal (Landa v. Traders' Bk., 118 Mo. App. 356, 94 S. W.

770), but where he simply accepts one for collection without any agreement for consideration and employs another agent for the purpose, the subagent is the agent of the principal and not of the original agent (Id.).

90. Agent for railroad company. Blowers v. Southern R. Co. 74 S. C. 221, 54 S. E. 368.

91. In an action against an agent for the purchase of real estate, for misconduct the relation of principal and agent may be established by parol despite the statute of frauds. Mucke v. Solomon [Conn.] 64 A. 738.

92. The statement "he was at that time the recognized agent of James and Abbot for the purchase and sale of goods for their account" is an opinion and conclusion of the witness and inadmissible. Rice v. James [Mass.] 79 N. E. 807.

93. Tenants in common. Waiver by one of written contract. Hilton v. Hanson, 101 Me. 21, 62 A. 797. One who requests a loan from a loaning agent who in turn obtains the same from a third party is justified in dealing with the loaning agent as the agent of the third party. Murphy v. Becker [Minn.] 112 N. W. 264.

94. International Harvester Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 653. 96 S. W. 93.

95. Whatever evidence tends to prove the agency is admissible. Robinson & Co. v.

letters and conversations of such agent are admissible to prove agency.<sup>96</sup> Evidence that one acted as adjuster for an insurance company at a certain time is not competent to show agency at a prior time,<sup>97</sup> but a contract signed by an agent is admissible as evidence of his agency at a prior time if at both times he was acting under the same general authority.<sup>98</sup> As tending to show agency one may prove his intimacy with alleged principal.<sup>99</sup>

The fact of the agency cannot be established by the agent's own statements and admissions<sup>1</sup> apart from the principal's knowledge,<sup>2</sup> except as such are res gestae,<sup>3</sup>

Green [Ala.] 43 So. 797. Agreement between well driller and defendant that driller furnish his own tools is competent evidence in an action by the owner of the tools against the defendant for their use. Jones v. Waterman [Cal. App.] 87 P. 469. Conversations between alleged principal and agent just prior to a transaction with the defendant are admissible to show relation of parties. Badger v. Cook, 101 N. Y. S. 1067.

Evidence held sufficient. Clamp v. Cutler [Colo.] 88 P. 854; Norden v. Duke, 104 N. Y. S. 854. That a person calling himself manager was an agent of the defendant. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co. v. Voght Mach. Co., 29 Ky. L. R. 861, 96 S. W. 551. Where a person purchased stocks for $1,500 and received $2,900 for them from another, the evidence was sufficient to show that the first party was agent for the second and that the transaction was not a resale. Kevane v. Miller [Cal. App.] 88 P. 643. Delivery of a check in payment for goods. Badger v. Cook, 101 N. Y. S. 1067.

Acts of adoption or ratification. Husband sold produce received as rent of premises demanded by the owner, his wife. Marks v. Herren, 47 Or. 603, 83 P. 385. One authorized to buy ties for a company for which it supplied the money according to his directions without limitation as to the number he should buy is acting as agent for such company. Hall v. Ayer & Lord Tie Co. [Ky.] 102 S. W. 867. Where a woman has signed her husband's name to an agreement to convey land owned by him, his subsequent offer of a deed though defective is a recognition of her authority. Whitworth v. Pool, 29 Ky. L. R. 1104, 96 S. W. 880. Where a person soliciting orders for the defendant was arrested on suspicion that he was obtaining money under false pretences and the defendant telegraphed that it would fill all orders taken by him and later described his arrest as "unwarranted," there is ample evidence of agency. Howard v. Omaha Wholesale Groc. Co. [Neb.] 108 N. W. 158.

Acts assumptive of agency. Grout v. Moulton [Vt.] 64 A. 453. Where for a long period of time a person has collected interest on mortgages and also the principal sums and turned them over to the mortgagee, he has a general authority in fact so that payment to him extinguishes the debt. Bautz v. Adams [Wis.] 111 N. W. 69.

To prove express contract of agency to procure a purchaser for real estate. Young v. Ruhevedel, 119 Mo. App. 231, 96 S. W. 228. Agency held to be created by letters between the parties and not by subsequent oral conversations. Sidway v. American Mortg. Co., 222 Ill. 270, 78 N. E. 561.

Evidence held insufficient. Brokers soliciting orders to be executed by another firm in another city. In re Baxter & Co. [C.

C. A.] 152 F. 141. Correspondence held to create no agency to sell land. Watkins Land Mortgage Co. v. Campbell [Tex.] 101 S. W. 1078. Evidence held to show no agency of person whose signature appeared on contract. Bender-Martin Co. v. Appollo Co., 101 N. Y. S. 75. Evidence held insufficient to show that one who wrongfully collected money was acting as agent of another. Miller v. Harris, 102 N. Y. S. 604. The fact that one who was formerly general manager for the plaintiff but who had resigned was found in the general manager's office without evidence of any acts done by him does not show agency. Tyler Ice Co. v. Coupland [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 133. No evidence of agency where the alleged principal's brother hires and pays a man for his own benefit and the alleged principal has never held him out as authorized to act for him or ratified his acts. Rowan v. Kemp, 103 N. Y. S. 775. Where an agreement between a mother and children was signed by one child only, it is not binding in the absence of evidence of authority of the one child to sign for all. Banholzer v. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W., 119 Mo. App. 117, 95 S. W. 953. The presence of a wife during the making of repairs ordered by her husband and the giving of directions, where she only occupies as tenant, do not establish an agency on the part of the husband for the wife to order repairs. The letter of an alleged agent who is not a party or a witness in a case is mere hearsay and inadmissible to show his agency. Rice v. James [Mass.] 79 N. E. 807. The statement of an alleged agent that the defendant had instructed him to perform a certain act is not alone sufficient to show agency. Gambill v. Fuqua [Ala.] 42 So. 735. Declarations to plaintiff and others that he was authorized to sell land. Edmiston v. Hurley, 30 Ky. L. R. 557, 99 S. W. 259. Employment of a servant by an agent. International Harvester Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 653, 96 S. W. 93.

but he is competent to testify that he is agent.<sup>4</sup> The testimony<sup>5</sup> or the declarations of the principal are admissible for this purpose.<sup>6</sup>

(§ 1) E. Estoppel to assert or deny agency.<sup>7</sup> like estoppel respecting the authority of an admitted agent<sup>8</sup> is grounded on the principal's having created or suffered the appearance of such relation to exist to one who rightfully acted thereon to his detriment.<sup>9</sup> Declarations of the agent will not prove that he is such, but acts assuming authority of such a nature that the principal may have known them are admissible.<sup>10</sup> One who assumed to be the agent of a child cannot avoid accounting by saying that the child could not make him agent.<sup>11</sup>

(§ 1) F. Termination of relation.<sup>12</sup>—A contract of agency without limitation as to time is terminable at will by either party.<sup>13</sup> The grantor of a power of attorney not coupled with an interest in which it is provided that the power is irrevocable may, however, revoke the same;<sup>14</sup> even where the contract provides that, for a valuable consideration, the agency is to continue for a certain period the principal may still terminate the agency, and whether rightfully or wrongfully the agent has no further right to continue to act as agent;<sup>15</sup> and the fact that the agent has been to considerable expense and trouble does not deprive the principal of his power of revocation.<sup>16</sup> Revocation is subject to the duty of making such compensation as may be earned or agreed, or of paying damages for breach of the contract.<sup>17</sup> An agent's authority is revoked by the death of his principal.<sup>18</sup> In Texas a married fendant knew that a party was using letterheads representing himself as the defendant's agent, such letterheads were inadmissible to show agency. Rice v. James [Mass.] 79 N. E. 807.

3. Statements which are a part of the res gestae may be evidence of agency, and it is not necessary that they be simultaneous with the conclusion of the contract but only that they should have been made during the negotiations leading to the contract, influenced the defendant in making it, and entered into as part thereof. Grout v. Moulton [Vt.] 64 A. 453.

4. Agency may be proved by the testimony of an agent as well as that of any other witness who has knowledge of the facts. Beekman Lumber Co. v. Kittrell [Ark.] 96 S. W. 988. In a suit for commissions for the lease of property where the son represented the owner, it was competent for the son to testify that he was the agent of the owner. Colloty v. Schuman [N. J. Law] 66 A. 933.

5. The plaintiff testified that she employed "F" an attorney to present her claim to the defendant. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Heathcoat [Ala.] 43 So. 117.

6. An owner of land referred a purchaser to a third party as his agent saying he would be satisfied with anything he did. Horner v. Beasley [Md.] 65 A. 320.

Before there can be an estoppel there must be a failure to act on the part of the principal, with full knowledge of the material facts, by which the party dealing with the agent has been prejudiced. Norden v. Duke, 104 N. Y. S. 854.

Wiley*, 197 Mo. 123, 95 S. W. 213. Where an agent's contract provided that he was to sell goods for the principal who might at the expiration of twelve months treat the agent as the purchaser of any unsold goods, the agent had the right to terminate the contract at any time before the twelve months without giving the principal the right to treat him as a purchaser. Owensboro Wagon Co. v. Hall, 143 Ala. 177, 42 So. 113. Where there is a statement in an instrument appointing an agent that he is the agent "for the sale of all the lumber that will or may be sawed" on a tract of land, this is not to be construed as an implied agreement that such agency will not be revoked before he has sold all the lumber in question. It is a mere description of the nature of the agency. Bradlee v. Southern Coast Lumber Co. [Mass.] 79 N. E. 777.

woman may dispose of her separate estate through a power of attorney in which she is joined by her husband, and it is not revoked by the husband's death.<sup>19</sup> If the agent's power is coupled with an interest, then it is irrevocable until the agency is completed,<sup>20</sup> and a like rule applies to a mandatory in Louisiana.<sup>21</sup> The interest coupled with a power which renders the power irrevocable must be in the thing itself and not in the exercise of the power, and the same instrument must convey both the interest and the power.<sup>22</sup> If a deed or other instrument whose validity depends on delivery is left with a third person to be delivered upon the happening of a contingency, the delivery is complete and irrevocable.<sup>23</sup>

The verbal appointment of an agent to sell real estate is not revoked by a subsequent statute declaring it a misdemeanor for an agent to offer real estate for sale without a written authority.<sup>24</sup>

Notice of revocation.<sup>25</sup>

§ 2. Rights and liabilities of principal as to third persons.<sup>26</sup> In general.—The principal cannot be bound by any act which he could not do in his proper person,<sup>27</sup> or by any acts neither actually, impliedly, nor apparently authorized nor ratified so as to supply authority;<sup>28</sup> and the agent's authority, however general, will not sanction an act done in a wholly different capacity.<sup>29</sup>

(§ 2) A. Actual or implied authority to bind principal.<sup>30</sup>—As distinguished from an agent's apparent, but as between him and the principal, unreal authority,<sup>31</sup> he has actual express authority or implied authority which is actual in the sense that it was presumably intended.<sup>32</sup> The creation of an agency implies authority to do the usual and appropriate acts to accomplish the object, and clothes the agent with such authority as is necessary to effectuate its purposes,<sup>33</sup> such as authority to delegate or to employ necessary assistance.<sup>34</sup> The authority of an agent may be implied from his relation to the principal, the nature of his employment, and the mode in which he was permitted to conduct the business,<sup>35</sup> or from custom or precedent.<sup>36</sup> In the case of a corporation the general agent may have implied power to waive provisions of a written contract.<sup>37</sup> An agent has power to negotiate until the object of his agency is accomplished or his authority revoked.<sup>38</sup> The authority to draw, accept, or indorse bills, notes, and checks will not readily be implied as an incident to the express authority of an agent.<sup>39</sup> Actual authority granted by deed must be strictly construed, and the principal will not be bound under any circumstances beyond the plain import of the language of the instrument<sup>40</sup> unless it is found that he has waived some of the limitations upon the agent's authority<sup>41</sup> or ratified his unauthorized acts.<sup>42</sup>

45. Prospective purchasers of coal lands were referred by owners to a party employed to show the property as one acquainted with it and their representative. Such party made false statements and representations which owing to the nature of the territory had to be relied upon. A purchase having thus been induced, the purchasers were entitled to relief. Mather v. Barnes, 146 F. 1000. A telegraph company is bound by the waiver of condition that claims shall be presented in writing within sixty days by the general agent in charge of its officers in a city. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Heathcoat [Ala.] 43 So. 117. The agent of a corporation who had charge of an office and employed the plaintiff and fixed the terms of such employment, etc., held to have had apparent authority to waive terms of a written agreement with the plaintiff. Krasnow v. Singer Mfg. Co., 100 N. Y. S. 591. Where it was within the authority of messenger boys' employment to present slips showing messages sent out by a third party and to collect money therefor, the presenting of slips fraudulently made out by the boys was within the apparent scope of their authority. Wilmerding v. Postal Tel. Cable Co., 103 N. Y. S. 594. Evidence that one G., the superintendent of the defendant, agreed to give plaintiff a commission, that G. took charge and made contracts that G. denied authority but admitted that the president of the company said plaintiff was entitled to a commission after the work was paid for. Books of defendant showed a note on the record of this work "commission to" plaintiff. Held sufficient evidence of authority in G. to act as agent to make the contract. Coles v. International Bank Note Co., 100 N. Y. S. 1060. Where everything regarding the sale of land except signing the deed was done by the owner's husband, the evidence was held to warrant a finding that he was authorized to do all acts necessary to effect a sale. Rathke v. Tyler [Iowa] 111 N. W. 435. Rep. 785, 94 S. W. 1117. The only authority to be implied from the fact of possession by a ranch foreman of a herd of cattle was authority incidental to properly caring for them. McGraw v. O'Neil [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 132. Clerk of courts charged costs to counsel for plaintiff at his request and released plaintiff. He had no authority to act in regard to sheriff's costs. Board of Education of Tennessee v. Kelley, 126 Ga. 479, 55 S. E. 238. A salesman authorized only to obtain orders took an order, specified the price, and signed the same. No contract binding on principal. Gould v. Cates Chair Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 675. Where a telephone company's messenger on finding that the addressee was not at the place addressed agreed to take the message to the addressee, he is not acting within his authority and the company is not bound. Cumberland Tel. & T. Co. v. Atherton, 28 Ky. L. R. 1109, 91 S. W. 257. An agent with authority to procure bottles of whisky from his principal's barrels has no authority to deliver the same to any person. Nash v. Noble [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 736. Where the plaintiff bank cashed a draft drawn on the defendant by its agent on the strength of the honoring of prior drafts, and a letter instructing the agent to draw upon him, but the plaintiff had also seen other correspondence in which the defendant showed he was not satisfied with results obtained in proportion to expenses, it was held that this correspondence should have put plaintiff on its guard, and all the facts together did not confer authority on the agent to have the draft cashed. Bank of Morganton v. Hay [N. C.] 55 S. E. 811. Letters by the resident attorney of a corporation not binding admissions unless made to dispense with formal proof. Horseshoe Min. Co. v. Miners' Ore Sampling Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 517. Evidence that a director of a corporation had authority to make short leases and had only made one long lease of which the company had no knowledge, and that a majority of the board of directors objected on several occasions when he sought to make leases on long terms, does not show actual authority sufficient to support a lease for ten years. Clement v. Young-McShea Amusement Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 67 A. 82. Agent for sale of a furniture stock on commission held to have no apparent authority to purchase sewing machines on principal's credit. Kuecks v. New Home Sewing Mach. Co., 123 Ill. App. 660. A person who at times acted as the agent of a mortgagee in loaning money has no authority to reject insurance offered upon the mortgaged premises and bring suit to foreclose. Ver Veer v. Malone [Iowa] 112 N. W. 82. A majority stockholder has no authority to bind a corporation by his acts. Clement v. Young-McShea Amusement Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 67 A. 82.

46. Where a principal has placed an agent in such a situation that a person of ordinary prudence is justified in assuming that such agent is authorized to perform on behalf of his principal a particular act, such act having been performed, the principal is estopped as against such third party from denying the agent's authority to perform it. A storage warehouse company is bound by a stipulation of its agent to insure goods, though such stipulation is made without au-

hence one cannot rely thereon who has been remiss in knowing or making reasonable inquiry about the authority,<sup>47</sup> especially where the statute requires the authority to be in writing,<sup>48</sup> or, where the act is inconsistent with known facts of authority or relationship.<sup>49</sup> But a third person is not concerned with the mental processes of the principal in granting authority, but the character in which the agent is held out by the principal, as it is the only method by which authority may be determined.<sup>50</sup> He who deals with an agent must also act in good faith respecting every restriction upon the agent's authority of which he may have notice.<sup>51</sup> Bad faith and fraudulent conduct on the part of an agent and participated in by the wrongdoer cannot form the basis of an estoppel against the principal's asserting his rights against the wrongdoer.<sup>52</sup> The assignment of a mortgage to the name thority. General Cartage & Storage Co. v. Cox, 74 Ohio St. 284, 78 N. E. 371. Where the plaintiff's bookkeeper who was their agent as to matters pertaining to stores and store accounts informed the defendant that the plaintiff's tenant's store account was all right and on the strength of this the defendants levied on the tenant's cotton, the plaintiffs are bound by the bookkeeper's statements and estopped to deny them as to the defendant. Cadenhead v. Rogers & Bro. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 837; 96 S. W. 952. A principal held not estopped to deny authority to charge overdrafts merely because some were entered in passbook which principal never saw. Merchants' Nat. Bk. v. Nichols & Shepard Co., 123 Ill. App. 430. A general agent to sell commodities and make collections and manage a branch of the principal's manufacturing business has no apparent authority to bind the principal by over drafts. Id.

A physician employed by a station agent and the local physician of the defendant to operate upon a passenger was put upon notice that it was not within the scope of the employment of these men to employ a surgeon. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 964, 94 S. W. 417. An agreement by the roadmaster and freight agent of a railroad company to lay a spur track was not binding, it not appearing that they had any power or that there was any custom or precedent giving them such power. Busby v. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. [Miss.] 43 So. 1. The assumption by an attorney at law of authority to act for his principal outside of the due and orderly prosecution, defense, or conduct of litigation does not create any presumption of actual authority so to act, but, as in other cases of agency, his act must be shown to be within the scope of his authority to be binding on his principal. Horseshoe Min. Co. v. Miners' Ore Sampling Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 517. Where a purchaser was referred on two occasions by a dealer to his agent for terms, etc., and a third time made his contract direct with the agent, such facts are sufficient to show the authority of the agent to make such contract, in the absence of any evidence of a limitation upon the agent's authority, notice of which was chargeable to the purchaser. *Jenkins & Reynolds Co. v. 53. Whether his later act was that of an agent for the later assignee or was that of a principal, the notice was imputed to the later assignee. Latch v. West End Trust Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 472.

54. Sale of books by agents, the customer not to resell. Authors' & Newspapers' Ass'n v. O'Gorman Co., 147 F. 616. After placing fire insurance an agent had his agency revoked, but the insured not being informed of this was entitled to rely upon his authority to cancel the policy. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Stambaugh-Thompson Co. [Ohio] 81 N. E. 173. If people are allowed to deal with an agent in a certain way and the principal recognizes these dealings as valid and gives no notice of any change in the conditions, he may be bound by subsequent transactions of a similar kind even though they were unauthorized or expressly forbidden. Rice v. James [Mass.] 79 N. E. 807.

55. Where the plaintiff purchased land of the defendant through the defendant's agent, paying $50 down, the balance on instalments, in an action for specific performance, he was not entitled to credit for instalments paid to the agent, for his contract provided that no instalments were to be paid to agents. Metz v. Harbor & Suburban Bldg. & Sav. Ass'n, 102 N. Y. S. 980.

One of two grantees in procuring a deed of land induced the grantor to execute it by fraud of which the other grantee had notice. Kendrick v. Colyar, 143 Ala. 597, 42 So. 110. Where an agent for the purchaser of lands explains the contract to the vendors who are illiterate, the purchaser is bound by the false statements of the agent. Brock v. Tennis Coal Co., 29 Ky. L. R. 1283, 97 S. W. 46. The agent of an insurance company in obtaining business is acting within the scope of his employment, and although he was not instructed to use dishonest means in doing it yet if such means were used the insurance company cannot evade the consequences of his act. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Stambaugh-Thompson Co. [Ohio] 81 N. E. 173. General manager of defendant's business induced plaintiff to advance goods to one of defendant's agents falsely representing him as solvent, and then seizing such goods to satisfy a debt due the defendant by such agent. Western Cottage P. & O. Co. v. Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1061. Plaintiff's land subject to incumbrances for taxes, sewers, etc., amounting to $930.69, was condemned by the city and an allowance of $2,000 made therefor. The defendant's agent representing that there would be no balance left after payment of incumbrances procured a deed from the plaintiff for $100 and an order on the city for the amount of the damages awarded. Heath v. Schroer, 119 Mo. App. 93, 96 S. W. 313.

Illegal acts: A watchman arrested a person for destroying his master's property. Johnston v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 110 N. W. 424. Prosecution for larceny by defendant's bookkeeper in aid of a civil suit. White v. Apsley Rubber Co. [Mass.] 80 N. E. 500. City employe while excavating in a street struck plaintiff who was attempting to remove an obstruction from the street car track. Barree v. Cape Girardeau, 197 Mo. 382, 95 S. W. 330. Where a mortgagee authorized his agent to take possession of the mortgaged property after a default, he is liable for damages caused by force used by the agent, although he had instructed the agent not to use force but to apply to a magistrate. Williams v. Tolbert [S. C.] 56 S. E. 908. An agent of the defendants sent to remove furniture got into a quarrel with the plaintiff, who occupied the house, before any attempt was made to remove such furniture, and it was held that the agent in striking the plaintiff was impelled by personal motives and did not do so in preparing to get out the furniture or overcoming resistance. *Hardeman v. (§ 2) C. Particular kinds of agencies.<sup>60</sup>—Agency may be general or special.<sup>61</sup> The former relation arises where one is authorized to transact all business of another of a particular kind,<sup>62</sup> the latter where one is authorized to act in a single transaction only.<sup>63</sup> A special power of attorney is to be strictly construed so as to sanction only such acts as are clearly within its terms,<sup>64</sup> but the object of the parties is always to be kept in view, and, where the language will permit, that construction should be adopted which will carry out the purpose of the appointment.<sup>65</sup> In dealing with a special agent one is put upon inquiry as to such agent's authority and deals with that agent at the risk of that authority being exceeded.<sup>66</sup> The powers of a special agent are to be strictly construed, and he possesses no implied authority beyond what is indispensable to the exercise of the power expressly conferred.<sup>67</sup> Joint agents are jointly liable to their principal for the proceeds of a Voght Mach. Co., 29 Ky. L. R. 861, 96 S. W. 551, and where a railroad company's agent used abusive language to the plaintiff while he was upon the railroad's property, engaged in a conversation with the agent upon business connected with the agency, this is sufficient to show that the agent was acting within the scope of his employment, and the railroad would be liable for any damages (Southern R. Co. v. Chambers, 126 Ga. 404, 55 S. E. 37).

Misapplication of funds received by agent: Payment to a bank of a debt sent to it for collection satisfies the debt regardless of what subsequently becomes of the money or papers. Griffin v. Erskine, 131 Iowa, 444, 109 N. W. 13. Where agents were authorized to sell some mules free and clear of a mortgage and to pay off mortgage with the money received, the fact that such sale was made but the agents did not pay off the mortgage does not leave the property still liable. Hirsh & Co. v. Beverly, 125 Ga. 657, 54 S. E. 678.

58. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Taylor [Ala.] 43 So. 210. A private corporation is liable for the acts of its agent in instituting a malicious prosecution for arson, authorized by the corporation or within the scope of the agent's authority. Farmers' M. F. Ass'n v. Stewart [Ind.] 79 N. E. 490. A railroad company is liable to a teamster for the acts of its depot agent in refusing to deliver to him goods for which he had orders. Southern R. Co. v. Chambers, 126 Ga. 404, 55 S. E. 37. General manager of defendant company wrote a letter stating that plaintiffs were incompetent. Pennsylvania Iron Works Co. v. Voght Mach. Co., 29 Ky. L. R. 861, 96 S. W. 551.

66. One dealing with a cement broker is chargeable with notice of his limited authority to agree upon the time of delivery. Molloy v. Whitehall Portland Cement Co., 102 N. Y. S. 363; Bowles v. Rice [Va.] 57 S. E. 575. Salesman has no authority to endorse his employer's check. Blum Jr.'s Sons v. Whipple [Mass.] 80 N. E. 501.

67. Bowles v. Rice [Va.] 57 S. E. 575. Where an agent was appointed to sell land by an instrument which was required to be in writing, his agency was special. Davis v. Trachsler [Cal. App.] 86 P. 610. A cement broker on his own account, and not generally the agent of a certain cement manufacturer, is a special agent. Molloy v. Whitehall Portland Cement Co., 102 N. Y. S. 363. An authority to rent premises is special and does not warrant the agent in contracting for repairs and improvements. Tenants sought to avoid payment of rent on ground that they should be credited with improvements. Peddicord v. Berk [Kan.] 86 P. 465. An agent to deliver a deed only upon the happening of a condition is a special agent, and delivery by him under any other circumstances is ineffectual. Anderson v. Goodwin, 125 Ga. 663, 54 S. E. 679. A traveling salesman is a special agent with only limited authority and has no power to endorse his principal's name to checks (Blum Jr.'s Sons v. Whipple [Mass.] 80 N. E. 501), or to make drafts upon his employers (Seattle Shoe Co. v. Packard [Wash.] 86 P. 845). Where the constitution of an association limits the authority of its officers, a person dealing with such officers is charged with notice of their limited authority. Drissale by them, and the payment by one to the other without special authority from the principal does not relieve him of his joint liability.<sup>68</sup>

Brokers, factors, attorneys and the like are special kinds of agents, the law relative to whom is separately treated.<sup>69</sup>

Authority to accept payment in discharge of obligations is not easily inferred,<sup>70</sup> and possession of the contracts payable in money is usually necessary to authority.<sup>71</sup> Possession of writings evidencing such a contract, but not the contract, have no such effect.<sup>72</sup> Power to make investment does not include power to receive payment of the obligation.<sup>73</sup> Agency of an attorney to receive payment of the debt is not implied from employment to draft the mortgage, especially when he does not retain it in custody.<sup>74</sup> A power of attorney to fill blanks when given as incident to an assignment is strictly construed against the assignee.<sup>75</sup> Authority to collect is not to be expanded beyond acts necessary to that end.<sup>76</sup> Authority to sell is not authority to exchange,<sup>77</sup> or necessarily to sell on credit,<sup>78</sup> or agree to a repurchase,<sup>79</sup> but includes ordinary warranting<sup>80</sup> and fixing<sup>81</sup> or receiving the price.<sup>82</sup>

70. Failure of a person to collect a debt when due does not authorize payment by the debtor to an unauthorized person asserting authority to receive it. Ryle v. Manchester Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [N. J. Err. & App.] 67 A. 87. Defendant through plaintiff's salesman bought an order of goods and with them came a statement of account headed "pay none but authorized collectors." Defendant paid the salesman who failed to turn it in to plaintiff. Held defendant not discharged. Zilberman v. Friedman, 104 N. Y. S. 363.

71. Payment of mortgage to one not having the securities is neither payment nor tender. Hughes v. Clifton [Ala.] 41 So. 998. After a mortgage was assigned but not recorded the mortgagor paid the mortgagee of record and obtained release; this was ineffectual to extinguish the debt where the mortgagee of record neither had possession of the security nor authority from the owner to receive payment. Authority should be shown by possession of the securities. Bautz v. Adams [Wis.] 111 N. W. 69.

72. Where a principal authorized his agent to make an investment for him by purchasing shares in the defendant company, which shares were evidenced by a passbook, the continued possession of the passbook was consistent with the original authority in making the investment, for in discharging this agency the periodical payment of dues was necessary, and was not evidence of an apparent authority to receive payments of the principal and interest of the investment. Belcher v. Manchester Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [N. J. Err. & App.] 67 A. 85.

73. Belcher v. Manchester Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [N. J. Err. & App.] 67 A. 85. Evidence held to show that owner of a store was the sole manager, and that a clerk had no authority to receive notice in regard to insurance. German Ins. Co. v. Goodfriend, 30 Ky. L. R. 218, 97 S. W. 1098.

75. Assignment of wages to accrue. Simmons Hardware Co. v. Hargate, 122 Ill. App. 287.

76. An agent to collect rents and pay taxes has no authority to contract for repairs. Meade Plumbing, H. & L. Co. v. Irwin [Neb.] 109 N. W. 391. One having authority to collect a note given in payment for a horse has no authority to take back the horse in payment of the note. Loy v. McClure [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 1148. A debtor in making payment to an agent must do it in such a manner as to facilitate the agent in transmitting funds to his principal. Payment by check or draft which agent has reason to believe is good may be received, but in conditional payment only. Griffin v. Erskine, 131 Iowa, 444 109 N. W. 13. Where a collection agency was employed to see debtors and induce payment directly to the principal, the agent had no authority to bring suit in the name of the principal, especially on an outlawed claim upon which judgment had previously been obtained. Satterlee v. First Nat. Bank [Neb.] 111 N. W. 591. Authority of agent to use money collected for any purpose except those specially authorized is for the jury. Harvey v. Sparks Bros. [Wash.] 88 P. 1108.

77. Kearns v. Nickse [Conn.] 66 A. 779.

78. Authority to sell land implies no authority to sell on credit. Winders v. Hill, 141 N. C. 694, 54 S. E. 440.

79. A traveling salesman, in the absence of any custom, has no implied authority to agree that on a sale of goods any part might be returned before settlement, although the season had closed for such goods. Friedman & Sons v. Kelly [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 1066.

80. A warranty by an agent to make a sale is binding on his principal. Warranty of soundness of a horse. Ellison v. Simmons [Del.] 65 A. 591.

81. Where the authority of an agent to

Implied power to warrant does not include adjustment of damages for breach of warranty.<sup>83</sup> An agent to make a lease has authority to make binding representations concerning his principal's title,<sup>84</sup> but he cannot lease for a term longer than his known authority.<sup>85</sup> An agent to deliver a policy may receive the first premium,<sup>86</sup> and if he be an issuing agent may issue enlarged risks for enlarged premiums.<sup>87</sup> An agent to pay over a claim may make unconditional settlement thereof.<sup>88</sup>

sell cattle is admitted, this authority included the power to fix the price and arrange the terms of sale so that it is unnecessary to invoke the principle of ratification. Graham v. Edwards [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 436. Where an agent has the power to sell cattle, the warranty as to the number of cattle in each class is but a means of fixing the price and clearly within the scope of the agent's powers. Id.

82. By Code in California, an agent intrusted with the possession of goods sold may receive the price for which they are sold. Lindlow v. Cohn [Cal. App.] 90 P. 485.

85. Finch v. Causey [Va.] 57 S. E. 562. An agent's authority to lease premises for monthly terms does not impliedly carry authority to make leases for years. Larkin v. Radosta, 104 N. Y. S. 165.

86. An insurance agent with authority to make contracts of insurance and deliver policies has implied authority to accept notes for the first premium. Kilborn v. Prudential Ins. Co., 99 Minn. 176, 108 N. W. 861.

87. Agents with authority to solicit business for surety bonds, receive applications, issue bonds, and receive premiums, may not claim that they have no authority to issue a certain bond increasing their principal's liability where an additional premium is paid. Bond for an unlimited amount of liability. In re American Fidelity Co., 104 N. Y. S. 711.

88. Where an insurance company sent drafts to an agent to pay the insurance upon a risk wrongfully believed to be dead, the agent had authority to make an unconditional settlement despite the limitations in the policy. Payment made after absence of seven years of the insured who later appeared. New York L. Ins. Co. v. Chittenden [Iowa] 112 N. W. 96.

89. See 7 C. L. 81.

90. A simple denial of liability by a corporation for the unauthorized act of an employe in making arrangements for a funeral is not ratification. Rice v. New York, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 81 N. E. 285.

Ratification found: Exchange of stock of goods for land by agent. Doolittle v. Murray & Co. [Iowa] 111 N. W. 999. Letters between principal and agent held admissible to show knowledge of the agent's act and ratification of the same. Central Texas Groc. Co. v. Globe Tobacco Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1144. Ratification by trustees of a sale of land made by an agent who was employed by one only of three trustees. Hill v. People [Ark.] 95 S. W. 990. Plaintiff's employment was recognized by the defendant's president and defendant accepted his services for over a year, paid for them, and later discharged him. American China Development Co. v. Boyd, 148 F. 258. Where the general manager of a railroad company had notices of a reward posted in all the stations, the fact that the president of the road traveled over it at least once in ten days is evidence of ratification of the general manager's act. Arkansas S. W. R. Co. v. Dickinson, 78 Ark. 483, 95 S. W. 802. Where the plaintiff's agent made a sale of tobacco on consignment contrary to printed directions on the order slip signed by the defendant, it is competent for the agent to testify that he made a pencil note of the terms on the order slip and so notified the plaintiff, who replied "all right," to show ratification of the contract of sale. Central Texas Groc. Co. v. Globe Tobacco Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1144.

No ratification found: Unauthorized sale of land. Skirvin v. O'Brien [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 105, 95 S. W. 696. The fact that the commissioner of the land office accepted the survey of landowners of a land grant to the extent of marking the same on a map did not estop the estate from thereafter claiming that the survey was incorrect on the ground that the act was the act of an agent which was ratified by failure of the state to claim the incorrectness of the survey. Sullivan v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 234, 95 S. W. 645. Where a traveling salesman was in the habit of drawing upon his employers, the defendants, for expense money, which drafts the plaintiffs cashed and which were accepted by the defendants, no ratification of the salesman's act is shown which would establish his authority to draw upon them ad libitum. Seattle Shoe Co. v. Packard [Wash.] 86 P. 845.

91. A principal is liable for the unauthorized acts of its agents which it ratifies. Prosecution for larceny by defendants' bookkeeper whose acts were known to the general manager and president of the defendant company who either assented or declined to interfere. *White v. A principal by receiving the monthly rentals stipulated for in a lease for three years did not ratify the act of his agent whose authority was restricted to monthly leases in making such lease. Larkin v. Radosta, 104 N. Y. S. 165. Where a statute requires an agent's authority to lease for terms exceeding three years to be in writing, and an agent with authority to or intentionally assumes the obligation without inquiry.<sup>1</sup> An agency may be ratified by adopting the unauthorized employment of the agent.<sup>2</sup> A principal cannot ratify in part and repudiate in part the unauthorized act of his agent.<sup>3</sup> Assent to an authorized offer made by an agent which is not accepted is not assent to a similar offer later made to the same or different parties.<sup>4</sup> A power of attorney to act in the future does not amount to a ratification of prior acts by the grantee.<sup>5</sup> An agent cannot ratify his own unauthorized acts.<sup>6</sup> Ratification of a written contract for the sale of land may be by parol.<sup>7</sup> It is the general rule that where an agent makes a deed of land of his principal without authority, ratification must be by deed of the principal and cannot be implied from assent and other circumstances.<sup>8</sup>

(§ 2) E. Undisclosed agency.<sup>9</sup>—The act of an agent acting for an undisclosed principal is the act of the principal and he may sue or be sued when his identity becomes known.<sup>10</sup> It is immaterial that the principal was never given credit provided the circumstances are not such as to make such a result unjust or inequitable.<sup>11</sup> Where an undisclosed principal sues on a contract by his agent in his own name with a person unaware of the agency, such suit is subject to any defense acquired by the third party before notice of agency,<sup>12</sup> but if the party knew or had reason to know of the fact of agency, he cannot plead such defenses.<sup>13</sup> To hold a person liable as an undisclosed principal he must be a party unknown to the transaction.<sup>14</sup> One who has dealt with an agent cannot upon discovery of an undisclosed principal hold both the agent and the principal.<sup>15</sup> Title to property taken make leases for periods as long as three years makes an unauthorized lease for ten years, the fact of occupancy and improvements by the tenants is inadequate notice to the principal to impose the duty of inquiring whether the agent had exceeded his authority so that acquiescence would not work as ratification. *Clement v. person and not for the principal,<sup>22</sup> unless clear proof is made that the agent had such knowledge in mind at the time of the transaction in question.<sup>23</sup> Notice to the agent before the agency is begun or after its termination will not ordinarily affect the principal.<sup>24</sup> The fact that agents committed a fraud does not alter the legal effect of their knowledge as binding on the principal in regard to third parties having no knowledge of such fraud.<sup>25</sup> If a principal receives from his agent a deed to land without payment of a consideration, he is bound to know the terms upon which it was granted.<sup>26</sup> The rule in many of the states is that an insurance company cannot avail itself of provisions in a policy that it be void if certain facts do not exist when these facts were known to the agent not to exist when he issued the policy, and such knowledge by the agent may be proved by parol,<sup>27</sup> but the opposite rule prevails in the Federal and some other courts.<sup>28</sup>

(§ 2) G. Mode of executing authority.<sup>29</sup>—An agent having authority to sign his principal's name to an instrument governed by the statute of frauds need not indicate that the signature is by the agent.<sup>30</sup>

(§ 2) H. Remedies, pleadings, procedure, and proof.<sup>31</sup>—Assumpsit will lie for breach of a contract for the sale of land made by an agent despite the fact that it is sealed by the agent's own seal, as this may be treated as surplusage, the agent having no authority to bind his principal by a sealed contract.<sup>32</sup> The making of a claim of liability against the agent does not waive the principal's liability.<sup>33</sup>

It may be alleged that an act was done by the principal through his agent,<sup>34</sup> and it is not necessary as between the principal and the third person to allege positively that the agent was authorized.<sup>35</sup> If a contract be pleaded as the joint personal act of two, it cannot be shown that one made it for himself and as agent for the other.<sup>36</sup> A plea of no agency should definitely negative the allegation of agency.<sup>37</sup>

The charge should set forth correctly the test of the principal's liability,<sup>38</sup> but need not single out the fact that express authority was or was not shown.<sup>39</sup>

Evidence of authority.<sup>40</sup>—In an action on a contract made by an agent, the authority of the agent will be presumed unless questioned.<sup>41</sup> A principal may testify as to the authority given his agent.<sup>42</sup> If there be evidence of the agency any declarations of the agent as to his authority are admissible,<sup>43</sup> and if there be evidence of authority to make a contract respecting the subject-matter, a contract in relation thereto signed by the agent and acted on by the principal is competent.<sup>44</sup> Where the fact of agency is admitted, proof of the acts of the agent within the scope of his duties is evidence that such acts were acts of the principal.<sup>45</sup> In determining the scope of an agent's authority in a particular transaction, it matters not what his relation to his principal was in other matters.<sup>46</sup> Where an agent acts outside the apparent scope of his authority, it is necessary in order to bind his principal to show by evidence aliunde the acts of the agent that he was actually invested with the special power that he assumed to exercise,<sup>47</sup> but evidence of the custom and course of business in other matters is admissible as showing the apparent authority.<sup>48</sup> Despite the fact that by written agreement an agent appears as principal, it may be shown by parol that he is acting for an undisclosed principal.<sup>49</sup> The determination of the facts as to what particular authority was given is a jury function.<sup>50</sup>

Proof of the agency should precede proof that the alleged agent did certain acts to bind the principal.<sup>51</sup>

§ 3. Rights and liabilities of agent as to third persons.<sup>52</sup>—An avowed agent for a disclosed principal incurs no personal contractual liability to third persons by acts within the scope of his employment,<sup>53</sup> although an agent may bind himself personally though fully authorized to bind his principal if he pledges his personal responsibility but only upon clear and explicit evidence of such an intention,<sup>54</sup> the presumption being to the contrary.<sup>55</sup> If an agent executes an instrument in his own name and adds to his signature the word "agent," this is mere description and he alone is liable,<sup>56</sup> but if the name of the principal was disclosed at the time of the transaction though not upon the instrument, this may be shown by parol and the principal be liable in an action between the parties but not to a third party.<sup>57</sup> Where an agent acts for a disclosed principal but without authority, he cannot be treated as a principal so that specific performance will lie,<sup>58</sup> but he is not protected by the agency and is liable personally for damages.<sup>59</sup> An agent acting within the scope of his Code 1896, § 2712, expressly provides that where one furnished land and team and another the labor under a contract of hire exists and the laborer has a lien on the crop for the value of the portion to which he is entitled. Farrow v. Wooley [Ala.] 43 So. 144. Where one was employed by a landowner to raise a crop for one-half the net proceeds thereof, whether medical attention to a cow and calf used on the farm was within the contract held a question for the jury. Bourland v. McKnight, 79 Ark. 427, 96 S. W. 179. A share cropper who is himself to perform the services in connection with the raising of a crop is, though a minor within the statute (Acts 1903, p. 90), punishing those who contract for services with intent to procure money or other thing of value, and not to perform the services contracted for to the loss and damage of the hirer. Vinson v. State, 124 Ga. 19, 52 S. E. 79.

10. Where parties contract to raise a crop on shares, one to furnish the land and the other the labor, and the one who was to furnish labor rented land in pursuance of the contract of the other to furnish it, held the parties were joint owners of the crop and not partners. Beaumont Rice Mills v. Bridges [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 511.

11. One who is employed to raise a crop on land of another for one-half the net proceeds thereof may mortgage his interest therein. Bourland v. McKnight, 79 Ark. 427, 96 S. W. 179.

12. Goodson v. Watson, 125 Ga. 413, 54 S. E. 84.

13. In an action against a third person for conversion, the recovery is limited to the value of the tenant's share not exceeding the expenses occasioned by his failure to perform the contract. Agne v. Skewis-Moen Co., 98 Minn. 32, 107 N. W. 415, following McNeal v. Rider, 79 Minn. 153, 81 N. W. 830.

17. Evidence sufficient to show that plaintiff had a seed grain lien upon property described in the complaint and that defendant had converted such property. Schlusser v. Moores [N. D.] 112 N. W. 78. Where one sold seed wheat and seed flax to another and filed but one lien statement for the entire price upon the entire crop, but stated the number of bushels of each kind of grain and the price, held the contract was divisible and the lien was therefore divisible and should be construed as two liens, one against the wheat and one against the flax. Id. Under Rev. Codes 1905, §§ 6271, 6272, a person who furnishes seed grain to another is entitled to a lien for the entire purchase price of the seed upon the crop produced though all the seed was not sown. Id.

18. Gorthy v. Jarvis [N. D.] 108 N. W. 39.

19. The right of pledge in favor of one furnishing money, resulting from the execution and registry of the instrument authorized by Act No. 66, p. 114, of 1874, is intended to bear upon the crop as security for the reimbursement of the money that a planter "may require" for necessary expenses of the crop and plantation, and not as security for money which has already been advanced and used before the execution and the registry of the instrument. National Bk. of Commerce v. Sullivan, 117 La. 163, 41 So. 480.

20. The crop privilege conferred by Civ. Code, art. 3217, is intended to secure the reimbursement only of money which having been advanced is actually used for the purchase of necessary supplies and the payment of necessary expenses for the farm or plantation, and one seeking to enforce the privilege has the burden to prove such facts. National Bk. of Commerce v. Sullivan, 117 La. 163, 41 So. 480.

21. This privilege is not confined to growing crops but bears upon the products after they are severed from the soil and follows them into the hands of a purchaser who buying direct from the planter is presumed to have notice of the privilege. National Bk. of Commerce v. Sullivan, 117 La. 163, 41 So. 480.

thresher's lien must show the kind and quantity of grain upon which it exists,<sup>22</sup> and where the grain was grown in two counties, the lien statement should be filed in both.<sup>23</sup> In some states it is a criminal offense to sell property which is subject to an agricultural lien.<sup>24</sup>

§ 3. Agricultural societies.<sup>25</sup>—An agricultural society having authority to award premiums for improvements in stock, and entitled by statute to a certain sum from the state treasury on affidavits showing expenditures, not including races or money paid to secure games is impliedly authorized to conduct lawful games,<sup>26</sup> and its directors are not liable for mere nonfeasance in failing to more securely protect patrons from injuries.<sup>27</sup>

In North Dakota an appropriation was made to one of two associations which should deed land to the state.<sup>28</sup> It was only upon failure to comply with the provisions of the act as to matters that were preliminary to acceptance of title by the governor on behalf of the state that the appropriation could properly be claimed by the association that had not complied with the act.<sup>29</sup> A forfeiture of the appropriation should not be decreed unless the act under which it is claimed clearly shows that such was the legislative intention.<sup>30</sup> An agricultural society "dissolves or ceases to exist" so that its real estate vests in the county when it ceases to exist as a corporation and not when it ceases to give fairs.<sup>31</sup>

§ 3. Immigration, exclusion, and expulsion. A. Admission and exclusion.<sup>49</sup> The right to exclude aliens does not pertain to the judicial department,<sup>50</sup> and executive decisions refusing to permit an alien to enter are conclusive on the courts,<sup>51</sup> though such jurisdiction is invoked by a person entitled to remain in the United States.<sup>52</sup> The decision that a returned Chinese person is not entitled to re-enter the United States on one ground is not conclusive against his right to enter on another ground not asserted,<sup>53</sup> and failure to assert such ground is not a waiver of rights thereunder.<sup>54</sup> The amendments to the Chinese Exclusion Act do not enlarge the privileged classes entitled to enter under the original act.<sup>55</sup> The provision for the exclusion of nonregistered Chinese on their ceasing to be merchants and engaging in manual labor does not apply to a Chinese person who occasionally does manual labor in connection with his business.<sup>56</sup> Likewise, a laborer who becomes a merchant before proceedings for his deportation are begun is entitled to the immunities of that status.<sup>57</sup> An alien who is domiciled in the United States cannot legally be treated as an immigrant on his return after a temporary absence for a specific purpose not involving change of domicile.<sup>58</sup>

§ 1. Nature and Purpose of the Allowance (89).

§ 2. Jurisdiction and Power to Award (89).

§ 3. Stage or Condition of the Divorce Proceeding (89).

§ 4. Reasons for and Against Provisional Allowances (90).

§ 6. Procedure and Practice (92). Temporary Allowances (93). Permanent Award (93).

§ 7. The Decree: Its Enforcement and Discharge (93). Vacating or Modifying (94). Attachment of the Person (95). Subjection of Property (96).

§ 8. Suits for Annulment and Actions for Separate Maintenance (97).

§ 1. Nature and purpose of the allowance.<sup>89</sup>—The purpose of the law is that alimony shall be used for the maintenance of the wife or wife and children.<sup>90</sup> It is awarded in lieu of his duty to support his wife or in enforcement of such duty.<sup>91</sup> The object is present sustenance, hence counsel fees are not allowable for past counsel services in a different proceeding.<sup>92</sup>

§ 2. Jurisdiction and power to award.<sup>93</sup>—As a general rule the power to award alimony is vested in the trial court,<sup>94</sup> and while an appellate court will make provision for costs in preparing an appeal from a judgment awarding a wife divorce and alimony,<sup>95</sup> it has no jurisdiction pending the trial in the trial court to entertain a motion for the hearing of a matter to be determined at such trial.<sup>96</sup> To authorize the allowance of alimony pendente lite, the existence of marital relations must be within 10 days or the court acquires no jurisdiction of the appeal. United States v. Yuen Yee Sum, 153 F. 494.

85. Under Immigration Act (32 Stat. 1213), and rule 7 of the secretary of commerce and labor, an immigrant who has been denied the right to enter on examination before a board of special inquiry has the right to be informed of his right of appeal and failure of the record to show that such information was given precludes finality of the decision. Rodgers v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 152 F. 346.

86. See 7 C. L. 103.

87. Under the statute making it a criminal offense for any person to falsely represent himself to be a citizen for any fraudulent purpose, an alien who knowingly makes a false affidavit that he has been naturalized for the purpose of being registered as a voter commits an offense. Violates Rev. St. § 5428 [U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 2670]. Green v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 150 F. 560.

92. Womacks v. Womacks, 125 Ill. App. 441.

93. See 7 C. L. 105.

94. An appellate court will remand a cause which it reverses to the trial court with directions to such court to make its own decree relative to alimony and allowance for attorney's fees. This procedure is authorized by Code 1887, §§ 2261, 2263. Davenport v. Davenport [Va.] 56 S. E. 562.

95. Where the husband appeals with stay from a decree awarding his wife a divorce and alimony, and an order requiring payments to her pending further litigation, the supreme court will upon proper showing order payments for her support and expenses in such court pending appeal. Drake v. Drake [S. D.] 110 N. W. 270. The trial court's power to award money for appeal costs and fees continues till the case is in the appellate court by the lodgment there of the transcript. Bernsdorff v. Bernsdorff, 26 App. D. C. 228. Thereafter the power lies in the appellate court. Lane v. Lane, 26 App. D. C. 235.

96. The supreme court has no jurisdiction while an action for divorce is pending in the trial court to entertain a motion for allowance of counsel fees to enable counsel to prepare and present an appeal from an order of the trial court requiring the husband to provide for the wife pending final determination of the action and for counsel fees in the main case. Tonn v. Tonn [N. D.] 111 N. W. 609.

established to the satisfaction of the court,<sup>97</sup> but as in other preliminary issues the fact does not have to be established with the clearness exacted of proof as a basis of final adjudication of the rights of the parties litigant.<sup>98</sup> Alimony will not be awarded until it is shown that there is reasonable ground for commencing the divorce action.<sup>99</sup> In order that alimony may be awarded personal jurisdiction must be had of the defendant.<sup>1</sup> A void agreement for separation requiring the husband to pay the wife a certain annual sum is not a bar to an allowance of alimony in a subsequent suit for divorce.<sup>2</sup>

§ 3. Stage or condition of the divorce proceeding.<sup>3</sup>—An application for alimony may be tried before the principal case is ripe for trial.<sup>4</sup> In Georgia an application for temporary alimony must be based on a pending suit for divorce or for permanent alimony.<sup>5</sup>

Gardiner [Colo.] 83 P. 646.

3. See 7 C. L. 105.

4. There is no law requiring nor reason for postponing the trial of an application for alimony until the divorce suit is ripe for default or answer. The prayer for alimony is a mere incident of the suit which may be taken up at any time after due notice. Rosenthal v. Rosenthal, 117 La. 786, 42 So. 270. Where the wife as next friend of her children petitioned for permanent alimony and an injunction restraining her husband from alienating his property, and such petition was presented to the judge in vacation and the restraining order was issued and the case set for hearing on a day in vacation, held the judge had jurisdiction in vacation to hear the application for injunction and also the petition for alimony though the day set for hearing was after to the return day of the case. Edmondson v. Edmondson [Ga.] 57 S. E. 308.

nor process, the prayer was properly refused. King v. King [Ga.] 57 S. E. 227.

6. See 7 C. L. 106.

7. Evidence as to the cause of separation is conflicting. Parks v. Parks [Ga.] 55 S. E. 176. Upon the hearing of an application for temporary alimony, the court may grant an order for such alimony and expenses of litigation as the facts of the case may justify. Stokes v. Stokes [Ga.] 56 S. E. 303. Where an application for alimony is made by the wife on behalf of herself and minor children, and at the hearing the wife abandons the application but is not dismissed as a party, the fact that she remains a party will not prevent the judge from granting alimony exclusively to the children. This was an exercise of the courts' discretion. Edmondson v. Edmondson [Ga.] 57 S. E. 308. Where a wife appealed from a decree of divorce in favor of her husband who died after submission of the case, she was not entitled to counsel fees necessary to prosecute the appeal which was one to determine property rights. Strickland v. Strickland [Ark.] 97 S. W. 659.

8. On appeal the action of the trial court in awarding or discontinuing alimony is presumably correct. Mahneke v. Mahneke [Wash.] 86 P. 645.

9. Discretion in allowing temporary alimony on conflicting evidence as to marriage not interfered with. Fowler v. Fowler [Ga.] 57 S. E. 682. Evidence sufficient to authorize an order requiring a husband to pay alimony and attorney's fees. Stokes v. Stokes [Ga.] 55 S. E. 1023.

10. Under the rule allowing a woman alimony where the divorce is procured through no fault of her's, where the husband procures a divorce because of the malformation of the wife's sexual organs preventing the act of sexual intercourse, the wife is not within the rule. Mutter v. Mutter, 30 Ky. L. R. 76, 97 S. W. 393.

11. Under a statute providing that in every case of divorce, except for the adultery of the wife, alimony may be awarded if the estate awarded to the wife is insufficient to sustain her, alimony may be awarded to her where a husband secures for permanent alimony, to entitle the wife to alimony pendente lite it must appear that she is without means.<sup>12</sup> On appeal the application should be supported by proof that she is unable to advance the fees and suit money,<sup>13</sup> and also good reason why the relief could not be had in the lower court.<sup>14</sup>

§ 5. Amount, character, and duration.<sup>15</sup>—A decree for alimony in gross is a debt.<sup>16</sup> Permanent alimony is distinguished from temporary only in the sense that it is awarded after determination of the suit.<sup>17</sup>

In determining upon a proper award, the circumstances of the parties,<sup>18</sup> both prior and subsequent to the marriage, should be considered,<sup>19</sup> such as the value of property owned by the parties.<sup>20</sup> Where the husband concedes his wife's right to alimony in the amount fixed, the court may make a decree for such amount without further proof,<sup>21</sup> and when no testimony is offered to show that alimony is excessive, the defendant is bound by the judgment<sup>22</sup> until the amount is reduced in an appropriate proceeding.<sup>23</sup> A decree which awards only that which the wife already owned is not excessive,<sup>24</sup> especially when the divorce is granted because of the husband's a divorce on the ground of cruelty. Lofvander v. Lofvander [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 793, 109 N. W. 662. Where a husband obtains a divorce on his counterclaim in an action brought by the wife, he is chargeable with her costs and a reasonable attorney's fee. Mutter v. Mutter, 30 Ky. L. R. 76, 97 S. W. 393. Not dependent on wife's freedom from fault, her fault not being cause for divorce. Jones v. Jones, 124 Ill. App. 201.

13. Bernsdorff v. Bernsdorff, 26 App. D. C. 228.

14. Lane v. Lane, 26 App. D. C. 235. Showing of destitution and other facts held sufficient. Id.

15. See 7 C. L. 107.

16. A claim under a decree for alimony in gross is a debt of the estate of the divorced husband within Rev. Laws, c. 144, § 9, providing for the application of property of absentees to payment of their debts. Purdon v. Blinn [Mass.] 78 N. E. 462. Such claim may be proved and allowed against the property of an absentee in the hands of a receiver on general notice to the receiver and persons interested who are within the jurisdiction. Id.

17. The mere fact that alimony is denominated "permanent" does not preclude the court from modifying its decree as authorized by Civ. Code, § 139. Soule v. Soule [Cal. App.] 87 P. 205.

18. Where it appeared that the husband's estate was worth $7,553, that he was 52 and she 47 years old, he not able to perform hard labor and she capable of earning some income, a decree awarding household goods $2,000 cash, homestead worth $1,200, and $25 per month until the eldest child attained majority, and $12.50 per month until the youngest child reached majority, modified by giving the wife the furniture, homestead, $1,000, and $8 per month until the children attained the age of sixteen years. Bowerman v. Bowerman, 145 Mich. 726, 13 Det. Leg. N. 605, 108 N. W. 1086. Fifty dollars appeal costs on appeal from order to pay $25 a month held not excessive. Plattner v. Plattner [Mo. App.] 91 S. W. 459.

Where alimony is awarded in gross, it is especially important that facts material in determining a just award be before the court. Ferguson v. Ferguson, 145 Mich. 290, 13 Det. Leg. N. 453, 108 N. W. 682.

19. Decree of $1,000 cut down to $600 where it appeared that the husband was a baker and lived over his shop, which fact the wife knew before she married him. She contributed nothing to the property ($7,000), was fault finding at home, and left him within thirty days without cause, and shortly afterwards had a miscarriage. Lofvander v. Lofvander [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 793, 109 N. W. 662.

20. In determining the amount of permanent alimony the homestead will be considered, though held by both parties as an estate in entirety, where it once stood in the name of the husband and was conveyed to the wife without consideration, other than discontinuance of a prior divorce suit. Bowerman v. Bowerman, 145 Mich. 726, 13 Det. Leg. N. 605, 108 N. W. 1086. Twenty dollars a month out of a salary of $135 held reasonable where some other income came from her own property. McAndrews v. McAndrews, 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 252. Eighty dollars reduced to $50 where wife had already received a house and other property and was able to support herself in part. Anderson v. Anderson, 124 Ill. App. 613. In determining what is a proper allowance under Comp. Laws, § 8638, providing that the situation of the parties should be regarded, the court should consider the fact that plaintiff was the owner of certain property transferred to her in part compensation for the very wrong for which the divorce was granted. Ferguson v. Ferguson [Mich.] 111 N. W. 175. Where it is necessary in determining the amount to be awarded to estimate the value of an estate in expectancy, it should be valued at what purchasers would pay for it, not its present worth, computed from the age of the life tenant and his probable expectancy as fixed by mortality tables. Id.

22. 23. O'Brien v. D'Hemecourt [La.] 43 So. 654.

24. Where at the time of the marriage the wife had 80 acres of land which was fault.<sup>25</sup> An order to pay suit money for the cost of a transcript on appeal should not be fixed in a sum large enough to print the entire testimony,<sup>26</sup> when in fact some of it will probably not be necessary.<sup>27</sup> The allowance for counsel fees must be based on evidence of their value.<sup>28</sup> Subsequent counsel fees relating to applications concerning the child's custody may be allowed.<sup>29</sup>

Division of property.<sup>30</sup>—The statutory right to division of property between the parties is to such division as to the court seems just.<sup>31</sup> A just distribution may require that all the property be given to the wife.<sup>32</sup> Though a wife is accorded a certain interest in property by statute, if she consents to a decree for a different division she is bound by it.<sup>33</sup> In Nebraska, in a suit for divorce and alimony, the trial court has jurisdiction to award to the wife specific articles of personal property from the estate of her husband in addition to alimony.<sup>34</sup> On a liquidation of the community in Porto Rico property, allowance will be made to the wife of alimony pendente lite allowed her previously.<sup>35</sup>

Support of child.<sup>36</sup>—In determining the amount to be awarded for the support of children, their earnings should be considered.<sup>37</sup>

subsequently sold and the proceeds invested in 160 acres, and the husband after the marriage acquired considerable property, an award of the 160 acres and directing the husband to pay all debts on which the wife might be made liable was reasonable. Luick v. Luick [Iowa] 109 N. W. 783.

25. Where the decree for divorce is granted because of the husband's fault, the award should not be less than the value of the wife's interest in the property which prior to divorce they owned together. Brown v. Brown, 144 Mich. 654, 13 Det. Leg. N. 312, 108 N. W. 288.

32. Where the community property was only worth about $1,000 and the husband was earning enough to support himself, and the wife has no earning capacity, it is proper to award her all the property. Markowski v. Markowski [Wash.] 87 P. 914.

33. Under the rule that where a wife procures a divorce on the ground of adultery her interest in his property is the same as upon his death, if the wife consents to a different division and accepts a certain amount as permanent alimony in lieu of all other interest in his estate, and judgment to such effect is entered and the money accepted, the wife is estopped to deny the validity of the judgment. Linse v. Linse, 98 Minn. 243, 108 N. W. 8.

38. See 7 C. L. 108.

39. This is so, though Code Civ. Proc. § 580, provides that no relief in excess of the prayer will be granted. Cohen v. Cohen [Cal.] 88 P. 267.

40. Attorney's fees are a part of temporary alimony and may be awarded on a petition therefor, though not separately prayed for. Stokes v. Stokes [Ga.] 56 S. E. 303.

41. Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, § 1078, authorizes service by publication in an action by a wife for alimony against her husband who has deserted her and become a nonresident of the state where the only relief sought is appropriation of land of the husband situated within the county where the action is brought to the payment of such alimony. Rhoades v. Rhoades [Neb.] 111 N. W. 122. Jurisdiction to subject property in such action within the territorial jurisdiction may be acquired by service of process by publication and placing the property in the hands of a receiver. Id. In such action residence of the wife in the county where the property of the husband is situated is not necessary. Id.

provide security for temporary alimony where there exists an adequate remedy at law.<sup>42</sup> An appellate court may review the facts pertaining to an award of alimony.<sup>43</sup>

Temporary allowances.<sup>44</sup>—Service of an application for temporary alimony pending a suit for divorce and permanent alimony must be personal,<sup>45</sup> but if it is impossible to procure personal service, a receiver may be appointed to preserve property in the state.<sup>46</sup> On a hearing of application it rests in the discretion of the court to hear the testimony by affidavits or orally.<sup>47</sup> Temporary alimony should not be refused without due inquiry into the merits of the case.<sup>48</sup> The hearing of an application will not be postponed unless a motion for such postponement be made timely.<sup>49</sup>

In Kentucky an order for alimony pendente lite is not a final judgment,<sup>55</sup> but a different rule prevails in Arkansas.<sup>56</sup> In Georgia such a judgment is subject to a writ of error the same as a judgment in injunction.<sup>57</sup> A judgment which, because of fraud, makes no provision for alimony may be impeached as in other cases,<sup>58</sup> but

42. Under the rule that a writ of prohibition will not issue where there exists an adequate remedy at law, it will not issue to stay receivership proceedings to provide security for the payment of temporary alimony from orders for payment of which the husband has appealed. Writ of supersedeas should be employed. McAneny v. Santa Clara County Sup'r Ct. [Cal.] 87 P. 1020.

45. Stallings v. Stallings [Ga.] 56 S. E. 469. Where in an action for divorce, temporary and permanent alimony, and subjection of property to the payment thereof, it was alleged that the parties had established a permanent residence and domicile in a certain county in the state, service of process should have been perfected there. Id. Though the defendant was absent from the state a great deal of the time on business and was absent for an indefinite length of time, he could not be served as a nonresident if he had a legal residence in the state at which service could be perfected. Id. Where service of process on an application for temporary alimony was not lawfully perfected, the court could not proceed over the objection of the defendant to hear it and make necessary orders in the premises. Id.

46. If it is impossible to obtain personal service because of the absence of defendant from the state, and he has property within the state which is in danger of being lost, removed, or depreciated by waste, a receiver may be appointed to preserve the property but cannot fix temporary alimony and order it paid. Stallings v. Stallings [Ga.] 56 S. E. 469.

47. Whitfield v. Whitfield [Ga.] 56 S. E. 490.

48. A plea in abatement to a petition for temporary alimony alleging that an action identical with the one at bar had been voluntarily dismissed by plaintiff and that the costs thereof had not been fully paid does not authorize the court at that stage of the proceedings to make an order refusing temporary alimony without inquiring into the merits of the case. Dougherty v. Dougherty, 126 Ga. 33, 54 S. E. 811.

49. Where counsel for defendant was present in an application for temporary alimony, entered upon the hearing of the case without objection, and after plaintiff had closed her case and defendant had submitted his answer, the defendant also being present to testify in his own behalf, it was not error to refuse to grant a postponement in order to obtain an additional affidavit on the ground that counsel for defendant had only been retained the previous day and had been prevented by other work from preparing the case. *Stokes v. Enforcement may be by injunction and receivership if necessary,<sup>61</sup> and such proceedings are not a creditor's suit dependent on exhaustion of legal remedy.<sup>62</sup> An action at law cannot be maintained on a decree for permanent alimony which is subject to modification,<sup>63</sup> and the full faith and credit clause of the Federal constitution applies to a decree for alimony in so far as it is for a sum due, but not as to future payments as to which it remains subject to modification.<sup>64</sup> Under the rule that the perfecting of an appeal stays further proceedings on orders appealed from, the court has no power to enforce an award after an appeal has been perfected.<sup>65</sup>

Vacating or modifying.<sup>66</sup>—A decree for alimony may be revised or altered by the court if a change in the circumstances or condition of the parties require it,<sup>67</sup> and if the award was not based on property rights<sup>68</sup> or contract.<sup>69</sup> To authorize a modification of the decree the circumstances of the parties must have altered since the decree was entered<sup>70</sup> and such changed conditions must be pleaded.<sup>71</sup> Such modification rests solely in the discretion of the court,<sup>72</sup> and the right thereto must be timely asserted.<sup>73</sup> A wife who was granted all her prayers may not have a decree modified.<sup>74</sup> An order for temporary alimony based on false testimony may

Code, §§ 137, 140, authorizes the court to award temporary alimony and enforce such award by receivership, where the defendant filed a bond to stay proceedings pending appeal from orders requiring him to pay temporary alimony, the trial court had no jurisdiction to appoint a receiver to provide security for temporary alimony. Proc. § 1963, declaring that things are presumed to happen according to the ordinary course of nature and habits of life, where a divorced wife who is drawing alimony remarries it is presumed that her second husband is able to support her, and in a proceeding by the first husband to vacate the decree she has the burden to prove that he is not. Cohen

68. Where the complaint for divorce did not allege anything relative to property or ability of the husband to pay alimony, it is presumed that an award was not based on property rights and it may be vacated. Cohen v. Cohen [Cal.] 88 P. 267.

69. Evidence insufficient to show that a provision for alimony was inserted in the decree pursuant to agreement and that the agreement was that it was to continue during the life of the plaintiff. Soule v. Soule [Cal. App.] 87 P. 205.

70. Under a statute authorizing the court to make such changes in the decree as the circumstances may warrant, no change will be made unless circumstances of the parties have altered since the decree. Will not be changed because the husband at the trial testified falsely as to his property. Graves v. Graves [Iowa] 109 N. W. 707.

71. In a suit to enforce a decree, the husband is not entitled to have the decree modified because of changed conditions unless such changed conditions are pleaded. Gerrein's Adm'r v. Berry, 30 Ky. L. R. 978, 99 S. W. 944.

72. An issue as to the extent to which a decree should be modified because of changed conditions should not be submitted to a referee, as such modification rests peculiarly within the discretion of the court. Gerrein's Adm'r v. Berry, 30 Ky. L. R. 978, 99 S. W. 944.

73. Where it was agreed by the parties that no alimony should be demanded but it was allowed in the judgment, the husband was held not barred by laches from moving to vacate such provision after three years where he was not aware that it existed and no alimony had ever been paid or demanded. *Cohen v. Attachment of the person.<sup>83</sup>—Failure to pay alimony as ordered by the court renders the delinquent party liable for contempt<sup>84</sup> of the court which has the case<sup>85</sup> and subjects him to imprisonment<sup>86</sup> until he complies with the order or shows his reasons for not doing so.<sup>87</sup> The answer excusing the contempt must particularize the court at any time to modify the decree relative to the care, custody, and education of children, a wife who has been granted all her prayers cannot have a decree modified so as to require the payment of a monthly sum for the care of the children. Calagaris v. Calagaris [Cal. App.] 87 P. 561.

75. The trial court may vacate an ex parte order for payment of attorney's fees made on misrepresentation of the wife that she had no separate property. Glass v. Glass [Cal. App.] 88 P. 734.

76. Where a suit for divorce is removed from one county to another by an order regular on its face, a party may not by mandamus compel the court to which it was removed to vacate an order for alimony, for want of jurisdiction, and thereby, in effect, vacate the order of removal which such court had refused to vacate and which was not sought to be reviewed in a direct proceeding. Bradfield v. St. Clair Circ. Judges [Mich.] 111 N. W. 1043.

77. Under Civ. Code, § 139, authorizing the court to award permanent or temporary alimony, and to modify its orders in such respect, an award of a specified sum per month may be modified by relieving defendant from further payments though no such reservation for modification was contained in the decree. Soule v. Mahncke [Wash.] 86 P. 645. Under Civ. Code, § 139, authorizing the court to modify its decree, it may change a permanent monthly award to one for a specified period, or may vacate the decree altogether. *Cohen v. vides that a judgment for alimony may be enforced by contempt proceedings. Stanley v. Stanley, 101 N. Y. S. 725. Prior to institution of such proceedings the defendant must be served with a copy of the decree and payment demanded of him. Id. Code Civ. Proc. § 1241, providing the cases where judgment may be enforced by punishment for disobeying it, does not apply to a judgment for alimony. Id. The power to enforce a decree for permanent alimony by attachment for contempt belongs inherently to the court having jurisdiction of divorce suits. Van Dyke v. Van Dyke, 125 Ga. 491, 54 S. E. 537. Where proper service in an action for separation was had on the husband without the state and he was also properly served with an order to pay alimony and an attorney's fee, and with an order to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt for failing to do so, held the court had jurisdiction to punish for contempt by fine. Woolworth v. Woolworth, 100 N. Y. S. 865.

86. One who refuses to pay alimony pursuant to an order of the court may be committed to jail for contempt. Discretion of court not abused. Gray v. Gray [Ga.] 56 S. E. 438.

87. Where a respondent does not seek to purge himself of contempt because of inability to comply with the decree, the rule may be made absolute. Van Dyke v. Van Dyke, 125 Ga. 491, 54 S. E. 537. Failure or refusal to comply with an order requiring payment of alimony is a continuing contempt and the person so refusing may be imprisoned until he complies therewith. Not within the rule that a single act of contempt can be punished by imprisonment for only 20 days. Gray v. Gray [Ga.] 56 S. E. 438. An order of commitment may be for an indefinite time till payment of the award. Czarra v. Czarra, 124 Ill. App. 622. Where a wife obtains a decree for divorce, with an order that the husband pay to her alimony in a stipulated sum per month until the gross amount allowed has been paid, the judgment for alimony cannot be defeated, or a commitment to jail for failure to pay avoided, by the subsequent marriage of the defendant to another woman and the setting up by him of the claim that all of his meager salary is required to support his new family. Hoffman v. Hoffman, 8 Ohio C. (N. S.) 550.

the reasons for inability to pay.<sup>88</sup> In some states a delinquent may under some circumstances be imprisoned for failure to give bond to secure payment of alimony.<sup>89</sup> A fine for failure to pay alimony in separation proceedings and an attorney's fee must be limited to the fee and the amount of alimony due under the order when demand therefor was made.<sup>90</sup> Where an order to show cause why a decree should not be modified was served on the wife and she was restrained from enforcing the decree, the former husband was not in contempt in neglecting to pay alimony after such order issued.<sup>91</sup> In Nevada, before a delinquent may be committed for contempt, it must be made to appear that he has present ability to pay.<sup>92</sup> In Georgia a rule for contempt is not triable by a jury.<sup>93</sup>

The sole remedy in Rhode Island to procure release from imprisonment for not paying alimony is by procuring modification of the decree.<sup>94</sup> The provisions of statutes relating to imprisonment for debt do not apply.<sup>95</sup> In Georgia a judgment committing a person to jail for refusal to comply with an order requiring the payment of alimony must be brought to the supreme court by writ of error.<sup>96</sup>

Subjection of property.<sup>97</sup>—Alimony is not a lien on lands of the husband<sup>98</sup> or on personalty<sup>99</sup> unless made so by statute.<sup>1</sup> In Michigan it is a lien foreclosable in the same manner as a mortgage.<sup>2</sup> When in a suit for divorce and alimony the

Under statutes providing that the court may make provision for alimony pendente lite and enforce its orders by sequestration, contempt or execution, where the complaint alleges that a defendant though able to pay the award had declared his intention not to do so, and would leave the state unless he was compelled to give security, the court had authority to require him to give a bond and to be taken into custody on default of so doing. Ex parte Caple [Ark.] 99 S. W. 830. Where he was committed to jail in default of making the bond and on appeal from a judgment in habeas corpus, denying him a discharge, it did not appear that he was unable to comply with the order, the judgment will not be interfered with. Id. When in a proceeding for contempt founded on failure to comply with an order of court requiring payment of alimony the judge finds respondent in contempt and commits him to jail, it is when a bill of exceptions assigning error on such judgment, is tendered within the discretion of the judge to make supersedeas of the judgment dependant upon respondents giving bond in a reasonable amount conditioned to comply with the order requiring payment of alimony, in the event the judgment in contempt is sustained by the supreme court. *Stokes v. 92. A finding on an application for alimony that defendant had property, had been for many years employed at a salary more than sufficient to support himself and family, is not a finding of present ability to pay and will not sustain an order committing him to jail until he did pay. Lutz v. District Court of First Judicial Dist. [Nev.] 86 P. 445. An affidavit for an order committing the defendant for contempt for failure to comply with an order requiring him to pay alimony must allege his ability to pay or facts from which such ability can be inferred. Unless it does it is fatally defective. Id.

93. Civ. Code 1895, § 4046, providing for trial by jury in certain proceedings for contempt has no application to a rule for contempt issued in the progress of an alimony case requiring the respondent to show cause why he should not comply with an order of the court requiring him to pay alimony and attorney's fees. *Stokes v. Under a statute providing that temporary alimony is so far a debt that suit may be brought or execution issued, to run against the goods of the husband or his body, a statute permitting one jailed for debt to take the poor debtor's oath, one imprisoned for failure to pay alimony is not simply imprisoned for debt but also for contempt, and may not be permitted to take such oath. *Mowry v. 1. A decree for alimony in a gross sum which is made a lien on real estate in the county where the suit is brought does not become dormant because no execution is issued thereon for more than five years from date of the decree. Is not a judgment within Rev. St. 1906, § 5380. Peeke v. Fitzpatrick, 74 Ohio St. 396, 78 N. E. 519. The chancery act in Illinois and not the divorce act confers power to make the decree a lien on land. Leafgreen v. Leafgreen, 127 Ill. App. 184.

2. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 8640, providing that the decree is a lien on the husband's land and may be foreclosed as a wife attaches the husband's property to secure her marital rights, they are not defeated by a subsequent attachment of a creditor.<sup>3</sup>

In New York it rests in the discretion of the court to require security for the payment of alimony.<sup>4</sup>

In some states it is declared that conveyance made by the husband with intent to defraud the wife of alimony shall be void as to her.<sup>5</sup> Under the Kentucky statutes such a conveyance can be declared void only as to the wife in a suit for divorce.<sup>6</sup> On setting aside a conveyance in fraud of alimony the doctrine of bona fide purchasers applies.<sup>7</sup> An order requiring the conveyance of certain property is not complied with by executing such conveyance after conveying it to another.<sup>8</sup>

§ 8. Suits for annulment and actions for separate maintenance.<sup>9</sup>—In Nebraska a court of equity will entertain an action for alimony and will grant the same though no divorce or other relief is sought where the wife is living apart from her husband without her fault,<sup>10</sup> or where other circumstances require it.<sup>11</sup> The power to award counsel fees and costs in suits for annulment is incidental.<sup>12</sup> A refusal to go to a nonsuitable residence will not defeat the wife's right to separate maintenance.<sup>13</sup> In Illinois it should be separately allowed for wife's and children's support,<sup>14</sup> and is not allowable in gross.<sup>15</sup> The amount given remains subject to modification by the court<sup>16</sup> which may discharge the husband if he thereafter proffers a suitable home which is rejected.<sup>17</sup> Additional counsel fees for appeal may be denied if needless cost has been incurred therein.<sup>18</sup>

Ulman* [Mich.] 111 N. W. 1072. fer of property by the husband though there was no valid service of process until later, so that upon decree setting aside said transfer, the decree in the divorce suit transferring the property to the wife, operated to convey title to the wife as against the husband and his grantee and a subsequent purchaser who acquired title with constructive notice and without value. Hamilton v. Rudy, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 427.

8. Where the court orders the defendant to pay a certain amount into court or convey certain property to the wife, a conveyance of such property after a prior conveyance to his son was not a compliance with the order. Green v. Green [N. C.] 55 S. E. 818.

ALTERATION OF INSTRUMENTS.

§ 1. Nature, Kinds, and Materiality of Alterations (98).

§ 2. Effect of Alteration (98).

§ 3. Curing or Ratifying Alterations (98).

§ 4. Pleading, Practice, and Evidence (98).

§ 1. Nature, kinds, and materiality of alterations.<sup>19</sup>—A material alteration is one which changes the legal effect of an instrument,<sup>20</sup> and it is immaterial that such change is favorable to the party sought to be bound<sup>21</sup> if it be made without his knowledge or assent,<sup>22</sup> but a change made with the assent of the parties<sup>23</sup> or which does not change the legal effect of an instrument is not to be regarded as an alteration<sup>24</sup> and does not affect their liability.<sup>25</sup>

there is no presumption as to apparent alterations, the burden being on the party relying on the instrument to show that they were made before execution<sup>36</sup> or by consent,<sup>37</sup> the question being primarily for the court on the offer of the writing in evidence<sup>38</sup> and ultimately for the jury.<sup>39</sup> In some jurisdictions, however, it is held that alterations are presumed to have been made before execution and the burden is cast on him who seeks to avoid the writing,<sup>40</sup> in the absence of suspicious circumstances.<sup>41</sup> Where no alterations are apparent, the burden is on him who claims that alterations have been made.<sup>42</sup> One who sets up an alteration for the purpose of charging that the instrument sued was not the one executed, and for the sole purpose of letting in the defense of limitations, need not allege that the alteration was made by an interested party with intent to defraud.<sup>43</sup>

AMBASSADORS AND CONSULS.*

Under the treaty between the United States and the kingdom of Denmark, a Danish consul cannot appear for an infant citizen of that country and waive the issuance and service of citation on its behalf.<sup>45</sup> It is not improper for a consular agent to be allowed to retain from his fees full compensation for the current year before the year has expired,<sup>46</sup> the burden of securing a readjustment if he goes out of office before such compensation is earned being on the consul,<sup>47</sup> consular agents having no direct connection with the department of state but accounting through the consul.<sup>48</sup> The absence from duty which will deprive a consular officer of compensation during the period thereof is not mere casual absence but absence which is

Flynn* [Cal. App.] 90 P. 463. It is for the court to determine whether proof in explanation of such alteration should be required before the note should be admitted. The court is not bound in the midst of the trial to rule on the materiality of the alterations and require explanation. Wood v. Skelley [Mass.] 81 N. E. 872. #### AMICUS CURIAE.<sup>52</sup>

The court may authorize an amicus curiae to appear in any judicial proceeding.<sup>53</sup> An amicus curiae may examine witnesses and make argument,<sup>54</sup> but cannot take exception to a ruling of the court.<sup>55</sup> A court will not pass on questions which are merely suggested by an amicus curiae,<sup>56</sup> nor will an appeal be dismissed nor its hearing postponed at the instance of an amicus curiae when it appears that the action was brought in good faith and that the moving parties had ample opportunity to intervene upon the trial, or by brief upon submission.<sup>57</sup>

§ 1. Property in animals.<sup>58</sup>—At common law the property which one had in a dog was of a base and inferior kind,<sup>59</sup> and this rule now prevails in some states unless statutory requirements as to registration are complied with.<sup>60</sup> Under the rule that the increase of animals belongs to the owner of the dam, such increase is the property of the person who owns the dam at birth of its young,<sup>61</sup> unless rights are otherwise fixed by contract.<sup>62</sup> An estray is prima facie the property of the person who takes it up.<sup>63</sup>

65. The owner of an animal ferae naturae is liable for injuries done by them possession of an animal ferae naturae<sup>66</sup> is liable for personal injuries inflicted by it regardless of the question of notice of its vicious traits or negligence,<sup>67</sup> unless the person injured voluntarily goes dangerously near the animal while it is chained.<sup>68</sup> In some states it is provided by statute that the owners of dogs are liable for injuries inflicted by them,<sup>69</sup> unless such injury results from negligence of the person injured,<sup>70</sup> but as a general rule an owner of a domestic animal is not liable in the absence of notice of viciousness,<sup>71</sup> but if he has such notice he is liable.<sup>72</sup> An employe continuing to use a vicious animal after knowledge actual or imputed of its disposition assumes the risk.<sup>73</sup>

§ 3. Injuries to property by animals trespassing or running at large.<sup>74</sup>—At common law every person was bound at his peril to keep his cattle within his own possessions, and if he failed to do so he was liable for their trespasses, whether lands trespassed upon were enclosed or not.<sup>75</sup> An exception to this rule existed where cattle were being driven along the highway,<sup>76</sup> but this exception extends no further than to lands immediately adjacent to the highway.<sup>77</sup> This is the rule at present regardless of notice of its viciousness or negligence in permitting it to run at large. Person bitten by a wolf. Hays v. Miller [Ala.] 43 So. 818.

66. One who has possession of a wild animal in a city street at the time it bites another is liable whether he was the owner of the animal or not. Hays v. Miller [Ala.] 43 So. 818.

67. The fact that the owner of a wild animal believes it to be harmless, that it had never been known to harm any one and had been in constant contact with people, is no defense. Hays v. Miller [Ala.] 43 So. 818.

68. One who voluntarily and unnecessarily goes within reach of a chained bear with full knowledge of its vicious propensities cannot recover from the owner for injuries sustained. Ervin v. Woodruff, 103 N. Y. S. 1051.

69. A married woman who permits her husband's dog to remain on the home premises, title to which is in her, is not harboring a dog as, an owner within Code, § 2340, making an owner liable for injuries done by his dog. Burch v. Lowary, 131 Iowa 719, 109 N. W. 282.

70. For damages to person or property by a dog, a right of action against his owner is given by Rev. St. c. 4, § 52, only in those cases in which the damage was not occasioned through the fault of the person injured. Garland v. Hewes, 101 Me. 549, 64 A. 914. The word "fault" in this statute is equivalent to negligence and the burden in such action is upon the plaintiff to allege and prove that no want of due care on his part occasioned the injury. Id.

71. The owner of a dog is not liable where it bites a person who had cared for it for several months where the owner's knowledge of the dog's viciousness was limited to its propensity to attack strangers. Emmons v. Stevane [N. J. Law] 64 A. 1014.

72. An owner of an animal who has notice of its vicious disposition is liable for injuries caused by it while running at large irrespective of the question of negligence in securing it. Harris v. Carstens Packing Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 1125. Statements made by drovers the day after a steer injured a person, that it was vicious and had gored other persons were not res gestae and admissible to show that the drover had such knowledge prior to the injury complained of. Id. Where a person was injured by a steer, it is admissible to show that such steer remained in the vicinity for several days thereafter during which time it attacked other persons, that it was a "range steer," and that such steers were generally wild and vicious. Id. Where one was injured by a steer, an instruction that the injured person claimed that he was injured by the steer which had been let loose on the highway and at the time was being driven by the owner's servants is not susceptible to the construction that it was admitted that the steer was permitted to run unattended on the highway. Id.

75. Wood v. Snider [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 853. Whether cattle on the highway were running at large held a question for the jury. Donley v. Fowler [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 1074, 110 N. W. 1097. It is not necessary to show that one who permitted his sheep to graze on land of another had actual knowledge of the private ownership of such land, nor that they had such notice from the owner. Painter & Co. v. Stahley Bros. [Wyo.] 90 P. 375. It was not necessary to show that they knew whose land it was if they knew it was held in private ownership. Id.

76. At common law if domestic animals while being driven along a highway inadvertently escape onto unfenced adjoining lands, the owner was not liable if they were immediately pursued and driven back. Wood v. Snider [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 853. Cattle coming upon lands of an adjoining owner from a highway can be driven from such lands and it is the duty of the owner of the cattle to remove them with all reasonable speed. Id.

77. Where cattle being driven along a highway inadvertently escape onto adjoining land and from there trespass on unfenced land of another, the cattle were not lawfully on such land adjacent to the highway and the owner was liable. This is the rule under the fence laws of New York. Wood v. Snider [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 853.

in many states,<sup>78</sup> especially as to animals which have natural propensities to run at large,<sup>79</sup> but it has been abrogated in several western states<sup>80</sup> and does not apply to regions of public domain open to stock raisers.<sup>81</sup> It is also subject to the statutory duty to keep up boundary line fences.<sup>82</sup> One may drive trespassing cattle from his own premises but no further.<sup>83</sup> Where the remedy for trespassing by cattle is prescribed by statute, statutory requirements must be complied with.<sup>84</sup> An objection that the action is not brought within the limitation period must be raised by answer.<sup>85</sup>

The measure of damages is the injury to the crop<sup>86</sup> or freehold,<sup>87</sup> and the amount is generally a question for the jury.<sup>88</sup> An instruction that one is liable if he drives cattle on adjacent premises knowing "and" intending that they shall break plaintiff's fence is not error.<sup>89</sup> In an action for injury to plaintiff's boar by de-

W. 1105. The common-law rule that the owner of animals is bound at his peril to keep them from trespassing exists in Illinois. Walters v. Stacey, 122 Ill. App. 658.

79. Rev. St. 1898, § 1482, providing that an owner of a bull who suffers him to run at large shall be liable for all damage done by him, though he escape without fault of the owner, does not make diligence to prevent his escape a defense, but diligence to capture the animal after its escape is a defense and is a proper exercise of the police power. Hadtke v. Grzyll [Wis.] 110 N. W. 225. In an action under Rev. St. 1898, § 1482, for injuries caused by a bull after he escaped from the premises of the owner, it was competent to show that the bull had broken through the same fence three times during the summer. Id.

80. One who turns his cattle out to graze unrestrained on land where he has a right to turn them, knowing that they will probably wander onto unenclosed lands of another, is not liable for damage done by them if they do so enter. Richards v. Sanderson [Colo.] 89 P. 769.

81. Richards v. Sanderson [Colo.] 89 P. 769.

82. Where the trespass occurred by defect of a fence which plaintiff and defendant were jointly bound to maintain, it must appear to justify recovery that the defect was in that part of the fence which defendant was bound to keep up. Walters v. Stacey, 122 Ill. App. 658. Section 1391, St. 1898, providing that where adjoining owners do not maintain a partition fence no damages can be recovered from injuries by trespassing cattle, applies to a tenant. Peterson v. Johnson [Wis.] 111 N. W. 659.

83. One who drives trespassing cattle off his own land has no right to drive them further and onto public lands. Richards v. Sanderson [Colo.] 89 P. 769.

84. Under Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 817, Laws 1903, Ch. 10, providing for recovery of damages done by trespassing cattle, and § 819, providing for notice to the owner of cattle or person having them in charge, a complaint alleging that one through his agent allowed the cattle to trespass and immediately on taking up the cattle plaintiff notified such agent, the owner being in Canada, held sufficient. Moore v. Persson

[S. D.] 111 N. W. 633. Where a county was not named or brought within the provisions of Rev. Code Civ. Proc. § 826, providing for the construction of fences, nor exempted from the herd law Civ. Code Proc. § 38, one claiming damage for injuries caused by trespassing cattle in such county need not plead nor prove that his lands were fenced. Id.

85. An objection that an action for injuries done by trespassing cattle was not brought within the statutory period must be raised by answer and not by demurrer. Express provision of Code Civ. Proc. § 39. Moore v. Persson [S. D.] 111 N. W. 633.

86. Where there was no showing that cattle trespassed on premises during the entire season, the measure of damages is the difference in value of the crop before and after the trespass and not rental value. Cole v. Thompson [Iowa] 112 N. W. 178. Where crops are destroyed the measure of damages is the value of such crops at the time of destruction. Risse v. Collins [Idaho] 87 P. 1006.

87. In an action for injuries to land used for grazing and lambing purposes, when the plaintiff exchanged such land for other land, proof of the value of the use of the other land is not essential to recovery. Painter & Co. v. Stahley Bros. [Wyo.] 90 P. 375. The defendant had the burden to prove the value of subsequent use of the land or of the other land. Id. In determining the amount of damage it was not necessary to find the value of subsequent use of the land or of other land and deduct it from damages sustained. Id.

88. Question of damages done by trespassing animals held for the jury. Painter & Co. v. Stahley Bros. [Wyo.] 90 P. 375. Where there was no evidence that cattle were on premises during the entire season but that defendant built a fence to keep them off and they broke through it two or three times, the question whether there was simply a trespass on an implied agreement to pay rent was for the jury. Cole v. Thompson [Iowa] 112 N. W. 178. Where the only evidence upon which damages could be estimated was evidence of rental value, an instruction which fails to point out the measure of damages is erroneous as the plaintiff was entitled at most to but nominal damages. Id.

89. The words are in such connection synonymous and their conjunction is not misleading. Moore v. Pierson [Tex.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 191, 91 S. W. 1132.

fendant's trespassing one, expert evidence is admissible as to the disposition of boars to fight with each other and as to whether the injuries to plaintiff's animal were such as would be produced by such combat.<sup>90</sup>

In some states the owner of a dog is liable for injuries done by it unless the party injured was at the time doing an unlawful act,<sup>91</sup> and such unlawful act must be pleaded and proved.<sup>92</sup> The act of the dog must have been the proximate cause of the injury complained of,<sup>93</sup> and such fact must be established by the person injured.<sup>94</sup>

Where dogs belonging to several owners injure cattle, each owner is liable for the damages done by his dog,<sup>95</sup> and where stock belonging to several owners trespass, each owner is liable for the damage done by his stock,<sup>96</sup> but several owners of animals who have constituted of them a common or joint herd are jointly liable for trespasses committed by the herd.<sup>97</sup>

<sup>92</sup>. A defendant in an action for such injury must plead and prove the unlawful act. Beckler v. Merringer, 131 Iowa 614, 109 N. W. 185.

<sup>93</sup>. Under Code, § 2340, imposing a liability for injury done by dogs, where a horse on the highway was attacked by dogs and ran into a wire fence, held, if the action of the dogs was the cause that set in motion a tug on the harness of the horse which kept whipping it, such action was the proximate cause of the injury. Beckler v. Merringer, 131 Iowa, 614, 109 N. W. 185. Where one was injured by falling from his wagon because of the sudden starting of his horse and alleged that the horse was caused to start by the acts of a dog, evidence that the horse was in the habit of starting of its own accord is admissible. Johnstone v. Tuttle [Mass.] 81 N. E. 886. Error in excluding such evidence held not cured. Id.

<sup>95</sup>. Rev. Laws 1905, § 4986, does not change the common-law rule that where several dogs kill sheep and do other damage jointly the owner of each dog is liable only for the damage done by his dog and a joint action will not lie against owners of the dogs. The statute merely relieves the plaintiff from the necessity of showing scienter. Nohre v. Wright, 98 Minn. 477, 108 N. W. 865.

<sup>96</sup>. Where stock of different people trespassed on the same field at different times and there was nothing to show the amount of damage caused by the stock of each person, nominal damages only could be allowed. Foster v. Bussey [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1105.

Reinhardt* [Iowa] 111 N. W. 983. In an action for killing a dog where there is no issue of wilfulness made, it is error to base the finding of a verdict on such negligence. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Glover [Ala.] 43 So. 719.

The measure of damage for killing a dog is its value to its master. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Blake [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 264, 95 S. W. 593. The pedigree of an animal may be shown by a certificate of a breeder's association under the hand and seal of its secretary as a basis for valuation. Warrick v. Reinhardt [Iowa] 111 N. W. 983. Where in an action for killing a hog the defendant counterclaims for injuries done by it to crops, the market value of such crops may be shown where the amount destroyed appears. Id.

1. Where a dog was killed by a locomotive, negligence in operating the train at a high rate of speed held not the proximate cause of the injury. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Blake [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 264, 95 S. W. 593.

2. Evidence insufficient to sustain a judgment for one who sued for the shooting of his dog. Lipscomb v. Seaman [Ala.] 44 So. 46. Where in an action for killing a dog the evidence afforded an inference of negligent killing, a verdict should not be directed for defendant. Mobile, etc., R. Co. v. Glover [Ala.] 43 So. 719.

§ 5. Contracts of agistment.<sup>7</sup>—An agister who contracts to care for cattle is liable for damage done by them if they escape and trespass.<sup>8</sup> A livery stable keeper is not liable for loss of animals kept by him unless the loss was caused by his failure to exercise ordinary care,<sup>9</sup> but he is liable if loss results from failure to do so.<sup>10</sup>

11. Where an owner of a race horse hired it to another and becoming dissatisfied with the management asked for an account of its maintenance, and when it was not furnished replevied the horse. At that time there was a valid lien against the horse. A third person replevied it from the owner and returned it to the custody of the keeper. Held such keeper had no lien for its maintenance from that time. Hodgkins v. Bowser [Mass.] 80 N. E. 796.

12. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 4228, giving a lien for keeping animals, the lien cannot exist unless the possession of the animals is with the agister. Cotton v. Arnold, 118 Mo. App. 596, 95 S. W. 280. Where one rented a pasture by the acre and turned his cattle into it and the owner of the pasture rendered some slight services thereafter in caring for the animals, held the possession of the cattle was in the tenant and the owner of the pasture had no agister lien. Id.

13. A livery stable keeper's lien for the care of stock given by Burn's Ann. St. 1894, § 7254, is not assignable. Reardon v. Higgins [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 208.

14. One who has an agister's lien under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, c. 3, waives it by suing for the amount of the debt and causing the animals to be attached, as the lien under the statute and the lien under the attachment are inconsistent and cannot coexist. 16. Acts 1903, p. 183, authorizing summary destruction of hogs running at large on a public levee is a proper exercise of the state's power to protect levees and not a taking of property without due process. Ross v. Desha Levee Board [Ark.] 103 S. W. 380.

17. Where cattle are taken up under Ann. St. 1906, p. 2585, the written notice to the owner stating the amount of costs must be given. Ann. St. 1906, p. 2586, providing that no notice need be given where the owner has actual notice, applies only where the damages cannot be agreed upon. Gates v. Crandall [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 51. Code, § 2313, providing that trespassing cattle may be distrained unless they escape because of failure to maintain a lawful partition fence, is only applicable for the protection of land fenced as required by law. Foster v. Bussey [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1105.

18. Laws 1903, p. 30, making it a crime to take up estrays, violates the constituauthorized to make effective ordinances prohibiting the running at large of animals.<sup>19</sup> Such ordinances must be reasonable.<sup>20</sup> The constitution and laws of Texas relative to stock law elections do not prevent a city from prohibiting stock from running at large within its limits without an election.<sup>21</sup> An ordinance prohibiting stock from running at large and authorizing the impounding of animals and fixing costs authorizes the holding of impounded animals for costs.<sup>22</sup>

19. Rev. St. 1899, § 5836, as amended by Ann. St. 1906, p. 2950, empowering cities to regulate the running at large of stock, does not exclude operation of Ann. St. 1906, p. 2585, and state and municipal authorities have concurrent jurisdiction over the matter, and an ordinance permitting milch cows to run at large during certain seasons does not supersede the general law. Gates v. Crandall [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 51. Indictment charging that one "unlawfully" allowed hogs to run at large within a district where it was prohibited was sufficient under Acts 1890-91, p. 774; Acts 1896-97, p. 648; Acts 1900-01, p. 923, fixing the limits of such district within which owners of hogs are prohibited from "knowingly" allowing them to run at large. State v. Patterson [Ala.] 42 So. 19. Act Feb. 9, 1897, makes it an offense to permit hogs to run at large in certain territory in Madison County, and Act Feb. 16, 1891, enlarged the area of such county. Held an indictment for allowing hogs to run at large in Madison County but not describing the territory was not demurrable. Id. Under an ordinance penalizing one who permits cattle to run at large and authorizing the marshal to impound them, an animal may be impounded though at large through no fault of the owner. Evans v. Holman [Mo.] 100 S. W. 624. Under a city ordinance providing for a dog tax and authorizing the chief of police to employ a dog catcher, held the dog catcher, though selected by the chief of police, was himself a public servant and the chief was not liable for his misconduct in the performance of his duties. Casey v. Scott [Ark.] 101 S. W. 1152.

20. In determining whether an ordinance prohibiting the keeping of hogs is reasonable, condition of lots in which hogs are kept is not to be considered. Town of Brunson v. Youmans [S. C.] 56 S. E. 651.

Under Ann. St. 1906, p. 3011, authorizing cities to prohibit animals from running at large and impound them and penalize the owner, the city may provide for payment of costs and hold the cattle until paid, though they were at large through no fault of the owner. Evans v. Holman [Mo.] 100 S. W. 624.

23. See 7 C. L. 125.

24. See 5 C. L. 124, n. 59. Burn's Ann. St. 1901, § 4357, authorizing trustees of a town to declare what shall constitute a nuisance and take measures for preservation of health, empowers them to prohibit the keeping of hogs in pen within corporate limits and within 200 feet of a street or alley. Miller v. Syracuse [Ind.] 80 N. E. 411. Evidence sufficient to sustain a conviction of a nonresident for herding and grazing and permitting his cattle to run at large in the state. Beattie v. State, 77 Ark. 247, 95 S. W. 163. "Assented" is equivalent to "consented" in an instruction that if a nonresident's cattle were being herded or permitted to run at large, and he while in the state assented to it he was guilty. Id.

25. Owners may be compelled to keep them within their own enclosure and keep them off certain territory. Reser v. Umattilla County [Or.] 86 P. 595. As an incident to such power a charge or fee may be exacted for the exercise of such privilege. Id.

26. An action may be maintained under Rev. St. 1887, § 1210, for the trespass of sheep within two miles of plaintiff's dwelling house, where he is the fee owner of the land on which his house stands. Risse v. Collins [Idaho] 37 P. 1006. In actions under Rev. St. 1887, §§ 1210, 1211, damages sustained by reason of herding sheep upon public land within two miles of a dwelling are measured by a different standard and made up of different elements from damages caused by trespass. Id.

The rules and regulations of the secretary of the interior relative to the graping of stock on forest reserves are reasonable and within the authority conferred by Congress. *United States v. grazing on the public domain cannot be monopolized.<sup>29</sup> In many states statutes provide for the determination by election of whether stock shall be permitted to run at large.<sup>30</sup> Statutory requirements as to such election must be observed.<sup>31</sup> The petition for the election must conform to statutory requirements<sup>32</sup> and must describe the boundaries of the district,<sup>33</sup> and statutory conditions precedent to the law going into effect must be observed.<sup>34</sup> An order for a stock law election is not invalidated by the fact that it contains surplusage.<sup>35</sup> Irregularities in stock law collection do not avoid it,<sup>36</sup> nor can such irregularities,<sup>37</sup> or the proceedings for the establishment of a stock law district,<sup>38</sup> be inquired into in a collateral proceeding, but the invalidity of an election may be.<sup>39</sup>

29. Under 23 U. S. Stat. 321, prohibiting enclosure of public lands, and state laws on the subject, the privilege of grazing on public lands cannot be monopolized either directly or indirectly under a claim that one is protecting his own lands. Richards v. Sanderson [Colo.] 89 P. 769.

30. Kirby's Dig. §§ 1378, 1379, amending Sand, & H. Dig. § 1176, authorizing the establishment of fencing districts by repeating the section and adding a provision authorizing the establishment of fencing districts for small stock, etc., authorizes establishment of district to restrain small stock. The amendment is properly made though in the same section it repeats the original provisions and adds the one relative to small stock. Flowers v. State [Ark.] 103 S. W. 384. The statute providing for an election to determine whether hogs, sheep, and goats shall be permitted to run at large, and the one to determine whether horses, mules, and cattle shall run at large, were passed at different times, but one election may be held and the requisites of each statute complied with. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 888, 97 S. W. 106. Acts 1894-95, p. 749, authorizing the commissioner's court of a certain county to establish a stock law district, being a local act, was not repealed by Acts 1903, p. 431. Mayfield v. Tuscaloosa County Com'rs [Ala.] 41 So. 932. Act Dec. 22, 1892, exempting a portion of a county from operation of the stock law between certain dates of each year, does not deny equal protection of the laws. Brown v. Tharpe, 74 S. C. 207, 54 S. E. 363. Nor is it a taking of private property for private use. Id. Where on appeal from a conviction of permitting stock to run at large it appears that the stock law is void, the cause will be reversed and dismissed instead of reversed and remanded. Peters v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 97 S. W. 498.

31. Where the managers of a stock law election in certifying the result recited "We the undersigned inspectors," etc., it was no objection to their return that they signed their names as "Inspectors." Henry v. Jefferson County Revenue [Ala.] 44 So. 110. Under Acts 1900-01, providing for the certification to the probate judge of the results of a stock law election by the managers of such election, a certification by one of two managers is sufficient. Dismubers v. Jones [Ala.] 44 So. 182.

32. Under Laws 1900-01, p. 170, providing that a probate judge may order an election to decide whether stock shall be allowed to run at large on the petition of freeholders, a petition seeking to "restrain" stock from running at large authorized the judge to order such election. Dismubers v. Jones [Ala.] 44 So. 182.

33. A description of the boundary of a stock district is certain where the boundary is described by metes and bounds. Express provision of Acts 1900-01, p. 170. Jones v. Elliott [Ala.] 43 So. 564. A petition of the requisite number of freeholders under this act which failed to describe the limits of the justice precinct for which the election was to be held by metes and bounds was void. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Tolbert [Tex.] 101 S. W. 206. Under Acts 26th Seg. c. 128, § 3, providing that if a petition for a stock law election be from the freeholders of a subdivision of a county such subdivision shall be described and the boundaries designated, it is insufficient where the petition merely designates the number of the precinct. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Tolbert [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1014. The provision of Acts 1894-95, p. 749, requiring order establishing a stock law district to describe the boundary lines, is complied with by describing the territory included. Mayfield v. Tuscaloosa County Com'rs [Ala.] 41 So. 932. That the boundary of a stock law district is irregular is immaterial where all the territory embraced is within the district. Jones v. Elliott [Ala.] 43 So. 564.

34. Where a militia district seeks to adopt a no fence stock law under Pol. Code 1895, § 1781, as amended by Acts 1899, p. 30, it is a condition precedent to the law going into effect that within six months after the election the ordinary shall have good fences erected around such portions of the district as touch nonstock law districts. Johnson v. Tanner, 126 Ga. 718, 56 S. E. 80. Under the act of 1899, the ordinary has not jurisdiction to pass judgment to the effect that "since the election had been held and had resulted in favor of stock law, and since the fence had been constructed within six months after the election, the stock law was in force. Id. Evidence insufficient to show that no fence law was in effect in the militia district at the time of the impounding of animals for running at large in the same. Id.

35. Recital in the order relative to fencing the district. Henry v. Jefferson County Revenue [Ala.] 44 So. 110.

36. Where one election determined the will of the voters under two statutes. Houston, etc. R. Co. v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 888, 97 S. W. 106.

37. In an action for animals killed. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 888, 97 S. W. 106.

38. The proceedings for the establishment of a stock law district are not sub-

§ 9. Cruelty to animals.<sup>52</sup>

ject to collateral attack in an action for damages for permitting stock to run at large. Dismukes v. Jones [Ala.] 44 So. 182.

39. The validity of a stock law election may be inquired into in an action against a railroad for injuries to stock. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Tolbert [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1014. Where a stock law election was void, the fact that it had been declared to be in force and was being observed does not effect the liability of a railroad for killing stock. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Tolbert [Tex.] 101 S. W. 206.

40. See 7 C. L. 126. See, also, Carriers, 7 C. L. 554, as to carriage of live stock.

41. Laws 1903, p. 37, provides that when sheep are found diseased the state inspector shall make provision for quarantine and define the place and limit within which they may be grazed. Held the act of the inspector in quarantining and selecting the place and limits of quarantine are quasi judicial and he is not liable for damage for injuries resulting therefrom in the absence of malice or corruption. Garff v. Smith [Utah] 86 P. 772. An information under Sess. Laws 1895, c. 495, relative to the inspection of cattle shipped into the state, held not bad because "er" was left off "commissioner" in describing the official empowered to make such inspection, want of any inspection being charged. State v. Asbell [Kan.] 86 P. 457.

42. Sess. Laws 1895, Ch. 495, relative to the inspection of live stock imported into the state, is a reasonable inspection law necessary to protect cattle from the ravages of infectious diseases and is not a commerce regulation. State v. Sabell [Kan.] 86 P. 457.

43. Under Rev. St. § 19, Ch. 19, one who sells an animal infected with tuberculosis is guilty of offense regardless of the question of scienter. Church v. Knowles, 101 Me. 264, 63 A. 1042. Cobbeys' Ann. St. 1903, § 3171, prescribing a penalty for selling glandered horses or permitting them to run at large, was not repealed by §§ 3174, 3177, preventing the importation, etc., of any domestic animal inflicted with a contagious disease. Canham v. Bruegman [Neb.] 109 N. W. 733.

44. Under Rev. St. § 19 Ch. 19, one who sells oxen which are infected with tuberculosis and takes a note therefor cannot recover on the note though he had no knowledge that the animals were diseased.

Church v. Knowles, 101 Me. 264, 63 A. 1042. In an action for damages by a vendee against a vendor of horses infected with glanders, a complaint is not obnoxious to general demurrer because of an omission to allege that before or at the time of the sale the vendor had knowledge that the animals were so infected. Canham v. Bruegman [Neb.] 109 N. W. 733.

45. Reynolds v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 569. Evidence insufficient to show negligence where cattle escaped by working a gate loose which had never been opened in that manner before and was in no way defective. Id.

46. Where quarantine restrictions were limited to pastures in which infected cattle were or had been running, a railroad company is not liable in damages caused by a quarantine being declared against a pasture because it negligently permitted cattle to escape into it where it did not appear that any of the cattle were infected or that any cattle in the pasture were thereafter infected. Reynolds v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex.] 102 S. W. 524.

47. See 7 C. L. 126.

48. Where a stock brand has been recorded under Sess. Laws 1905, p. 352, the production of the original certificate issued by the state recorder or a certified copy of the record is prima facie evidence of the ownership of the brand and of the right to possession of the animals which bear such brand. State v. Dunn [Idaho] 88 P. 235. Under the provisions of Sess. Laws 1905, p. 352, no ownership can be acquired in a stock brand or the right to use the same except by compliance with the statute for the recording and transfer of brands. Id.

49. Under Sess. Laws 1905, p. 353, known as the "live stock law," parol evidence is not admissible to prove ownership of branded stock. State v. Dunn [Idaho] 88 P. 235.

50. One who has failed to record his brand as required by statute must prove ownership on an animal in the same manner as he would prove ownership of an unbranded animal. State v. Dunn [Idaho] 88 P. 235.

main an animal.<sup>54</sup> In Montana it is an offense to drive cattle from their accustomed range.<sup>55</sup> In Texas it is an offense to beat an animal willfully and wantonly.<sup>56</sup> Larceny of cattle is punishable under general statutes,<sup>57</sup> but is sometimes specially defined and penalized,<sup>58</sup> general rules being applicable except as such statutes control.<sup>59</sup>

ANNUITIES.<sup>60</sup>

The mental capacity required to make an annuity is that required to contract and not that required to make a will.<sup>61</sup> Where an annuity is provided for by will the usual rules as to the construction of wills apply.<sup>62</sup> An annuity contract may be avoided for undue influence<sup>63</sup> or for fraud on creditors.<sup>64</sup> Equity will enforce an annuity contract according to its terms.<sup>65</sup>

54. One who shoots a cow in the udder is guilty of the statutory offense of maiming animals. Brown v. State [Ga.] 56 S. E. 405. Evidence sufficient to establish the offense. Id.

55. Under 1 Mill's Ann. St. §§ 1424, 1425, providing that one who maliciously drives cattle from their usual range shall be liable, willful driving to any material extent from public domain within which cattle are accustomed to range to another locality is a driving from the usual range. Richards v. Sanderson [Colo.] 89 P. 769. "Maliciously" in such statute means "intentionally" without just cause or excuse. Id. Under Mill's Ann. St. §§ 1424, 1425, making it a misdemeanor to maliciously drive cattle from their usual range, where in an action to recover it was undisputed that the vicinity from which cattle were driven was their usual range, it was not necessary to instruct as to the quantum of proof necessary to establish the fact that cattle had been willfully driven from their usual range. Id. It was also unnecessary to define "range." Id. Advice of counsel is no defense to the willful driving of cattle from their usual range. Id.

58. In a prosecution for larceny of domestic animals under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 2480, evidence of marks and brands is competent to prove ownership though not recorded. Art. 4, c. 3, § 101, does not make such evidence incompetent. Hurst v. Ter., 16 Okl. 600, 86 P. 280.

59. In a prosecution for larceny of domestic animals under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 2480, since such statute does not define the offense the common-law rule applies, and it is not necessary to allege nor prove want of consent on the part of the owner. Hurst v. Ter., 16 Okl. 600, 86 P. 280. In a prosecution for larceny of domestic animals where the offense charged is the theft of one animal of a number delivered by defendant at one time, it may be shown that two other animals sold and delivered at the time were claimed by third persons. Id.

of the law.<sup>74</sup>—Within the constitutional and organic law<sup>75</sup> the legislature has exclusive power to withdraw,<sup>76</sup> or regulate<sup>77</sup> the right of review of judicial proceedings. The right is favored in the law, but being purely statutory<sup>78</sup> cannot be extended or denied by the courts.<sup>79</sup> The suing out of a writ of error is deemed the commencement of a new action,<sup>80</sup> but there seems to be a conflict of authority as to whether the same is true of an appeal.<sup>81</sup>

Clause of Act Apr. 13, 1900, 94 Ohio Laws, p. 137, giving right of appeal from probate court of certain counties to circuit court in partition and other proceedings, held invalid under Const. art. 2, § 26, requiring general laws to have universal operation throughout the state. Wallace v. Leiter [Ohio] 81 N. E. 187. Since right given by organic act of a territory cannot be taken away by legislature, held that where appeal was taken under existing statute, repeal thereof without saving clause did not deprive supreme court of jurisdiction. Sena v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 485.

76. Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, p. 585, c. 34, § 7, making decision of county court final in contests over removal of county seat, is constitutional, no property rights or personal liberty being involved. Loomis v. Hodson [Ill.] 79 N. E. 590, afg. 122 Ill. App. 75. Legislature has power to deny right of appeal in cases involving sale of intoxicating liquor. Hulvey v. Roberts [Va.] 55 S. E. 585.

77. Is no absolute right in suitor to have decision against him reviewed, which must be respected in making laws, and in absence of constitutional inhibition it is within power of legislature to prescribe cases and courts in which parties shall be entitled to appellate remedies. Powhatan Coal & Coke Co. v. Ritz [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 257.

78. Merritt v. Crane Co., 225 Ill. 181, 80 N. E. 103; Brown v. Brown [Ind.] 80 N. E. 535. Unknown to common law. United Iron Works Co. v. Sand Ridge L. & Z. Co. [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 1104. Statutes granting it must be strictly pursued. In Terrell's Estate, 6 Ind. T. 412, 98 S. W. 143.

79. Appeal provided for by statute is matter of right and does not rest in discretion of court or judge. May be denied only where no appeal is permitted by law. McCourt v. Singers-Bigger [C. C. A.] 150 F. 102.

80. City of St. Louis v. Butler [Mo.] 99 S. W. 1092.

81. Is continuation of old action. City of St. Louis v. Butler [Mo.] 99 S. W. 1092. Contra. See 7 C. L. 129, n. 14.

82. See 7 C. L. 129.

83. May waive right to appeal by stipulation. Jones & Co. v. Spokane L. & W. Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 65. An attorney of record may so stipulate without special authority. Id. Where parties stipulated to take appeal in time to be heard at particular term or waive right of appeal, dismissal of an appeal not so taken cannot be avoided on ground that appellant's counsel was mistaken as to time of commencement of term. Id.

84. Held to preclude appeal: Accepting and receipting for amount awarded by judgment on an indivisible claim. Larson v. Vinje [Iowa] 109 N. W. 786. Payment by appellant's attorney with funds furnished by a surety held absolute and not a payment of judgment by a debtor within meaning of § 3972 of the Code. Plover Mercantile Co. v. Peterson [Iowa] 111 N. W. 944. One cannot take under a judgment and by virtue of it alone, and at the same time prosecute an appeal from it to vacate it. Haggin v. Montague [Ky.] 101 S. W. 893. Proceeding to trial on merits after overruling of demurrer is waiver of right to appeal from order, which can then only be reviewed after final judgment. Hale v. Broe [Okla.] 90 P. 5.

Held not to preclude appeal: Payment of costs by defendant without intention to settle case. Kootenai County v. Hope Lumber Co. [Idaho] 89 P. 1054. Involuntary payment of judgment coerced by posture of defendant's affairs. Lumaghi v. Abt [Mo. App.] 103 S. W. 104. Acceptance by party of amount of judgment which adverse party concedes is due to him does not estop him from appealing to determine his right to further recovery. Meade Plumbing, etc., Co. v. Irwin [Neb.] 109 N. W. 391. Compromise by defendant after judgment with the plaintiff of record, where compromise reached only one-half cause of action, other half having been assigned. Wells, Fargo & Co. Exp. v. Boyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 98 S. W. 441.

85. Appeal in ejectment case dismissed as to an appellant who transferred her interest in land pending appeal. Collins v. Crawford [Mo.] 103 S. W. 537. One's right to prevent error cannot be defeated by mere ex parte statement in an unverified petition filed by defendant in error after term at which decree was rendered that plaintiff in error had been adjudged bankrupt. Spitznagle v. Cobleigh, 120 Ill. App. 191.

Behn, Meyer & Co. v. Campbell & Go Tauco, 205 U. S. 403, 51 Law. Ed. 857. Judgment of state supreme court affirming a judgment of court below in replevin tried by court. National Live Stock Bank v. First Nat. Bank, 203 U. S. 236, 51 Law. Ed. 192.

92. Proceeding in nature of quo warranto to oust one from office does not relate to franchise or freehold, nor involve $100, exclusive of costs, and hence judgment therein is reviewable by writ of error and not by appeal. People v. Horan, 34 Colo. 304, 86 P. 252. Appeal does not lie under Gen. St. 1902, § 819, from judgment of city court in proceedings by summary process under 14 Sp. Laws, p. 600, c. 123 § 1, but remedy is by writ of error under Gen. Laws 1902, § 788, as amended by Pub. Acts 1908, p. 324, c. 112. Marsh v. Burhans [Conn.] 64 A. 739. "Error" will not lie to "supreme" or "appellate" court to review an order or judgment where statute provides for an "appeal" to "circuit court." Gersman v. Cooper, 125 Ill. App. 402. Under U. S. 1625, contempt proceedings are reviewable by exceptions and not by error. In re Consolidated Rendering Co. [Vt.] 66 A. 790. When act relating to particular proceeding is silent as to method, it must be determined from implied intent of act and nature of order in question. Sullivan v. People, 224 Ill. 468, 79 N. E. 695. Error and not appeal proper method of review in habeas corpus proceedings. Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 65. Id. Appeal, not error, lies to review judgment of supreme court of Philippine Islands in habeas corpus. Fisher v. Baker, 203 U. S. 174, 51 Law. Ed. 142.

93. It is character of case indicated in bill of exceptions, and not term of court stated in judge's certificate thereto, which determines whether a case shall be heard in supreme court as one brought by fast writ of error. Gray v. Gray, 127 Ga. 345, 56 S. E. 438. A judgment committing a party to jail for refusal to comply with order requiring payment of alimony and attorneys' fees must be brought to supreme court by fast writ of error. Id. Decree at chambers dismissing a petition cannot be so reviewed. Ivey v. Rome, 126 Ga. 806, 55 S. E. 1034.

United States Standard Voting Mach. Co. v. Hobson [Iowa] 109 N. W. 458. To review interlocutory unappealable order in partition where injustice would otherwise result. Hyde v. Superior Ct. [R. I.] 66 A. 292. Is appropriate remedy to review determination of municipal election contest by city council pursuant to charter. Staples v. Brown, 113 Tenn. 639, 85 S. W. 254. To review proceedings of county court with reference to a decedent's estate, under Rev. St. 1895, art. 332, without any showing why appeal was not pursued. Friend v. Boren [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 54, 95 S. W. 711. To review adjudication as to public use and necessity for which property is sought to be condemned, since appeal will not lie under § 5645, Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. State v. Superior Ct. [Wash.] 86 P. 205.

Certiorari held not to lie: Where appeal might have been taken, although right of appeal has been lost by laches. Hall v. Justices' Ct. [Cal. App.] 89 P. 870. To review order, in suit to foreclose railroad mortgage, directing that crossing tracks of another road be torn up and appointing an agent to carry out order, it not being an order granting a mandatory injunction or appointing a receiver so as to be reviewable under Code Civ. Proc. § 963, subd. 2. Boca & L. R. Co. v. Superior Ct. [Cal.] 88 P. 715. Appeal is proper method to review order granting temporary injunction against liquor nuisance. Young v. Preston, 131 Iowa, 292, 108 N. W. 463. Supreme court will not exercise its supervisory jurisdiction conferred by Const. art 94, in order to review a case in which an appeal does not lie when respondent judge has usurped no power, has not refused to discharge any duty, and there has been no irregularity resulting in denial of justice. In re Theriot, 117 La. 532, 42 So. 93. To review judgment of circuit court, such court being constitu-

To review order of circuit court in ordinary action to impose mechanic's lien, such action being one proceeding according to course of common law, and hence reviewable only by error. Five-Mile Beach Lumber Co. v. Friday [N. J. Law] 66 A. 901. Under P. L. 1883, p. 183, § 21, Gen. St. p. 2483, appeal is remedy for review in civil suits for penalties in police court where such court has jurisdiction and judgment is not by confession. City of Rahway v. Hunt [N. J. Law] 65 A. 164. Where exceptions are sufficient to prevent the full record to appellate court. In re Consol. Rendering Co. [Vt.] 66 A. 790. To review error in impanelling jury in condemnation proceedings, since appeal lies under Ball. Ann. Codes & St. § 5645. State v. Superior Ct. [Wash.] 86 P. 205. Where in condemnation proceedings, court entered ordinary money judgment instead of decreeing payment before taking, and on motion to vacate or modify judgment ordered defendant to elect whether it would take or refuse property, which defendant declined to do, whereupon motion to vacate or modify was denied, such entry and subsequent rulings are reviewable on appeal. State v. Superior Ct. [Wash.] 87 P. 814. Fact that writ of review is more speedy than remedy by appeal does not render latter inadequate within Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 5741. State v. Superior Ct. [Wash.] 89 P. 879. Since under Laws 1905, p. 84, c. 55, § 50, appeal lies to review adjudication that use for which municipality seeks to condemn property is public one, writ of review does not. Id.

98. See, also, Prohibition, Writ of, 8 C. L. 1467. If court has not jurisdiction, prohibition is appropriate remedy for preventing action. Powhatan Coal & Coke Co. v. Iltz [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 257. Prohibition will not issue on ground of lack of right of review of action of court sought to be prohibited. Id. Supreme court will not exercise its supervisory jurisdiction by issuing writ of prohibition where respondent judge has not usurped any authority or refused to discharge any duty and there has been no irregularity resulting in denial of justice. To review order dismissing appeal from probate court for lack of sufficient showing of authority to prosecute it, since writ of error lies. City of Flint v. Genesee Circ. Judge [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 829, 109 N. W. 769. To review order dismissing petition in condemnation proceedings on objection of property owner. Detroit United R. Co. v. Oakland County Circ. Judge [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 842, 109 N. W. 846. To compel lower court to vacate erroneous order extending time for appeal from judgment of justice of peace. Cosgrove v. Wayne Circ. Judge, 144 Mich. 682, 13 Det. Leg. N. 311, 108 N. W. 361. To compel municipal court to retain jurisdiction of cause erroneously transferred to another court. People v. Murray, 104 N. Y. S. 740. Whether supreme court will, in exercise of its supervisory jurisdiction, issue writ of mandamus rests in discretion of such court. State v. Summit Lumber Co., 117 La. 643, 42 So. 195. Supreme court will not exercise its supervisory jurisdiction conferred by Const. art. 94, by issue of writ of mandamus to compel issue of injunction against execution of judgment where relator has remedy by appeal from such judgment and from denial of injunction. Beasley v. Jenkins, 117 La. 577, 42 So. 145. Decree in action in which plaintiffs sought to be recognized as forced heirs of a decedent, to be sent into possession of his estate unconditionally, to have appointment of executrix decreed null, etc., held to sufficiently decide issues as presented to enable plaintiffs to appeal and to have all the questions involved decided on such appeal so that remedial writ of mandamus would not issue. Landry v. Bellanger [La.] 44 So. 266. Denial of motion to quash affidavit of service because of jurisdictional defects is reviewable on writ of error, judgment and all proceedings being void on face of record, and it is not necessary for defendant to review motion by mandamus. Monger v. New Era Ass'n, 145 Mich. 683, 13 Det. Leg. N. 653, 108 N. W. 1111.

Mandamus lies for refusal of circuit court to prescribe method and direct service of writ of scire facias, and for refusal, after sufficient service, to take jurisdiction of issues presented by writ. Collin County Nat. St. 1905, p. 806, c. 42, § 25, only parties to an appeal to county court from classification of lands and amounts by drainage commissioners can take a further appeal. Carr v. People, 224 Ill. 160, 79 N. E. 648. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, p. 806, c. 42, § 24, relating to classification of lands by drainage commissioners, only such persons as appear and urge objections can appeal from the decision of the commissioners. Id.

Held entitled to appeal: Garnishee from order charging him as garnishee. Grimwood Co. v. Capitol Hill Bldg. & Const. Co. [R. I.] 65 A. 304. Where a petition to intervene in equity is treated as having been properly filed, though no formal leave to file it was granted, petitioner was a party so that he could appeal from an order dismissing it on its merits. Parsons v. Little, 28 App. D. C. 218. In action by county to recover of corporation poll taxes due from its employees, appeal may be taken by county and in its name as it is party in interest. Kootenai County v. Hope Lumber Co. [Idaho] 89 P. 1054. Administrator who was party of record below participated in case and had written authority to represent certain heirs could take joint appeal with another defendant. King v. Savage Brick Co., 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 582.

Held not entitled to appeal: Mere filing claims with receiver does not make creditors parties to suit by another creditor in which receiver was appointed. Scott v. Great Western Coal & Coke Co., 223 Ill. 271, 79 N. E. 53. One cannot appeal individually from judgment in suit in which he is party only in capacity as executor. Cleveland v. Cleveland, 225 Ill. 570, 80 N. E. 302. Order of court reciting that certain corporation had appeared and ordering that court retain jurisdiction over it to enforce its compliance with terms of a bid held not sufficient to make such corporation party. Foreman v. Defrees, 120 Ill. App. 486. Rev. St. 1887, § 1776, as amended by Act. Feb. 14, 1899 (Sess. Laws 1899, p. 248), authorizes appeals from actions of board of commissioners only by "persons" aggrieved or by taxpayers, and does not authorize an appeal by county. Kootenai County v. Dittmore [Idaho] 88 P. 232. Where attorney for litigant moves, as such attorney, for an appeal from judgment against client, but alleges error to prejudice of the "mover" and prays that he ("mover") be allowed an appeal, and order prepared by him grants an appeal to the "mover," and it is not pretended that attorney has any appealable interest, appeal will be dismissed. Voelkel v. Succession of Aurich [La.] 43 So. 151. One who did not appeal from justice to circuit court not entitled to further appeal. Sexton v. Snyder, 119 Mo. App. 668, 94 S. W. 562. One of several bond holders represented by trustee is not entitled as matter of right to intervene and become a party to enable him to appeal. Fink v. Bay Shore Terminal Co. [C. C. A.] 144 F. 837.

6. On appeal by owner of lands assessed in ditch proceedings, only parties to judgment need join. Kline v. Hagey [Ind.] 81 N. E. 209. Under statute making county necessary party to action to settle disputed boundary lines affecting location of any public road, supreme court acquires no jurisdiction over an appeal in such a proceeding unless notice of appeal was served on county, it being also a necessary party to appeal. Knight v. Action [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1089. In suit under intrusion into office act, citizens at whose instance suit is brought need not be made parties, and where judgment is rendered for costs against one of such citizens who is not party to suit, such citizen need not be made party to appeal by state. State v. Reid [La.] 42 So. 662. Where judgment is rendered against one and persons on his cost bond, latter are not necessary parties to appeal by the former. Taylor v. Gardner [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 411. Where judgment is joint all defendants must join in appeal therefrom unless there has been summons and severance. Faulkner v. Hutchins, 6 Ind. T. 442, 98 S. W. 153. Appeal from order overruling joint demurrer interposed by two defendants should be taken in name of both. Rensford v. Magnus & Co. [Ala.] 43 So. 853. Personal injury judgment held joint, and several writ of error not sustained without showing that codefendant had been notified and failed to appear or had refused to join. Holbrook, etc., Cont. Co. v. Menard [C. C. A.] 145 F. 498. Joint judgment for firm debt not reviewable at instance of one partner only in absence of sufficient showing of ground for nonjoinder. Port v. Schloss Bros. & Co. [C. C. A.] 149 F. 731.

12. On appeal by principal from judgment against him and his sureties on an appeal bond, sureties are not necessary parties within Mills' Ann. Code, § 400. Christy v. Campbell [Colo.] 87 P. 548. One of several joint defendants applying alone for a writ of error must assign reason why others do not join. Kelmei v. Nine, 121 Mo. App. 718, 97 S. W. 635. When all parties to judgment still living and legal representatives and heirs of those deceased join in assignment of errors, case does not come within Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 647, relating to appeals by part only of several coparties, and notice of appeal from one appellant to another required by such statute is not necessary. Kline v. Hagey [Ind.] 81 N. E. 209.

13. On a term time appeal in ditch proceedings it is not necessary to make copellants all parties against whom judgment was rendered below, as where some of the parties who signed the bond withdrew their names and were allowed to dismiss proceedings as to themselves. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 647a, 647b. Smith v. Gustin [Ind.] 80 N. E. 959.

13a. Husband and wife, distributee and creditor, whose rights were distinct, not entitled to joint appeal. Bitler's Estate, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 84. All parties aggrieved by final decision whereby bill in equity or petition in bankruptcy is dismissed may join in appeal, though some complain of one alleged error and some of another, all prior rulings being reviewable on such appeal. Stevens v. Nave-McCord Merc. Co. [C. C. A.] 150 F. 71.

Parties respondent.<sup>14</sup>—Necessary parties respondent include all persons who may be affected by a reversal.<sup>15</sup> Successors in title or interest may be substituted or brought in.<sup>16</sup>

§ 4. Adjudications which may be reviewed, either generally or in one of two appellate courts. A. Statutes<sup>17</sup> may provide for the review of any proceeding, affix conditions, or withdraw such right.<sup>18</sup> Appealability is determinable as of the time of the order or judgment sought to be reviewed.<sup>19</sup>

(§ 4) B. Reviewableness may be dependent on the general form or character of the adjudication.<sup>20</sup>—The decision must amount to the judgment<sup>21</sup> of the court

14. See 7 C. L. 136.

15. Held necessary parties: All parties jointly interested in joint decree. Harison v. Ocala Bldg. & Loan Ass'n [Fla.] 42 So. 696. All complainants in original bill, an appeal by interveners from decree dismissing intervention. Id. Where building and loan association is being administered by receiver on bill by stockholders, the association does not represent such stockholders on appeal from dismissal of intervention by others claiming to be stockholders. Id. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 648, personal representatives of deceased parties. La Porte Land Co. v. Morrison [Ind.] 78 N. E. 321. Under statute requiring all parties named in and affected by judgment to be made parties, a substituted receiver on appeal by debtor from order directing such receiver to pay certain commissions to his predecessor. Polk v. Johnson [Ind.] 78 N. E. 652. In vacation appeals are parties against whom judgment was rendered. Brown v. Brown [Ind.] 89 N. E. 535. Creditors of deceased who are interested in sustaining homologation of provisional account to appeal by deceased's minor child after attaining majority. Succession of Guilebert, 117 La. 371, 41 So. 653. Certain intervenors and creditors in petition for writ of error in foreclosure. Fleming v. Raywood Rice Canal & Mill Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 324, 95 S. W. 377.

Held not necessary parties: On appeal from circuit in ditch proceedings, parties who were not remonstrators and who were not, therefore, parties to judgment of circuit court. Smith v. Gustin [Ind.] 80 N. E. 959. Where, in action against city and another for personal injuries, judgment was rendered against city and action was dismissed as to other defendant, and city appealed making plaintiff and codefendant appellees, held that appeal would be dismissed as to latter, city having no cause for complaint that judgment was not rendered against him, since it sought no remedy against him. City of Covington v. Whitney, 29 Ky. L. R. 1096, 96 S. W. 907. Contractor sued abutting owner to enforce lien for local improvement, and made town party, and judgment was entered adjudging lien against property and dismissing petition as to town. Property owner appealed, making contractor and town appellees. Held that appeal would be dismissed as to latter, appellant having no cause of complaint that contractor did not recover judgment against it. Wolf v. Pierce, 29 Ky. L. R. 1095, 96 S. W. 903.

Held not proper parties: Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 648, providing that in case of death of parties to judgment before appeal the appeal may be taken by and notice may be served on persons in whose favor or against whom the action might have been survived had death occurred prior to judgment, and §§ 2722, 2685, 2687, terminating guardianship of person of unsound mind on death of such person, and making it the guardian's duty to settle the estate without administration, etc., appeal in which guardian alone was made appellee was a nullity, heir of ward being proper appellee. Hurst v. Hawkins [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 216. On death of ward after judgment in his favor, guardian is not proper party appellee, and such an appeal is a nullity. Hurst v. Hawkins [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 42.

16. Heirs should be brought into appeal from divorce decree dividing property where death of a party precedes submission, but not if it is subsequent. Strickland v. Strickland [Ark.] 97 S. W. 659.

17. See 7 C. L. 136.

18. Appeals allowed from all final judgments of county court to circuit court. Kirby's Dig. § 1487. Marion County v. Estes, 79 Ark. 504, 96 S. W. 165.

19. Not as of time of entry. In re Raricon Drainage Dist., 129 Wis. 42, 108 N. W. 198. Unappealable judgment not rendered reviewable on error by statute enacted subsequently to such judgment but before denial of rehearing. Harrison v. Magoon, 205 U. S. 501, 51 Law. Ed. 900. A judgment upon a plea in abatement entered prior to repeal of Rev. Laws, c. 173, § 96, denying appeals from such judgments, is not appealable. Kennedy v. McLellan [Mass.] 79 N. E. 819.

20. See 7 C. L. 136.

21. Judgment must be complete and certain in itself and must appear to be an adjudication not a memorandum. Ritchie County Bk. v. Bee [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 380. Opinion filed by trial court, being mere reason for its conclusion, is not appealable. Hews v. Stonebreaker [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1092. Finding of facts cannot be made to take place of judgment. Propeck v. Propeck [Neb.] 112 N. W. 302. Failure of trial court to enter statement of facts found on minutes as required by Code 1896, § 3320, does not involve an appealable adjudication. Matthews v. Southern R. Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 662. Order that "It is ordered, adjudged, and decreed that the motion to dismiss and the demurrers to bill, except the grounds numbered 13, 16, and 17, which are overruled; and said bill of complaint shall stand dismissed, unless complaint amends," etc., held insufficient to show sustaining of any grounds of demurrer, except by inference which was insufficient to sustain an appeal. Sanders v. Cunningham & Co. [Ala.] 42 So. 610. Probate order settling and allowing administratrix's account, while technically as such,<sup>22</sup> on matters of law or fact as opposed to matters of discretion,<sup>23</sup> such as costs,<sup>24</sup> and it must have reached a finality,<sup>25</sup> become of record,<sup>26</sup> and been against appellant's consent<sup>27</sup> and not due to his default.<sup>28</sup> Decisions other than the fore-not a judgment, must be regarded as such for purpose of appeal. In re Dougherty's Estate, 34 Mont. 336, 86 P. 38. Opinion in election contest embodying judge's views and citation of authorities, but which concluded by declaring respondent entitled to office, held sufficient where no point was made by respondent. Buckley v. McDonald, 33 Mont. 483, 84 P. 1114. Order clearly denying application to intervene, and forbidding filing of complaint, is sufficient to sustain an appeal without a more formal judgment. Dollenmayer v. Pryor [Cal.] 87 P. 616.

22. Decision of a judge in vacation is not the judgment of the court over which he presides and there is no right of appeal therefrom unless given by positive law. Decision of judge in December not judgment of court, and not appealable except under positive provision to that effect. Pittman v. Byars [Tex.] 101 S. W. 789. Under Rev. St. 1895, arts. 940, 996, supreme court has no jurisdiction of appeal from judgment of Court of civil appeals affirming decision in chambers of judge of district court. Id. Under constitution Tex. art. 5, § 29, order of county judge in civil proceeding other than probate, after "called term," is not a "judgment of the county court" within the meaning of Rev. St. 1895, art. 1383, and no appeal will be from it to court of civil appeals. Ex parte Reeves [Tex.] 103 S. W. 478.

23. Denial of rehearing not appealable. Conboy v. First Nat. Bank, 203 U. S. 141, 51 Law. Ed. 128. From an order setting aside a judgment by default and inquiry for excusable neglect under Revisal 1905, § 513, an appeal lies upon the question whether there was excusable neglect. Stockton v. Wolverine Gold Min. Co. [N. C.] 57 S. E. 335. Refusal of chancellor to grant new trial of issue at law in suit to quiet title, held appealable. See Gen. St. p. 3487, § 5, making allowance of issue in such suits obligatory and making verdict conclusive so long as it is permitted to stand. Brady v. Carteret Realty Co., 70 N. J. Eq. 748, 64 A. 1078.

24. Wright v. Gorman-Wright Co. [C. C. A.] 152 F. 408. Order retaxing costs is not a special proceeding nor a summary application after judgment, nor a matter involving the merits, and is not appealable. Feske v. Adam [Wis.] 112 N. W. 456. No appeal from allowance under Rev. St. 1906, § 7246, of fees for defending indigent prisoners. Long v. Miami County Com'rs 75 Ohio St. 539, 80 N. E. 188.

25. Sautter v. Supreme Conclave I. O. H. [N. J. Err. & App.] 65 A. 990. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 644, 1337o. Neyens v. Flesher [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 1087. Record must show final decree. Peterson v. Guttormsen, 125 Ill. App. 28. See Court and Practice Act 1905, p. 141, § 497. McDonald v. Providence Tel. Co., 27 R. I. 595, 65 A. 266. Interlocutory orders are not ordinarily appealable. State v. Des Moines City R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 867. No appeal from interlocutory order in absence of statute expressly providing therefor. Barney v. Elkhart County Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 492. Under Code

1887, § 3454, prior to its amendment, appeal on writ of error did not lie in any case at law until there had been final order or judgment in the cause. Smiley v. Provident Life & Trust Co. [Va.] 56 S. E. 728. Under Code 1904, p. 1836, as amended, proceedings in ejectment cannot be reviewed by supreme court until final judgment has been entered in the cause. Id. Under Court and Practice act 1905, §§ 304, 328, 337, an appeal lies in divorce proceedings only from final decree. Hemenway v. Hemenway [R. I.] 65 A. 608. Interlocutory order in a receivership proceeding suspending enforcement of judgment, foreclosing mortgage lien, is not reviewable until case is finally disposed of. United States & Mexican Trust Co. v. Texas Southern R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1048. Under Code Prac. § 566, trial judge may allow appeals from interlocutory judgments which may cause party irreparable injury. Ansley v. Stuart [La.] 43 So. 892.

Motion for new trial suspends judgment, and it does not become final for purpose of appeal until such motion is disposed of. State v. Kitchens [Ala.] 41 So. 871.

26. Judgment is not appealable until entered of record. Hoffman-Bruner Granite Co. v. Stark [Iowa] 108 N. W. 329; Barribeau v. Detroit [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 810, 109 N. W. 665.

27. Patrick v. Patrick, 30 Ky. L. R. 1364, 101 S. W. 328. Order made upon appellant's as well as appellee's motion. Dockery v. Lowerstein, 121 Mo. App. 394, 99 S. W. 40. A nonsuit taken after an adverse ruling relating solely to the issue of damages, and not to the cause of action, held to be voluntary and premature, and, therefore, held that from it no appeal would lie. Merrick v. Bedford, 141 N. C. 504, 54 S. E. 415.

Held not consent judgment: Grantee not debarred from appealing in suit against him, his trustee for creditors and others, by admissions of trustee's answer and his testimony, where deed of trust recited that grantee was able to pay all his debts, and provided for payment of surplus of proceeds of deed of trust to him. Turpin v. Derickson [Md.] 66 A. 276. Where plaintiff objected to striking of items from complaint, fact that he thereafter agreed that court had no jurisdiction of remaining cause of action did not render judgment of dismissal a consent judgment. Placer County v. Freeman, 149 Cal. 738, 87 P. 628. Missouri court of appeals has jurisdiction to review action of the circuit court in overruling of motion to set aside voluntary nonsuit, where the party taking it was compelled to do so by a decision precluding recovery by him. Dunnevant v. Mocksoud, 122 Mo. App. 428, 99 S. W. 515. Where on the trial the court intimates the opinion that the plaintiff cannot maintain his action, he may submit to a judgment of nonsuit and appeal. Morton v. Blades Lumber Co. [N. C.] 56 S. E. 551. After judgment in replevin for staves, an agreement of the parties that defendant should be credited with amount due him for making the staves does not make the judgment a consent judgment thereby estopping defendant from appealing. Dun- going are reviewable under various statutes if they determine the "merits," "principles of the cause," deny a rightful mode of trial, "in effect discontinue the cause," or "prevent judgment,"<sup>29</sup> or if they affect substantial rights<sup>30</sup> or work irreparable injury to parties cost.<sup>31</sup> In some jurisdictions any interlocutory order is appealable by leave of court, and as to some of such orders even this is needless.<sup>32</sup> Error will not lie to a judgment rendered pursuant to directions given on remand,<sup>33</sup> but where ham v. Williams Cooperage Co. [Ark.] 103 S. W. 386. Nonsuit rendered at party's own request, or with his consent not appealable. Francisco v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 149 F. 354. This rule is not changed by Federal conformity act. Id.

Conformity act has no application to proceedings of Federal appellate courts, or to any means adopted to secure a review of judgments or decrees of the circuit or district courts. Francisco v. Chicago & A. R. Co. [C. C. A.] 149 F. 354.

28. Chute Co. v. Westbay, 101 N. Y. S. 527; Levine v. Munchik, 101 N. Y. S. 14; Wandelohr v. Grayson County Nat. Bank [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 746. Only relief from default is by application under Court & Practice Act, § 428, to trial court, or to supreme court under section 471. In re Stillman [R. I.] 67 A. 4. Appeal does not lie from default judgment where no motion to open it was made. Chute Co. v. Westbay, 101 N. Y. S. 527. No appeal from default judgment in municipal court where such court had jurisdiction. Schiller v. Hardenburg, 102 N. Y. S. 529; Rogg v. Simelowitz, 102 N. Y. S. 535; Epstein v. Weisberger Co., 102 N. Y. S. 488; Steindler v. American Bonding Co., 101 N. Y. S. 795; Dixon v. Carrucl, 103 N. Y. S. 117; Gormley v. Brooklyn Heights R. Co., 102 N. Y. S. 692. Where defendant refuses to plead after denial of motion to strike out parts of complaint, judgment entered is given for want of an "answer" within B. & C. Comp. § 548, and hence not appealable. Brownell v. Salem Flouring Mills Co. [Or.] 87 P. 770. Order appointing substituted trustee entered upon default of the mortgagor under order to show cause is not appealable by the latter. In re Bostwick, 99 N. Y. S. 925. Under § 311 of the Municipal Court Act (Laws 1902, p. 1578, c. 580), judgment entered in action in which defendant has not been personally served with summons and in which he has not appeared is appealable. Gottlieb v. Kurlander, 101 N. Y. S. 751. Where defendant was prevented from taking any part in an action because of his failure to pay an interlocutory judgment for costs, a judgment rendered in the action is appealable. Fallon v. Crocicchia, 102 N. Y. S. 541. Fact that sheriff levied on property of defendant under execution issued on default judgment does not preclude defendant from having question as to whether process was served reviewed on appeal. Hogan v. Gault, 104 N. Y. S. 410.

Held appealable: Default judgment in district, municipal, or police court. Warburton v. Gourse [Mass.] 79 N. E. 270. Decree pro confesso. Gurpin v. Derickson. [Md.] 66 A 276.

29. Order denying leave to come in and defend is appealable. Dewsnap v. Matthews, 102 N. Y. S. 945. Decree of partition, whether after default or after full defense, adjudging title in parties, interests they hold, and that partition be made in proportion defined by it, and leaving nothing to be done except to divide property, "adjudicates the principles of the cause" and contains every element necessary to render it appealable under Code 1899, c. 135, § 1, cl. 7. Richmond v. Richmond [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 736. Citizens and taxpayers denied right to come in as defendants in suit by other citizens and taxpayers to enjoin holding of election under alleged void statute held not entitled to appeal under Code 1892, § 34, "to settle the principles of the case," that section having no reference to questions of practice. Bush v. Ross [Miss.] 43 So. 70.

30. Order denying interveners the right to amend their complaint not appealable under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 6500, subds. 6, 7, authorizing appeals from any order affecting a substantial right which either in effect determines the action and prevents final judgment therein or discontinues the action. Seattle & Northern R. Co. v. Bowman [Wash.] 89 P. 399. An order under B. & C. Comp. § 102, setting aside a default judgment as taken through mistake, inadvertence, and excusable neglect, is not a "final order affecting a substantial right" within § 547. Bowman v. Holman [Or.] 86 P. 792. Where court inadvertently signed two orders, substantially alike, vacating judgment, the action of the court in destroying the order presented by the defendant does not affect a substantial right, and is not appealable. Hill v. Muller, 103 N. Y. S. 94. Order for a compulsory reference is not appealable, though "affecting a substantial right" and "made in the action" within the statute, as it does not in effect determine the action and prevent a judgment from which an appeal might be taken. Wilt v. Neenah Cold Storage Co. [Wis.] 110 N. W. 177. An order correcting a verdict in claim and delivery by striking out a finding as to value is not appealable under Code Civ. Proc. § 1722, as amended by Sess. Laws 1899, p. 146, enumerating certain cases in which appeal may be taken. Frank v. Symons [Mont.] 83 P. 561.

31. Interlocutory judgments appealable only in such case. Bossier's Heirs v. Hollingsworth, 117 La. 221, 41 So. 553.

32. Ruling sustaining demurrer to evidence is an appealable order under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 542, 543. White v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 88 P. 54. Where order of reference to take and state an account is made before a plea in bar of account which goes to the entire demand is considered and determined, the litigant who is prejudiced may at once appeal. Duckworth v. Duckworth [N. C.] 57 S. E. 296.

33. Wright v. Gorman-Wright Co. [C. C. A.] 152 F. 408; McCourt v. Singers-Bigger [C. C. A.] 150 F. 102. Remedy is by timely motion in appellate court for rehearing. Wright v. Gorman-Wright Co. [C. C. A.] 152 F. 408. Writ of error will not lie to review a judgment which has already been affirmed a case is remanded with directions the lower court must construe the remand, and if error is committed in so doing the judgment is subject to correction on review;<sup>34</sup> and so, also, where the judgment after remand determines issues not determined by the prior judgment.<sup>35</sup> Decisions by nonjudicial tribunals or boards are reviewable only by virtue of statutory provision.<sup>36</sup> Rulings relating to pleadings<sup>37</sup> and process,<sup>38</sup> and matters of practice before the trial<sup>39</sup> or judgments on dilatory pleas,<sup>40</sup> are generally not reviewable except under express statutory provision,<sup>41</sup> or where on appeal by the same party, even though affirmance was not on the merits. Salley v. People, 122 Ill. App. 70.

34. Circuit court of appeals could review order attempting to carry out its own decree as to division of costs. Kell v. Frenchard [C. C. A.] 146 F. 245.

35. McCourt v. Singers-Bigger [C. C. A.] 150 F. 102.

36. Decision of board of county commissioners to proceed with construction of court house held not appealable, and same held true of all subsequent proceedings up to allowance of claims for debts incurred by the board in such construction. Kraus v. Lehman [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 550. Order of board of commissioners granting road through private premises and awarding damages is appealable. Latah County v. Haskurther [Idaho] 88 P. 433.

37. Rulings on demurrers not appealable. Gate County v. Bourland [Miss.] 4 So. 379; Brown v. Reiter, 99 N. Y. S. 861; Smith v. Thompson, 103 N. Y. S. 336. Order sustaining demurrer. In re Larson's Estate [Neb.] 109 N. W. 752. Order sustaining demurrer is not final judgment, and hence not appealable. Cutler & Neilson Paint Color Co. v. Hinman [N. M.] 89 P. 267. No appealable final judgment where demurrer was sustained with leave to plaintiff to discontinue, but it did not appear that a discontinuance had been entered or that defendant had entered any judgment against plaintiff. Morris v. Dunbar [C. C. A.] 149 F. 406. Overruling of demurrer to petition. In re Fleming's Estate [Pa.] 66 A. 361. Overruling demurrer to plaintiff's statement of claim. Leedom v. Philadelphia, etc., R. Co. [Pa.] 66 A. 361. Order sustaining demurrer in part and overruling it in part. Cherry Tp. v. Sullivan County, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 502.

Rulings on motions to strike: Sustaining motion to strike demurrer as irregularly interposed. Steinberg v. Saltzman [Wis.] 110 N. W. 198. Where new property rights were brought into the case by amended pleadings and determined by the decree, an order setting aside such decree and striking the amended pleadings was final as to such new rights. Miocene Ditch Co. v. Moore [C. C. A.] 150 F. 483.

Rulings on motions to amend: Allowing amendment of complaint. Albin v. Seattle Elec. Co. [Wash.] 90 P. 425. Order allowing amendment of complaint by striking out names of two parties, and not involving the merits of the case, is not appealable. McDaniel v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [S. C.] 56 S. E. 513. Where only errors assigned are refusal of court to allow certain amendments to petition in case still pending in court below, the writ of error is prematurely sued out and the appellate court is without jurisdiction to entertain the same. Canuet v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Ga.]

57 S. E. 92. Where court sustains special demurrer to specified portions of plaintiff's petition but allows them time to amend, and an amendment is filed within time allowed, and subsequently, after expiration of time allowed, upon the call of the case at a regular term of court, this amendment and an amendment thereto are objected to by the defendant, and the court refuses to allow such amendments, such rulings do not result in a final judgment dismissing the case, but leave the petition, with the paragraphs stricken on special demurrer eliminated, still pending in the trial court. Id.

Leave to plead: Order entered after decree and granting leave to plead to bill in equity, held not final. Jenkins & Reynolds Co. v. Wells, 123 Ill. App. 280.

Order re-establishing lost pleadings pending suit not appealable. See Gen. St. 1906, § 1692. Florida Cent. R. Co. v. Bostwick [Fla.] 44 So. 31.

Rulings on exceptions: Sustaining exceptions to answer. Cleveland v. Insurance Co. [Ala.] 44 So. 37.

Judgment on pleadings: Refusal to hold demurrer or answer frivolous and to render judgment thereon is not appealable. Morgan v. Harris, 141 N. C. 358, 54 S. E. 381.

38. Order quashing service of writ of scire facias without determining that writ may not be otherwise served and without dismissing action not final, and hence unappealable. Collin County Nat. Bk. v. Hughes [C. C. A.] 152 F. 414. Order discharging rule to show cause why service of subpoena in divorce should not be set aside held interlocutory, and not appealable. Tobin v. Tobin, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 186.

39. Order denying an adjournment is not appealable. Chute Co. v. Westbay, 101 N. Y. S. 527. Order removing action from municipal court to city court of New York, not appealable. Bonagur v. Orlandi, 101 N. Y. S. 115. No appeal from order granting or refusing substitution of lost papers in pending case. Alabama City, etc., R. Co. v. Ventress [Ala.] 42 So. 1017. Refusal of municipal court to transfer action to proper district is appealable. People v. Murray, 104 N. Y. S. 740.

47. Ritchie County Bk. v. Bee [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 380. The court has no jurisdiction to pass upon an assignment of error complaining of the refusal of a new trial on a collateral notice, when there has been no final disposition of the main case. Smith v. Estes [Ga.] 57 S. E. 685. The supreme court has no jurisdiction of a case so long as the same is pending in the court below, unless the decision or judgment complained of, if it had been rendered in accordance with the contention of the plaintiff in error, would have been a final disposition of the case. Id.

What constitutes finality: Judgment, to be final, must dispose of case as to all parties and finally dispose of subject-matter of litigation. Terre Haute & L. R. Co. v. Indianapolis & N. W. Trac. Co. [Ind.] 78 N. E. 661. Order to be reviewable must dispose of merits of case and leave nothing for the further judicial determination of court. Continental Trust Co. v. Peterson [Neb.] 110 N. W. 316. The form of the judgment is immaterial, but, in substance, it must stand intrinsically and distinctly, and not inferentially, that the matters in the record have been determined in favor of one of the litigants, or that the rights of the parties in litigation have been adjudicated. Ritchie County Bk. v. Bee [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 380. Order or judgment which finally determines a particular suit is an appealable decision under the circuit courts of appeals act, though it does not bar another proceeding. Stevens v. Nave-McCord Mercantile Co. [C. C. A.] 150 F. 71. Final judgment is one deciding all points in controversy and disposes of all issues not previously disposed of by interlocutory judgments, and is last judgment in the case. Bossier's Heirs v. Hollingsworth, 117 La. 221, 41 So. 553. Finality not affected by failure to provide for costs. Wallen v. Wallen [Va.] 57 S. E. 596. Decree settling the rights of the parties is final, though there remains the statement of an account on principles fixed by the decree. Young v. Rose [Ark.] 98 S. W. 370. Order which determines particular action pending is final, notwithstanding it does not determine right of action involved. French v. Central Const. Co., 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 425. Appeal lies from final order or judgment of county court to the district court under Cobbe's Ann. St. 1903, § 4823, whether the hearing was upon the merits or not. Wecke v. Wortmann [Neb.] 109 N. W. 503. "Final decision" in judiciary act of 1891 is equivalent to "final decree" or "final judgment" used in preceding statutes. Cassatt v. Mitchell Coal & Coke Co. [C. C. A.] 150 F. 32.

Held final: Judgment against one of two defendants, the other defendant not appearing, is appealable. Andrews v. Uncle Joe Diamond Broker [Wash.] 87 P. 947. Judgment allowing suit money and alimony during pendency of suit for divorce is final on that matter, and appealable. Shirley v. Shirley, 79 Ark. 473, 96 S. W. 164. Where in attachment a separate trial is had, under Mills' Ann. St. §§ 2711, 2712, of the claim of exemption, a judgment therein is final for the purpose of review. Eckman v. Poor [Colo.] 87 P. 1088. Order construing deed and determining rights thereunder, and referring cause to commissioner to report facts fails necessarily to carry order into effect. Roush v. Hyre [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 368. Order denying right of intervention is final as to right of intervention, and appeal may be taken without awaiting judgment in the action. Dollenmayer v. Pryor [Cal.] 87 P. 616. Fact that partition decree leaves open question as to whether land is susceptible to actual partition does not prevent its being final where it determines all rights of parties. Crowe v. Kennedy, 224 Ill. 526, 79 N. E. 626. Partition decree fixing rights of respective parties held final. Crowe v. Kennedy, 127 Ill. App. 189. Order setting aside sale in particular proceedings. Barnes v. Henshaw, 226 Ill. 605, 80 N. E. 1076. Order confirming sale of land and directing deed to be made. Forrester v. Howard, 30 Ky. L. R. 375, 98 S. W. 984. Judgment decreeing sale of lands to which appellants have title, execution of which will divest them thereof, is deemed final for purposes of appeal, though court reserves disposition of fund that may be realized from sale. Staton v. Byron [Ky.] 101 S. W. 882. Decree determining title and ordering accounting held final, the court having no power to order an accounting in a suit to quiet title. Howard v. Brown, 197 Mo. 52, 95 S. W. 195.

Held not final: Where, contemporaneously with commencement of action, attachment was sued out and levied, and defendant reconvened for damages against plaintiff and asked to have sureties on attachment bond made parties, and prayed for judgment against them, and sureties answered, held that judgment not disposing of sureties was not final. Holley v. Duke [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 1090. Judgment non obstante veredicto in favor of garnishee. Keystone Brew. Co. v. Canavan [Pa.] 67 A. 48. Order reciting that court refused to hear application to release attached property claimed to be exempt because such application was not properly before it is not final order, reviewable by writ of error, the applicant's remedy being mandamus to compel consideration. Collins v. Stanley [Wyo.] 88 P. 620. Order refusing to require garnishee to pay to clerk of district court sufficient funds to satisfy any judgment which might be rendered. Hawarden State Bank v. Hessler, 131 Iowa, 691, 109 N. W. 210. Appeal from order of court referring back auditor's report premature, report not yet having been finally confirmed by the court. Beach's Estate, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 572. Judgment failing to dispose of claim of intervenor, against whom cross bill prayed for judgment, held not final. Patton v. Bender [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 690. Order requiring payment of money into court not final. Norris Safe & Lock Co. v. Manganese Steel Safe Co. [C. C. A.] 150 F. 577. Order refusing petition for issue to determine paternity of child trovery to the aggrievement of the person claiming review.<sup>48</sup> Under the various statutes the appealability of orders and adjudications in interlocutory<sup>49</sup> or provisional,<sup>50</sup> extraordinary<sup>51</sup> and special<sup>52</sup> proceedings, depends upon their finality and held not final. Commonwealth v. Nagle, 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 175. Order under Court and Practice Act 1905, p. 116, § 402, for production of documents, held not final so as to be appealable under sections 304, 328, 337. Hemenway v. Hemenway [R. I.] 65 A. 608. Action of court in releasing levy held not reviewable until final judgment in attachment proceeding. Sturges Cornish & Burn Co. v. Cornish, 125 Ill. App. 401. Order made in common pleas court in action to enforce stockholders' liability, which determines the liability of some but not of all the defendant stockholders, is interlocutory and not appealable. Marriott v. C., etc., R. Co., 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 495. The vacation of an ex parte order appointing a trustee on the ground that proper notice was not given, but which leaves the application pending, is not appealable. In re Sinclair's Estate [Wash.] 86 P. 1117.

48. Ritchie County Bk. v. Bee [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 380.

49. Order in a proceeding for examination of adverse witnesses before trial under Rev. St. 1898, § 4096, requiring them to produce certain documents, is not within § 3069, giving a right of appeal from a final order affecting a substantial right made in special proceedings or an order granting, refusing, or continuing or modifying a provisional remedy. Phipps v. Wisconsin Cent. R. Co. [Wis.] 110 N. W. 207.

50. Injunction proceedings: Orders granting preliminary injunction and continuing time for hearing on motion to dissolve are not appealable. Caflich v. Logue [Pa.] 65 A. 31. An order which merely reiterates a former order of temporary injunction is not a final order. Rural Home Tel. Co. v. Kentucky & I. Tel. & T. Co., 30 Ky. L. R. 1230, 109 S. W. 847. No appeal lies under act Apr. 14, 1906, from interlocutory order refusing an injunction. Southern R. Co. v. Carolina Coal & Ice Co. [C. C. A.] 151 F. 477. Order dissolving temporary injunction which does not determine or make some final disposition of the case in which the injunction was issued is not appealable. Young v. Albion [Neb.] 110 N. W. 706. Fact that temporary injunction was invoked to protect constitutional rights does not render an order vacating it appealable. State v. Superior Ct. of King County [Wash.] 85 P. 989. Order modifying preliminary injunction is not appealable, nor is an order refusing to set the modifying order aside, neither being final. Simmons v. Alcona County Sup'rs, 144 Mich. 591, 13 Det. Leg. N. 279, 108 N. W. 282. Order modifying injunction with reference to prosecution of certain suits, but not determining cause on merits or ordering dismissal, not final. Vicksburg Waterworks Co. v. Vicksburg [C. C. A.] 153 F. 116. Vacating temporary injunction not reviewable under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 6500, subd. 3, unless there is a finding by superior court that party against whom it was obtained was insolvent. State v. Superior Ct. of King County [Wash.] 85 P. 989. Application for mandamus to compel trial judge to grant suspensive appeal from order dissolving a preliminary injunction on bond refused on ground that order would not work irreparable injury under circumstances. Lewis v. Sandell [La.] 43 So. 526. Refusal of preliminary injunction is appealable. Murphy v. Police Jury of St. Mary Parish, 117 La. 355, 41 So. 647. Refusal to grant a preliminary injunction is appealable under § 4101 of the Code. State v. Roney [Iowa] 110 N. W. 604. Appeal lies under act of 1887 from an interlocutory order denying a motion to dissolve an injunction. Pekin Tel. Co. v. Farmers Tel. Co., 120 Ill. App. 292. Under § 7 of court of appeals act an appeal lies from an interlocutory decree awarding an injunction, and this though the jurisdiction of the court below to issue the injunction may be involved. O'Dell v. Boyden [C. C. A.] 150 F. 731.

Receiverhip proceedings: Order appointing receiver not reviewable until after final disposition of case. Hale v. Broe [Okla.] 90 P. 5. Order denying compensation to receiver or fixing his compensation in whole or in part is final and appealable. In re Bank of Newcastle [Wyo.] 89 P. 1035. Mere direction to receiver not reviewable, where there were no exceptions pendente lite, and case is still pending on merits in lower court. Lambert Holsting Engine Co. v. Dexter, 127 Ga. 581, 56 S. E. 778.

51. Refusal of supreme court of mandamus and order discharging role to show cause why mandamus should issue is not reviewable by writ of error, except in cases covered by mandamus Act 1903, § 6, authorizing review where constitutionality of a statute is involved. School Dist. v. Mannion [N. J. Err. & App.] 65 A. 440. Appeal lies from judgment of district court in habeas corpus proceedings determining rights of conflicting claimants to the custody of a child. Bleakley v. Smart [Kan.] 87 P. 76. Exceptions do not lie to discharge of a prisoner on habeas corpus. Stewart v. Smith [Me.] 64 A. 663. In Georgia a writ of error lies from the refusal of a judge of the superior court to grant leave to file an information in the nature of a writ of quo warranto. McWilliams v. Jacobs [Ga.] 57 S. E. 509.

52. Laws 1905, p. 102, c. 55, § 50, does not confirm right of review in condemnation by city to question of damages, but provides that the practice shall be as in civil actions in general, and hence under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 6500, subd. 1, a city may appeal from an order in such proceedings dismissing its petition. City of Puyallup v. Lacy [Wash.] 86 P. 215. In North Carolina an order of the superior court in condemnation proceedings remanding the cause to the clerk that he may hear the same is interlocutory, and no appeal lies therefrom to the supreme court, though a plea in bar is filed by the defendant. Carolina & T. S. R. Co. v. Bailey [N. C.] 55 S. E. 778. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 9416, 9419, 9447, 9448, 1674, 1688, held not to authorize appeal from county to circuit court by remonstrancers against turning of public road on petition of landowner. Howe v. Callaway, 119 Mo. App. 251, 95 S. W. 974. Writ of error does not lie from judgment of effect, and so, also, as to orders in contempt proceedings.<sup>53</sup> Ex parte orders are not appealable.<sup>54</sup> Orders after judgment<sup>55</sup> are not reviewable separately from the judgment if merely a part or continuation of it; otherwise if they newly determine rights, as in case of orders on motions to vacate or modify judgments are usually appealable.<sup>56</sup> Decisions of lower appellate or intermediate courts are reviewable in county court with respect to location of county seat. Judgment of county court is conclusive. Loomis v. Hodson, 122 Ill. App. 75. An order of the municipal court denying a motion to vacate and cancel an appearance of a tenant in summary proceedings is not appealable. Hallahan v. Cambridge Hotel Co., 103 N. Y. S. 787. Geigel* [Colo.] 89 P. 775. Order of probate court denying motion of administrator pendente lite to require suspended executrix to make settlement held appealable to circuit court under Rev. St. 1899, § 278. Hanley v. Holton [Mo. App.] 96 S. W. 691. Settlement of accounts on resignation of administrator held appealable. Taylor v. Bader, 117 Mo. App. 72, 98 S. W. 80. In a suit to condemn to satisfaction of plaintiff's debt against decedent certain property in hands of defendant, who was both independent executor and sole beneficiary under decedent's will, defendant alleged in his answer that he was by virtue of the terms of the will sole owner of the property. The judgment disposing of all the issues as to all the parties was held to be final and appealable, although no notice was taken therein of the defendant specially in his character of independent executor. Tison v. Gass [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 751. Order allowing parties to apply to court for appointment of road reviewers held interlocutory, and not appealable. Washington Street, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 542. Order appointing drainage commissioners is not a final order in a special proceeding involving a substantial right, and hence not appealable. In re Horicon Drainage Dist., 129 Wis. 42, 108 N. W. 198. Order certifying proceedings to establish drainage ditch back to commissioners with instructions to set aside appointment of viewers and all subsequent proceedings on account of disqualification of one of commissioners held final, since it disposed of case as far as court had power to do so. Carr v. Duhme [Ind.] 78 N. E. 322. Under statute making order confirming report of drainage commissioners final and appealable, an order finding against validity of system and refusing to confirm it is final and appealable, though court refuses to dismiss proceedings because not shown that no other system was available. In re Dancy Drainage Dist., 129 Wis. 129, 108 N. W. 202. Order of county court sustaining objections to special assessments by drainage district defeats the entire proceedings and renders it necessary to commence them over again, and hence is final. Iroquois & Crescent Drainage Dist. v. Harroun, 222 Ill. 489, 78 N. E. 780. Interlocutory decree adjudging certain claims of patents valid and infringed and others invalid and not infringed not final as to the latter, and appeal does not lie by complainant. Library Bureau v. Yawman & Erbe Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 245. Decision or finding that party for whom guardian was requested was an imbecile and resident of county and ought to have a guardian not appealable by such party where no guardian was appointed. In re Guardianship of Elias Breitenstein, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 358. Under Missouri statutes no appeal lies from order for examination of judgment debtor as to ability to pay judgment. Ackerman v. Green [Mo.] 100 S. W. 30.

53. Attachment in orphans' court for contempt, after having an order to show cause being usually followed by further hearing, is not finally determinative, and hence not appealable. In re Doland, 69 N. J. Eq. 802, 64 A. 1091. Contempt order made in progress of case not in nature of criminal proceeding is interlocutory, and not reviewable by circuit court of appeals in advance of final decree. Doyle v. London Guarantee & Acc. Co., 204 U. S. 599, 51 Law. Ed. 641.

54. Proper procedure is to move to vacate order and then appeal from decision on such motion. Wilson v. Martin [Wash.] 86 P. 205.

55. Order granting motion for reargument not appealable. Hart v. Kaplan, 101 N. Y. S. 763. Order overruling motion for reargument not appealable. Steindler v. American Bonding Co., 101 N. Y. S. 795. Order relieving defendant from stipulation setting aside default upon payment of judgment is not appealable. Hering v. Land & Mortg. Co., 103 N. Y. S. 108.

56. Order overruling motion to set aside judgment of dismissal is an order after final judgment and appealable under subd. 3, § 4807, Rev. St. 1887. Oliver v. Kootenai County [Idaho] 90 P. 107. Order of probate court vacating judgment allowing claim held interlocutory, and not appealable. DeClerque v. Campbell, 125 Ill. App. 357. Since under Hill's Ann. St. & Codes, § 1393, the trial court is not authorized to vacate a judgment after term for errors of law, appeal does not lie from denial of motion to vacate on such ground. Sound Inv. Co. v. Fairhaven Land Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 198.

Opening or refusing to open defaults: Order refusing to open default and to set aside an order for judgment is appealable. Barrie v. Northern Assur. Co., 99 Minn. 272, 109 N. W. 248. Appeal lies from an order of municipal court of New York city denying motion to open a default. Steindler v. American Bonding Co., 101 N. Y. S. 795; Levine v. Munchik, 101 N. Y. S. 14. Motion to vacate default based on exceptions taken to ruling of court denying defendant right to defend action is appealable, the prohibition of § 257 cases usually prescribed by statute<sup>57</sup> if they possess finality.<sup>58</sup> Parts of judgments may be reviewed if separate and complete in themselves.<sup>59</sup> As costs are part of the judgment the taxation of them is not separately reviewable.<sup>60</sup>

(§ 4) C. Reviewableness may depend on character or value of action, subject-matter, or controversy.<sup>61</sup>—The action or proceeding must be such as is covered by the statutes relating to appeals,<sup>62</sup> and in order to be reviewable by civil remedies must of the Municipal Court act applying only to appeals from orders opening defaults and vacating judgments where application is made under section 253. Fallon v. Crocicchia, 102 N. Y. S. 541. Under the Municipal Court Act, Laws 1902, c. 580, an order of a municipal court granting motion to open and vacate a default judgment is not appealable. Dixon v. Carrucci, 103 N. Y. S. 117; Wolter v. Liebmann, 102 N. Y. S. 487; Dutch v. Parker, 101 N. Y. S. 271; Beidleman v. Kelly, 99 N. Y. S. 907. Order of municipal court opening a default but not vacating judgment is appealable. Dorfman v. Hirschfield, 103 N. Y. S. 698.

57. Word "appeal" as used in § 2452. Gen. St. 1901, providing that no appeal shall lie from order of district court upon appeal from action of probate judge on application for druggist's license to sell intoxicants, means "review," and hence error will not lie. Hainer v. Burton [Kan.] 89 P. 697. The circuit court has jurisdiction to review an order by the common pleas made on appeal from the overruling by a justice of the peace of a motion to discharge an attachment. Nemit v. Vargo, § Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 97.

58. This language of the Texas statute relating to the jurisdiction of the supreme court "when the judgment of the court of civil appeals reversing a judgment practically settles the case" embraces all cases in which the practical effect of the reversal is to finally determine the rights of the parties. Ellis v. Brooks [Tex.] 102 S. W. 94. Writ of error held properly granted on ground that decision of court of civil appeals practically settled the case. Jockusch, Davison & Co. v. Lyon [Tex.] 102 S. W. 396. Order of court of civil appeals refusing to take jurisdiction of cause and to permit transcript to be filed is not a final judgment. Wandelober v. Rainey [Tex.] 100 S. W. 1155. Judgment of appellate court reversing and remanding for further proceedings is not finally determinative, and hence not appealable to supreme court under Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 110, § 91. Bingham v. Isham [Ill.] 81 N. E. 690. That reversal by court of civil appeals "practically settles the case" may be shown by affidavits on appeal to supreme court. Ellis v. Brooks [Tex.] 102 S. W. 94.

59. In action to try title to land, cross appeal by defendants from finding that plaintiffs, subject to their lease, were owners of one-sixth undivided interest, will not be dismissed as appeal from a part of a judgment, since statute allows such appeals where an appeal from whole judgment is not necessary to fair determination. McDonald v. White [Wash.] 89 P. 891. Where practice of assigning cross errors does not prevail, party may within time limited, appeal from portion of judgment which is unfavorable to him after determination of adverse party's appeal from another portion of judgment. State v. Northern Pac. R. Co., 99 Minn. 280, 109 N. W. 238, 110 N. W. 975. Appeal cannot be taken from two separate and distinct appealable orders, hence appeal from order vacating judgment in favor of appellant and from judgment in favor of opposite party on second trial will be dismissed for duplicity. Ewing v. Lunn [S. D.] 109 N. W. 642.

60. Judgment merely for costs which does not adjudicate the matters in difference between the parties litigant is not a final judgment, and is not appealable. Ritchie County Bk. v. Bee [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 380. The appellate court has not jurisdiction to extend such a judgment into a final judgment in order to pass upon alleged errors. Id. No appeal from Warder overruling motion to retax costs where cause is still pending below. American Surety Co. v. Haynes [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 690. Judgment for costs alone, the merits not being adjudicated therein, though entered for defendant after jury found verdict in his favor, is not such final judgment as will support writ of error. Dexter v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Fla.] 42 So. 695. Judgment for costs after sustaining demurrer to complaint held not final, and hence not appealable. Neyens v. Flesher [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 1087. General finding for defendants, and adjudication that plaintiff pay costs, held not final judgment, and hence not appealable. Miller v. McKean [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 1049. Refusal to require nonresident plaintiff to give security for costs. Boggs v. Inter-American Min. & Smelting Co. [Md.] 66 A. 259; Enderlein v. Coghlan, 102 N. Y. S. 467.

Held appealable: A judgment for defendant for costs after an order sustaining demurrer to plaintiff's evidence is a final judgment, although it does not formally declare that plaintiff take nothing or that defendant go hence without day. White v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 88 P. 54.

62. The presentation of a claim of an official court reporter to judge for allowance is neither an action nor a special proceeding within Code Civ. Proc. § 963, subd. 1, authorizing an appeal from a final judgment in such cases. Pipher v. Superior Ct. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 904. No appeal lies in Rhode Island from a decree for divorce, whether divorce is a vinculo or a mensa. See Court and Practice Act, §§ 9, 304, 328, Gen. Laws 1896, c. 195, §§ 18, 19, as amended by Pub. Laws 1902, c. 971, Pub. Laws. 1899, c. 649. Fidler v. Fidler [R. I.] 65 A. 609. In Georgia the judgment of a judge of a superior court in proceeding for alimony, whether in term, or vacation, or in the progress of the cause, is the subject of writ of error on the same terms that are prescribed in cases of injunctions. Civ. Code 1895, § 2468. Stokes v. Stokes, 126 Ga. 804, 55 S. E. 1023. Under Burns' Ann. St. Sup. 1905, § 5405f, no appeal lies from decision of railroad commission in proceedings under Burns' Ann.

be civil in its nature.<sup>63</sup> It must involve questions of law or of fact to be reviewable by the remedies appropriate to each, e. g., error or appeal. The case may go either to an intermediate or to the highest court or may or may not be subject to further appeal from the former to the latter if any of the criteria hereafter referred to exist.<sup>64</sup> Jurisdiction because of the subject-matter usually prevails over that dependent on the amount,<sup>65</sup> and the existence of one jurisdictional predicate makes others needless,<sup>66</sup> but the existence of one or the other is absolutely essential.<sup>67</sup>

St. 1901, §§ 5158a-5158h, to establish interlocking devices at railroad crossing. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission [Ind.] 78 N. E. 981.

63. Action to recover penalty in forfeited recognizance for appearance of defendant in criminal case is not criminal proceeding, hence United States may have adverse judgment reviewed by circuit court of appeals. United States v. Zarafonitis [C. C. A.] 150 F. 97.

64. Const. art. 8, § 9, authorizing appeals from all final judgments of the district courts, is applicable only to final judgments in actions originally begun therein. McCashland v. Keogh [Utah] 88 P. 680. Under Rev. St. arts. 1155, 996, 940, where from judgment of district court in action on liquor dealers' bond, involving $1,000, an appeal is taken to court of civil appeals, the supreme court is without jurisdiction to grant writ of error to review judgment of latter court. Long v. Green & Co. [Tex.] 101 S. W. 786.

65. Laws 1903, p. 48, c. 52, authorizing appeals from final judgments in district court on appeal from city court except where it does not exceed $100, does not authorize appeal from judgments of non-suit, however much may be involved in litigation. McCashland v. Keogh [Utah] 88 P. 680.

66. Supreme court has jurisdiction of appeal from judgment to tax costs for which party was held liable on previous appeal regardless of amount in controversy. Kentucky court of appeals has jurisdiction of appeal from judgment refusing to adjudge plaintiff a lien on land without regard to amount involved. Withers' Adm'r v. Withers' Heirs, 30 Ky. L. R. 1099, 100 S. W. 253. Supreme court of Texas has jurisdiction of appeal in action against guardian of minor children of a decedent to recover so much of sum collected by defendant on insurance policy on life of decedent as will cover amount of payments made by plaintiff as premiums upon policy with interest, although sum of such payments without interest does not amount to $1,000. Kelly v. Searcy [Tex.] 102 S. W. 100.

67. Supreme court has no jurisdiction of appeal from grant of mandamus to compel district attorney to recuse himself in order that a district attorney pro tem. may be appointed to institute a suit, no amount being in dispute and the suit being in futuro. State v. Lancaster [La.] 42 So. 583. Supreme court held to have no jurisdiction of suit by citizens and tax payers to compel compliance with statute requiring list of those who have paid poll tax to be filed in office of clerk of court, it not involving jurisdictional amount and not being case of which court had jurisdiction regardless of amount. State v. Briede [La.] 43 So. 992. Appeal held not to lie from decree distributing fund to Indians, pursuant to Act Jan. 28, 1893, in which they were entitled to participate per capita, amount in controversy between each individual and government not being $3,000, the jurisdictional amount fixed by Rev. St. § 707. New York Indians v. U. S., 41 Ct. Cl. 462. Supreme court held to have no jurisdiction of appeal by sheriff from taxation of costs in his favor for seizure of property under writs of fi. fa. and advertising it for sale where judgments were satisfied by parties before sale, jurisdictional amount not being involved. Robson v. Beasley [La.] 44 So. 136. Appeal by plaintiffs, in action by residents and taxpayers to have incorporation of village set aside, dismissed, it not being set out in petition that any of appellants, or all of them combined, had pecuniary interest in matter involved which would bring controversy within jurisdiction of supreme court, and appeal as to jurisdiction being governed by ordinary rules on that subject. State v. Pearl River [La.] 43 So. 815.

68. See 7 C. L. 145.

69. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 191, par. 2, subd. 2, an appeal may be allowed by the appellate division from its unanimous affirmance in a suit to recover compensation for services without certifying questions of law, § 190 not being applicable in such case. Fisher Co. v. Woods [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 836. Appeal from probate court's dismissal of petition to set aside decree of such court for separate support is an appeal relating to matter of separate support, and under Rev. Laws, c. 162, § 18, lies to superior court and not to supreme judicial court under § 9. Penno v. Penno [Mass.] 81 N. E. 293. Jurisdiction of supreme court on appeal from appellate court not dependent upon a statute, franchise or freehold being involved. Hill v. Viele, 225 Ill. 163, 80 N. E. 97.

70. Appellate court cannot determine constitutionality of a statute. Earp v. Lilly, 120 Ill. App. 123; People v. Severson, 121 Ill. App. 224. Constitutionality of an ordinance not reviewable by appellate court. Masonic Fraternity Temple Ass'n v. Chicago, 120 Ill. App. 612. In Missouri the court of appeals has no jurisdiction of appeal from rulings on constitutional questions. Wabash R. Co. v. Flannigan, 118 Mo. App. 124, 100 S. W. 661. Appeal involving constitutional question was properly taken directly to supreme court before it was consolidated with the court of appeals. City of Denver v. Iliff [Colo.] 89 P. 823. Supreme court has jurisdiction where constitutionality of municipal ordinance, under which a fine has been imposed, is at issue, but has no jurisdiction as to mode of procedure under such ordinance. Town of Minden v. Crichton [La.] 43 So. 395. Appeal dismissed where only question involved was whether defendant was exempt from road duty under ordinance. Id.

Constitutional question involved: Judgment founded upon erroneous construction of statute which makes its enforcement conflict with constitutional guaranties involves constitutionality of law, and is, therefore, reviewable without regard to the amount in controversy. Underwood Typewriter Co. v. Piggott [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 664.

Constitutional question not involved: Since jury trial may be waived, a demurrer to defendant's plea in action on insurance policy on ground that the policy provision for arbitration set up in such plea deprives plaintiff of jury trial raises no constitutional question. Stephens v. Springfield F. & M. Ins. Co., 27 R. I. 595, 65 A. 300. Constitutional question settled by former cases under doctrine of stare decisis does not confer jurisdiction of direct appeal to supreme court. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Rodgers [Ind.] 81 N. E. 212. No constitutional question involved in question whether a telephone statute applied to individuals. State v. McKee, 196 Mo. 106, 95 S. W. 401. Amended answer alleging that decision of court of appeals conflicted with prior decisions and that the construction of certain statutes by that court violated the state and Federal constitutions held not to raise any constitutional or Federal question so as to confer appellate jurisdiction on supreme court. Sublette v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co., 193 Mo. 190, 95 S. W. 430. Construction of shipping contract held not to involve any questions under the state or Federal constitutions or under the interstate commerce act. Phoenix Powder Mfg. Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 196 Mo. 663, 94 S. W. 235. In suit for viaducter service under city ordinance and contract made pursuant thereto, where defendant assailed, in general terms, legality purposes of trial, interpreted answer to mean and constitutionality of ordinance, and, for that answer infringed upon authority of board of health, held that it could not be said that constitutionality of any toll, tax, or impost was contested, and ordinance not having been declared unconstitutional, and jurisdictional amount not being involved, supreme court had no jurisdiction. Fisher v. Bryson [La.] 44 So. 127.

Constitutional question only a criterion. Constitutional question does not confer jurisdiction on supreme court in proceedings as to which no review is provided for by statute. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission [Ind.] 78 N. E. 981. Va. Const. 1904, p. ccxxx, art. 6, § 88, does not ex proprio vigore invest supreme court of appeals with jurisdiction where constitutional questions are involved, and since Code 1904, § 586a, provides for no appeal to such court in local option elections, the fact that decision of circuit court on validity of such election involved constitutionality of Code 1904, § 62, relating to qualification of voters, did not give right of appeal to supreme court. Hulvey v. Roberts [Va.] 55 S. E. 585.

When statute is held constitutional, court having jurisdiction by virtue of constitutionality of such statute being involved, can not consider other questions. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Chiles [Va.] 57 S. E. 587.

71. Supreme court does not acquire jurisdiction on the ground that question of constitutionality of a statute is involved, where such question was not raised below. Jacobs v. St. Joseph [Mo.] 102 S. W. 988.

72. Under constitutional amendment creating Georgia court of appeals, when that court certifies to supreme court for decision a constitutional question, and that certificate declares that a decision of such question is necessary to the determination of the case, the supreme court has no power to determine whether or not a decision of the question is necessary to the proper determination of the case. Harvey v. Thompson [Ga.] 57 S. E. 104. In Missouri to give the supreme court jurisdiction of an appeal on the ground that a constitutional question is involved, it must appear that such question was raised in the trial court and ruled to the disadvantage of appellant. Shell v. Missouri Pac. R. Co. [Mo.] 100 S. W. 617. Constitutionality of a statute held still an open question where another case involving it was still pending in Federal supreme court. O'Donnell v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co., 197 Mo. 110, 95 S. W. 196.

73. Construction of Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 7954, requiring coroner to hold inquest on notice that body of person supposed to have died from violence or casualty is in county, is involved in appeal by coroner in suit for fees for inquest. Stults v. Allen County Com'rs [Ind.] 81 N. E. 471.

74. The validity of a statute cannot be considered as involved in a case after the question has been decided in the supreme court and its validity sustained so as to give the supreme court jurisdiction to grant a writ of error under the Texas statute, Rev. St. 1895, art. 996. City of San Antonio v. Tobin [Tex.] 102 S. W. 403.

75. Revenue must be directly and not merely incidentally involved. City of Chicago v. Cook County, 224 Ill. 246, 79 N. E. 571. Revenue not involved in contest between city and county as to right of county to certain fees out of taxes already collected for city purposes. Id.

76. Legality of tax involved in suit for license where defense is that statute levying license does not apply to defendant's business. State v. Wenar [La.] 42 So. 726. Legality of taxes assessed by one parish not involved in questions as to whether land lay in such parish, and whether if in such parish payment to another parish would discharge the land from liability. Page v. Thompson, 117 La. 274, 41 So. 571. Under the constitution of Missouri, art. 6, § 12, the court of appeals has no jurisdiction of an appeal in a case involving the construction of the revenue laws. State v. Adkins [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 661.

77. Where freehold is involved appellate court has no jurisdiction. Peterson v. Gut-tormsen, 125 Ill. App. 28. Freehold must not only be involved in case below but also in assignments of error. Gilmore v. Lee

[III.] 81 N. E. 26; Karsten v. Winkelman, 126 Ill. App. 418. Freehold must not only be involved in original decree, but also in questions to be determined on appeal, and hence question of another suit pending and as to whether plea in abatement in partition on that ground was properly stricken, being solely question of practice, does not confer jurisdiction. Miller v. Kensil, 223 Ill. 201, 79 N. E. 24. Freehold must be directly involved and not merely collaterally or incidentally. Burroughs v. Kotz, 226 Ill. 40, 80 N. E. 728.

Freehold involved in proceeding to partition realty. Steele v. Steele, 123 Ill. App. 176. Where perpetual easement was in issue. Snyder v. Baker, 125 Ill. App. 482. Where it was sought to set aside deeds as clouds. Pratt & Co. v. Ashmore, 127 Ill. App. 331. On appeal from denial of administrator's application to sell lands of decedent to pay debts, title to the lands having been put directly in issue below. In re Stahl's Estate [III.] 81 N. E. 531. Appeal lies direct to supreme court from order setting aside sale in partition proceedings. Barnes v. Henshaw, 226 Ill. 605, 80 N. E. 1076. In case by town to recover penalty for obstruction of alleged highway. Town of Audubon v. Hand, 223 Ill. 367, 79 N. E. 71. In suit to set aside probate of will devising real estate in a manner different from that in which it would have descended in absence of will. Gottmanshausen v. Wolfing, 224 Ill., 270, 79 N. E. 611.

Freehold not involved unless the necessary result of the judgment or decree is that one party gains and the other loses a freehold estate. Karsten v. Winkelman, 126 Ill. App. 418. Appeal from order refusing to allow filing of a bill of review in a case involving a freehold held not to involve a freehold. Id. Where question was whether a widow's award should be paid out of proceeds of sale of realty. Miller v. Hammond, 126 Ill. App. 267. No bill seeking to have deed declared a mortgage and to redeem. Caraway v. Sly, 122 Ill. App. 648. Where question was only one of privity between a lien claim and claim for dower and homestead. Lidster v. Poole, 122 Ill. App. 227. In contested will case where will only purports to dispose of personal property. Dowie v. Sutton [III.] 81 N. E. 395. On appeal by one whose property is not taken by vacation of street. Hofmann Bros. Brew. Co. v. Cicero, 223 Ill. 155, 79 N. E. 121. Under Hurds' Rev. St. 1903, c. 52, p. 943, §§ 1 et seq., and c. 68, § 16, the wife's interest in the husband's homestead is not a freehold. Taylor v. Taylor, 223 Ill. 423, 79 N. E. 139. On appeal from decree enjoining issue of tax deed. Glos v. Sanitary Dist., 224 Ill. 272, 79 N. E. 562. In suit to enjoin issue of tax deed to defendant on ground that property belonged to plaintiff where suit was dismissed for want of equity and no tax deed was issued. Bush v. Caldwell, 224 Ill. 93, 79 N. E. 434. Where owner after foreclosure and before execution of master's deed sued assignee of certificate of sale and obtained decree authorizing redemption within certain time, the freehold being only collaterally involved and the decree not being an unconditional disposition of the freehold. Burroughs v. Kotz, 226 Ill. 40, 80 N. E. 728.

The original bill having been filed before the execution of the master's deed, the setting aside of such deed was only an incident to the right of redemption and had no bearing on the real question in controversy. Id.

78. Court of appeals has no jurisdiction of action involving title to land, such as suits to quiet title. Kelmel v. Nine, 121 Mo. App. 718, 97 S. W. 635.

Title involved: If contest, on appeal in proceedings to open highway, is over right to take private property for road, title to realty is so far involved that jurisdiction is in supreme court rather than court of appeal. State v. McCutchan, 119 Mo. App. 69, 96 S. W. 251. In suit for specific performance. Barnes v. Stone, 198 Mo. 471, 95 S. W. 915. Decree appealable under West Virginia statute, Code 1906, § 4038, as one changing the title to real estate. Beverlin v. Casto [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 411.

Title or boundary not involved: Suit to enjoin sale of land under execution issued against third person, who was admitted to have superior record title, plaintiff claiming by adverse possession, held not to involve title to realty within meaning of Const. 1875, art. 6, § 12, giving supreme court jurisdiction where such title is involved. Payne v. Daviess County Sav. Ass'n, 198 Mo. 617, 96 S. W. 1016. Though claim sued on was lien on land, defendant could not appeal where there was no effort to enforce the lien. Chestnut v. Corbin Banking Co., 29 Ky. L. R. 665, 94 S. W. 633. In suit by purchaser at foreclosure to restrain resale on ground that it would cast a cloud on title. Barnes v. Stone, 198 Mo. 471, 95 S. W. 915. When priority of liens is only question involved. Stark v. Martin [Mo.] 102 S. W. 1089. Action brought by unsuccessful defendant in ejectment under Rev. St. 1899, § 3072 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 1766), to recover value of improvements is not such continuation of ejectment suit as to give supreme court jurisdiction on appeal for that reason. Bristol v. Thompson [Mo.] 102 S. W. 991. Water diverted into private water system becomes personal property and hence action to recover for water furnished therefrom does not involve title to real estate so as to give right of appeal from judgment of superior court on appeal from a justice court. Hesperia Land & Water Co. v. Gardner [Cal. App.] 88 P. 286. Supreme court of Missouri has not jurisdiction of appeal from judgment quashing levy of execution on real estate on ground that property is defendants' homestead and therefore exempt from execution, the title to real estate not being involved within the meaning of the constitution, art. 6, § 12. Snodgrass v. Copple [Mo.] 101 S. W. 1090. Action of trespass quare clausum fregit is not a controversy concerning the title or boundary of land, giving jurisdiction in the supreme court for a writ of error therein. Dickinson v. Man-kin [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 824.

79. Grant of jurisdiction by Const. 1898, art. 85, of suits involving homestead exemptions, is sufficiently broad to cover all questions arising under Const. arts. 244-247, and hence covers suit on materialman's lien on homestead under exceptions set out in article 245, predicated upon a waiver of homestead and involving right to sell same. Peo- ple's Independent Rice Mill Co. v. Benoit, 117 La. 999, 42 So. 480. Under Const. art. 85, supreme court has appellate jurisdiction of all suits involving homestead exemptions. Reily v. Johnston [La.] 43 So. 977.

courts of concurrent jurisdiction,<sup>81</sup> or a minimum<sup>82</sup> or maximum amount as pre-

80. Appeal from decree of quarter sessions imposing costs in contested election case goes to superior court under P. L. 215, § 7a, not being a case involving right to public office. In re Hayes' Election, 214 Pa. 551, 63 A. 974.

81. Decisions of court of civil appeals as to what would be a breach of contract for the shipment of cattle, what delay was and was not unreasonable for the purpose of watering and feeding, and as to whether the question of delay was one of law or fact, held not conflicting so as to give supreme court jurisdiction of the last decision. Rogers v. Texas & P. R. Co. [Tex.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 968, 94 S. W. 321.

82. There is no law in force in Georgia authorizing an appeal from the county court to the superior court in cases where amount involved is $50 or less. De Lamar v. Dollar [Ga.] 57 S. E. 85. Under the constitution and statutes of West Virginia, in matters merely pecuniary, to give jurisdiction to the supreme court of appeals a sum exceeding $100, exclusive of costs, must be involved. Oppenheimer v. Triple-State Natural G. & O. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 271; Montgomery v. Economy Fuel Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 137; Carskadon v. Board of Education [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 834. This rule applies to an appeal from an order overruling a motion to dissolve and perpetuating an injunction. Carskadon v. Board of Education [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 834. Under Gen. St. 1901, § 5019, the supreme court has no jurisdiction where amount in controversy is only $30.01. Liljestrom v. Anderson [Kan.] 882 P. 1076. Under laws 1901, p. 107, supreme court has no jurisdiction where the amount involved is not more than $4,500 exclusive of costs. Wait v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 60. Supreme court held to have no jurisdiction of appeal in suit to recover possession of land worth $1,000 and $375 damages for its detention. Bodeaw Lumber Co. v. Huddleston [La.] 44 So. 258. Some sum or value must be in dispute to sustain appellate jurisdiction of United States supreme court over supreme courts of the territories conferred by act March 3, 1885. New Mexico v. Denver, etc., R. Co., 203 U. S. 38, 51 Law. Ed. 78. Right to have goods shipped was measurable in money and satisfied the act. Id. In Missouri the appellate jurisdiction of the supreme court, in injunction proceedings, where no constitutional question is involved, can only be maintained where the amount involved exceeds $4,500. Rev. St. § 1649a, as amended by laws 1901, p. 107 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 1208). Moffatt v. Board of trade [Mo.] 101 S. W. 6. In Kentucky no appeal can be taken to court of appeals from a judgment for recovery of money or personal property if value in controversy is less than two hundred dollars exclusive of interest and costs. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Lawrence [Ky.] 102 S. W. 298; Tillie v. Payne, 30 Ky. L. R. 664, 99 S. W. 322. Provision of act that either party might appeal from any judgment rendered by court held to be construed in harmony with general law regulating appeals, and not to authorize appeal regardless of amount in controversy. New York Indians v. U. S., 41 Ct. Cl. 462. Certificate of impudence required by 1 Starr. & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 1153, c. 37, § 8, an appeal from appellate court to supreme court in actions ex contractu where less than $1,000 is involved. Merritt v. Crane Co., 225 Ill. 181, 80 N. E. 103. Judgment of appellate court final in suit to declare deed absolute a mortgage and to redeem where amount involved is less than $1,000 and there is no certificate of impudence. Hill v. Niede, 225 Ill. 163, 80 N. E. 97. Appeal lies from district court for Porto Rico to United States supreme court from decree in suit by wife for liquidation of community where matter in dispute exceeds $5,000. Garrozi v. Dastas, 204 U. S. 64, 51 Law. Ed. 369. Where amount involved in suit is less than jurisdictional sum, but judgment therein would be decisive as to plaintiff's rights with respect to sum in excess of such jurisdictional limit, such judgment is reviewable. International Harvester Co. v. Smith, 105 Va. 683, 54 S. E. 859.

Determination of amount: Affidavit that suit involved more than $2,000 held not to affect question of jurisdiction, it being mere statement of legal conclusion drawn from facts as to which court must judge itself. State v. Briede [La.] 43 So. 992. Appellate court determines amount in dispute from facts disclosed by transcript. Doullut v. Smith, 117 La. 491, 41 So. 913. Supreme court will consider entire record for a determination of amount in dispute and not only the petition, and will transfer the case to court of appeals if only a few hundred dollars is involved. Vanderberg v. Kansas City Gas Co., 199 Mo. 455, 97 S. W. 908. In ascertaining whether it has jurisdiction supreme court will look into record and ascertain sum actually in dispute, and will not be governed by pleadings and judgment appealed from alone. Pittsburg Bridge Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 546. While in action before justice as a general rule amount claimed in the summons and pleadings tests the question of jurisdiction, yet if upon the hearing the evidence is without conflict and it appears therefrom clearly and conclusively that the amount in controversy cannot possibly exceed $100 exclusive of costs, the supreme court of appeals is without jurisdiction to entertain a writ of error. Oppenheimer v. Triple-State Natural G. & O. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 271. Under a statute denying the right to appeal unless the amount in controversy "as shown by the pleadings" exceeds certain amount, the amount in controversy is to be determined from the pleadings and not from the judgment. Hancock v. Hancock [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1009. While the amount claimed in the summons is prima facie as to the amount in controversy, the appeal cannot be retained if the evidence clearly shows that less than the jurisdictional amount was involved. Oppenheimer v. Triple-State Natural G. & O. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 271.

Cumulation of amounts or values: Independent claims of claimants to funds in court cannot be cumulated so as to make up jurisdictional amount. Sewerage & Water Board v. Thelen, 117 La. 923, 42 So. 426.

Where object of suit is to enforce payment of mechanics' liens of persons whose claims are several and distinct, an appeal will not lie to the supreme court from a decree adjudicating the same, except as to such of them as may exceed $100. Wees v. Elbon [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 611. In suit to establish mechanic's liens amounts of respective liens of different parties cannot be added so as to make up amount necessary to confer jurisdiction of appeal from appellate court to supreme court under 1 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 1153, c. 37, § 8, without certificate of imputance. Merritt v. Crane Co., 225 Ill. 181, 80 N. E. 103. Appeal from order overruling objection to single, separable item of administrator's account does not bring up other items so as to render amount involved sufficient to authorize appeal from appellate court to supreme court. Bache v. Ward, 225 Ill. 320, 80 N. E. 330. Obligation of lessor of oil lands is indivisible among his heirs where the consideration is the drilling of one well, and hence in suits by the heirs to cancel the lease the amount involved in each suit is the value of the whole lease. Murray v. Barnhart, 117 La. 1023, 42 So. 489. Under Ky. St. 1903, § 950, which precludes appeal to court of appeals from judgment for recovery of money or personal property if the value in controversy is less than $200, exclusive of interest and costs, if suits of creditors are consolidated the amounts involved in separate suits cannot be added together so as to give right of appeal, but amount in each suit must determine that right. Covington Bros. & Co. v. Jordan, 30 Ky. L. R. 1135 100 S. W. 326. In action by several plaintiffs to restrain collection of assessments, amount in controversy is to be determined from the aggregate amount of assessments against plaintiffs. Comstock v. Eagle Grove City [Iowa] 111 N. W. 51. Counterclaim entirely without merit interposed solely as a predicate for an appeal will not be considered. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 166, 95 S. W. 746. Appeal from judgment for plaintiff where defendant pleaded counterclaim and prayed judgment over, the amount in controversy is the amount of the judgment rendered, not amount of the judgment which defendant prayed on the counterclaim. Co-Operative Mfg., etc., Co. v. Rusche, 30 Ky. L. R. 790, 99 S. W. 677. Where defendants counterclaimed for more than $200, the amount in controversy exceeded $200 although plaintiff claimed and obtained judgment for only $79. Sorrill v. McGougan [Wash.] 87 P. 825.

Waiver of excess: That one sued in justice court for less than his original claim against defendant and thus deprived the latter of appeal to district court was not a fraud on the court. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Jones [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 166, 95 S. W. 746.

Appellant's interest is determination of jurisdiction of Kentucky court of appeals. Craft v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co., 30 Ky. L. R. 1367, 101 S. W. 342. Under Act May 5, 1899, a legatee may appeal from orphan's court to supreme court from allowance of claim against estate for more than $1,500, though appellant's interest is less than that amount. In re May's Estate [Pa.] 67 A. 120.

83. Where in action against physician trial was had in court based on negligently infecting plaintiff and family, sustaining of demurrer to amended count adding elements of fraud and false representations did not bring case within Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, p. 601, c. 37, § 8, allowing appeals from appellate court to supreme court in actions sounding in damages where there was no trial on issue of fact before and amount "claimed" is more than $1,000. Haas v. Tegmeier, 225 Ill. 275, 80 N. E. 130. Claim for damages manifestly inflated will not confer jurisdiction. Samuel Israelite Baptist Church v. Thomas, 117 La. 253, 41 So. 564; Leury v. Baton Rouge Compress Co., 117 La. 956, 42 So. 439.

84. The entire amount of the claim involved in the action is the test of jurisdiction and not the particular amount in controversy on appeal. Schultz v. Ford Bros [Iowa] 109 N. W. 614. Where sheriff's fees sued for did not reach jurisdictional amount, fact that original judgments were for more than jurisdictional amount held not to confer jurisdiction litigation not having arisen from any difference as to their construction, but from happening of independent fact arising after writs had gone into sheriff's hands and which extinguished judgments. Robson v. Beasley [La.] 44 So. 136. Where there is no appeal from a voluntary non-suit and judgment of discontinuance, no appeal lies from taxation of costs made after such judgment where less than $2,000 is involved in such taxation. De Renzes v. His Wife, 117 La. 817, 42 So. 327. Supreme court has no jurisdiction of motion to establish attorney's lien on judgment reviewed where such lien is for less than minimum jurisdictional limit, though judgment is for more. Wait v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 60.

85. Appeal by creditor from judgment refusing to set aside and vacate appointment of receiver for corporation, amount of corporation's assets, as shown by inventory and appraisal, and not amount of appellant's claim is test of jurisdiction. Perkins v. Crystal Ice & Pop Mfg. Co. [La.] 44 So. 284. Supreme court held to have jurisdiction where assets exceeded $2,000. Id. On mandamus by district attorney to compel sheriff to pay commissions on fines, only commissions on fines already collected will be considered in determining amount in dispute. State v. Henderson, 117 La. 209, 41 So. 496.

86. Under Hurd's Rev. St. 1905, c. 37, § 25, requiring certificate of importance on appeal from appellate court to supreme court in actions sounding in damages where the judgment is for less than $1,000 exclusive of costs, no such appeal lies from judgment against plaintiff on merits and for cost, though it was stipulated that if plaintiff was entitled to recover the amount of damages would be over $1,000. Wheeler v. Pullman Palace Car Co. [Ill.] 81 N. E. 789. Under Laws 1903, p. 48, c. 52, a cause decided in district court on appeal from city courts is only appealable when district court judgment exceeds $100, although amount in con-items, according to the terms of the statute.<sup>87</sup> Orders in bankruptcy, probate and administration, lunacy or curatorial, and eminent domain proceedings, election contests,<sup>88</sup> and special statutory proceedings,<sup>89</sup> are appealable or not according to the various statutes.<sup>90</sup> Federal review of state or territorial decisions, or the right to a further appeal from the circuit court of appeals to the United States supreme court, or the right of direct appeal to it, depends on the existence of a real meritorious, Federal question<sup>91</sup> set up<sup>92</sup> and necessarily involved, and finally decided<sup>93</sup> adversely to trover may be more. Garcia v. Free [Utah] 88 P. 30. Laws 1903, p. 48, c. 52, authorizing appeals from judgments in district court exceeding $100 upon appeals from the city courts, is not unconstitutional as being unequal in its operation in that plaintiff cannot appeal from a judgment in favor of defendant in any case, while defendant may appeal if the judgment for plaintiff exceeds $100, nor is it special legislation. Id.

Va.] 56 S. E. 834; Wait v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 60. Exclusive of interest and costs. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Lawrence [Ky.] 102 S. W. 298.

88. Under the constitution and statutes of Virginia there is no right of appeal from a judgment of the circuit court determining the validity of an election forbidding the licensing of the sale of intoxicating liquors. Hulvey v. Roberts [Va.] 55 S. E. 585. The determination of a municipal election contest by the city council pursuant to its charter is appealable to the circuit court, but certiorari, not appeal, is the appropriate remedy. Staples v. Brown, 113 Tenn. 639, 85 S. W. 254.

89. Acts 1906, p. 413, c. 247, providing for proceedings to forfeit charter of Cumberland and Pennsylvania Railroad Company, provides for appeal by reference to general laws, and hence appeal lies from dismissal of petition to forfeit such charter. State v. Cumberland & P. R. Co. [Md.] 66 A. 458.

93. Federal question though assigned in state appellate court will not be considered by United States supreme court where it does not appear that state court dealt with the question and where it may have refused to do so because it was not raised in trial court. Cox v. State of Texas, 202 U. S. 446, 50 Law. Ed. 1099. No decision of Federal question where highest state court dismissed appeal for defect of parties. Newman v. Gates, 204 U. S. 89, 51 Law. Ed. 385. Action of state court in holding statute valid not reviewable where failure of court to file an opinion left it doubtful whether court did or did not interpret a certain phrase so as to leave statute in harmony with Federal constitution. Bachtel v. Wilson, 204 U. S. 36, 51 Law. Ed. 357.

An appeal goes direct to the United States supreme court from the district court in certain private land claim cases if the decree is against the United States. Comes within exception in act March 3, 1891, requiring appeal to circuit court of appeals except where it is "otherwise provided by law." United States v. Dalcour, 203 U. S. 408, 51 Law. Ed. 248. No direct appeal on question of jurisdiction where jurisdiction challenged was not that of court rendering decree appealed from but that of court rendering another decree involved in suit. Empire State- grounded on a constitutional question goes from the district to the Federal supreme court even in habeas corpus cases. The provision for direct appeal to the supreme court applies to proceedings to compel the production of papers before the interstate commerce commission. Appeals and writ of error from district courts of Alaska are governed by Alaska Civil Code, and not by the Territorial Courts Appeals Act.

(§ 4) D. Reviewableness may depend on the parties.<sup>98</sup>

(§ 4) E. Certificate or reserved questions and reported cases.<sup>97</sup>—Certified questions must involve a real conflict.<sup>98</sup> and the practice in some jurisdictions is that only such questions may be reported as are finally determinative of the action,<sup>99</sup> while in others it is held that situations may arise when advice will be given on nondeterminative questions,<sup>1</sup> but that such advice will not be given when it is not clear that it will be acted upon or be of any service.<sup>2</sup> Questions cannot be certified in the absence of statutory authority.<sup>3</sup>

§ 5. Courts of review and their jurisdiction<sup>4</sup> exist by force of statute and may be regulated thereby subject to constitutional restrictions.<sup>5</sup> A constitutional general grant of appellate jurisdiction carries with it by necessary intendment all powers reasonably essential to the complete exercise in all cases of the jurisdiction conferred, but jurisdiction of appellate courts is primarily<sup>6</sup> and sometimes exclusively appellate.<sup>7</sup> Jurisdiction may be general or special,<sup>8</sup> and cannot be conferred by consent of the parties.<sup>9</sup> Review proper cannot exist between courts of co-ordin-

The fact that a conclusion of the court of civil appeals is in conflict with the decisions of other courts of civil appeals will not warrant certifying the question to the supreme court if there is no real conflict on the points actually decided. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Arnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 834.

99. Questions must be finally determinative either per se or by stipulation. Fidelity & Casualty Co. v. Bodwell Granite Co. [Me.] 66 A. 314. Motion under Rev. St. c. 84, § 23, to require party to produce books and papers for inspection, is interlocutory, and hence not subject to be reported. Id.

1. Gen. St. 1902, § 751, is doubtless comprehensive enough to allow this, and such practice has doubtless been indulged in the past. Hart v. Roberts [Conn.] 66 A. 1026. Later practice is not to give advice on such questions. Hart v. Roberts [Conn.] 66 A. 1026, citing New York, H. & W. R. Co. v. B. H. & E. R. Co., 36 Conn. 197, and State v. Feingold, 77 Conn. 326, 59 A. 211.

Hart v. Roberts [Conn.] 66 A. 1026.

3. There is no provision authorizing appellate court to certify questions of law on allowing appeal from its judgment affirming judgment for plaintiff for rent. Swan v. Inderlied, 187 N. Y. 372, 80 N. E. 195.

4. See 7 C. L. 151.

5. Laws 1901, c. 397, requiring appeals from the municipal court of the city of Duluth to be taken to the district court instead of directly to the supreme court, is constitutional and valid. Dahlsten v. Anderson, 99 Minn. 340, 109 N. W. 697.

6. Jurisdiction of St. Louis court of appeals to issue special and extraordinary writs exists only in cases within its appellate jurisdiction. State v. Norton [Mo.] 98 S. W. 554. Under constitution of Missouri, art. 6, § 2, supreme court is court of appellate jurisdiction and has original jurisdiction only in those cases set forth in section 3 of the same article. Wait v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 60. Under Const. art. 85, supreme court has original jurisdiction to determine questions of fact affecting its own jurisdiction in any case pending before it. Riney v. Hemenway Furniture Co. [La.] 44 So. 116.

7. The supreme court of Georgia has no original jurisdiction and cannot make inquiry whether a suit sought to be enjoined has been dismissed, nor dismiss the bill of exceptions upon that ground where dismissal is denied by plaintiff in error. Johnson v. Tanner, 126 Ga. 718, 56 S. E. 80.

8. Under general appellate jurisdictions of court of appeals of District of Columbia, appeal lies to that court from final order of the supreme court in a condemnation proceeding under chapter 15 of code which does not provide for an appeal. Seufferle v. Macfarland, 28 App. D. C. 94.

ate jurisdiction, but it may exist when the concurrent jurisdiction is as to particular matters only.<sup>10</sup> As between several intermediate appellate courts,<sup>11</sup> or between a court of intermediate and final appeal,<sup>12</sup> jurisdiction nearly always depends on the existence of one or more of the criteria mentioned in the preceding section.<sup>13</sup> The principle that courts cannot directly adjudicate the rights of a person who is not before it is applicable to courts exercising appellate jurisdiction.<sup>14</sup> Appeal by a non-resident confers on the appellate court jurisdiction of the person to support provisional orders.<sup>15</sup> Appellate jurisdiction must be supported by a sufficient original jurisdiction to pronounce the judgment being reviewed<sup>16</sup> and by orderly procedure efficient to bring up the case,<sup>17</sup> else it can do nothing but dismiss.<sup>18</sup> Where appellate jurisdiction is not dependent upon the filing of the records, it is not divested by the destruction of the records filed.<sup>19</sup>

10. As rank of courts and right of appeal is regulated by statute, fact of concurrent jurisdiction of probate and common pleas courts in certain matters does not require that appeal from probate court in any one of those matters should be to circuit instead of common pleas court. Oberer v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 93.

11. Order entered by county court appointing conservator is not an order in "a suit or proceeding in law or equity" and appeal therefrom goes to the circuit and not to the appellate court. Gersman v. Cooper, 125 Ill. App. 402. Appeals from judgments of county courts allowing or disallowing claims go to circuit and not to appellate court. Drake v. Lux, 125 Ill. App. 469. A proceeding under the Insolvent Debtor's Act is a "proceeding at law" and hence an appeal by one who has applied to the county court for discharge from custody thereunder must be taken to the appellate and not to the circuit court. Groszglass v. Von Bergen, 121 Ill. App. 212. Appeal lies to county court and not to appellate division from an order of court of special sessions committing child on ground that she did not have proper guardianship. People v. O'Neill, 117 App. Div. 826, 102 N. Y. S. 988. Where judgment by default is entered in municipal court against defendant who has not been served with summons, an appeal lies directly to appellate division. Altieri v. Trotta, 53 Misc. 649, 103 N. Y. S. 715.

12. Appeal held not to lie directly to court of appeals from order of quarterly court appointing receiver, but to circuit court, and from it to court of appeals. Statutes construed. Brown v. Crump, 29 Ky. L. R. 1226, 96 S. W. 1112. Appeal lies from decisions of register of state land office in regard to public land to district court of parish where land is situated. Rev. St. 2976, Acts 1886, p. 207, No. 107, § 2. Darby v. Emmer [La.] 43 So 148. Where amount claimed exceeds $2,000, an appeal lies to the supreme court under Const. art. 6, § 4. McAulay v. Tahoe Ice Co. [Cal. App.] 96 P. 912. Gen. St. 1901, § 5019, denies appeals to supreme court only in actions where there is nothing in controversy but money or property or rights susceptible of valuation in money and the amount does not exceed $100, and an appeal may be taken from an order sustaining a demurrer to a petition to enjoin a common nuisance. State v. Coler [Kan.] 89 P. 693.

13. See ante, § 4 C. Reviewableness May Depend Upon Character or Value of Action, Subject-Matter, or Controversy. Under constitution and statutes of Virginia in case involving constitutionality of rule of state corporation commission, a direct appeal does not lie from judgment of justice of peace to supreme court of appeals. Southern R. Co. v. Hill [Va.] 56 S. E. 278. In a suit under Acts 1905, pp. 89, 90, c. 53, Burns' Ann. Sup. 1905, § 5405f, to review decision of railroad commission in proceedings under Acts 1897, pp. 237-239, Burns' Ann. St. § 5158a-5158h, to establish an interlocking device at railroad crossing, an appeal lies to appellate court and not to the supreme court. Grand Trunk W. R. Co. v. Hunt [Ind.] 78 N. E. 975. Circuit court of United States is without jurisdiction to review judgment of a district court in bankruptcy, no such jurisdiction being conferred by statute act and being expressly excluded by bankruptcy act. Suit seeking to recover property in hands of trustee and to enjoin him from obeying order of district court. Hatch v. Curtin, 146 F. 200.

16. Where land court had jurisdiction the superior court had jurisdiction of issue submitted on appeal. Woodvine v. Dean [Mass.] 79 N. E. 882. Court in which proceedings to set aside a judgment obtained by fraud having no jurisdiction thereof, a court of general jurisdiction cannot obtain jurisdiction of the proceedings by an appeal being taken to it. Steinmetz v. Hammond Co. [Ind.] 78 N. E. 628. Judgment of circuit court affirming judgment of county court void for want of jurisdiction of subject-matter will be quashed in certiorari. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Ray [Fla.] 42 So. 714. Where jurisdictional amount involved is sufficient to give superior court jurisdiction, court of appeal of California has jurisdiction on appeal. Morgan v. San Diego County [Cal. App.] 86 P. 720. Appellate court will not consider objections to equity jurisdiction over boundary dispute submitted below by consent. Williams v. Wetmore [Fla.] 41 So. 545. Where answer creates equitable issues of which city court had no jurisdiction, the district court on appeal has no such jurisdiction. Ferguson-McKinney Dry Goods Co. v. Grear [Kan.] 90 P. 770. On appeal from probate court having no equitable jurisdiction, the district court trying the case de novo cannot exercise such jurisdiction. Ross v. Wollard [Kan.] 89 P. 680. Judgment void for want of jurisdiction is appealable. Evers v. Gould, 105 N. Y. S. 150.

29. Where service of notice of appeal, which constitutes taking appeal under Rev. St. 1887, § 4808, was had on April 17, 1905, from judgment entered Feb. 18, 1905, appeal is timely under § 4808 allowing 60 days.

Finney v. American Bonding Co. [Idaho] 90 P. 859. Appeal perfected as of time of filing transcript though notice not given until after expiration of time limit. Niemitz v. State [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 357. Appeal under Burns' Ann. St. Sup. 1905, §§ 658, 659, from interlocutory order for injunction, is not perfected by filing of bond and granting of appeal by trial court, but by additional steps of filing transcript and assignment of errors in court to which appeal is taken and within time prescribed by statute. Barney v. Elkhart County Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 492. Appeal proceeding is not commenced in supreme court within Gen. St. 1901, § 7342, until petition in error with case made or transcript attached is filed with clerk together with praecipe for summons. Kansas City v. Dore [Kan.] 83 P. 539. Under Code 1892, § 46, appeal is perfected on filing bond, and running of two-year statute of limitations is thereby stopped. Adams Lumber Co. v. Stevenson [Miss.] 42 So. 796. Where, though appeal was allowed within six months prescribed by circuit court of appeals act, no citation was issued to defendants and record was not filed by return day as required by rule 16, nor until nearly year after appeal was allowed, circuit court of appeals could not then award citation and by nunc pro tunc order allow appeal to stand as of date when record was filed. Hudson v. Limestone Natural Gas Co. [C. C. A.] 144 F. 952. Giving of time for allowing bill of exceptions does not postpone running of time for bringing writ of error. Kentucky Coal, Timber, Oil & Land Co. v. Howes [C. C. A.] 153 F. 163. Writ of error is not "brought" within Rev. St. § 1008, until actually lodged with clerk of court which rendered judgment. Id. Order allowing writ of error conditioned on giving bond ineffective until condition complied with. Id.

30. Jurisdiction of appeal not affected by fact that published notice to nonresident coparties, under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 647, did not mature until expiration of time limit for appeal. Hanley v. Mason [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 610.

31. Appeal must be taken within one year from date of rendition of decree. Thornburgh v. Beakley [Ark.] 102 S. W. 362. Appeal taken on sixty-first day after entry of order appealed from is too late under Code Civ. Proc. § 939, subd. 3. Prine v. Duncan [Cal. App.] 90 P. 713. That party avails himself of all the time allowed for perfecting appeal is not sufficient to justify dismissal. Jones v. Starr, 26 App. D. C. 64.

which ordinarily runs from the date when an appealable order or judgment, legally sufficient, becomes a finality on the record,<sup>32</sup> or from the time when notice of entry of Writ of error on judgment in civil action not sued out and taken within six months from date of judgment, as required by Rev. St. 1892, § 1271 (Gen. St. 1906, §1699), where plaintiff in error does not come within exceptions of statute, confers no jurisdiction on supreme court. Eaton v. McCaskill [Fla.] 43 So. 447. Sufficiency of evidence to sustain verdict cannot be reviewed on appeal from judgment unless appeal is taken within 60 days after rendition thereof. Trull v. Modern Woodmen of America [Idaho] 85 P. 1081. Under Rev. St. 1887, § 4807, subd. 3, appeal from an order overruling motion for new trial not taken within 60 days from entry thereof is ineffectual. Id. Appeal from decision of district court on appeal from order of board of commissioners granting road and awarding damages is under Sess. Laws 1899, p. 273, § 4, and not under Sess. Laws 1899, p. 249, and hence if taken within 90 days after entry of judgment is timely. Latah County v. Hasfurther [Idaho] 88 P. 433. Appeal in suit revived against personal representative of defendant is not subject to time limit prescribed by Burns' Ann. St. 1901, §§ 2609, 2610, growing out of matters connected with a decedent's estate, but is controlled by Civ. Code, §§ 644, 645. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, pp. 304, 306, relating to time of appeals in general. Hayes v. Shirk [Ind.] 78 N. E. 653. Appeals from courts of Indian Territory to circuit court of appeals are governed by same limitation as on appeal to such court from the United States circuit courts. Appeal from probate of will must be taken within six months. In re Terrell's Estate, 6 Ind. T. 412, 98 S. W. 143. Ruling on demurrer made more than year before proceeding in error was instituted is not reviewable. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Murphy [Kan.] 90 P. 290. Where statute limiting time within which appeal must be perfected is amended, all appeals not perfected are controlled by amendment. Kansas City v. Dore [Kan.] 88 P. 539. A party is entitled as matter of right to appeal from judgment at any time within two years next after right of appeal first accrues. Rush v. Handley, 30 Ky. L. R. 170, 97 S. W. 726. Where appeal was dismissed for failure to file transcript in time, held that appellant could take out another appeal before clerk of supreme court, two years not having elapsed since rendition of judgment. Alford v. Guffy, 30 Ky. L. R. 54, 97 S. W. 369. Appeal from judgment complete and perfect on its face must be taken within six months from date of its entry. Kearney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 101 Minn. 65, 111 N. W. 923. Where motion for new trial was filed in proper time, but was not heard until term following that in which judgment was rendered, when it was overruled, and appeal was allowed by circuit court at that term, held that such appeal, being taken under Rev. St. 1899, §§ 806, 807, 808, was in time. Lovell v. Kansas City So. R. Co., 121 Mo. App. 466, 97 S. W. 193. Appeal perfected in May from judgment regularly entered in municipal court the preceding October is too late. Park v. Regan, 105 N. Y. S. 253. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1316, right to review interlocutory judgments on appeal from final judgment is not affected by expiration of time within which separate appeal therefrom might be taken. Bauer v. Hawes, 115 App. Div. 492, 101 N. Y. S. 455. Under Civ. Code, § 574 (Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 4772), proceedings to review a judgment or order must be commenced in supreme court within one year from rendition or making thereof. Hebelsen v. Hatchell [Okla.] 87 P. 643. Where not so commenced supreme court is without jurisdiction. Id. Appeal from order overruling motion to quash summons must be taken within one year from date of order. Buxton v. Alton-Dawson Mercantile Co. [Okla.] 90 P. 19. Bill of exceptions does not lie to judgment of superior court, the review on exceptions provided for by statute being intended to take place before judgment is entered. In re Stillman [R. I.] 67 A. 4; Baker v. Tyler, 28 R. I. 152, 66 A. 65. Appeal from judgment and order denying new trial constitute but one appeal which may be taken within two years after entry of judgment, and right to have the sufficiency of evidence reviewed, is, therefore, not lost by failure to appeal within sixty days after receiving notice of denial of new trial. Northwestern Mortg. Trust Co. v. Ellis [S. D.] 108 N. W. 22. Under Acts 1897, p. 312, c. 131, writs of error, or appeals in nature of writs of error, may not be taken to supreme court from any decree of court of chancery appeals after expiration of ten days from the decree. Brosnan v. Lancaster [Tenn.] 96 S. W. 958. Filing petition for additional finding of facts held not to stop running of period for appeal. Id. Act not modified by Acts 1903, p. 98, c. 58, providing that clerk of court of chancery appeals may issue execution on any final judgment or decree after expiration of ten days allowed for filing of petition to rehear. Id. Even if construed to extend time until petition for rehearing, filed in time, is disposed of, does not operate to extend it pending determination of petition for additional finding of facts. Id. No error in final or an appealable decree will be considered upon appeal not taken within two years from its date. Kelner v. Cowden [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 649. But when order for payment of money is so appealed from and is based solely on former order which is null and void, order so appealed from will be reversed, although former order was entered more than statutory period before appeal was allowed. Id. Where neither party has appealed from final appealable decree within time prescribed by statute of limitations, appellate court is without jurisdiction to review such decree. Roush v. Hyre [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 368.

32. Appeal held to be taken in time although more than statutory period had elapsed since rendition of first of two decrees rendered in case, such decree not being final. Hargus v. Hayes [Ark.] 103 S. W. 163. Under Code Civ. Proc., § 939, subd. 3, requiring appeals to be taken from interlocutory judgment in partition within 60 days after judgment or order is entered in minutes of court or filed with clerk, appeal taken on March 18, 1906, is too late where order was entered on minutes December 23, 1905, and decree filed January 9, 1906. Bloom v. Gordan [Cal.] 90 P. 115. Under Rev. St.

judgment is served<sup>33</sup> and is computed according to the rules applicable to other procedure.<sup>34</sup> In the absence of a statutory provision to the contrary,<sup>35</sup> the court has no authority to extend the time.<sup>36</sup>

(§ 6) C. Affidavits and oaths.<sup>37</sup>—An affidavit of good faith is required in some states.<sup>38</sup>

1887, § 4807, subd. 3, appeal from special order after final judgment must be taken within 60 days after judgment is made and entered on minutes of court and filed with clerk. Campbell v. First Nat. Bank [Idaho] 88 P. 639; Oliver v. Kootenai County [Idaho] 90 P. 107. In absence of rule of court, party to record is required to take notice of different steps in proceeding and cannot excuse failure to file bill of exceptions and bond in time, by plea that he did not know order had been written up. Oltman v. Schoenbeck, 120 Ill. App. 351. Where order leaves question involving merits of case undisposed of, appeal need not be taken therefrom until final decision on such questions. Small v. Usher [S. C.] 57 S. E. 623. Time within which to appeal is not extended by pendency of appeal from clerk's taxation of costs and disbursements which are allowed by clerk and included in judgment. Kearney v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 101 Minn. 65, 111 N. W. 923. Order retaxing costs is not entry of new judgment so as to extend time for taking appeal from original judgment. Ost v. Salomanowitz, 104 N. Y. S. 849.

Effect of motion for new trial: Where motion for new trial is made in proper time, limitation on right to appeal runs from refusal of new trial. Durbridge v. State, 117 La. 841, 42 So. 337. Since motion for new trial is not necessary to preserve ruling on motion to quash summons, it cannot extend time for appeal. Buxton v. Alton-Dawson Mercantile Co. [Okla.] 90 P. 19. Filing of motion for new trial after five days from entry of judgment, unless done according to law, does not prevent judgment from becoming final so as to extend time for appealing. Felt v. Cook [Utah] 87 P. 1092. Where appellant relies on motion for new trial not made within five days from entry of judgment to stay running of period within which to appeal from judgment, he must make it affirmatively appear of record that his belated motion was filed according to law. Id.

Bankruptcy proceedings: Under § 25, subsection 3, of the bankrupt act, appeal from an order allowing or denying discharge must be taken "within ten days after the judgment appealed from has been rendered." In re McCall [C. C. A.] 145 P. 898. Where order denying a rehearing was entered on journal for October 10, with indorsement "Filed October 10," and a direction "Enter this order. J. M., Judge. Oct. 16," it was presumed that "Oct. 16" was a clerical mistake since judge's approval had no proper place in journal, hence time began to run from October 10. Id. Time limit does not begin to run until disposition of timely motion for rehearing. Id. Thirty-day limitation prescribed by general order 36 for taking appeals from final orders of circuit court of appeals cannot be extended by filing petition for rehearing after 30 days has expired. Conboy v. First Nat. Bk., 203 U. S. 141, 51 Law. Ed. 128.

33. Notice of entry of judgment in City Court of New York reciting judgment to have been "entered herein in the office of the clerk of the court within named" is sufficient to limit time. Leer v. Wormser, 52 Misc. 455, 103 N. Y. S. 562.

34. Day on which judgment or decree was rendered in computing time fixed by Kirby's Dig. § 1199. Connerly v. Dickinson [Ark.] 99 S. W. 82. Under Pub. Acts 1905, p. 264, c. 24, when findings of fact for appeal were filed and notice thereof given in July, it was not necessary to file appeal within ten days after such notice, July and August being excluded by the statute. Young v. Lemieux [Conn.] 65 A. 436. Appeal may, however, be perfected by filing finding of fact and giving notice thereof in July and August to become operative thereafter. Id.

35. Application to extend time to appeal from order of the county court to circuit court under St. 1898, § 4035, authorizing such extension for good cause shown, is addressed to discretion of circuit court and its refusal to grant extension will not be disturbed in absence of an abuse. Macey v. Ellison [Wis.] 112 N. W. 424.

36. Brown v. Prown [Ind.] 80 N. E. 535. In absence of active fraud or concealment. Hurst v. Hawkins [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 42. Appellate division is without power to grant order nunc pro tunc as of date in preceding term allowing appeal to court of appeals where its power to allow appeal terminated at expiration of such term. In re City of New York, 103 N. Y. S. 911.

37. See 7 C. L. 154.

38. Affidavit held not that of corporation but of its president in his personal capacity and insufficient under Rev. St. 1899, § 808. United Iron Works Co. v. Sand Ridge L. & Z. Co. [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 1104.

39. See 7 C. L. 154.

40. Notice after expiration of year is sufficient where transcript is filed within year allowed for appeal. Niemitz v. State [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 357. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 647, jurisdiction of nonresident coparties is complete upon expiration of publication for time specified by the statute. Hanley v. Mason [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 610. Under Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 345, notice of appellant's intention to appeal must be given within ten days after rising of circuit court. Foster v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 57 S. E. 760. Delay in issuance of alias citation after return of first citation, which showed defective service, held ground for dismissing writ of error, statute providing that, on return of citation not executed, clerk shall forthwith issue an alias citation. Aspley v. Alcott [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1133; Aspley v. Wheat [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1135. Where notice is not served until after expiration of ninety days from entry of judgment, appeal may be dismissed. Krutz v. Isaacs [Wash.] 86 P. 167; Shipley v. McPherson [Wash.] 89 P. 408.

Extension of time: Supreme court has the appellant on the opposing parties,<sup>42</sup> or those of them whose rights will be affected by a reversal<sup>43</sup> of such notice of appeal, citation, or summons as the practice requires,<sup>44</sup> in due form,<sup>45</sup> distinctly specifying the order or judgment appealed from,<sup>46</sup> properly signed<sup>47</sup> and addressed to the party to be notified,<sup>48</sup> is usually power to extend time upon proper showing. Baca v. Anaya [N. M.] 89 P. 314. Where was continuous session of court until Aug. 8, on which day appeal was granted in open court, and appeal was made returnable on Sept. 29, and from that day time was extended to Oct. 1, held that service of citation before extension had elapsed was in time. Mayville Canal Co. v. Lake Arthur Rice Mill. Co. [La.] 44 So. 260.

41. Where residence of necessary parties is in same place and known to appellant, notice cannot be served by mail but service must be made by leaving notice at residence as required by Code Civ. Proc. § 1011, subsec. 2. Koyer v. Benedict [Cal. App.] 87 P. 231. Method of service named in Acts 1905, c. 114, § 2, is not exclusive, but under Comp. Laws, § 2964, service by publication is permissible where parties are numerous and personal service or service by mail is impossible. Baca v. Anaya [N. M.] 89 P. 314. Where record has been filed in supreme court and service of citation is only thing necessary to vest it with complete jurisdiction, notice for publication issues therefrom and not from trial court. Id. Filing of notice by clerk of circuit court is service upon him. Zahorka v. Geith, 129 Wis. 498, 109 N. W. 552.

42. Service on guardian after death of ward insufficient to give jurisdiction of guardian either in official or personal capacity, guardianship being terminated by death of ward. Hurst v. Hawkins [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 42. Failure to serve necessary party fatal to appellate jurisdiction. Knight v. Acton [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1089. Under Rev. St. 1898, § 3305, as amended by Laws 1899, p. 83, c. 62, requiring notice to be served on adverse party, notice must be served upon each of them. Nelden-Judson Drug Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bank [Utah] 86 P. 498.

Service on attorney: Where notices were not addressed to a party nor his attorney, admission of service by his attorney, who was also attorney for another, limited as attorney for latter, is not an admission as to him. Burnett v. Piercy, 149 Cal. 178, 86 P. 603. Sufficient notice is given when citation is served on attorney of record of non-resident parties. McGowan v. Elroy, 28 App. D. C. 86. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1397, alias citation issued for service on attorneys of defendant in error, where original citation was returned not executed, must state that it is an alias citation. Vineyard v. McCombs [Tex.] 99 S. W. 544. Return of citation for defendant in error is not sufficient under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1398, to lay basis for service on his attorneys of record if it fails to state diligence used to find defendant in error. Id. Where different attorneys appear of record for several defendants, fact that attorneys for one signed as "attorneys for defendants" when acknowledging service of notice of appeal does not estop other parties from denying service. Nelden-Judson Drug Co. v. Commercial Nat. Bk. [Utah] 86 P. 498.

43. Where receiver is appointed in action to establish trust in fund, a defendant, made party as beneficiary, is an "adverse party" within Code Civ. Proc. § 940, on appeal by other defendants from order, since he has an interest which may be affected. Ford v. Freeman [Cal. App.] 89 P. 1071. On appeal from judgment foreclosing mortgage by subsequent grantee who contends that mortgage is void, mortgagors who may be held personally on their notes are adverse parties on whom notice must be served. Koyer v. Benedict [Cal. App.] 87 P. 231. Where in partition it was decided that plaintiff and two of the defendants each had third interest and another defendant had lien on one interest, failure to give latter notice is not ground for dismissal as court may decide case without affecting his interest. Burnett v. Piercy, 149 Cal. 178, 86 P. 603. Defaulting codefendant as to whom no issue is joined is not one adversely interested in decision and a failure to serve him does not deprive supreme court of jurisdiction. Oliver v. Perry, 131 Iowa, 654, 109 N. W. 183. Where land on which plaintiff attempted to impose lien had been sold to third party under bond for deed, but grantors successfully contested rights of such person and also of plaintiff, such third person was an "adverse party" within B. & C. Comp. § 549, on appeal by plaintiff. Kramer v. Marsh [Or.] 90 P. 583. Where judgment is rendered against railroad company and another for death of an employee, on appeal by company codefendant is an "adverse party" within Rev. St. 1898, § 3305, upon whom notice must be served, as larger judgment might be rendered against him on retrial. Griffin v. Southern Pac. Co. [Utah] 87 P. 1091.

44. Where an appellant fails to file bond within time prescribed by court, his appeal will be a vacation appeal within roll requiring notice on such appeals, though a bond was filed by a joint appellant. Cincinnati, H. & D. R. Co. v. Acrea [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 213. Under Court and Practice Act 1905, §§ 34, 490, and rule 32 of supreme court, failure to give in due time the notice of filing of bill of exceptions is a jurisdictional defect. Smith v. Haskell Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 65 A. 610.

45. Signature by living petitioners in ditch proceedings and by heirs at law of those deceased is sufficient. Kline v. Hagey [Ind.] 81 N. E. 209. Notice on joint appeal from single decision need not specify which of parties is prosecuting the appeal. Id. Notice of "appeal" will not suffice as notice of suing out of writ of error. Kelmel v. Nine, 121 Mo. App. 718, 97 S. W. 635. Upon appeal from probate to circuit court, notice must be in writing and must state all the reasons upon which appellant relies, and trial in circuit court will be restricted to reasons assigned. In re Beers [Mich.] 14 Det. Leg. N. 105, 111 N. W. 915.

46. Where record shows that preliminary injunction was granted, notice of appeal from an order "denying plaintiff's motion

In Arkansas on appeal from an order granting a new trial the notice must contain an assent that, in case of affirmance, judgment absolute shall be rendered against appellant.<sup>49</sup> In some states no notice is necessary where the appeal is allowed by the court in which the judgment is rendered.<sup>50</sup> Notice given in open court is generally sufficient.<sup>51</sup> Clerical errors may be disregarded.<sup>52</sup> In some states the court may in certain cases allow service on omitted parties after the expiration of the time for appeal.<sup>53</sup> Appearance ordinarily cures failure to serve notice,<sup>54</sup> though in some states appearances of counsel does not.<sup>55</sup> Statutory provisions as to the day to which the appeal may be made returnable must, of course, be complied with.<sup>56</sup>

(§ 6) E. Application for leave to appeal<sup>57</sup> or for a writ of error,<sup>58</sup> made within for a preliminary injunction" was ineffective. Bishop v. Owens [Cal. App.] 89 P. 844. Notice of appeal from an order "denying plaintiff's motion for a temporary injunction" is ineffective as an appeal from an order dissolving an injunction previously granted. Id. Where notice recited that appeal was taken from judgment entered against appellant on certain date and only judgment in record was entered in favor of appellant on different date, appeal will be dismissed. Oberwager v. Levy, 101 N. Y. S. 793. An appeal from judgment entered on order overruling demurrer as frivolous does not limit review to question of whether judgment complies with order, though notice does not state an intention to review order. Smith v. Thompson, 103 N. Y. S. 336. As strictly speaking there can be no judgment in summary proceedings, notice of appeal in such a proceeding reciting that it is from a judgment is sufficient to apprise respondent that it is from final order. Seymour v. Hughes, 105 N. Y. S. 249. Notice given in open court at time of rendering decree appealed from and entered in journal as part of decree sufficiently identifies decree appealed from. In re Crawford's Estate [Or.] 90 P. 147. Where notice is otherwise sufficient, attempt to notice an appeal from an order overruling motion for new trial may be disregarded as surplusage. Lyon v. Mauss [Utah] 87 P. 1014.

47. Laws 1905, p. 323, c. 114, § 2, requiring citation to be signed by clerk of district court, does not apply to notice for publication issued out of supreme court. Baca v. Anaya [N. M.] 89 P. 314.

48. Statute requiring notice to be served on adverse party and clerk of lower court held not to require notice to be directed to clerk. Zahorka v. Geith, 129 Wis. 498, 109 N. W. 552.

49. Kirby's Dig. § 1188. Requirement is mandatory and appeal will be dismissed if it is not complied with. Grayson v. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. [Ark.] 102 S. W. 1111. Filing such assent in appellate court more than one year after appeal granted is not sufficient. Osborn v. Le Maire [Ark.] 102 S. W. 372.

50. Rev. St. 1899, § 811, refers only to appeals granted by appellate court by special order under § 810. Lovell v. Kansas City So. R. Co., 121 Mo. App. 466, 97 S. W. 193.

51. Where appeal is taken during term at which judgment is signed and day after the signing, it may be taken by motion in open court and citation is unnecessary. Glain

v. Sparandeo [La.] 44 So. 120. Notice given in open court at time decree appealed from was rendered and entered on journal as part thereof is sufficient. In re Crawford's Estate [Or.] 90 P. 147. Issuance of citation not jurisdictional where appeal allowed in open court. Columbus Chain Co. v. Standard Chain Co. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 186.

52. Notice otherwise sufficient is not fatally defective, especially after appearance of appellee, merely because of misnomer of appellant. Heinz v. Roberts [Iowa] 110 N. W. 1034.

53. Where defendant served notice upon plaintiff and upon such of his codefendants as served notice of entry of judgment upon him, appeal will not be dismissed because of failure to serve defendants though their interests were adverse, but under § 1303, Code Civ. Proc., appellant will be permitted to serve notice on such defendants. Smith v. Havens Relief Fund Soc., 115 App. Div. 185, 100 N. Y. S. 932.

54. Written appearance acknowledging service and consenting to be bound by any judgment rendered. In re Mayhew's Estate [Cal. App.] 87 P. 417. Stipulation that appeal has been "perfected" signed by an attorney of record of a party waives failure to serve notice. Burnett v. Piercy, 149 Cal. 178, 86 P. 603. Where appeal is determined on merits as against one claiming to be adverse party, his motion to dismiss for failure to serve notice will not be considered. In re Russell's Estate [Cal.] 89 P. 345. Failure of appellant to serve citation held waived where appellee consented to appellant's designation of the parts to be included in the transcript. Dowling v. Buckey, 26 App. D. C. 266.

55. Failure to serve notice on necessary party. Knight v. Acton [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1089.

56. Appeal taken within thirty days of term must be made returnable to a day in such term not less than thirty and not more than fifty days from date of appeal. Griffith v. Henderson [Fla.] 42 So. 705. Appeal returnable to a certain term without specifying day thereof is returnable to first day. Id.

59. Where appellant failed to apply for leave to appeal within statutory time, court has no jurisdiction to grant an application nunc pro tunc as of date of judgment. Walton v. Canon City [Colo.] 88 P. 860. Where a claim of appeal and bond were filed several months prior to settlement of case on appeal, failure to file second claim after settlement of case, under Pub. Acts 1899, p. 380, No. 243, providing that appeal must be claimed within forty days after settlement of case on appeal, is not fatal where no harm resulted. Patterson v. Hynes [Mich.] 14 Det. Leg. N. 287, 112 N. W. 129. Inasmuch as no express authority is given judges of circuit court by Jones' local option law (98 O. L. 68) or any statute to grant leave to file petition in error in vacation at chambers, petition filed at such time and by such leave must be stricken from files. In re The Jones' Local Option Law, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 574.

60. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5671, relating to appeals in ditch proceedings, entry of prayer for appeal upon order book is not essential. Smith v. Gustin [Ind.] 80 N. E. 959.

61. Assignment of error made in court of civil appeals, but not embraced in petition for writ of error, cannot be considered by supreme court. Texas Co. v. Stephens [Tex.] 103 S. W. 481.

62. See 7 C. L. 157.

63. Order granting appeal held one in favor of both defendants. State v. Davis [La.] 44 So. 4. Judges of civil district of parish of Orleans may sit in each other's places in each other's absence, and judge so sitting may grant appeal from judgment rendered by absent judge. Bolden v. Barnes [La.] 42 So. 934. Appeal may be taken from county court to circuit court without an order of former court granting it. Estate of Augustus Switzer v. Gertenbach, 122 Ill. App. 26.

64. Objection that order of appeal was not dated held untenable, where minutes showed that it was entered in open court on certain day, that being all that rules of practice require, and minutes being evidence of highest rank. Succession of Diemann [La.] 43 So. 972.

65. Order of appeal entered on motion in open court need not be signed by trial judge. Succession of Diemann [La.] 43 So. 972.

66. When from motion and order of appeal it is clear that it is the litigant, through his counsel, who complains of the judgment, and who prays for and is allowed the appeal, such appeal will not be dismissed because of some slight confusion in pronouns used. Alba v. Provident Sav. Life Assur. Soc. [La.] 43 So. 663.

67. MacKenzie v. Pease [C. C. A.] 146 F. 743.

68. Absence of praecipe for the issuance of and nonissuance of writ not fatal. McCain Co. v. Kingsley 126 Ill. App. 165.

69. That a writ was attested by the judge and clerk of district court held an amendable defect. Long v. Farmers' State Bk. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 360.

73. Where judgment is rendered against principal and his surety, and writ of error is sued out but bond is filed by surety alone, no jurisdiction is acquired to pass upon rights of principal. Turner v. Franklin [Ariz.] 85 P. 1070. Where appeal is taken from order directing entry of judgment and from judgment entered pursuant thereto, only one undertaking is necessary. McAulay v. Tahoe Ice Co. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 912. On appeal from judgment entered on an order, fact that notice states that an appeal is taken from order and judgment does not render single bond which fails to state as to which appeal it is condition insufficient. Abrams v. White, 11 Idaho, 497, 83 P. 602. Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 647a, authorizing coparties who do not appeal to assign error within certain time on appeal by other parties, does not relieve such coparties from necessity of filing bond within time allowed in term time appeal, and where no such bond is filed the appeal is a vacation appeal as to such coparties. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Acrea [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 213. Upon appeal from county to circuit court from judgment in settlement of a guardian's account, bond must be given. Ky. St. 1903, § 973; Civ. Code Proc. tit. 16, c. 2, §§ 700, 724. In re Huggins [Ky.] 102 S. W. 849. Though bond executed by president of police jury could not be regarded as that of such jury, held that it was sufficient to support appeal by jury when regarded as executed by president in aid of appeal, signature of

74. State need not give bond on appeal in suit under intrusion into office act. State v. Reid [La.] 42 So. 662.

Municipalities: Under Mills' Ann. St. § 4444, city appealing from adverse judgment rendered in its police magistrate's court need not give bond; § 15, Laws 1885, p. 289, requiring bond in all appeals from such court not applying. Hummel v. Ouray [Colo.] 88 P. 582. Municipality may appeal from interlocutory order granting injunction without giving bond. City of Chicago v. O'Hare, 124 Ill. App. 290. Suit for mandamus to compel mayor and council to submit question of disincorporation to voters is action against city, and it need not give bond on appeal. Parish v. Collins [Wash.] 86 P. 557.

Persons appealing in representative or fiduciary capacity: One appealing from an order of probate court revoking letters of administration appeals as an individual, and Rev. St. 1901, par. 1947, excusing an administrator or executor from giving bond unless he is personally charged, does not apply. In re Morales' Estate [Ariz.] 89 P. 540. Executor and residuary legatee who has given bond to pay debts and legacies under § 5030, Cobbey's Ann. St. 1903, is absolved from necessity of giving appeal bond in cases which involve contest upon claims against estate. Thompson v. Pope's Estate [Neb.] 109 N. W. 498. Appeal from judgment against defendant individually held taken in his individual capacity and not as independent executor, so that he was not relieved from necessity of giving bond. Tison v. Gass [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 376. Guardian appealing from order of probate court removing him because court had no jurisdiction to appoint him is not "a party in a fiduciary capacity" and does not "appeal in the interest of the trust," and hence is required by Rev. St. § 6408 to file a bond. In re Guardianship of Wallace, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 449.

Poor litigants: Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1401, affidavit of inability to pay costs must be made before county judge of county where party resides, or court trying case, and affidavit made before notary public of county of trial is insufficient. Wood v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 982, 97 S. W. 323. Defective affidavit cannot be amended on appeal. Id.

75. Upon appeal by plaintiff, sufficiency of bond is not affected by omission as obligees of two defendants who are not necessary parties to the appeal. Wandelohr v. Rainey [Tex.] 100 S. W. 1155. Sufficiency of bond by alleged bankrupt not affected because running only to original petitioners, and not naming others who joined by intervention. Flickinger v. First Nat. Bk. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 162.

76. Wandelohr v. Rainey [Tex.] 100 S. W. 1155.

77. Clerk of trial court cannot refuse to deliver transcript to appellant on ground that appeal bond is not in double amount of costs, where bond recites that amount is double "fixed by the clerk," and is approved by him. Taylor v. Gardner [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 411.

78. Word "cashier" appended to signature of surety held merely descriptive personae. Northup v. Bathrick [Neb.] 110 N. W. 685. Sureties on appellant's cost bond below are not ineligible as sureties on appeal bond, though judgment was rendered against them for costs. Taylor v. Gardner [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 411.

79. Appellants need not be bound by security for costs only where no supersedeas is asked for, it being sufficient if the sureties acknowledge themselves liable. Mayfield v. Tuscaloosa County Com'rs, [Ala.] 41 So. 932. Where notice recites that appeal is taken to supreme court and undertaking is for an appeal to "Appellate Court of the Third District of the State of California," there being no such court, it is insufficient (McAulay v. Tahoe Ice Co. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 912), though under Code Civ. Proc. § 941 it was not necessary to name the court (Id.). Instrument in form a supersedeas bond, but before its approval and by erasure to bond for costs only, by appellant's attorney with consent of surety, held sufficient as an appeal bond. Parsons v. Little, 28 App. D. C. 218. Under Rev. St. 1887, § 4809, and surety company law, undertaking must obligate appellant to pay all costs and damages in case of dismissal of appeal and an undertaking to pay costs awarded "on the appeal" is insufficient. Jackson v. Barrett [Idaho] 86 P. 270. Where there are two appeals, undertaking to pay costs awarded against appellant "on the appeal" is void for uncertainty as to which it applies. Thum v. Bailey [Idaho] 86 P. 279. Bond on devolutive appeal conditioned that "if the said defendant shall well and truly prosecute said appeal and said sum, then in such case this bond shall be null and void," held sufficient. Parker & Co. v. Succession of Griffin, 117 La. 977, 42 So. 473. Where appeals are taken from order appointing receiver and from order refusing to vacate appointment, bond which recites that in consideration of "such appeal" appellant will pay costs awarded "on the appeal" is void for uncertainty as to which it refers. Faust v. Rustler Min. & Mill. Co., 34 Mont. 368, 86 P. 421.

80. On appeal from denial of rule nisi in certiorari, security must be approved by court as required by Code 1896, § 431; but, on appeal from final judgment, security must be by virtue of section 2827, making provisions as to other appeals applicable, be approved by clerk of court as in other appeals. Mayfield v. Tuscaloosa County Com'rs [Ala.] 41 So. 932. On appeal from surrogate court it is discretionary with surrogate whether he will determine sufficiency of sureties from affidavits of justification or whether he will require sureties to appear before him and be examined touching their sufficiency before approving undertaking. § 7. Transfer of jurisdiction; supersedeas and stay.<sup>92</sup>—The transfer is not

Code, § 380), providing that bond must be approved by clerk of county court, appeal will be dismissed where bond included in transcript bears no indorsement of approval and record shows no approval. Greenlaw Lumber & Timber Co. v. Chambers [Colo.] 88 P. 845. Act of clerk in fixing probable amount of costs and his approval of bond is essential to its validity, so that paper filed with record in case prior to that time, purporting to be bond, can be given no official recognition. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 519.

82. Undertaking filed on same day on which notice of appeal is served is timely. McAulay v. Tahoe Ice Co. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 912. Under Rev. St. 1887, § 4808, an appeal is ineffectual unless undertaking is filed within five days from service of notice of appeal. Cole v. Fox [Idaho] 88 P. 561. Must be actually received by the clerk within that time and one using mails assumes risk of delays. Id. Is presumed to have been received by clerk for filing on day filing mark indicates. Id. Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 5671, relating to appeals in ditch proceedings, filing a bond in proper time is absolutely essential to jurisdiction, notwithstanding section 1307, prohibiting dismissal for defects of form or substance of such bonds. Smith v. Gustin [Ind.] 80 N. E. 954. Appeal dismissed in so far as it purported to be suspensive one, where bond was signed after ten days within which suspensive appeal should be signed had elapsed. O'Brien v. D'Hemecourt [La.] 43 So. 654. Appeal dismissed where bond was approved more than twenty days after adjournment of court. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 519. Under Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 6505, failure to file bond within five days after service of notice of appeal renders appeal ineffectual. Main Inv. Co. v. Olsen [Wash.] 86 P. 657. Bond filed within five days after oral notice of appeal given at time of rendition of judgment is sufficient. Ayars v. O'Connor [Wash.] 88 P. 119. Bond may be filed before notice, and hence, where bond is filed after an oral notice which is subsequently abandoned and written notice given, same bond is sufficient.

Id. Fact that notice and bond were dated and marked as filed on July 16th held to show a mistake of a service date of July 9th on each, so that appeal would not be dismissed on ground that bond was not filed within five days after service of notice. Andrews v. Uncle Joe Diamond Broker [Wash.] 87 P. 947. Where bond is timely left with clerk for filing, his failure to file it within prescribed time does not defeat appeal. Main Inv. Co. v. Olsen [Wash.] 86 P. 1112.

Extension of time: Under Gen. St. 1902, § 791, time for filing may be extended. General Hospital Soc. v. New Haven Rendering Co. [Conn.] 65 A. 1065.

After appeal from order dividing a ward into election districts, but before removal of record and return day of writ, court could order a map of the districts to be filed nunc pro tunc. Waynesburgh Borough's North Ward, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 525. After an appeal has been presented from the judgment of the county court and is pending in the circuit court, the county court cannot annul the judgment by an order entered in a case subsequently instituted. Commonwealth v. Stearns Lumber Co. [Ky.] 102 S. W. 836. When an appeal with a stay has been taken to the supreme court and the return has been made and filed therein, the jurisdiction of the appellate court attaches and that of the trial court is suspended as to all matters necessarily involved in the appeal. Bock v. Sauk Center Grocery Co., 100 Minn. 71, 110 N. W. 257. After an appeal has been perfected, the trial court is without jurisdiction to entertain a motion to correct an error in the proceedings. Guinn v. Iowa, etc., R. Co., 131 Iowa, 680, 109 N. W. 209.

97. Appeal from ancillary order does not stay main case. Murphy v. Police Jury of St. Mary Parish, 117 La. 355, 41 So. 647.

98. The staying of process by the trial court because of the pendency of some matter the outcome of which may alter the rights of parties is treated elsewhere. See Boston & M. R. Co. v. Gokey, 150 F. 686. See Stay of Proceedings, 8 C. L. 1999; Executions, 7 C. L. 1614.

99. In Georgia when a judgment granting or refusing an injunction is brought to the superior court by a last bill of exceptions no supersedeas results merely from the filing of the bill of exceptions and making an affidavit of inability from poverty to pay costs and give security. A supersedeas in such case only results when an order of the judge has been passed prescribing the terms upon which the supersedeas will be granted and such order has been complied with. Civ. Code 1895, § 4925. Stokes v. Stokes, 126 Ga. 804, 55 S. E. 1023.

1. Appeal operates as supersedeas and suspends power of court to enforce judgment on decree appealed from. Anderson v. Anderson, 124 Ill. App. 613. A technical chancery appeal brings up the facts as well as the law for re-examination, and the decree appealed from is vacated and annulled, and no proceeding can be taken thereon until the appeal is determined. Fort v. Fort [Tenn.] 101 S. W. 433. By a Tennessee statute, act 1883, c. 21, p. 68, chancery decrees are continued in force to the extent of preserving the judgment lien pending appeal, the effect of the statute being limited to cases where judgments pronounced constitute liens. Id.

Contra: An appeal from a decree in chancery does not stay proceedings unless supersedeas is granted. Meeks v. State [Ark.] 98 S. W. 378.

2. A supersedeas results as a matter of right and law from appellant's compliance with the statute. Cannot be denied by court his only function being to determine whether the security for "damages and costs" is sufficient. Rev. St. §§ 1000 et seq. McCourt v. Singers-Bigger [C. C. A.] 150 F. 102. The interposition of an equitable counter-claim for specific performance of a contract for a new lease, in an action of unlawful detainer, does not change the character of the action so as to entitle defendant to a stay of the judgment of restitution as a matter of right. Sarthou v. Reese [Cal.] 90 P. 187.

3. In Georgia where, in a proceeding for contempt founded upon a failure to comply with an order of court requiring payment of alimony, the judge finds respondent in contempt, it is discretionary with the judge, upon appeal being taken, to make a supersedeas depend upon the giving of a bond. Stokes v. Stokes, 126 Ga. 804, 55 S. E. 1023. An application for a stay pending an appeal from a mortgage foreclosure, and the amount of security to be given thereon, is addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court. Discretion held abused in granting an application where the good faith of the appeal did not appear, no notice of any exceptions having been filed within the time prescribed by law. Bouden v. Sire, 104 N. Y. S. 460. Supersedeas discharged in so far as it superseded dissolution or injunction restraining election commissioners from holding election for division of county into two court districts, etc., and sustained in so far as it superseded decree declaring such act constitutional and dismissing bill. Ross v. Quick [Miss.] 42 So. 281.

to parts of a decree preservative of the status quo.<sup>4</sup> In some cases the statute requires an order specifically allowing a stay.<sup>5</sup> The power to supersede injunctive orders of the dissolution thereof rests in the inherent chancery power<sup>6</sup> or in plain terms of statute to that effect.<sup>7</sup> The better doctrine is that they cannot be continued in force on the dismissal of the bill to which they pertain.<sup>8</sup> A self-executing decree cannot be superseded.<sup>9</sup>

Bond<sup>10</sup> is usually requisite to a supersedeas, the amount thereof being fixed by the court<sup>11</sup> unless the amount of the bond is ascertainable by a statute conferring the right to a stay on compliance with its terms, the penalty of the bond being usually based upon the amount involved in the appeal,<sup>12</sup> and the order or statute must be strictly followed.<sup>13</sup> If the bond is both an appeal and a supersedeas bond it must

4. An appeal, by a claimant to $7,000 in the hands of a stakeholder, from a judgment directing the latter to pay the money into the registry of the court, and the clerk to pay the same over to another claimant, does not stay the judgment directing payment into court, and the bond need only be appropriate to stay that part of the judgment directing the clerk to pay to the adverse claimant. Lazier v. Cady [Wash.] 86 P. 209.

5. The perfecting of an appeal under § 1310, Code of Civ. Proc., and the giving of a bond under § 1326, does not stay proceedings to enforce a judgment for injunctive relief without an order of the court to that effect. Sagehomme v. Pugh & Co., 102 N. Y. S. 923. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1176, there can be no stay on appeal from a judgment of restitution in an action of unlawful detainer unless the trial judge so directs and appellate court cannot therefore grant a supersedeas. Sarthou v. Reese [Cal.] 90 P. 187.

6, 7. State v. Chehalis County Superior Ct. [Wash.] 86 P. 632. 2 Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 6507, providing that where a final judgment shall be rendered by any superior court in a cause where a temporary injunction has been granted, and the party at whose instance the injunction was granted shall appeal, such injunction shall remain in force, does not deprive the trial court of its inherent power to suspend a prohibitory injunction pending appeal. Id. Mandamus will not lie to compel a trial court to order a stay or fix a bond to supersede a prohibitory injunction pending appeal. Id.

8. Where a decree restraining the infringement of a patent is set aside on a bill of review and the bill dismissed, the court has no power to continue the injunction in force pending an appeal from the later decree. Kelley Bros. v. Diamond Drill & Mach. Co., 142 P. 868.

9. A judgment of disbarment, being self-executing, cannot be superseded as a matter of right, and mandamus will not lie to compel the court to fix a bond. State v. Poindeux [Wash.] 86 P. 176.

10. See 7 C. L. 161.

11. A bond conditioned as an appeal bond and as a supersedeas bond from a judgment granting equitable relief is ineffectual for any purpose unless the amount has been fixed by order of court. Tibbitts v. Henry [Wash.] 89 P. 850.

12. Where Code Proc. 575, fixing amount of suspensive appeal bond is inapplicable, as where plaintiff's suit is dismissed, the amount of the bond must be fixed by the court as on a devolutive appeal (Day v. Bailey, 116 La. 961, 41 So. 223; Wells v. Blackman, 117 La. 359, 41 So. 648), and hence registry of notice of such a suit does not change the rule that on a suspension appeal from judgment of dismissal the trial court must fix the amount of the bond. (Wells v. Blackman, 117 La. 359, 41 So. 648). Act 1894, No. 22, p. 25, makes no change in the law except to relieve third persons of constructive notice of suits affecting land title unless, and until, a notice thereof is registered, and hence where suspensive appeal is from order of such notice as that Code Proc. 575, requiring bond equal to one and one-half of amount of judgment, is inapplicable, as when plaintiff's suit is dismissed, the amount of the bond must be fixed by the court and in absence of such bond the appeal will be dismissed. Day v. Bailey, 116 La. 961, 41 So. 223. Where the appeal is from an order, in proceedings supplemental to execution, refusing to discharge a receiver, a supersedeas bond need not be double the judgment, since its purpose is to stay payments on the judgment pending appeal and not to secure the judgment. Johnson v. Joslyn [Wash.] 88 P. 324. A statute requiring an undertaking in twice the amount of the judgment to stay proceedings on a judgment directing the payment of money has no application to a judgment limited to a direction of a sale of specific property in satisfaction thereof and hence an undertaking given thereunder without consideration or contractual element is void and unenforceable as a common-law undertaking. Olsen v. Birch & Co., 1 Cal. App. 99, 81 P. 656.

13. Where in a replevin action the chattels have been disposed of and the judgment is for money only, a stay of execution is properly granted upon filing a bond under § 1327, Code Civ. Proc., relating to judgments for the recovery of money only, instead of under § 1329, relating to stay bonds in replevin actions. Gilroy v. Everson, Hickok Co., 120 App. Div. 207, 105 N. Y. S. 188.

Clerical error in amount: Where a judgment is rendered for $900.29, with costs in the sum of $90.25, a stay bond reciting a judgment $900.99 and costs amounting to $87.58, that appellant was "desirous of staying the execution," and that he and his sureties were bound "in the sum of $200, being double the amount named in the judgment," held that the bond was a sufficient stay bond for $2,000, the error being clerical.

be large enough for the latter.<sup>14</sup> The appellate court may exact a new or additional bond.<sup>15</sup>

The effect<sup>16</sup> of a supersedeas is simply to suspend the judgment<sup>17</sup> in its entirety,<sup>18</sup> and not to vacate or dissolve it,<sup>19</sup> or the lien of process pertaining to it,<sup>20</sup> or writs incident to the suit,<sup>21</sup> and not to transform a negative decree into affirmative relief.<sup>22</sup> Conversely, the suspension of a provisional or preliminary order leaves the main case open in other respects.<sup>23</sup> If the appeal and supersedeas prevents the case from going to judgment, no lien on land attaches.<sup>24</sup> The lower court loses its power only in respect to those things which might trench on the appellate functions,<sup>25</sup> and retains subject thereto the power to take any action preservative of the status quo<sup>26</sup> and power to make its record speak the truth<sup>27</sup> unless the error be on the face of the record which has passed into the jurisdiction above.<sup>28</sup>

14. A bond conditioned on the appellant and his sureties paying to appellee a specific sum and damages adjudged on appeal, etc., on the affirmance of the judgment is both an appeal and supersedeas bond, and is insufficient unless given in double the money judgment and $200 in addition thereto. Tibbitts v. Henry [Wash.] 89 P. 880.

15. The supreme court has jurisdiction, in a clear case, to direct the appellant to give a new or additional supersedeas bond within a time limited, or upon his default to vacate the stay. Bock v. Sauk Center Grocery Co., 100 Minn. 71, 110 N. W. 257.

16. See 7 C. L. 161.

17. The effect of a supersedeas is to stay proceedings on the judgment. Gardner v. Continental Ins. Co., [Ky.] 101 S. W. 911.

18. Portion of decree of distribution of decedent's estate in appellant's favor cannot be executed pending the appeal without the consent of the appellate court. Van Houten v. Hall [N. J. Eq.] 66 A. 1085. A decree modifying a former decree is, by giving security, superseded in toto, and not only as to the modifications. McCourt v. Singers-Bigger [C. C. A.] 150 F. 102.

19. A writ of error at common law, where seasonably sued out and appropriate bond given, acts as a supersedeas to prevent the issuance of execution on the judgment appealed from. In other respects the judgment remains in full effect and validity as a ground of action, bar, or estoppel. Fort v. Fort [Tenn.] 101 S. W. 433.

20. Personal creditor of administrator instituted equitable action, under Civ. Code Prac. § 439, against him and defendant bank in which he, in his official capacity, had money of estate on deposit, to subject administrator's statutory allowance out of such sum to payment of his debt. Bill was dismissed and attachment discharged, but appeal was taken and judgment superseded. Held that effect of judgment was suspended by order of supersedeas, and bank was not liable for refusal to pay administrator entire amount of deposit pending such appeal. National Bk. v. Johnson's Adm'r, 29 Ky. L. R. 728, 96 S. W. 433.

21. Order of judge indorsed on petition for an appeal from, and supersedeas to, an order refusing to dissolve an injunction, held, upon proper construction thereof, not to stay the injunction but to have effect merely to grant appeal and supersedeas.

Powhatan Coal & Coke Co. v. Ritz [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 257. The perfecting of an appeal from an order refusing to dissolve an injunction, together with a supersedeas, does not stay the operation of the injunction, nor deprive the court below of power to punish a party for his contempt in refusing to obey it. Id.

22. Where, in unlawful detainer, defendant sets up a counterclaim for specific performance of a contract for a new lease, which is denied, there is nothing to stay as far as the judgment on the counterclaim is concerned. Sarthou v. Reese [Cal.] 90 P. 187. On appeal from an order denying appellant the right to intervene, a supersedeas bond is not proper, since there is nothing to stay. Hindman v. Great Western Coal Development & Min. Co. [Wash.] 89 P. 894.

23. Suspensive appeal lies from refusal to grant preliminary injunction, but will not suspend trial on merits. Murphy v. Police Jury of St. Mary Parish, 117 La. 355, 41 So. 647.

24. A judgment debtor who appeals from an order on motion for a new trial and executes a sufficient stay bond, relieves his land from the lien of the judgment. May sell the same unless done with intent to defraud creditors. Austin v. Union Pav. & Cont. Co. [Cal. App.] 88 P. 731.

25. After case has passed to appellate court, trial court cannot make any order in it as between appellant and appellee. Williams' Heirs v. Zengel, 117 La. 614, 42 So. 157.

26. An appeal with supersedeas does not interfere with power of lower court to make any order necessary to preservation of funds or property involved in the litigation pending such appeal, where such orders do not tend toward an execution or enforcement of order or decree appealed from, or to place property or funds involved beyond reach or control of judgment or decree of appellate court. McKinnon-Young Co. v. Stockton [Fla.] 44 So. 237. After appeal trial court held to have jurisdiction to pass on question of insolvency or illegality of bonds given in injunction and sequestration proceedings in original suit. Stuart v. Ansley [La.] 44 So. 294. After supersedeas following a judgment directing the sale of land, the trial court has no authority to place such land in the hands of a receiver pending the appeal. Gardner v. Continental Ins. Co. [Ky.] 101 S. W. 911. An appeal on sufficient undertaking from an order allowing

A bond to release a supersedeas must be so conditioned as to preserve all rights protected by the former.<sup>29</sup>

§ 8. Appearance, entry, and docketing above<sup>30</sup> within the time required by statute or rule<sup>31</sup> are generally essential, and where the appellant fails to enter the appeal the appellee may do so for the purpose of moving to dismiss.<sup>32</sup> The prosecution of a writ of error operates as an appearance, and further process is unnecessary.<sup>33</sup> Fees for docketing appeals are dependent upon statute.<sup>34</sup>

§ 9. Perpetuation of proceedings and evidence for the reviewing court. (Record on appeal.) Scope and terminology.<sup>35</sup>—The “record proper,” sometimes designated as the “fundamental record,” “judgment roll,” or “common-law record,” includes those matters which are at common law of record ex propria vigore. The “secondary record” includes the various means by which matters not part of the record proper are made of record, by bill of exceptions, settled case, abstract, approved motion for new trial, etc. The “entire record” or “record on appeal” comprises all that is transmitted to the reviewing court, including both record proper and secondary record.

(§ 9) A. What the record proper must show.<sup>36</sup>—That which is a part of the record proper must appear by such record, and its omission cannot be supplied by the secondary record.<sup>37</sup> The facts essential to appellate jurisdiction<sup>38</sup> must always temporary alimony, under Code Civ. Proc. § 946, deprives the superior court of all power to enforce the order, and hence it cannot appoint a receiver to provide security for the ultimate payment of the alimony. McAneny v. Santa Clara County Sup'r Ct. [Cal.] 87 P. 1020.

27. Pending an appeal and supersedeas, the return of service of process commencing the suit may be amended in the lower court upon proper application and notice to the opposite party. Gauley Coal Land Ass'n v. Spies [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 903. The giving of a supersedeas bond does not stop a defendant appellant in a direct proceeding to correct the record from showing that the record, so far as it showed that another defendant had appealed, was false, where it does not appear that by reason of the supersedeas plaintiffs were prevented from enforcing the decree against such other defendant. Pickren v. Northcutt [Ark.] 102 S. W. 708. Trial court may correct error in calculation of amount of its judgment at any time prior to action of appellate court thereon. After filing of petition and supersedeas bond for writ of error and citation thereon. Blain v. Park Bk. & Trust Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 1091.

29. Where, in an action to set aside a deed, complainant was awarded judgment and put in possession, a bond given by him to prevent a stay is defective where it only obligates him to pay all rents collected by him pending the appeal, as it should also be conditioned to pay damages resulting from negligence in failing to collect rents or failing to properly lease the premises. Barron v. Myers, 145 Mich. 342, 13 Det. Leg. N. 506, 103 N. W. 712.

31. In North Carolina, under supreme court rules 5, 17, if an appeal from a judgment rendered before the commencement of term of supreme court is not docketed at such term seven days before entering upon call of docket of district to which it belongs, the case may be dismissed upon proper motion being made by appellee. Vivian v. Mitchell [N. C.] 57 S. E. 167. Appeal will not be dismissed because not docketed within the time prescribed by the North Carolina supreme court rule 5 if it is docketed during term of supreme court following trial and before appellee has moved to dismiss. Laney v. Mackey [N. C.] 57 S. E. 386.

Appeal dismissed where there was no certified copy of record entry of judgment appealed from, showing term, day, month, and year upon which same was rendered, with order granting appeal as required by Rev. St. 1899, § 813, nor, in lieu thereof, any perfect abstract or transcript showing any judgment whatever, or order granting an appeal. Pennowfski v. Coerver [Mo.] 103 S. W. 542. A transcript of proceedings before a license board on an application for a license to sell liquor which does not contain a certified copy of the final order of such board presents no matter for review on appeal. In re Borland [Neb.] 112 N. W. 608. It is not reversible error for the trial judge to file a written opinion and make it a part of the record. 44. Orders relative to bill of exceptions. Hill v. Butler County, 195 Mo. 511, 94 S. W. 518. Where neither transcript nor appellant's abstract showed the allowance and filing of a bill of exceptions, only errors in record proper could be considered. State v. Trollinger [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 833. A paper entitled "Bill of Exceptions," signed and sealed by the judge of the court, and bearing the style of the case in which an order has been entered, stating that a bill of exceptions was tendered, signed, sealed, and made a part of the record, is sufficiently identified to make it a part of the record. De Board v. Camden Interstate R. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 279. A bill of exceptions to the opinion of a county court under § 48, c. 39, West Virginia Code 1906, is a part of the record if the record shows that the bill was signed by the commissioners, or a majority of them at the same term of court at which the trial took place, although the record fails to show that the bill was otherwise noted thereon. Jones v. Harmer [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 657. Recital in bill of time fixed for signing and of order extending time insufficient to supply failure of record to show such orders. Mitchell v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 518. Where bill is signed in vacation the record proper must show an order in term time authorizing such signature. A recital in the bill is insufficient. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Carroll [Ala.] 41 So. 517. Filing of bill of exceptions in clerk's office and date of filing cannot be shown by recitals of bill. Malott v. Central Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 369; Walner v. Wade [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 686; Stark v. Zehnder [Mo.] 102 S. W. 992. Lease given during term to file bill of exceptions after close of term must be shown by order book entry. Malott v. Central Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 369. It will be presumed that the certificate of the trial judge bears the date upon which the bill of exceptions was tendered, unless it affirmatively appears from the record that it was tendered at an earlier date, and if such date is not within the time limited for tendering the bill the writ of error will be dismissed. Crawford v. Goodwin [Ga.] 57 S. E. 240.

45. Under § 4819, Rev. St. 1887, an appeal to the supreme court from a judgment of the district court on appeal from the probate court, appellant must furnish a copy of the notice of appeal, of the judgment or orders appealed from, and all papers used on the hearing which must be certified as correct by the attorneys or the clerk. In re Paige's Estate [Idaho] 86 P. 273. The recital in the bill of exceptions of the fact that an appeal was taken does not evidence that fact. It must appear from the abstract of the record proper. Commercial Trust & Sav. Bk. v. Magee [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 600. On appeal from drain commissioners the circuit court may determine as a question of fact whether an appeal bond was filed with the auditor, and to that end may hear oral evidence. Smith v. Gustin

* In some states, however, the secondary record must itself show that it was properly made and a showing thereof in the record proper is insufficient.<sup>46</sup> While in actions at law every presumption is in favor of the decision below and error must be made to affirmatively appear,<sup>47</sup> in equity a complainant to whom relief is granted must preserve in the record the evidence on which it is based by a certificate of evidence or by recitals in the decree.<sup>48</sup>

(§ 9) B. What is part of record proper; necessity of secondary record.<sup>49</sup>—The office of the bill of exceptions or other secondary record is to make of record that which is not part of the record proper, and it is necessary except to review errors apparent on the face of the judgment roll.<sup>50</sup> The record proper consists of the summons, pleadings, and judgment,<sup>51</sup> findings,<sup>52</sup> and orders made with reference to

48. In equity the rule in Illinois is that the party in favor of whom the decree is entered must preserve the evidence, or the decree must find the facts proven at hearing. Berg v. Berg, 223 Ill. 299, 79 N. E. 13; Standish v. Musgrove, 223 Ill. 500, 79 N. E. 161; Timke v. Allen, 225 Ill. 402, 80 N. E. 297. This rule, however, does not apply to cases in which parties are entitled to trial by jury. Berg v. Berg, 223 Ill. 208, 79 N. E. 13. This exception does not apply to a decree on a cross bill upon the hearing of which the parties were not entitled to a jury, though they were entitled to a jury on hearing of bill. Id. Where findings in decree are sufficient to support it and there is no certificate of evidence, the decree will be sustained. Geffinger v. Klewer [Ill.] 81 N. E. 712. Where court is unable from record to properly decide the case, it will reverse decree on its own motion and remand with directions to permit taking of further evidence. Standard Computing Scale Co. v. Computing Scale Co. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 627. Rule that appellee must preserve the evidence does not mean that when evidence has been produced and filed and referred to in a master's report as an exhibit and returned to the court, it is not appellant's duty when bringing up a transcript of the record to see that such transcript is complete or at least to make and show some effort to cause it to be so. Jackson v. Grosser, 121 Ill. App. 363. Under rule 7 of the supreme court of Missouri if, in an equity case, all the evidence is not embodied in the bill of exceptions, the judgment will not be reversed even though it is not a correct legal result of the facts found. Patterson v. Patterson, 200 Mo. 335, 93 S. W. 613. In a case in equity if the entire evidence is not brought up on appeal, the facts will not be reviewed but the usual presumption will be indulged in support of the decree. Mason v. Smith [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 1149.

50. Stark v. Zehnder [Mo.] 102 S. W. 992; Barnard Leas Mfg. Co. v. Washburn, 30 Ky. L. R. 813, 99 S. W. 664. Errors apparent on the face of the record can be reviewed without a bill of exceptions. Crenshaw v. Duff's Ex'r [Ky.] 103 S. W. 287; Wait v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 60; Cramer v. Springfield Trac. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 969; Blue Ridge Light & Power Co. v. Tutwiler [Va.] 55 S. E. 539. Record proper held to show that grant of change of venue was error. Leslie v. Chase & Son Mercantile Co., 200 Mo. 363, 98 S. W. 523. While it is possible under Rev. Laws, c. 173, § 106, to raise questions of law by exceptions, where the hearing is upon an issue of law, and where there is a simple remedy by appeal, it is simpler and better practice in such cases to bring such questions directly to supreme judicial court by appeal. McCusker v. Geiger [Mass.] 80 N. E. 648.

51. Judgment, date thereof, motions for new trial and in arrest of judgment, and exceptions thereto, are part of record proper. Malott v. Central Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 369. Where the record judgment roll is complete except as to a summons, it not appearing that one was issued, it will be presumed that defendant appeared without service as against a technical objection that the record is defective under Comp. Laws, § 3431, requiring the record to contain the judgment roll. Strosnider v. Turner [Nev.] 90 P. 581. On appeal from an order settling an administratrix's account, the account, the written objections thereto, and the findings and order certified by the clerk as a judgment roll, is sufficient record, and the exemplification of the papers in the form of a bill of exceptions is not necessary. In re Dougherty's Estate, 34 Mont. 336, 86 F. 38. Under Burns' Ann. St. Supp. 1905, § 641 C, action of court in allowing supplemental complaint to be filed and objection and exception thereto are part of record without bill of exceptions. Schmoe v. Cotton [Ind.] 79 N. E. 184. Upon a writ of error to review an order dismissing an appeal from the probate court, the papers and entries relating to the order of dismissal constitute the record without a bill of exceptions. City of Flint v. Genesee Circuit Judge [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 829, 109 N. W. 769. Motion recited in and identified the record.<sup>53</sup> Proposed pleadings and amendments which have never become pleadings in the action are no part of the record.<sup>54</sup> Other proceedings had below, in order to be reviewed, must be brought into the record by a bill of exceptions,<sup>55</sup> journal entry, or equivalent proceedings. In chancery cases and some special statutory proceedings,<sup>56</sup> the record includes all proceedings and files below, including the testimony, if taken by deposition, or as settled if taken in open court, and statutes sometimes provide that documents filed become part of the record.<sup>57</sup> Stipulations,<sup>58</sup> by final order based thereon is a part of the record. Recital in order of dismissal that such order is based on a motion which is identified in the order makes motion part of record. Bellinger v. Barnes, 223 Ill. 121, 79 N. E. 11. An order taxing costs cannot be reviewed on an appeal from the judgment in the absence of a bill of exceptions or statement containing the record of what the court acted on in making the order. Schomberg v. Long [N. D.] 108 N. W. 332.

52. Memorandum of findings of fact filed by single justice constitute part of record and stand upon same basis as those contained in a report. Elliott v. Baker [Mass.] 80 N. E. 450. A finding of facts made after judgment is no part of the record and cannot be considered. Farmers' Bank of Polo v. Barbee, 198 Mo. 465, 95 S. W. 225.

53 Except in actions at law in supreme judicial court, it is ordinarily unnecessary to take exceptions in a hearing on demurrer or motion to quash. McCusker v. Geiger [Mass.] 80 N. E. 648.

54. Demurrer stricken must be brought into record by bill of exceptions. Commissioners' Ct. v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 463. An amendment to the pleadings which is disallowed in the court below is no part of the record and can come to the appellate court only by being embodied in the bill of exceptions or attached thereto as an exhibit. Williford v. Denby, 127 Ga. 786, 56 S. E. 1010; Chatman v. Hodnett, 127 Ga. 360, 56 S. E. 439. A pleading which is tendered and not allowed to be filed cannot be considered on appeal if not made part of the record. Krish & Co. v. Kentucky Jeans Clothing Co. [Ky.] 102 S. W. 803.

55. Rulings on objections to confirmation of street assessments. City of Chicago v. Ogden, Sheldon & Co. [Ill.] 81 N. E. 698. In absence of exceptions allowed by special order of court to master's report, only question open on review is whether decree is authorized by pleadings and report. Huntress v. Hanley [Mass.] 80 N. E. 946. Exceptions to master's report in suit in equity present questions of law in a proper form to be carried directly to full court on appeal. McCusker v. Geiger [Mass.] 80 N. E. 648. Where the circuit court on appeal from a justice court dismissed a garnishment proceeding in aid of a judgment in replevin rendered by the justice, for jurisdictional defects in the replevin proceedings the only papers properly in the judgment roll are those concerning the garnishment, and the jurisdictional defects in the replevin proceedings will not be reviewed unless such proceedings are embodied in the bill of exceptions. Kuehn v. Nero [Wis.] 111 N. W. 724. Where something essential to the determination of an alleged error in dismissing an appeal from the probate court is found outside the papers filed or entries made in relation to the order of dismissal, it must be shown by a bill of exceptions. City of Flint v. Genesee Circuit Judge [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 829, 109 N. W. 769.

56. The supreme court has jurisdiction to entertain an equity appeal without a bill of exceptions containing the testimony taken below. McMillan v. Diamond [Neb.] 110 N. W. 542.

57. In Kentucky pleadings, written motions, orders, and exhibits filed or made in open court become a part of the record when copied into it by the clerk in obedience to a schedule filed by one of the parties, or, in the absence of a schedule, when the clerk certifies that the transcript contains a true and complete copy of the record. Civ. Code Prac. § 737. Barnard Leas Mfg. Co. v. Washburn, 30 Ky. L. R. 813, 99 S. W. 664. In Massachusetts memorandum findings voluntarily made by the court constitute a part of the record. Such findings consist of brief abstract of material evidence and statement of findings of fact, and constitute part of record where voluntarily made having same effect as report made under Rev. Laws, c. 159, § 23. Lindsey v. Bird [Mass.] 79 N. E. 263. Under § 4819, Rev. St. 1887, the minutes of the court are not required to be furnished to the appellate court, and hence can only be presented by a bill of exceptions. Williamson* [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 656. In order to make such evidence part of record and authorize its being sent up in original form, it must be embraced in stenographer's report, and there must be a written direction of the court that it be done. Id. Order of district judge, made in vacation, directing clerk to send up with transcript all documentary evidence offered by all parties, held not such a written order of the court as to make such evidence part of record, and, there being no such order, direction to send up such evidence was unauthorized and it could not be considered. Id. Though documentary evidence could not be considered because not made part of record in manner prescribed by Acts 29th Leg. p. 220, c. 112, § 5, held that stenographer's transcript, in so far as it contained oral evidence, would be taken and considered as statement of facts. Id. The failure of the clerk to indorse upon a paper filed the day of filing it, as provided by the Kentucky statute, Civil Code of Practice, § 69, will not effect the appearance,<sup>59</sup> interlocutory motions and orders thereon,<sup>60</sup> exhibits,<sup>61</sup> bills of particulars,<sup>62</sup> agreed statement of facts,<sup>63</sup> depositions,<sup>64</sup> proceedings at the trial,<sup>65</sup> verdict,<sup>66</sup> motion for new trial and order thereon,<sup>67</sup> affidavits,<sup>68</sup> propositions of law, the opinion

59. A ruling sustaining jurisdiction obtained by garnishment will not be reviewed for the purpose of determining whether the garnishee was indebted to the defendant where neither the writs, the disclosure, nor the answers of the garnishee are incorporated in the record. Harrison Granite Co. v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 145 Mich. 712, 13 Det. Leg. N. 631, 103 N. W. 1081.

60. A motion to bring in new parties defendant and an order denying it are not properly part of the judgment roll. Grigsby v. Wolven [S. D.] 108 N. W. 250. Refusal to strike cause from short cause calendar. McDonald v. People, 222 Ill. 325, 78 N. E. 609. Motion to strike demurrer. Commissioners' Ct. v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 463. A judgment dismissing an action can only be reviewed where the motion to dismiss and the exception to the ruling thereon are preserved by a bill of exceptions, it not being sufficient that they are copied into the record proper. Stephens v. Moore [Colo.] 90 P. 853. An order of the district court remanding the cause to the county court and the exceptions thereto must be preserved by a bill of exceptions, and it is insufficient that they are copied into the record proper. Hafey v. Ballin [Colo.] 90 P. 852. Motion to revoke order appointing receiver is not part of record proper, and ruling thereon cannot, therefore, be reviewed unless motion is incorporated in bill of exceptions filed in proper court. Cantwell v. Columbia Lead Co., 199 Mo. 1, 97 S. W. 167. Where neither motion for a continuance, affidavit, action of court, nor exception thereto, were preserved in bill of exceptions, error in refusing continuance could not be considered. City of Mattoon v. Faller, 117 Ill. App. 65. Moving papers in support of a motion to vacate a default must be incorporated in a bill of exceptions. Rose v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Mont.] 88 P. 767. On appeals from orders other than those granting or refusing new trials, the record must be made up by having the papers used at the trial court hearing authenticated by a bill of exceptions. In re Dougherty's Estate, 34 Mont. 336, 86 P. 38.

by bill of exceptions. Robinson v. Cross [Ark.] 101 S. W. 754.

64. Depositions upon which the issues were tried not made part of the record by bill of exceptions or order of court cannot be considered, a statement in the judgment that the evidence was in writing and on file does not make them part of the record. Moore Dry Goods Co. v. Thomas [Ark.] 99 S. W. 66. Under rule 55 for the district court, the Texas court of civil appeals cannot review the refusal of the district court to strike out answers to interrogatories if there is no bill of exceptions in the record, although the order of the court shows that appellants excepted. Borden v. Le Tulle Mercantile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 128.

65. Where a dismissal is ordered after defendant has introduced some evidence, the evidence so adduced should be made part of the record. Weiller v. New York City R. Co., 100 N. Y. S. 1011. Rulings made during trial not relating to pleadings and not appearing on face of judgment, and exception thereto, must be preserved in bill of exceptions. Polowski v. Derengowski, 124 Ill. Pennsylvania R. Co.* [Md.] 65 A. 425.

81. Where the bill of exceptions is contained in two separate volumes, a certificate as to one is not sufficient to identify the other, though it contains exhibits referred to in the authenticated volume, nor will file marks or indorsements placed thereon by the clerk of the trial or of the supreme court supply the place of proper authentication. State v. Paxton [Neb.] 108 N. W. 159.

82. Sufficiency of evidence will not be reviewed where it consists largely of a vast quantity of exhibits thrown into the record without index or classification. Schell v. Walla Walla [Wash.] 86 P. 1114. Must state separately and clearly the exceptions relied on. Court and Practice Act 1905, p. 139, § 490, promulgating this rule, held substantially complied with. Grimwood Co. v. Capitol Hill Bldg. & Const. Co. [R. I.] 65 A. 304.

83. Kiesewetter v. Supreme Tent of Knights of Maccabees [Ill.] 81 N. E. 19. Under St. 1899, § 3741, a bill of exceptions must contain all the evidence bearing on and necessary to explain the error complained of. State v. Craig [Wyo.] 89 P. 584. Exceptions to evidence should clearly point out that objected to, reference to pages of evidence in lower court being usually insufficient. Matthews v. Targarona [Md.] 65 A. 60. Must show that points raised are material and that rulings are erroneous and prejudicial. Jones v. Jones, 101 Me. 447, 64 A. 815. The record in the suit and judgment claimed to operate as res adjudicata in this case was so briefly referred to in the bill of exceptions that it was impracticable to determine whether it had that effect or not and the question was left open. Board of Education of Glynn County v. Day [Ga.] 57 S. E. 359. Exceptions to an auditor's report ought not to refer the court from one part of the record to another to discover what was ruled, and to other and various parts of the record to search for evidence relating to that particular point, but the exception should be complete in itself. Baxter & Co. v. Camp, 126 Ga. 354, 54 S. E. 1036. Where exceptions to the report of an auditor in an equity case involve a consideration of the evidence on which the auditor based his findings, it is incumbent on the party excepting to set forth, in connection with each exception, the evidence necessary to be considered in passing thereon, or to attach thereto as an exhibit so much of the evidence as is pertinent, or at least to point out where such evidence is to be found in the brief of the evidence filed by the auditor. Orr v. Cooledge, 125 Ga. 496, 54 S. E. 618. In Georgia the bill of exceptions must specify plainly the decision complained of and the alleged error, Civ. Code 1895, § 5527. Baxter & Co. v. Camp, 126 Ga. 354, 54 S. E. 1036.

84. Failure to condense evidence as required by Circuit Court Rule 33, subd. 5, Code 1896, p. 1201, not ground for striking bill where such condensation is not practicable. Boyett v. Standard Chem. & Oil Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 756. Under rule 1 (37 S. x), every question to a witness which is basis

Papers referred to therein must be annexed or identified beyond doubt.<sup>85</sup> Skeleton bills, that is bills which provide for the subsequent copying by the clerk into and as a part of them of some paper or document, are allowed in some states.<sup>86</sup> Appellant must see that record contains everything necessary to review, and its omissions will be construed against him,<sup>87</sup> the burden being upon him to affirmatively show error,<sup>88</sup> but mere formal defects or irregularities which do not cloud the record or violate a statutory requirement will be disregarded.<sup>89</sup> As a general rule deficiencies in matters which belong to the bill of exceptions cannot be aided by other parts of the record.<sup>90</sup> The bill of exceptions must, in some states, show on its face that it was presented, signed and filed in due time,<sup>91</sup> while in others such a show-of some ground for reversal mentioned in assignment of errors, with its answer, if any, shall be stated at length, it is no ground of objection that questions and answers are "scattered through the record." Gracy v. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. [Fla.] 42 So. 903.

85. Certificate of evidence held to be sufficiently incorporated in the bill of exceptions, in a legal sense, and identified to make it a part thereof. De Board v. Camden Interstate R. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 279. Bill of exceptions and report of evidence held to be so articulated as to form one paper, thus sufficiently identifying the evidence referred to in the bill. Kecoughtan Lodge v. Steiner [Va.] 56 S. E. 569. A statement purporting to be the evidence in the case with the following certificate of the trial judge: "I hereby certify that the foregoing is all the evidence in this case," was incorporated in the record, but was not mentioned in or attached to or otherwise identified by the bill of exceptions. It was held that assignments of error based on such evidence could not be considered. United States Mineral Co. v. Camden [Va.] 56 S. E. 561. Bill of exceptions must show relation of exhibits and excerpts therein contained to issues involved. Pittsburgh Gas & Coke Co. v. Goff-Kirby Coal Co. [C. C. A.] 151 F. 466. While it is the better practice for the evidence to be set out in the bill of exceptions before the signature of the judge is attached, the failure to do this is not fatal where the certificate and identification of the evidence by the court is complete, and it is in effect made part of the bill of exceptions. Jeremy Imp. Co. v. Com. [Va.] 56 S. E. 224.

86. It is not necessary that a bill of exceptions be contained in one document. Parts of it may be in the form of exhibits to be inserted in the proper places according to directions given therein, but all of the bill must be present and examined when it is signed by the judge, and the several papers to be copied must be so marked as exhibits that no mistake in their identity can be made. Nashville R. & Light Co. v. Marlin [Tenn.] 99 S. W. 367. Skeleton bill of exceptions not containing evidence, charge, and requested charges, or sufficiently identifying them to bring them into the record. Id. Under the Missouri statute, Laws 1903, p. 105, deeds offered in evidence, if called for in the bill of exceptions by the name of grantor and grantee and the dates of their execution and acknowledgment and their record, and copied in full in the abstract, are parts of the record, though not filed and left with the clerk to remain in his custody until after termination of the appeal. Quail v. Lomas, 200 Mo. 674, 98 S. W. 617. Where bill of exceptions called for copying of instructions and motion for new trial, held that it was sufficient though they were not carried into the bill in full. Collins v. Crawford [Mo.] 103 S. W. 537.

87. Fact that bill shows that it does not contain all evidence does not invalidate it where it appears that the portion omitted does not affect question on which final determination of case depends. Cincinnati Seating Co. v. Neiry [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 216. Bills of exceptions must be construed against the party excepting. Bill of exceptions held not to sufficiently identify certain book as one offered in evidence so that it could not be held that court erred in not admitting it. Blenville Water Supply Co. v. Hieronymus Bros. [Ala.] 43 So. 124.

88. See post, § 9 D.

89. The only error assigned in the bill of exceptions being upon the ruling of the court sustaining defendant's demurrer and dismissing the case, and all of the record material to a clear understanding of the error complained of being duly specified, the writ of error will not be dismissed merely because the plaintiff in error also specified as material "the brief of the evidence and the ruling of the court as contained therein," when in fact there was no brief of evidence. Giddens v. Alexander, 127 Ga. 734, 56 S. E. 1014. Bill on appeal from superior court's judgment of nonsuit not noticed by record of motion for new trial being appended to it. Kebabian v. Adams Exp. Co., 27 R. I. 564, 65 A. 271. Where "defendant" was inadvertently used for "plaintiff" in bill of exceptions, the intended meaning was adopted on appeal. Ball v. The Tribune Co., 123 Ill. App. 235.

90. See ante, § 9 B.

91. Recital in bill of day it was presented and signed must be taken as correct, but not as to general statement that it was presented within proper time. Mallott v. Central Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 369. Record must show that bill of exceptions was filed in due time, and it will not be presumed that it was filed on the last day of a month so as to bring it within such time. Phoenix Accident & Sick Benefit Ass'n v. Lathrop [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 227. Bill signed during purported extension cannot be considered unless record affirmatively shows that time was extended before expiration of time first granted. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Dobson [Ala.] 43 So. 138. Memorandum purporting to be signed by the judge beneath his signature to bill but wholly outside thereof, to effect that bill was presented to him for signature on certain date, held not a compliance with Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 641, requiring bill to state date of presentation to judge to be stated in bill where same is not filed within time allowed. Walters v. Walters [Ind.] 79 N. E. 1037. It must affirmatively appear from the bill of exceptions, or the entries thereon, or the record, that the bill of exceptions was presented within the time prescribed by law. Crawford v. Goodwin [Ga.] 57 S. E. 240.

ing is deemed an essential part of the record proper.<sup>92</sup> An unsigned explanation appended to a bill of exceptions cannot be looked to,<sup>93</sup> nor can statements in the certificate limit the effect of the facts shown in the bill.<sup>94</sup>

92. See ante, § 9 A.

93. Morris & Co. v. Southern Shoe Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 178.

94. A judgment which recites a general finding in favor of one party is a finding in his favor upon every issue raised by the pleadings and supported by evidence, and cannot be limited by a statement of the trial judge in a certificate to a bill of exceptions. Hopper v. Arnold [Kan.] 86 P. 469.

95. See 7 C. L. 169.

96. The judge and not the clerk must certify as to what papers were used on motion for a new trial. Crowley v. Croesus Gold & Copper Min. Co. [Idaho] 86 P. 536. Rev. Laws, c. 173, § 108, providing that in certain cases a judge other than the one presiding at the trial may allow exceptions, applies only when the trial judge fails to sign or return the exceptions, and does not authorize another judge to allow another bill of exceptions after death of the judge by whom the first bill was allowed. Commonwealth v. Porn [Mass.] 81 N. E. 305. The signing of the bill of exceptions, identification of each part thereof, is a judicial act upon the part of the trial judge which cannot be delegated to or conferred upon any other than himself. Nashville R. & Light Co. v. Marlin [Tenn.] 99 S. W. 367. Exceptions to master's report must be allowed by trial court by special order. See Chancery Rule 31. Huntress v. Hanley [Mass.] 80 N. E. 946. Judge who, under order of governor, presides over part of term in circuit other than his own, tries case which is concluded on day of adjournment, and before adjournment grants extension of time for moving for new trial, under Laws 1905, p. 81, c. 5403, may hear and determine motion for new trial within his own circuit and in vacation. If presented within time limited, though time of his assignment to such other circuit has expired, and may, at time and place of ruling on such motion, make order granting time within which to prepare and present bill of exceptions, and may certify and sign same within time so granted. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Mallard [Fla.] 43 So. 755. A judge of another circuit may properly sign a bill of exceptions as judge of the trial court where as such judge he heard the cause. Rosenbom v. Renk, 121 Ill. App. 226.

97. Where the cause is submitted to a referee to hear the same and to make findings of fact and conclusions of law, the evidence can only be presented for review by a bill of exceptions signed by the referee. Iralson v. Stang [Okla.] 90 P. 446. Where the evidence is heard by a referee who reported only findings of fact and conclusions of law, the judge has no power to sign a bill of exceptions preserving the evidence, or to incorporate the same into a case made unless first authenticated by the referee. Id. Where a cause is referred to a referee to find the facts and to report conclusions of law, the sufficiency of the evidence to support the findings of the referee cannot be considered where the evidence is not embodied in a bill of exceptions signed and allowed by the referee. Id. The evidence taken before a referee directed to try the cause and make findings can only be preserved by a bill of exceptions signed by the referee. Howe v. Hobart [Okla.] 90 P. 431.

98. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 170, a judge related within the third degree to defendant's attorney is not qualified to make an order extending the time for serving a bill of exceptions notwithstanding § 1054. Johnson v. German American Ins. Co. [Cal.] 88 P. 985.

99. Neither under the provisions of section 5543 of the Civil Code of 1895, nor under any other provision of law in Georgia, is one who has been a trial judge given any authority to certify, after the judge goes out of office, by resignation or otherwise, a fast bill of exceptions. Brand v. Lawrenceville, 127 Ga. 237, 55 S. E. 967. It is the duty and right of a judge's successor to settle and sign a bill not settled and signed by a deceased trial judge. Linderman Box & Veneer Co. v. Thompson, 127 Ill. App. 134.

1. Presentation to the clerk is not presentation to the justice. Johnson-Wynne Co. v. Wright, 28 App. D. C. 375.

2. Wilson v. Burbank [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 491. On appeal from circuit court, held that bill of exceptions signed by judge after adjournment of court would be stricken where record did not show that any time was given for signing of same in vacation in manner authorized by statute, Gen. Acts 1903, p. 74, giving twenty days after rendition of decrees for signing bills, and authorizing an extension, being an amendment of Code 1896, § 465, and applying to appeals from probate court only. White v. Roe [Ala.] 44 So. 211. Bill cannot be considered when not properly signed. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Garthright [Ala.] 44 So. 212. Bill signed in vacation stricken where there was no order of court or agreement of counsel for an extension. Olderson v. Prattville [Ala.] 42 So. 986. Bill stricken where its recitals showed that it was not signed at term at which judgment was rendered, and no order entered during term extending time for its signing was shown by record. Clark order,<sup>3</sup> or an extension of such time duly allowed<sup>4</sup> before the expiration of the time

v. Jernigan [Ala.] 42 So. 833. Under West Virginia Code 1906, c. 131, § 9, a bill of exceptions signed by a judge in vacation within thirty days after the adjournment of the term is not a part of the record unless the judge also certified the bill and the order certifying it was recorded. Jones v. Harmer [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 657. Pendency of motion in arrest does not relieve from filing bill at judgment term. Diamond Match Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 121 Mo. App. 43, 97 S. W. 993. Under the West Virginia Statute, (Code 1899, c. 131, § 9; Code 1906, § 3979), bills of exception are required to be signed at the term at which the trial is had or within thirty days after the adjournment thereof. Crowe v. Corporation of Charleston, [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 330.

3. Where bill of exceptions was not signed until after expiration of thirty days from date of trial, and no extension was granted within that time, held that it could not be considered for purpose of reviewing rulings at trial. Cobb v. Owens [Ala.] 43 So. 826. In Georgia if the record and bill of exceptions show that the demurrer was heard before the trial, and that the trial was concluded more than sixty days before the bill of exceptions was tendered and no exceptions pendente lite were filed to the judgment overruling the demurrer, the supreme court will not consider the assignment of error upon the overruling of the demurrer. Yearwood v. Lang, 127 Ga. 155, 56 S. E. 305. Bill must be presented to judge for signature within time allowed for filing. Walters v. Walters [Ind.] 79 N. E. 1037. The Georgia statute, Civil Code 1895, § 5539, does not authorize delay in tendering a bill of exceptions alleging error in a judgment rendered during a given term for more than thirty days after the final adjournment of the court for that term. Crayford v. Goodwin [Ga.] 57 S. E. 240. The bill of exceptions must be presented for approval within the time limited by statute, rule, or order. Bledsoe v. Columbia Mills Co., 75 S. C. 545, 55 S. E. 886. Bill not presented in time will not be considered though it was allowed. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Rowe [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 863, 98 S. W. 228. Where bill is allowed and signed within time allowed by law, it will be presumed that preliminary steps required by rule of lower court, such as presentation to opposing counsel within certain time, were duly taken. Boyce v. Bolster [Vt.] 64 A. 79. A writ of mandate will not issue to compel a court to settle a bill not timely presented. Shipman v. Unangst [Cal.] 88 P. 1090. A bill of exceptions not presented within ten days after the service of the proposed bill and amendments, as required by Rev. St. 1898, § 3286, as amended by Laws 1905, p. 7, c. 7, will be stricken from the record upon motion. Van Why v. Southern Pac. Co. [Utah] 86 P. 485. An order that "defendant is allowed ninety days in which to prepare and file its bill of exceptions" does not allow ninety days from the last day of the term, but ninety days from the day the order is made. Roberts & Shafer Co. v. Jones [Ark.] 101 S. W. 165. After expiration of time originally granted for presentation of bill of exceptions, court has no power to further extend time by nunc pro tunc order or otherwise. Pieser v. Minkota Mill. Co., 124 Ill. App. 280. Bill signed after time allowed cannot be considered. Penton v. Williams [Ala.] 41 So. 783. Rulings complained of in assignments of error will not be reviewed by the supreme court of Georgia if made more than six months before the filing of the bill of exceptions, and if no exceptions pendente lite to such rulings were properly filed. Lambert Hoisting Engine Co. v. Dexter, 127 Ga. 581, 56 S. E. 778.

4. Under Acts 1898, p. 183, § 17, relating to Clay county court, held that court and not judge is authorized to grant extension of time for signing bills of exceptions, and that bill signed after adjournment under order of judge extending time until after adjournment would be stricken. Dial v. McKay [Ala.] 43 So. 218. Time for signing may be extended by agreement of parties on appeal from Bessmere City court, provided signature be made within six months from date of trial. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co. v. Martin [Ala.] 42 So. 618. Where judge of city court of Bessmere, under authority of § 18 of act establishing such court [Acts 1900-01, p. 1863], extended during term the time for signing bill of exceptions, and granted subsequent extension by order made before expiration of limit formerly fixed, and time. Id. Under Acts 1900-01, establishing city Court of Bessmer, § 18, the judge of such court had authority to extend time during term. Id. Code 1896, p. 1200, rule 30, limiting time of extension by agreement and requiring signature before next term of court, does apply to extensions by the presiding judge. Harton v. Avondale [Ala.] 41 So. 934. The time for filing a bill of exceptions signed by a special judge cannot be extended by the regular judge. Martin v. Mercantile Town Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 672. The reservation of objection at time of service of bill of exceptions as to timeliness thereof does not constitute "a proceeding" within Code Civ. Proc. § 473, so as to require appellant to take steps thereunder to relieve himself from default within six months, but he had a reasonable time not exceeding six months from the time objections were imposed on hearing for settlement. Pollitz v. Wickersham [Cal.] 88 P. 911. Under Acts 1888-89, § 19, presiding judge of city court of Birmingham may extend time for signing during term, his power in the premises not being limited to vacation, as is case under general laws with reference to courts with short terms. Moss v. Mosley [Ala.] 41 So. 1012. Harton v. Avondale [Ala.] 41 So. 934. Under the Missouri statute, Rev. St. 1889, § 2163 (Rev. St. 1899, § 728), where the court has extended the time for filing the bill of exceptions, counsel by written stipulation may further extend the time. Cleveland Co-Operative Stove Co. v. Baldwin, 121 Mo. App. 397, 99 S. W. 47. Where motion for new trial was made within thirty days of date of trial, and on overruling motion court granted thirty days for a bill of exceptions, and within that time granted an extension of ten days from expiration of first order, held that bill of exceptions signed within extended time, excluding in computation day of expiration of first order, could be looked to for purpose of reviewing ruling on motion. Cobb v. Owens [Ala.] 43 So. 826, Acts 1896-97, p. 324, §§ 1, 5, 15, relating to city court of Anniston, construed, and held that, within thirty days after trial of cause, court had power to extend time for signing bill of exceptions for such a period as it, in its discretion, might see fit, even though it extended time into another term. Murphy v. St. Louis Coffin Co. [Ala.] 43 So. 212. Authority of city court of Anniston to grant, or of parties to agree upon, extension, held not limited to one extension, so that where court granted one extension, signing within subsequent extension agreed upon by counsel was valid. Id. Granting of order extending time for filing bill of exceptions held a judicial act so that it was a nullity when made without territorial limits of judge's jurisdiction, and bill signed within such extended time stricken on motion. Rainey v. Ridgway [Ala.] 43 So. 843. Judges' orders, made in vacation, extending the time for signing bills of exceptions, may be properly shown either by setting them out in the record proper or embodying them in the bill. Sellers v. Farmer [Ala.] 43 So. 967. Court held to have properly refused to sign bill after expiration of extension, plaintiff having been given one hundred and twenty days for its preparation, the maximum time allowed by Code. Zehe's Adm'r v. Louisville, 29 Ky. L. R. 1107, 96 S. W. 918. Where before expiration of time given for filing a bill of exceptions an order is made extending time for filing, the time will be computed from expiration of time given by the former order and not from date of last order. Czajkowski v. Robinson, 124 Ill. App. 97. Order of court extending its term for purpose of settling bill of exceptions as per rule 54 held equivalent to extension of time within which to present bill as provided by rule 55. Moran v. Wagner, 28 App. D. C. 166. Bill stricken where not presented within extension of time granted. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Brandota, 126 Ill. App. 92.

5. Riddle v. Regan [Ala.] 41 So. 953; Mitchell v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 518; Oxford & Coast Line R. Co. v. Union Bk. [C. C. A.] 153 F. 723, Acts 1903, p. 404, and practice rule 30 (Code 1896, p. 1200), construed, and held that bill of exceptions signed after next succeeding term of county court could not be considered, though parties extended time by agreement. Rainer Mercantile Co. v. Deal [Ala.] 44 So. 100. Should a judge through mistake or forgetfulness fail, within the initial period of five days, to make his endorsement upon a bill of exceptions of the extension of the time for the signing thereof, the subsequent endorsement of the extension thus granted and signing of the bill within the extended period would be in accordance with law. Cincinnati St. R. Co. v. McBee, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 13. Should a judge through mistake or forgetfulness fail, within the initial period of five days, to make his endorsement upon a bill of exceptions of the extension of the time for the signing thereof, the subsequent endorsement of the extension thus granted and signing of the bill within the extended period would be in accordance with law. Id. Bill stricken because order of extension of time for signing was made after expiration of time fixed by previous order. Iron City Min. Co. v. Hughes, 144 Ala. 608, 42 So. 39. Objection that order extending time for signing was not made until after expiration of term held waived by appellee's participation, without objection as to time, in the settlement of the bill when presented. Williams v. U. S. Fidelity & Guaranty Co. [Md.] 66 A. 495.

6. Rosenbom v. Renk, 121 Ill. App. 226.

7. Relief in case of accident, mistake, or other excusable neglect, is generally provided. Bledsoe v. Columbia Mills Co., 75 S. C. 545, 55 S. E. 886. Failure to sign in term excused by loss of exhibits where facts were certified by trial judge. Pittsburgh Gas & Coke Co. v. Goff-Kirby Coal Co. [C. C. A.] 151 F. 466. A bill of exceptions cannot be signed and made a part of the record after the time limited by statute for such signing has expired, nor can jurisdiction to sign after the expiration of such time be conferred by consent of parties. Crowe v. Corporation of Charles Town [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 330.

8. Leatherwood v. Richardson [Ariz.] 89 P. 503. Ky. St. 1903, §§ 4639, 4641, 4644, construed, and held that original bill of exceptions filed in circuit court by order of that court could not be brought to court of appeals where it was not attested by circuit judge, and it did not appear that evidence was taken in shorthand by the official reporter. Blackburn v. Hanlon, 29 Ky. L. R. 1290, 97 S. W. 352. Where circuit judge inadvertently fails to sign bill of exceptions when he makes order for filing it, he may sign it after it is filed in court of appeals. Id. Bill not signed by trial judge and not showing when it was filed, no bill of exceptions. City of Alton v. Eck, 122 Ill. App. 282.

9. A certificate of the judge that "I have this day settled the within statement in the manner marked by me in pencil, allowing the proposed amendments where so marked and disallowing them where so marked," is not sufficient where made before the statement was engrossed. Crowley v. Croesus Gold & Copper Min. Co. [Idaho] 86 P. 536. The certificate must certify that the bill is true. Cade v. Du Bose, 125 Ga. 832, 54 S. E. 697. Where the authentication of a bill of exceptions states that it is signed with the distinct understanding that any valid objections may be urged by counsel for plaintiff, and corrections made, it cannot be considered. Sims v. Young [Ark.] 93 S. W. 681. Grounds of a motion for a new trial which are not verified cannot be considered, by the supreme court. A ground of such a motion will be held not to be verified (a) when the record is silent on the subject, (b) when the record discloses an affirmative refusal to verify, and (c) when the judge time allowed by law,<sup>10</sup> and the approved bill must be filed<sup>11</sup> in the court below after signature<sup>12</sup>, within the time allowed by law,<sup>13</sup> and in some jurisdictions it is required to be served on the adverse party,<sup>14</sup> time for objection and amendment being allowed.<sup>15</sup> In Kentucky, where the case was reported, the judge need not accept anything but the reporter's transcript as a proposed bill.<sup>16</sup> It is generally held that if the bill is presented in time, delay of the court will not prejudice appellant,<sup>17</sup>

appends to the motion a note which states facts in conflict with any statement in the ground which would be material in the consideration of the errors complained of. Burdette v. Crawford, 125 Ga. 577, 54 S. E. 677.

10. "The trial court cannot properly authenticate a bill of exceptions after the time to file the same has expired." Priddy v. Hayes [Mo.] 102 S. W. 976. Under the Virginia Statute, Code of 1904, § 3385, bills of exceptions are properly a part of the record if signed in vacation within thirty days after the end of the term at which the final judgment was rendered. Manchester Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Porter [Va.] 56 S. E. 337. And failure to sign is not cured by judge's certificate that it was allowed, settled, and signed within such time. Oxford & Coast Line R. Co. v. Union Bk. [C. C. A.] 153 F. 723. If for any good cause the trial justice is prevented from signing a bill within rule time he may thereafter settle it nunc pro tunc. Johnson-Wynne Co. v. Wright, 28 App. D. C. 375. Lower court has jurisdiction to sign bill of exceptions after dismissal of appeal. Rev. St. 1899, §§ 727, 728. McNealy v. Bartlett [Mo. App.] 95 S. W. 273.

11. Where change of venue was taken on merits of cause after an appeal from order refusing to vacate appointment of receiver, held that bill of exceptions should have been filed in court from which venue was changed, and filing in court to which case was transferred was ineffectual. Cantwell v. Columbia Lead Co., 199 Mo. 1, 97 S. W. 167.

12. There being no record entry outside bill of exceptions showing that it was filed, the same could not be considered. Bower v. Daniel, 198 Mo. 289, 95 S. W. 347.

13. Priddy v. Hayes [Mo.] 102 S. W. 976; London v. Hutchens [Ark.] 97 S. W. 443; Nashville R. & Light Co. v. Trawick [Tenn.] 99 S. W. 695; London v. Crow [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 177; Oxford & Coast Line R. Co. v. Union Bk. of Richmond [C. C. A.] 153 F. 723. Agreements extending time for filing bill of exceptions held sufficiently authenticated to become part of record. Rainer Mercantile Co. v. Deal [Ala.] 44 So. 100. In Kentucky where appellee is allowed to file a bill of exceptions and is given until a certain date to do so, a bill not filed in open court until after that date cannot be considered, although an endorsement of the clerk shows that it was filed with him prior to that date. Phillips v. Beattyville Mineral & Timber Co., 30 Ky. L. R. 1102, 100 S. W. 244. It is no excuse for not filing within the time so fixed that the special judge who tried the case was not present at the term until the day upon which the bill was filed. Id. Mere statement by clerk, on record, that time for filing bill was extended, and not showing how, held insufficient. Thompson v. Clear Jack Min. Co., 118 Mo. App. 524, 95 S. W. 307. The provision of the Texas statute permitting the court of civil appeals, under certain conditions, to consider a statement of facts filed after twenty days from adjournment does not extend to bills of exceptions. London v. Crow [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 177. A bill of exceptions signed by the judge and filed after the expiration of the time for filing cannot be looked to to determine whether such timely exceptions were made. Id. Rule requiring eight days' notice to opposite party of settling of bill of exceptions is not mandatory but may be waived by the justice and the fact that he approves and signs it without such notice is not ground for striking it. Lindsey v. Pennsylvania R. Co., 26 App. D. C. 125. But trial justice may refuse to settle the bill if the required notice is not given. Johnson-Wynne Co. v. Wright, 28 App. D. C. 375.

14. Where a bill of exceptions is presented to the judge for settlement and no notice is given the adverse party; or where it is delivered to the clerk and no time is designated for settlement and no notice is given the adverse party of any time designated for settlement as required by statute, the bill will be stricken. Van Why v. Southern Pac. Co. [Utah] 86 P. 485. Under the Georgia Statute, Civ. Code 1895, § 5567, it was held that, upon motion made at the time of calling the case on appeal, an order would be granted directing the clerk of the supreme court to return the original bill of exceptions and affidavit of the clerk of the superior court that the entry of service might be filed and annexed to the bill of exceptions in terms of the law. Morrison v. Hilburn, 126 Ga. 114, 54 S. E. 938. When several persons are named in a bill of exceptions as defendants in error, an acknowledgment of service thereon, signed by an attorney "for" one of these persons by name "et al," affords no evidence of service of the bill upon the others or any one or more of them. Carter v. American Ginger Ale & Carbonating Co., 125 Ga. 819, 54 S. E. 755. An acknowledgement of service does not bind any person not actually named or sufficiently described in the bill of exceptions as a defendant in error when the acknowledgment is entered. McGregor v. Witham, 126 Ga. 702, 56 S. E. 55.

15. In an error proceeding the adverse party is entitled to ten full days for the filing of objections to the bill of exceptions, and the transmission of the bill and the receiving of by the trial judge on the tenth day after notice of its filing is premature, but where this abridgment of the rights of the defendant in error is a matter for which the clerk of court is responsible, and for which the plaintiff in error is in no way chargeable, and it is not shown that the bill was open to any objection or amendment, such an irregularity in the intermediate steps is not jurisdictional. Akron Water Works Co. v. Swartz, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 509.

16. Sebree v. Rogers [Ky.] 102 S. W. 841.

17. Failure of trial judge to sign and nor will the failure of the clerk to append the filing mark,<sup>18</sup> and the judge may make amendments after expiration of the time to present.<sup>19</sup> The court need not sign an incorrect bill,<sup>20</sup> but should correct it to conform to the fact.<sup>21</sup> The duty of the trial court to approve a truthful bill presented in time will be enforced by mandamus,<sup>22</sup> but an appellate court will not, on mandamus, overrule the statement of the trial judge as to what were the facts.<sup>23</sup> In some states provision is made for authentication by affidavit of bystanders if the judge refuses to sign,<sup>24</sup> or for the establishment of the bill in the appellate court.<sup>25</sup> A bill duly settled is a record and can only be corrected as such.<sup>26</sup> seal bill of exceptions until expiration of time for filing cured by action of appellate court in overruling motion to strike bill and allowing an amendment to same. Chaplin v. Illinois Terminal R. Co. [Ill.] 81 N. E. 15. Where appellant prepared and presented his bill of exceptions within the time allowed for having them signed and made part of the record, but they were not signed and filed with the record until after the expiration of that time and after a subsequent term of court had intervened, it was held that they could not be considered on appeal. Anderson v. Com., 105 Va. 533, 54 S. E. 305. Explanation in judge's certificate held to show that delay in signing such certificate, the bill of exceptions having been presented within the required time, was through no fault of plaintiff in error. Johnson v. Tanner, 126 Ga. 718, 56 S. E. 80. It is generally held that if the bill is presented in time, delay of the court will not prejudice the appellant. Id.

18. Eureka Stone Co. v. Knight [Ark.] 100 S. W. 878.

19. Amendment to bill not certified in time under Georgia statute, Acts 1905, p. 84. Marshall v. English-American Loan & Trust Co., 127 Ga. 376, 56 S. E. 449.

20. An affidavit of counsel accompanying a proposed bill of exceptions, stating that it contains all the evidence bearing on and explanatory of the exceptions and errors complained of, is not conclusive upon the judge requested to allow the same. State v. Craig [Wyo.] 89 P. 584.

21. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2743, it is the duty of the court to sign and allow a presented bill of exceptions if correct, and if not to correct the same or suggest the corrections to be made. State v. Craig [Wyo.] 89 P. 584.

22. The proper remedy is mandamus, not an appeal. Priddy v. Hayes [Mo.] 102 S. W. 976. The writ of mandamus will not issue to compel a judge of the trial court to sign a bill of exceptions complaining of a ruling made in a case which was not within the jurisdiction of such court, when such want of jurisdiction appears from the application for the writ. Harris v. Sheffield [Ga.] 57 S. E. 305. Mandamus will not issue from supreme court to compel judge of circuit court to treat as bill of exceptions paper stricken from record of probate court previous to appeal from that court to circuit court, since each court must make out its own record and certify to same. Ex parte Walker [Ala.] 43 So. 130. While judge cannot be compelled to sign particular bill, he may be compelled to act where he arbitrarily refuses to sign any bill. State v. Deupree [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 678. Refusal of judge to sign a bill of exceptions unless it is first presented to opposing counsel is not ground for mandamus. Branch v. Winfield [Ark.] 95 S. W. 1007. Cannot be compelled to sign a particular bill which he maintains is not correct. Id.

23. The proposal of amendment to a bill of exceptions lies within the judicial discretion of the trial judge, and mandamus will not lie to compel the settlement of one to which he has demanded corrections. State v. Craig [Wyo.] 89 P. 584.

24. Under the Texas statutes Rev. St. 1895, arts. 1369, 1014, providing that the appellant may, if the trial judge refuses to allow and sign his bills of exceptions, have the same attested by the signatures of bystanders, the appellate court will not consider bills of exceptions refused by the court and authenticated only by the affidavit of appellant's counsel. Rabb v. Goodrich [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 910.

25. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds [Ala.] 41 So. 1001. Under Rev. Laws, c. 173, § 110, appellant's only remedy when his bill of exceptions is disallowed by superior court is petition to supreme judicial court to establish his exceptions. Hicks v. Graves [Mass.] 80 N. E. 590. Under Court & Practice Act 1905, § 494, this is the only remedy where the trial court does not allow the bill within twenty days after filing, such court having no authority to act after such time. Hartley v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 66 A. 63. Where act creating court was declared unconstitutional after signing of bill, an application to supreme court to establish the bill was controlled and should have been made within time prescribed. Gen. Laws 1903, p. 396, and not Gen. Laws 1903, p. 398. Nashville, etc., R. Co. v. Reynolds [Ala.] 41 So. 1001.

26. Supreme judicial court has no power to allow amendments to bills of exceptions, and if there is any reason for such amendment the proper practice is to strike case from docket and remit it to court wherein exceptions were taken. Barnes v. Squier [Mass.] 78 N. E. 731. After expiration of statutory time for reducing exceptions to writing, new exceptions cannot be added without consent of adverse party and of trial judge. Sullivan v. Crave & Martin Co. [Mass.] 79 N. E. 792. The bill of exceptions, after proper authentication and filing, constitutes a part of the record and carries with it absolute verity, and it can be changed or amended only by proper nunc pro tunc entries in the trial court based upon sufficient memoranda to authorize their being made. Althoff v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 102 S. W. 642. When a bill of exceptions is signed and filed, the matter therein becomes matter of record. Eliot v. Kansas

(§ 9 C) 2. The settled case or statement of facts.<sup>27</sup>—Except where the statute provides for the authentication by the stenographer of his transcript,<sup>28</sup> or for the City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 102 S. W. 532. The supreme court cannot adjudicate questions sought to be raised by an amendment to the bill of exceptions allowed and certified by the trial judge after signing the certificate to the bill. Beck & Gregg Hardware Co. v. Crum, 127 Ga. 94, 56 S. E. 242.

27. See 7 C. L. 173.

28. A statute providing for the appointment of an official stenographer whose report of the evidence may be made to serve as a statement of facts does not apply to a statement prepared for a case tried prior to its enactment. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Burnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 833, 95 S. W. 741; Hooks v. Pafford [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 742. An appellant who files his bill of exceptions separately from the transcript of evidence prepared by the stenographer under Laws 1905, p. 219, c. 112, is not in a position to raise the question of the constitutionality of this act. Routledge v. Rambler Automobile Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 386, 95 S. W. 749. Where appellant had in the record a statement prepared as formerly, he could not question the validity of this statute. Id. It is sometimes provided that a stenographer's transcript approved by the judge may be used in lieu of a statement of facts. Act 1905, authorizing such procedure, applied to case tried before but not appealed until after the statute took effect. Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex.] 100 S. W. 911. A transcript of the evidence made by a stenographer appointed under the Texas statute, Rev. St. 1895, art. 1295, to take down the testimony in a single case in the district court, cannot be considered on appeal, the acts 1905, p. 219, c. 112, providing for the appointment of an official stenographer and providing that his transcript of the evidence shall be a sufficient record on appeal not applying to such a case. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Quinn [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1036. Cause sufficiently identified in stenographer's transcript of evidence where designated by style and number, statement of the cause, date of trial, and names of counsel. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pearce [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1133. Held that transcript of official stenographer could not be regarded as statement of facts under Sayles' Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 1295, where it was not agreed to by parties as such statement, and it did not appear that judge made out and signed such transcript as statement of facts because of their disagreement. Elliott v. Ferguson [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 517. Statement of facts not prepared and authenticated as required by law in force at time of trial cannot be considered, nor can compliance with law be waived. Id. Acts 29th Leg., p. 219, c. 112, making report of official stenographer, when filed and approved, the statement of facts of oral evidence in case, held not to have become effective until July 17, 1905, and not to operate retroactively. Id. Even if it had been properly authenticated held that it could not be considered as legal statement of facts where it was not embraced in transcript but was sent up with it as separate paper. Id.

Filing: Under Supreme court rule requiring reporter's transcript to be filed at term judgment is rendered, term at which judgment is rendered is the term at which it becomes final by overruling a motion for new trial. Prescott Nat. Bk. v. Head [Ariz.] 90 P. 328. Under the Texas statute, Laws 1905, p. 219, c. 112, the statement of facts made out by the stenographer and approved by the district judge to be sent up with the transcript must first be filed in the district court within the time prescribed. Cockrell v. Walkup [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 443. If the statement bears no file mark of the district court, it cannot be considered. Id. The Texas statute, Rev. St. 1895, art. 1295, and acts 1905, p. 219, c. 112, construed and held that a stenographer's transcript of the evidence sent up with the record in lieu of a statement of facts was not open to the objection that it was not made by an official stenographer, where the stenographer upon agreement of the parties, there being no official stenographer, was appointed by the court and kept a record of the proceedings in compliance with the act of 1905. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Quinn [Tex.] 102 S. W. 723. Where a transcript of the reporter's notes was not filed in the district court within the term at which the judgment was rendered, and no extension of time was granted, it cannot be considered as a statement of facts. Leatherwood v. Richardson [Ariz.] 89 P. 503. Failure of stenographer to comply with appellant's request to file a report of the evidence as required by statute was not ground for reversal where appellant did not try mandamus or prepare a statement of facts in the usual form, which would have been sufficient. Smith v. Pecos Valley etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 206, 95 S. W. 11.

Authentication: A transcript of the stenographer's notes cannot be considered where there is no certificate of the stenographer that the transcript is true, as required by Laws 1905, p. 534, c. 320, § 1. Venable v. Budd [Kan.] 89 P. 901. Document not showing that it was the official stenographer's transcript of the evidence, or that it was submitted to the adverse party, or that the documentary evidence was incorporated by direction of court, not a statement of facts within Laws 1905, p. 219, § 112. Pirtle v. Nell [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 16, 97 S. W. 707. A stenographic report of the evidence not signed by the parties or their attorneys, and consisting of questions and answers, is not a sufficient statement of facts under the Texas statute, Rev. St. art. 1379. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Quinn [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1036. The certificate of the trial judge that such report was approved by the attorneys is not sufficient to make it a good statement of facts. Id. The certificate of the stenographer to a transcript of the evidence prepared under § 1 of chap. 320, p. 534, Laws 1905, is not effectual because it does not immediately follow the recital of the evidence where it specifically refers thereto. Hardy v. Curry [Kan.] 89 P. 19.

Contents: Laws 1905, p. 219, c. 112, refers

use on appeal of the statement on motion for new trial,<sup>29</sup> the case must be settled and approved by the judge who tried the case,<sup>30</sup> within the time limited by law, rule<sup>31</sup> or stipulation of parties, or an extension thereof duly granted.<sup>32</sup> Mandamus only to the oral evidence. Documentary evidence need not be made a part of the stenographer's transcript. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pearce [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1133.

29. A statement on appeal filed within twenty days after the denial of motions to strike out and amend the judgment, but nearly a year after the entry of the judgment, should not contain the depositions and testimony introduced on the trial. State v. Murphy [Nev.] 88 P. 335. A statement on motion for a new trial which showed that objections thereto for failure to timely serve were heard in open court on plaintiff's affidavit of mistake, etc., under Code Civ. Proc. § 473, authorizing relief in such cases, and on counter affidavits, and that the objections were, "after consideration, overruled, and said statement ordered settled and filed," sufficiently shows that relief was granted under the statute. King v. Dugan [Cal.] 88 P. 925. A statement is not "used on a motion for a new trial" within Code Civ. Proc. § 1736, providing that any statement so used may be used on appeal where the motion is not passed upon. Harrington v. Butte & Boston Min. Co. [Mont.] 90 P. 748. Where a notice of intention to move for a new trial was not timely served, the statement and bill of exceptions used on the motion cannot be considered on appeal. Vreeland v. Edens [Mont.] 89 P. 735.

30. Will not consider an agreed statement of facts not approved by the judge. Watson v. Birdwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 407; Liberty Min. & Smelting Co. v. Godder [Ariz.] 90 P. 332; Middlehurst v. Collins-Gunther Co. [Tex.] 99 S. W. 1025; Smith v. Pecos Valley, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 206, 95 S. W. 11. The printed case must be signed and settled by the trial judge and a stipulation that it is a copy of the record does not cure the defect. Sacks v. Hookey, 105 N. Y. S. 235. Where the court adopts the "appellant's case as amended by appellee's exceptions," the appellant must have the case as thus modified or drafted and submitted to the judge for signature otherwise there is strictly no "case settled," and the appellate court in its discretion, if there are no errors upon the face of the record, may ex mero motu either affirm the judgment or remand the case. Gaither v. Carpenter [N. C.] 55 S. E. 625. A certificate of the trial judge that certain enumerated papers, among them the statement of the case, constitute the judgment roll does not take the place of a settled statement of the case. Murphy v. Foster [N. D.] 109 N. W. 216. Where oral evidence set forth in the record is not authenticated by the trial judge and no bill of exceptions is filed, it cannot be considered. Jones v. Mitchell [Ark.] 102 S. W. 719. Where the statement of facts consists in what purports to be a stenographic report of the evidence, it cannot be considered if there is no certificate or approval by the trial judge as required by the Texas statute, Acts 1905, p. 220, c. 112. Citizens' R. Co. v. Robertson [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 443. A detached statement of certain testimony, presumably the stenographic notes of the witness taken upon the trial, sent up with the record, not shown to have been examined and approved by the trial judge or filed by the clerk, cannot be considered for any purpose. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hill [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 227. Statement following signed agreement that the "above statement" is a fair and complete statement, etc., held not a compliance with the statute. Walker v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 519, 837, 95 S. W. 585. Certificate of judge to stenographer's transcript of evidence need not show a disagreement of counsel before approval by judge. A recital that transcript was prepared at request of one of the parties and approved by judge held sufficient. Gulf, etc., R. Co. Pearce [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1132.

31. Mayo v. Goldman [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 862, 97 S. W. 1061. Certificate of evidence must be signed by chancellor at decree term, or within such time as court has by order retained jurisdiction for that purpose. Stanmeyer v. Rosenwald, 121 Ill. App. 583. The case must be settled and approved within the time limited by law. Bledsoe v. Columbia Mills Co., 75 S. C. 545, 55 S. E. 886. Laws 1905, p. 534, c. 320, does not operate retrospectively so as to confer power upon a judge to settle a case made who had prior to its enactment lost jurisdiction. Lander v. Johnson [Kan.] 83 P. 258. A ruling, sustaining a demurrer to evidence, being appealable directly without a motion for new trial the filing of such motion does not enlarge the time within which a case may be made to review. White v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 88 P. 54. Where it appears that a settlement of a statement of facts was premature, the court cannot take notice of an alleged oral stipulation authorizing such settlement where respondent denies the stipulation. Costello v. Drainage Dist. [Wash.] 87 P. 513. Under Balinger's Ann. Codes & St. § 5058, a statement of facts settled within the ten days allowed to respondent to propose amendments thereto is invalid, though settled upon notice and although respondent does not thereafter propose amendments. Id. A statement of facts filed nearly three months after the time allowed will be ignored. Smith v. Pecos Valley, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 206, 95 S. W. 11.

32. Under Pierce's Code, § 4377, an order extending the time for filing a statement of facts cannot be made by the trial judge while in a county different from that in which the cause is pending without the consent of both parties. Driscoll v. Dufur [Wash.] 88 P. 929. Order allowing appeal in filing bond within twenty days and certificate of evidence in—days held not to retain court's jurisdiction for purpose of signing certificate of evidence after term. Stanmeyer v. Rosenwald, 121 Ill. App. 583. Order limiting time for presentation of certificate of evidence to a specified day allows all of that day for that purpose. Id. Under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. 1903, § 4742, providing "The court or judge may * * * extend the time for making a case," etc., the regular judge may extend the time will lie to compel a judge to settle and sign a properly presented case-made,<sup>33</sup> unless he has already done so.<sup>34</sup> In Georgia the recitals of a motion are verified by the order thereon.<sup>35</sup> It is generally provided that the proposed case, with notice of settlement,<sup>36</sup> be served on the adverse party<sup>37</sup> who may present amendments or accept the case as proposed at the time of settlement,<sup>38</sup> and in some states settlement is requisite only when counsel fail to agree.<sup>39</sup> The proposed case when served must be though he was not the trial judge. Whitacre v. Nichols [Okla.] 87 P. 865. Laws 1905, p. 535, c. 320, § 3, requiring notice to be served upon the adverse party of an order extending the time for making and serving a case, is directory only and failure to give does not affect the validity of the order. Goodnough v. Webber [Kan.] 88 P. 879. In Texas, under Rule 74 for district courts, where a paper read in evidence has not been copied in the statement of facts or made a part of it, the court has not the power after adjournment of the term at which the judgment was entered to authorize or require the clerk to make such paper a part of the record entitling it to be considered a part of the statement of facts. Haberzettle v. Trinity, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 219. The Kansas statute requiring the case made to be filed within ten days after judgment has no application to a transcript of evidence prepared under § 1, c. 320, p. 534, Laws 1905. Hardy v. Curry [Kan.] 89 P. 19. Pub. Acts 1905, p. 178, No. 129, granting lower court power to extend time for making and filing a settled case for one year after filing of decree on special motion and notice, has no application to an action before court on a parol demurrer to an amended bill of complaint and not on pleadings and proofs. City of Detroit v. Wayne Circuit Judge, 144 Mich. 696, 13 Det. Leg. N. 312, 108 N. W. 283.

33. Mandamus will not lie to compel a judge to make a statement of facts under a particular statute where he does not refuse to prepare it under a new statute which he erroneously believes is applicable. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Burnett [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 833, 95 S. W. 741. Where the trial judge refuses to make and file a statement of facts as required by statute, mandamus is the proper remedy to compel him to do so. The appellate court cannot consider the matter on bill of exceptions or assignment of error. Middlehurst v. Collins-Gunther Co. [Tex.] 99 S. W. 1025; Id. [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1027.

34. Judge need not examine a proposed statement if he has already made and filed one. Mayo v. Goldman [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 862, 97 S. W. 1061.

35. Granting a motion to reinstate a case after nonsuit is such an implied verification of the truth of the ground upon which the motion was predicated that on exception to the judgment the appellate court will treat such ground as sufficiently verified; aliter, had the motion been denied. City of Atlanta v. Miller, 125 Ga. 495, 54 S. E. 538.

36. Under Ballinger's Ann. Code & St. § 5058, the court is without jurisdiction to settle a statement of facts where respondent has timely proposed amendments, except upon due notice to or appearance of adverse party. Cuschner v. Longbehn [Wash.] 87 P. 817. Where appellant does not serve notice within two days after service of proposed amendments to the statement that the statement and amendments will be submitted to the judge for settlement, as required by Comp. Laws, § 3427 et seq., he will be deemed to have agreed to the amendments. Young v. Updike [Nev.] 89 P. 457.

37. The fact that it was due to neglect of counsel that the case was not served in time will not save the right of appeal. Cozart v. Assurance Co., 142 N. C. 522, 55 S. E. 411. Failure to submit stenographer's transcript of evidence to adverse party before approval, as per Laws 1905, p. 219, c. 112, not ground for striking it. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pearce [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1133. The statutory requirement that the case be served on the adverse party within a specified time is a condition precedent without compliance with which the appeal does not become potential. Cozart v. Assurance Co., 142 N. C. 522, 55 S. E. 411. General understanding of bar that no advantage will be taken of failure to serve case in time cannot prevail against terms of statute or agreement of parties. Id. If such an agreement exists, the time agreed upon is a substitute for the statutory time and the court cannot further extend it. Id. In the absence of an agreement of parties extending statutory time of service, the court has no power to extend it. Id. Where an extension of time for preparing and serving a case made is granted by an order made as part of the journal entry of the judgment of which all parties had notice, the notice of extension required by § 5482, Gen. St. 1905, need not be given. Gerdorn v. Durein [Kan.] 87 P. 1137.

38. In absence of fraud, trial court has no power to amend or supersede a duly filed statement of facts after expiration of time for preparing and filing statements. Dorsey v. Olive Sternenberg & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 860, 94 S. W. 413.

39. When counsel do not agree only the "case settled" by the judge should come up in the record. No part of the tentative case of counsel on either side should come up save as they appear in the redrafted case signed by the court. Gaither v. Carpenter [N. C.] 55 S. E. 625. Where counsel have failed to agree the judge does not merely adjust the differences between the two cases, but may disregard both cases, and should do so if he finds that the facts of the trial were different. Slocumb v. Philadelphia Const. Co., 142 N. C. 349, 55 S. E. 196. But if counsel differ then judge sets a time and place for settling the case, after notice that counsel of both parties may appear before him, and then "settles" the case. Revisal 1905, § 591. Id. In North Carolina if counsel agree, the trial judge has nothing to do with settling the case on appeal. Id. If neither party desires to carry up the facts in the method provided by the Texas statute, Acts 1905, p. 219, c. 112, and they can-complete or must refer intelligibly to matters to be inserted.<sup>40</sup> In New York errors and omissions may be corrected by motion to resettle.<sup>41</sup>

not agree upon a statement of facts, the trial judge must prepare a statement of facts under Rev. St. 1895, arts. 1379, 1380. Middlehurst v. Collins-Gunther Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1027. Under Sayle's Rev. St. art. 1380, where the parties do not agree on a statement of facts, it is the duty of the judge to make and file one. Mayo v. Goldman [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 862, 97 S. W. 1061.

40. The "case on appeal" should contain such incidents of the trial as were duly excepted to. Gaither v. Carpenter [N. C.] 55 S. E. 625. The respondent is entitled to have the case show that certain evidence was excluded on objection of appellant. Selah v. New York Times Co., 103 N. Y. S. 445. It is the appellant's duty to see that the case contains all matters essential to a review. Simpson v. Maney, 100 N. Y. S. 620. Where the orders from which an appeal is taken recite that they were made upon testimony and allegations of the parties taken, such testimony will be deemed material for the purpose of making out a case on appeal under § 997 of the Code Civ. Proc., requiring the case to contain so much of the evidence as is material to the questions raised. Id. A loose paper in no way identifying the stenographer's report of the testimony and not filed below until after record had been removed to appellate court held not a sufficient certification of the testimony though drawn in exact words of a rule. Farley v. Altoona, etc., R. Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 413. Under St. 1904, p. 450, c. 448, § 8, matters to be tried in superior court on appeal from land court may be specified in issues framed as part of appeal with reference to such issues in statement of appeal. Mead v. Cutler [Mass.] 80 N. E. 496. Report under St. 1905, p. 208, c. 288, from land court on appeal to superior court, held sufficiently full, though it did not set out evidence or undisputed matters. Woodwine v. Dean [Mass.] 79 N. E. 882. Statement of facts by a territorial supreme court, though confused and unnecessarily minute, not fatally defective if a sufficient statement finally emerges. Crowe v. Trickey, 204 U. S. 228, 51 Law. Ed. 454.

41. A party who is not satisfied with the case as settled may move for resettlement on additional affidavits. Henry v. Interurban St. R. Co., 115 App. Div. 352, 100 N. Y. S. 311. In New York, on appeal from the special term, a motion for a resettlement of the case is properly made returnable at part 1, special term (Id.), and as the settlement of the case on appeal must be made by the justice presiding at the trial, if he is not sitting at special term, part 1, when the motion is returnable, the presiding justice should refer the motion to the trial justice for decision (Id.). It is improper to refuse to allow a case to be resettled so as to show the grounds upon which a motion to dismiss the complaint was made. Blewett v. Hoyt, 101 N. Y. S. 1086. Under § 25, Code Civ. Proc., a motion to resettle a case must be made before the judge who tried the action even though no longer a member of the court in which the action was tried. So held where the trial judge resigned prior to the making of the motion. Knobloch v. Taube, 103 N. Y. S. 713. The form of the title of the case is immaterial and an order resettling the case so as to make its title conform to that of the summons and complaint will not be disturbed. Volhard v. Volhard, 115 App. Div. 548, 101 N. Y. S. 453. An order resettling a case so as to admit exhibits omitted by accident will not be disturbed. Id.

42. See 7 C. L. 175.

43. Amended abstract curing defects cannot be served after expiration of time to serve original. Redd v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 122 Mo. App. 93, 98 S. W. 89. Appeal dismissed where not filed in time. Goesse & Remmers Bldg. & Cont. Co. v. Kinnerk [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 218.

44. By the express provisions of B. & C. Comp. § 553, an abstract conforming to the rules of the appellate court is sufficient. Keen v. Keen [Or.] 90 P. 147. Document designated as "statement, points, and authorities" held not sufficient compliance with statute. Goesse & Remmers Bldg. & Cont. Co. v. Kinnerk [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 218. Abstract sufficient though it did not clearly separate record entries from matters belonging in bill of exceptions. Sanguinette v. Mississippi River, etc., R. Co., 196 Mo. 466, 95 S. W. 386; Stark v. Zehnder [Mo.] 102 S. W. 992. An abstract of the record is a complete history in short, abbreviated form of the case as found in the record. It must be complete enough to show that the questions presented for review have been properly preserved in the case. Harding v. Bedoll [Mo.] 100 S. W. 638. Where the abstract is so deficient that the court is unable to ascertain the facts without exploring the record, the judgment will be affirmed. Van Patten v. Wank [Ark.] 102 S. W. 371. The abstract must show that motion for new trial was filed within the time required by statute. Harding v. Bedoll [Mo.] 100 S. W. 638. Error based on provisions of bill of lading not shown by abstract cannot be considered. Lehigh Valley Transp. Co. v. Post Sugar Co. [Ill.] 81 N. E. 819. Under Sup. Ct. Rule 1 (71 Pac. VI), providing that the abstract of record shall contain such portions of the record as may be necessary to inform the court of the errors relied on without an investigation of the record itself, an abstract omitting a deed, the admission of which is assigned as error, is insufficient. Daniel v. Gallagher [Ariz.] 89 P. 412. The supreme court is not required to look beyond the abstract to ascertain the matters sought to be reviewed. Kinsel v. Wieland [Colo.] 88 P. 153. Under Supreme Court Rule 1, subd. 6 (71 Pac. VI), the transcript of the reporter's notes will not be resorted to for the purpose of supplementing the abstract of record. Liberty Min. & Smelting Co. v. Geddes [Ariz.] 90 P. 332.

showing the names of the parties and nature of the proceedings, a short abstract of the bill or petition, and the testimony on which the findings are based,<sup>45</sup> presenting the evidence with intelligible fullness,<sup>46</sup> and in a total absence thereof the case will not be considered on its merits.<sup>47</sup> The court is not bound to go to the record or bill of exceptions in search of matters not abstracted but may do so in its discretion.<sup>48</sup> On the other hand, the evidence and proceedings must be condensed as far as practicable,<sup>49</sup> and proceedings and papers need not be set out in full, but the fact that each was duly had or served must be shown.<sup>50</sup> Where an appellee is not satisfied with appellant's abstract, he is entitled to file one supplying the omissions,<sup>51</sup> or, in some states, a specific objection.<sup>52</sup> In case of conflict between the abstracts the court will usually resort to the transcript.<sup>53</sup>

(§ 9) D. Sufficiency of entire record to present particular questions (Presumptions on appeal).<sup>54</sup>—The appellate court will look to the entire record<sup>55</sup> but

Testimony not presented by the abstract will not be reviewed. Morris v. Wilson [Colo.] 90 P. 845. Error cannot be predicated upon refusal to allow witness to testify where abstract fails to show what his testimony was, what questions were propounded to him, or even that he was called. Cheney v. Goldy, 225 Ill. 394, 80 N. E. 289. Assignments of error as to rulings on evidence will not be considered where the abstract does not contain the objections and exceptions, although it stated that the evidence was received over objection and refers to the bill of exceptions. McPhee v. Fowler [Colo.] 85 P. 421.

45. The abstract of the record required to be made by the Missouri statute, Rev. St. 1889, § 2253 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 783), need not set out the certificate of the clerk or the various matters of the record in full. Elliott v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 102 S. W. 532. Decree affirmed for failure to comply with rule 9, requiring abstract to set forth material parts of pleadings, proceedings, etc., upon which appellant relies, together with such other statements from record as are necessary to full understanding of all questions presented. Houghton v. Mosely [Ark.] 96 S. W. 1066. Where abstract contained petition and answer followed by purported bill of exceptions, but failed to show any record entries, held that there was nothing before court but record proper. Cummings v. Eller, 121 Mo. App. 576, 97 S. W. 218. Filing and overruling of motion for new trial and filing of bill of exceptions must appear from record and cannot be proven by recitals of bill of exceptions. Id.

46. Abstract incomplete as to evidence and for failing to show a petition stating a cause of action. McClellan v. Powell, 197 Mo. 495, 95 S. W. 335. Where part of evidence was omitted from its abstract, city held not entitled to contend that evidence showed that it had no notice of defect in street. Keithley v. Independence, 120 Mo. App. 255, 96 S. W. 733. Contention that verdict was grossly excessive held not open to consideration where testimony on that issue was not abstracted. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Evans [Ark.] 96 S. W. 616.

47. If the evidence for the appellee upon which the verdict and judgment were rendered, and the instruction, are not abstracted, the judgment will be affirmed. Jonesboro, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago Portrait Co. [Ark.] 99 S. W. 75.

48. Court will not search record for information which should be shown by the abstract. Thornton v. Muus, 120 Ill. App. 422.

49. Ruling does not compel appellant to condense the testimony when he feels it necessary to set it forth in full in order to properly present his cause. Jacks v. Reeves, 78 Ark. 426, 95 S. W. 781. Failure to set forth instructions in full creates the presumption that they were cured by others if they are curable. Id.

50. It is not necessary to copy the record entries into the abstract. It is sufficient if the substance is stated. Stark v. Zehnder [Mo.] 102 S. W. 992.

51. Objection to abstract as incomplete and misleading will not be considered where defendant in error does not file a further abstract. See Supreme Court Rule 14. Snead & Co. Iron Works v. Merchants' Loan & Trust Co., 225 Ill. 442, 80 N. E. 237. Where a review of points raised in appellant's brief necessitates a consideration of the evidence, the appellee may present the necessary evidence in an additional abstract. Conwell v. Tri-City R. Co. [Iowa] 112 N. W. 546. Where statements contained in an additional abstract filed by respondent are not denied by appellant, they will be taken as true. Grigsby v. Wolven [S. D.] 108 N. W. 250.

52. Failure to object to statement in abstract admits its correctness. Rev. St. 1899, § 813. Strother v. McMullen Lumber Co., 200 Mo. 647, 98 S. W. 34. Where an abstract is not properly objected to, it will be presumed to be correct and properly prepared. State Finance Co. v. Mather [N. D.] 109 N. W. 350.

53. Where appellee files an additional abstract to supply matters omitted in appellant's abstract, he waives any other objection to it than as indicated in the additional abstract. Elliott v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 102 S. W. 532. The appellate court cannot, at the request of respondent who files a counter abstract, require the clerk of the trial court to certify a copy of the bill of exceptions where appellants tacitly admit the correctness of such abstract. Schroeder v. Reinhardt [Mo. App.] 100 S. W. 538.

to nothing outside of it,<sup>56</sup> and a record made for one purpose may sometimes be looked to for another.<sup>57</sup> Every presumption favors the correctness of the rulings below,<sup>58</sup> and accordingly the record, to present an alleged error, must not only show

56. See post, § 13 E. Evidence on former trial could not be considered on appeal in action for a new trial where not brought up with record and there was no agreement that transcript filed on the original appeal might be considered. Flint v. Illinois Cent. R. Co., 29 Ky. L. R. 1149, 97 S. W. 736. The appellate court cannot have corrected or completed the record in the lower court, but must deal with the case on the record before it. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Jones, 127 Ga. 447, 56 S. E. 761.

57. A transcript certified to by the court reporter to contain all the evidence which is referred to and identified in the court's certificate, sent up in support of defendant's motion for nonsuit and instruction for directed verdict, cannot be considered in determining whether there was evidence authorizing a particular instruction. Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 87 P. 1036.

Supreme Tent of Knights of Maccabees [Ill.]* 81 N. E. 19; Bautz v. Adams [Wis.] 111 N. W. 69; Burbank v. Succession of Barton, 117 La. 262, 41 So. 567; Murphy v. Reliance Gold Min. Co. [S. National Coal & Oil Inv. Co. [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 494; Estep v. Estep, 30 Ky. L. R. 577, 99 S. W. 280; Hastings Industrial Co. v. Baxter [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 1075; Ex parte Caple [Ark.] 99 S. W. 830; Patterson v. Patterson, 200 Mo. 335, 98 S. W. 613. Where the ground of decision does not appear, it will be presumed to have been on the ground which the evidence sustains. Crain v. Peterman, 200 Mo. 295, 98 S. W. 600; Farmers' Bk. v. Barbee, 198 Mo. 465, 95 S. W. 225; O'Mara v. Newcomb [Colo.] 88 P. 167; Naylor v. Foster [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 114. But in some jurisdictions rulings on propositions of law must disclose whether the court acted thereon in reaching its decision. Declining to give proposition in terms stated does not disclose this, and in absence of such disclosure such refusal will be held error when the deposition was correct and applicable to the case. Jaquith v. Davenport, 191 Mass. 415, 78 N. E. 93. Where it appeared on face of decree that it was made "by the court," an assignment that the court did not sit in banc in passing on exceptions cannot be sustained. Zerbey v. Allan, 215 Pa. 383, 64 A. 587. It will be presumed in favor of an order of the commissioner's court changing a public road, in the absence of proof to the contrary, that the court took every precautionary step essential to its validity. Smith v. Ernst [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 129. That a counterclaim was properly submitted and tried where the record contains no assignment of error to instructions and no objections or exceptions were saved relative to the verdict. Stone v. Victor Elec. Co. [Colo.] 85 P. 327. Where record was silent as to who paid taxes on realty during certain years, held that it would be presumed that they were paid by true owner. Updegraff v. Marked Tree Lumber Co. [Ark.] 103 S. W. 606. Where bill of exceptions recited that leave was asked and granted to amend so as to claim damages for a particular injury, held that it would be presumed that complaint was amended so as to meet evidence on that point in order to sustain ruling admitting it, though record did not show that amendment was in fact made. Southern R. Co. v. McGowan [Ala.] 43 So. 378. Mere identity of name will not, after judgment, authorize appellate court to presume, for purpose of reversing judgment, that sheriff who executed summons on one of defendants was a party to the suit. Hayman v. Weil [Fla.] 44 So. 176. That a sentence was suspended for good cause. Harris v. Lang, 27 App. D. C. 84. That documents and orders not in record justified dismissal below. McNicholas v. Tinsler, 127 Ill. App. 381. Evidence will be construed in the light most favorable to the findings and judgment of the trial court. Youd v. German Sav. & Loan Soc. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 991. Where record did not affirmatively show that any land was excluded in division of a ward into election districts. Waynesburg Borough's North Ward, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 525. Will not be presumed that a party waived a motion by failing to call it up. Diamond Match Co. v. Wabash R. Co., 121 Mo. App. 43, 97 S. W. 993. Presumed in support of decree that court inferred as authorized by V. S. 936-942 facts necessarily or fairly resulting from facts reported by master. Davenport v. Crowell [Vt.] 65 A. 557. Presumed that conveyance was a quitclaim and not a warranty deed in absence of finding as to which it was. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Stryker [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 245. On appeal from judgment of circuit court in action originally brought in justice's court against an individual as agent for a corporation, presumed in favor of jurisdiction of justice that in passing on question of his jurisdiction he ascertained that the corporation was a foreign corporation, and that its agent was a proper person upon whom to serve process. Western Tie & Timber Co. v. Thomas [Ark.] 101 S. W. 730. On appeal from decree on bill of review, appellate court will not presume that court looked to evidence for facts disclosed by pleadings, and, on such presumption, reverse decree. Peters v. Case [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 733. In view of statutes in regard to guardians' bonds and appraisements of ward's estates, held that it could not be presumed in support of order of county court reducing guardian's bond that second inventory of ward's property had been taken and that property had decreased in value more than half. Moore v. Hanscom [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 665. Where it is insisted that the provision of a certain statute does not apply to proceedings instituted under a former statute, and the record fails to show where proceedings were instituted, it will be presumed that the trial court ruled properly in applying the provision. Commonwealth v. Chaudet, 30 Ky. L. R. 1157, 100 S. W. 519. Under Rev. St. 1892, § 6709, it will be presumed in all subsequent proceedings that the circuit court passed upon all assignments in a petition in error before it, and that when it reverses a judgment of the common pleas it overrules all assignments not specified in its mandate as ground for reversal. Weaver v. Columbus, etc., R. Co. [Ohio] 81 N. E. 180. And the presumptive overruling of such assignments as are not made grounds of reversal are presumed correct in absence of anything to contrary in record. Id. Where, therefore, plaintiff in error in proceedings to review such reversal has presented so much of the record as will show the error of which he complains, defendant in error, if he desires to sustain the circuit court's reversal on assignments overruled by such court, must see that the record contains matter showing that such assignments were improperly overruled. Id. Where the fees of a superintendent of irrigation are to be paid proportionately by the counties irrigated by the system, it will not be assumed on appeal in the absence of proof that other counties than those named in the pleading were supplied with water. Board of Com'rs of Montezuma County v. Wheeler [Colo.] 89 P. 50.

As to ground of general order: An order not specifying the ground on which it was made will be presumed to have been on a ground justifying it if any such appears. Where an order granting a new trial is general, the court will examine the entire record and if there is any error justifying the order it will be affirmed. Central Trust Co. v. Stoddard [Cal. App.] 88 P. 806. Where a ruling sustaining a motion to direct a verdict on several grounds is general, the court on appeal must determine whether the motion could be sustained on any of the enumerated grounds. Bromberg v. Evans Laundry Co. [Iowa] 111 N. W. 417. Where an order granting a new trial does not specify upon which of the many grounds assigned it is granted, the court will consider the grounds of the motion only to the extent of ascertaining if the order can be sustained on any one of them. Buckle v. McConaghy [Idaho] 88 P. 100. Where a ruling sustaining an objection to an offer of proof does not show upon what ground it was made, it will be sustained, if there is any ground supporting it. Rose v. Doe [Cal. App.] 89 P. 135. Where a motion for a new trial is made upon three distinct grounds and the order sustaining the motion is general, it will be affirmed if justified on any one of the grounds. Fournier v. Coudert, 34 Mont. 484, 87 P. 455. The specifying in an order granting a new trial on the ground upon which it was based does not limit the appellate court to such ground. Piercy v. Piercy, 149 Cal. 163, 86 P. 507. Where an order granting a new trial does not specify upon what ground it is made, it will be sustained if it can be done upon any ground of the motion. Walsh v. Conrad [Mont.] 88 P. 655. Though an order granting a new trial refers to an opinion, such opinion is not a part of the order, thereby constituting a limitation of the grounds upon which the order was made.

Bouchard v. Abrahamsen [Cal. App.] 88 P. 383. Where a levy is made upon land sold by the judgment debtor, but a sale thereof is enjoined on the theory that, having been homestead property, the sale could not have been a fraud upon creditors, the judgment will not be so modified as to permit the determination of the question whether it exceeded the statutory homestead amount where no such issue was raised below. Nicholson v. Nesbitt [Cal. App.] 88 P. 725. Where the trial court in granting a new trial fails to specify the ground of its action as required by Rev. St. 1899, § 801, its action cannot be assumed to have been based on any particular ground, but the correctness of the various rulings will be considered as was the practice prior to the new statutory rule. Pierce v. Lee, 197 Mo. 480, 95 S. W. 426. When there is evidence to support a verdict, the appellate court will not presume that the lower court granted a new trial because the verdict was against the law under the evidence. Id. Where the trial judge did not file any conclusions, his judgment must be approved upon any theory of the evidence by which it can be supported. Adams v. Bartell [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 779. Where the evidence was sufficient to sustain a finding in favor of the party against whom the decision was given, and the trial court granted a motion for a new trial on a motion including the ground of insufficiency of evidence, it will be presumed that the court granted it on such ground where its order was general. Pollitz v. Wickersham [Cal.] 88 P. 911. Where one of the grounds for a new trial was insufficiency of evidence, and the order granting the motion was general, it will be assumed on appeal that it was granted for insufficiency of the evidence if it could be legally granted thereon, regardless of any reason stated in the opinion of the court. Id. Where a moving party relies on specific grounds and the court grants the motion without specifying the ground, it will be assumed that it was on one of the moving grounds and the appellate court will not look beyond them in support of the motion. Powell v. Springston Lumber Co. [Idaho] 88 P. 97. Though the trial court possesses the inherent power to set aside a verdict and grant a new trial on its own motion, its grounds for doing so should be made to appear in the record and if they do not the appellate court is not bound to search the record for the purpose of sustaining its action. Hensley v. Davidson Bros. Co. [Iowa] 112 N. W. 227. Where a new trial is granted on a single ground, the appellate court will only consider such ground and not search for other grounds in support of the order. Armstrong v. Musser Lumber & Mfg. Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 944. It will be presumed in support of the lower court's decision in plaintiff's favor that suit was brought within the time required after a previous nonsuit, although the record does not show when the action was brought. *Parker & Co. v. the record sufficiently raises the question of the validity of the order, no statement of the case is required. Duckworth v. Duckworth [N. C.] 57 S. E. 396; Schenker v. Breece [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 659.

64. On appeal from judgment overruling motion to quash on execution on a revived judgment, no error of which cognizance can be taken is shown where the record fails to show any judgment, original or revived, or that any execution was introduced in evidence, and no such writ or proceedings thereunder is shown. In the absence of a bill of exceptions showing the proceedings before the clerk and before the court, an order retaxing costs will not be reviewed. Feske v. Adam [Wis.] 112 N. W. 456. The court on appeal will not presume that an initial payment on an accident policy was an advance payment of the premiums due thereunder where it might also have been a payment of the required policy fee. Greenwaldt v. U. S. Health & Accident Ins. Co., 102 N. Y. S. 157. No error disclosed where record did not show that defendant was in fact compelled to comply with court's order requiring him to submit his books to plaintiff's inspection. Hemple v. Raymond [C. C. A.] 144 F. 796. Questions of priority between two judgment creditors could not be reviewed where record did not show that debtor had an equitable estate referred to by appellant. Adriaans v. Reilly, 27 App. D. C. 167. An order disallowing costs, being made before judgment, will not be reviewed unless the evidence upon which it is based and the exceptions thereto are preserved in the bill of exceptions. Fowler v. Metzger Seed & Oil Co. [Wis.] 111 N. W. 677. Where error is predicated on filing of praecipe for default by attorney after appointment and qualification as judge, it will not be presumed merely from identity of name that attorney and judge were same person. Cone v. Knight [Fla.] 42 So. 460. Objection on account of arguing points in plaintiff's closing address not argued in his opening address is not presented where record does not show that the points were not argued in opening address. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bovard, 223 Ill. 176, 79 N. E. 128. Error in construction of contract affecting finding must clearly appear in record in order to justify granting of new trial therefor. Talbott v. New-castle [Ind.] 81 N. E. 724. In the absence of an official record as to what occurred on the argument of a motion, the statement of the trial court will be accepted as correct. Hews v. Hews, 145 Mich. 247, 13 Det. Leg. N. 482, 108 N. W. 694. In order to sustain a judgment against sureties on a replevy bond, the writ of sequestration and the bond must appear in the transcript of the record, especially where the certificate of the clerk to the transcript shows that it contains all the proceedings had in the case. The fact that the petition alleges that the writ was issued and served and the bond executed is not sufficient. Lewter v. Lindley [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 276.

65. Necessity of recital or certificate

stracts, it has been said that it will be presumed that the record contains all that is essential to the decision of the questions argued.<sup>66</sup> This rule has been applied to rulings relating to jurisdiction,<sup>67</sup> process,<sup>68</sup> and pleading,<sup>69</sup> appearance,<sup>70</sup> motions

Matters depending on the evidence cannot be reviewed unless the record is certified to contain it all. Eatherly v. State [Tenn.] 101 S. W. 187; Rogers v. Brown, 15 Okl. 524, 86 P. 443; *Martin v. Sufficiency of recital or certificate: Certificate of register that bill contains "full and complete transcript of the record and proceedings * * * in so far as they apply to or affect" the matter presented for review held sufficient to show that all the evidence pertaining to such matters is in the record, though the record shows omission of certain depositions and exhibits which were before lower court. Sample v. Guyer, 143 Ala. 613, 42 So. 106. Certificate that transcript contains "All proceedings had upon trial of above numbered exception in entitled suit" held sufficient where case was disposed of below on the exception. State v. Reid [La.] 42 So. 662. A certificate reciting "Inasmuch as the foregoing matters do not otherwise appear of record, I hereby certify that this bill of exceptions has been by me settled and allowed," does not show that it includes all the evidence. Stone v. Ogden Packing Co. 30 Utah, 460, 85 P. 1004. Failure of certificate to show that succession papers attached to and referred to by petition but not offered in evidence, held not to render the certificate insufficient as failing to show that transcript contained all the evidence. Parker & Co. v. Succession of Griffin, 117 La. 977, 42 So. 473. Certificate held sufficient to present everything done below, notwithstanding deficiencies chargeable to the clerk who made it. Hays v. Mayer, 117 La. 1067, 42 So. 505. Unauthorized certificate of deputy clerk of civil district court held insufficient to overcome presumption that judge of division of such court acted on sufficient evidence. Appellant should obtain statement from judge as to real situation as to evidence. Code Proc., arts. 602, 603. Rosenthal v. Rosenthal, 147 La. 786, 42 So. 270. A bill of exceptions certifying that it contains all of the evidence except that presented on one day of the trial, and all the "substantial" points presented on that day, may not be reviewed as to the weight of the evidence. Page v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 581. A statement attached to the case-made and signed by counsel for appellant that the foregoing case-made contains all the evidence does not supply the place of an averment in the case itself. Schriber v. Buckner [Okl.] 90 P. 10. Where the certificate of the judge recites that the statement "contains all the evidence introduced considered herein," it will be presumed that documentary evidence introduced, but not contained in the record, was treated as immaterial and not considered. Van Camp v. Emery [Idaho] 89 P. 752. A recital in the case that "no further or other evidence was offered or introduced" held not equivalent to an averment that it contains all the evidence, where it was not clear that it did not refer to the last preceding item. Kiowa County Bk. v. Hobart Lee & Coal Co. [Okl.] 89 P. 1118. Bill certified by judge to contain the "substance of all the evidence" held sufficient to present question of error in refusing to direct verdict, presumption being that nothing material was omitted. First Nat. Bk. v. Moore [C. C. A.] 148 F. 953. A recital in the judge's certificate settling the statement of facts that the foregoing contains all the evidence is sufficient. Coulter v. Union Laundry Co., 34 Mont. 590, 87 P. 973. Certificate that bill contains full, true, and complete transcript of evidence held to authenticate recitals concerning objections and exceptions to evidence and offers of proof. Hart v. Scott [Ind.] 81 N. E. 481. Where the bill of exceptions recites that it contains all the evidence material to the questions raised on appeal, and in the certificate it is declared to contain "all the testimony given on both sides necessary to present the questions raised upon the appeal," the certification is sufficient to permit of a review of the facts. Cape v. Plymouth Congregational Church [Wis.] 109 N. W. 928. Bill of exceptions failing to state that it contains all the evidence is not aided by the reporter's certificate. Continental Casualty Co. v. Maxwell, 127 Ill. App. 19. Is sufficient if bill of exceptions shows inferentially and by natural implication that it contains all the evidence. Mitchell v. Young [Ark.] 97 S. W. 454. Sufficient if it plainly appears without recital that bill contains all the evidence. Marshall v. Ford, 124 Ill. App. 284; Crowe v. Trickey, 204 U. S. 228, 51 Law. Ed. 454; Concordia Fire Ins. Co. v. Bowen, 121 Ill. App. 35. When the court certifies in the bill of exceptions "the evidence introduced on the trial" was "as follows," and sets it forth, it is sufficient, if there is nothing in the record to show that it is not all the evidence. Manchester Home Bldg. & Loan Ass'n v. Porter [Va.] 56 S. E. 337. On appeal from a judgment in ejectment sustaining the plea of res adjudicata, if the bill of exceptions contains a complete transcript of the record pleaded in bar, and also shows that appellant acquired the title now asserted after that adjudication, it is sufficient to show affirmatively that the court's finding was erroneous, though it fails to show affirmatively that it contains all the testimony. Wadley v. Leggett [Ark.] 101 S. W. 720. Words "plaintiff rests" followed by motion to take case from jury held to show that bill of exceptions contained all the evidence. Hill v. Chicago City R. Co. 126 Ill. App. 152. Sufficient showing that all the testimony taken in the case was embodied in the transcript. Lenon v. Brodie [Ark.] 98 S. W. 979.

66. Hensley v. Davidson Bros. Co., [Iowa] 112 N. W. 227.

67. Where record did not affirmatively show that case was heard on short cause calendar. Christie v. Walker, 126 Ill. App. 434. Silence of record of court of general jurisdiction as to affidavit required by Acts 1894-95, p. 415, creates no presumption of lack of jurisdiction to render judgment against garnishee, Brookside Dry Goods Co. v. City Furniture Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 659. Where in proceedings by a guardian to sell real estate the published notice of application to sell ran from May 9th, and it does not appear when the application was filed, but the order permitting sale was made on May 27th, it will be presumed in support of jurisdiction that the application was filed May 9th. Mortgage Trust Co. v. Redd [Colo.] 88 P. 473. Where a complaint alleges that on account of the number and diverse residences of the plaintiffs it was impracticable to bring all before the court, and therefore plaintiff sued for all, and the court allowed it to be filed and denied a motion to strike, it will be presumed on appeal that the court ordered the action so brought under Code Civ. Proc. § 12.. Knight v. Boring [Colo.] 87 P. 1078. Where an amendment asking more than the jurisdictional amount would not divest jurisdiction if the original prayer was within such amount, it will be presumed in the absence of the original pleadings that the amount prayed was within the jurisdiction. Ft. Worth & D. C. R. Co. v. Underwood [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 453. Appeal to court of appeals from judgment of circuit court in case originating in justice court dismissed where record did not show that circuit court ever obtained jurisdiction of case by appeal. Inks v. Brakebill Bros. 119 Mo. App. 159, 96 S. W. 220. Presumed that court, in permitting an administrator to sell realty, determined that petitioner was the duly appointed administrator. Hollingsworth v. McAndrew, 79 Ark. 185, 95 S. W. 485. Where the district court has jurisdiction of a cause unless the trustees of a city have designated a justice of the peace, under Mill's Ann. St. § 4438, appellant attacking the jurisdiction of the district court must make it appear of record that a justice has been so designated. Weiss-Chapman Drug Co. v. People [Colo.] 89 P. 778. A presumption will not be indulged in support of the jurisdiction of the trial court to appoint a guardian ad litem where the presumption does violence to the facts presented by the record. Johnston v. Southern Pac. Co. [Cal.] 89 P. 348. The rule that the lack of jurisdiction in a court of general jurisdiction must appear on the face of the record does not require an affirmative showing of the lack of a jurisdictional fact but it is sufficient that that which was actually stated as done was insufficient. Id. Recited that the appointment of a guardian ad litem was on the petition of the appointee while the statute required appointment on the application of the infant. Id. In absence of evidence of such fact in record, the supreme court will not presume that court of appeal rendered the judgment appealed from at a special session. Brown v. Louisiana & N. W. R. Co. [La.] 42 So. 656. One placita in the transcript, the one for the term at which judgment was rendered, is sufficient to show the legal organization of the court below, and it is not necessary to insert in the transcript a placita for each term at which there were any proceedings in the cause. Leafgreen v. Leafgreen, 127 Ill. App. 184. Presumed that judgment of circuit court was within limits of its jurisdiction and based on papers and evidence necessary to support it. Hawthorne v. Cartier Lumber Co., 121 Ill. App. 494.

68. Where record on appeal by claimant in claim proceedings is silent as to return of the execution and the evidence is not before the appellate court, it will be presumed that the sheriff's testimony and the writ were part of the evidence heard by the jury. Dunaway v. First [Fla.] 41 So. 451. Where an affidavit of publication is verified by one whose name is identical with that of respondent the appellate court will not presume that they were the same person so as to defeat jurisdiction if it will have such effect. Callison v. Cole [Wash.] 87 P. 120. An amendment of a defective summons will be presumed to have been made while the question of jurisdiction was open on a rehearing granted on an order sustaining objections to the summons where the record does not disclose that such order was again sustained on an intermediate rehearing. Parker Co. v. Central West Inv. Co. [Neb.] 105 N. W. 985. In absence of contrary showing, it will be presumed that the seal to notice in drainage proceedings was attached by clerk, who acted in the several capacities of county clerk, clerk of county court, and clerk of drainage district, in proper capacity. Waite v. Green River Special Drainage Dist. Com'rs, 226 Ill. 207, 80 N. E. 725. Where an application for a writ of review to review the public use and necessity for which property was condemned shows that the notice of hearing was published, it will be presumed that an affidavit in support thereof as required by statute was filed. State v. Walla Walla County Superior Ct. [Wash.] 86 P. 205. Where affidavits showing lack of service of summons filed and served by defendant are not rebutted by affidavits by plaintiff, they will on appeal be assumed to be true. Fosullo v. Bonjorno, 105 N. Y. S. 155.

69. Overruling appellant's special exceptions to appellee's pleadings cannot be declared reversible error in the absence of a statement of facts. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Breeding [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 800. Where it does not appear from the record that the parties agreed the allegations of plea were true, nor that proof was made in respect thereto, it will be presumed that there was evidence concerning the plea, supporting the action of the court in overruling it. Receivers of Kirby Lumber Co. v. Poindexter [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 439. Where the record does not contain one of the pleadings, uncontroverted statements in the respondent's brief as to the allegations of the omitted pleading will be assumed to be true for the purpose of sustaining the judgment. Perkins v. Storrs, 114 App. Div. 322, 99 N. Y. S. 849. In the absence of the pleadings it will be presumed on appeal that the trial court properly exercised its discretion in denying a motion for a default for want of an answer where it appears that there was an answer before the ruling was made. Bardon v. Hughes [Wash.] 88 P. 1040. Where exhibits filed with the petition were not copied in the record, it will be presumed that they warranted the judgment sustaining a demurrer to the petition. Commonwealth v. Chaudet, 30 Ky. L. R. 1157, 100 S. W. 819. Discrepancies between as to parties, mechanic lien, and suit to enforce same, not reviewable where lien is not in bill of exceptions. Saunders v. Tuscumbia Roofing & Plumbing Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 982. Where no ruling appears to have been made on a motion to strike an answer, it will be presumed that the court passed on the issues raised by the pleadings as they stood. Widner v. Wilcox, 131 Iowa 223, 108 N. W. 238. The sustaining of a demurrer to an amended complaint, filed after the period of limitations has expired, on the ground that the action is barred, cannot be reviewed where the record does not show when the original was filed. Williams v. Southern Pac. R. Co. [Cal.] 89 P. 599. Refusal to allow amendment will not be reviewed in absence of showing that any material matter not already included in the pleading would have been added by the amendment. Glos v. Murphy, 225 Ill. 58, 80 N. E. 59. On appeal from an order refusing permission to file a supplemental answer, appellant's brief will not be consulted to ascertain the contents of such answer where it is not contained in the record. Johansen v. Mulligan [Wash.] 88 P. 1107. An order refusing permission to file a supplemental answer will not be reviewed where the record does not contain the proposed answer. Id. An assignment of error that a decree rendered was not within the issues made by the pleadings cannot be considered where the pleadings are not in the record. Montezuma Canal Co. v. Smithville Canal Co. [Ariz.] 89 P. 512. Findings of court below in striking an answer held conclusive on appeal in absence of the evidence. Hollingsworth v. McAndrew, 79 Ark. 185, 95 S. W. 485.

Amendments: Ruling on amendment not reviewable in absence of affidavits offered in support thereof. Stackpole v. Schmucker, 225 Ill. 502, 80 N. E. 314. Pleading presumed amended. See Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 670. Richardson v. Stephenson [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 256. Where an amendment could have been allowed in the court below, the appellate court will treat a pleading as amended on appeal if the facts found support the judgment. Alexander v. Harkin, 103 N. Y. S. 56. The mere recital in the bill of exceptions that after the hearing of the cause the judge permitted the defendant to file an amendment to its answer, of which the plaintiff did not have notice until after the decision of the judge was rendered, raises no question for decision by the appellate court where the bill of exceptions contains no assignment of error upon the action of the judge in receiving the amendment and permitting it to be filed. Thom v. Georgia Mfg. & Public Service Co. [Ga.] 57 S. E. 75. Where the record does not contain a proposed trial amendment, nor any affidavit showing why it should have been allowed at that time, the denial thereof will not be reviewed. Barngrover v. North [Mont.] 90 P. 162. Where the court makes findings in accordance with the averments of the complaint and ignoring an amended answer setting up affirmative defenses, and certifies that the parties introduced evidence tending to support their allegations, the court must conclude under the presumption of B. & C. Comp. § 788, subd. 15, that official duty has been regularly performed, that such amended answer was not filed with permission of court. Freeman v. Preston [Or.] 89 P. 375. Failure of the court to consider an amended answer of appellant will not be considered where it does not appear by abstract that permission to file the same was obtained. Id. Whether an amended petition alleges a new cause of action cannot be determined when there is nothing to show what is set up therein. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pearce [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1133. Proposed amendment must be made part of record to allow review of refusal to permit it to be made. Dudley v. Herring, 30 Ky. L. R. 270, 98 S. W. 289. The refusal of the trial court to permit a pleading or amendment to be filed will not be reviewed unless it is made to appear that there was an order of court or bill of exceptions making the rejected pleading or amendment a part of the record. Patrick v. Patrick, 30 Ky. L. R. 1364, 101 S. W. 328; Weimer's Adm'r v. Smith, 30 Ky. L. R. 1311, 101 S. W. 327. If it is desired to review by direct exception the ruling of the trial court in rejecting an amendment to the pleadings, the proffered amendment, either literally or in substance, must be set out in the bill of exceptions or attached thereto as an exhibit. Cornwell v. Leverelette, 127 Ga. 163, 56 S. E. 300. Overruling of demurrer to amended complaint not reviewable where record does not show what the amendment was. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Carroll [Ala.] 41 So. 517. Refusal to allow the amendment of a pleading will not be reviewed where the record does not disclose the character of the amendment. Minton v. Palmer [Neb.] 112 N. W. 610.

Demurrers and motions: Where the record does not show that a general demurrer and special exceptions to plaintiff's petition were called to the attention of the trial court and passed upon, they will be considered as waived. Moore v. Woodson [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 116. Ruling sustaining demurrer to court held not open to consideration where judgment entry showed that certain parts of count had been stricken on motion without showing what parts were so stricken, and motion to strike did not appear in record, and hence was no way to determine what parts were stricken or whether count as shown in record was same as when ruled on below. Wolf v. Smith [Ala.] 42 So. 824. Where plea is open to demurrer on any ground, a demurrer not shown by record will be presumed to have properly been sustained. Rhodes & Son Co. v. Charleston [Ala.] 41 So. 746. Ruling on motion to strike pleading not reviewable where bill of exceptions does not show such motion and an exception to the ruling thereon. McCleskey v. Howell Cotton Co. [Ala.] 42 So. 67.

70. Overruling of motion for judgment on account of defendant's failure to appear not reviewable where record does not show when defendant's appearance was entered. Bufford v. Chambers [Ala.] 42 So. 597.

71. Must show grounds of a motion. Medbury v. Maloney [Idaho] 88 P. 81; Johnson v. Center [Cal. App.] 88 P. 727. Where affidavits used on prior hearing were referred to and used, they should be incorporated in record on appeal. Staples & Hanford Co. v. Lord [C. C. A.] 148 F. 15. Refusal to stay proceedings not reviewable where bill of exceptions did not show motion to stay and exception to court's ruling. Bordner v. Myers, 125 Ill. App. 493. Where a court

vacates an order previously made, it will be presumed, in the absence of a contrary showing, that the order was made in a manner and under circumstances justifying its vacation. Glass v. Glass [Cal. App.] 88 P. 734. A transcript containing all the papers in the action, but not identifying the papers used on a motion to dismiss an appeal is insufficient to enable the court to consider the order on the motion. Kootenai County v. Hope Lumber Co. [Idaho] 89 P. 1054.

72. Judgment by default will not be reversed because case was tried out of its regular order where it is not made to appear on appeal that defendant had meritorious defense. Bartlett v. Jones Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 705. Assertion in agreed case on writ of error from default judgment that defendant claimed that he had meritorious defense which he was ready to present, etc., held not to tend to show that he in fact had such defense in absence of statement of grounds on which it was based. Id. An appeal from order denying motion to vacate a default judgment will not be dismissed on the ground that the affidavits upon which it was heard are not before the court, where the affidavit brought up was made a part of the motion and hence must have been considered, and it does not appear that any others were used. Richardson v. Richardson [Wash.] 86 P. 1069.

73. Assignment that court erred in overruling motion to transfer quasi criminal case from criminal to civil docket will not be considered where it is not shown by bill of exceptions or elsewhere in record that case was not already stated on civil docket when motion was made, and that motion was not overruled for that reason. City of Selma v. Shivers [Ala.] 43 So. 565. Abstract merely stating that a petition for change of venue had been filed and denied held insufficient to present for review court's action in denying petition. Hunt v. Pronger, 126 Ill. App. 403. Order denying continuance not reviewable, application not being contained in bill of exceptions. Sims v. McLaren, 117 Mo. App. 67, 94 S. W. 792. Affidavit not being abstracted, refusal of continuance not reviewable. Berry v. Campbell, 118 Ill. App. 646.

74. The action of the trial court in overruling a motion to quash a deposition upon the ground that the certificate of the officer who took it was defective cannot be reviewed where the bill of exceptions reserved to the ruling does not contain such certificate or state its contents. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Sauter [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 201. A bill of exceptions quoting certain answers in a deposition and alleging that they were not introduced in evidence, but failing to recite that they were read to the jury during argument and commented on, presents no reversible error. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Matthews [Tex. Civ. App.] 13 Tex. Ct. Rep. 949, 89 S. W. 983. Where it appears that depositions admitted below were taken on due notice and that appellant was represented by counsel, it will be presumed that they were filed and published. Oolitic Stone Co. v. Ridge [Ind. App.] 89 N. E. 441. Where the decree recites that the cause was heard upon depositions but the same are not copied into the transcript, it will be presumed that they tended to sustain the findings of the court. Weaver v. Parlin & Orendorf Co. [Ark.] 100 S. W. 578. In such case it cannot be assumed that affidavits of persons named, appearing in the transcript as exhibits to the answer, were treated as depositions. Id.

75. Cannot complain of trial of case out of order and without notice where record does not show that such was fact. Rabb v. Texas Loan & Inv. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 618, 96 S. W. 77. Where court decides civil case, submitted to him on law and evidence, without argument, will be presumed that none was necessary to enable him to come to a just conclusion. Warner v. Close, 120 Mo. App. 211, 96 S. W. 491. Presumed that in passing on case court had before it the original papers filed or correct copies thereof. Brophy v. Sheppard, 124 Ill. App. 512. If trial took place in defendant's absence, this should be shown by bill of exceptions. That record did not affirmatively show defendant's presence was insufficient. Race v. Isaacson, 124 Ill. App. 196. In the absence of a showing to the contrary, it will be presumed that the trial court complied with Rev. St. 1899, § 3643, relating to the custody of the jury. Wallace v. Skinner [Wyo.] 88 P. 221. Cannot complain that case was tried without jury where record does not show demand for jury and payment of jury fee. Rabb v. Texas Loan & Inv. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 618, 96 S. W. 77. Where it does not appear affirmatively from the record that the demand for a jury was not timely made, nor that objections to the conclusions of the master were not presented before time, the presumption, from the action of the trial court in allowing a jury, should be that all that was essential to entitle the defendant thereto had been done. San Jacinto Oil Co. v. Culberson [Tex.] 101 S. W. 197. In the absence of the evidence it cannot be presumed that it raised an issue of estoppel not pleaded or that the court did not pass thereon. Big Horn Lumber Co. v. Davis, 14 Wyo. 455, 84 P. 900, 85 P. 1048. A reviewing court can not say that a trial judge was guilty of misconduct in rebuking counsel or disapproving of some action on his part where so far as is disclosed by the record the judge may have spoken pleasantly and with no tendency to prejudice counsel or his case. Betten v. Toledo, etc. R. Co., 9 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 53. Order dismissing bill not reviewable where there was nothing in record to show that it was improper. Bellinger v. Barnes, 223 Ill. 121, 79 N. E. 11. Dismissal for want of solicitor's authority not reviewable in absence of evidence. Id. Refusal of new trial on ground of improper argument not reviewable where such argument is not brought into record by bill of exceptions. Manion v. Lake Erie & W. R. Co. [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 166. An assignment that the court erred in refusing a new trial asked on the ground of a remark made by a juror to his fellows cannot be considered if the bill of exceptions does not show that it contains all the evidence heard upon the motion for a new trial. Lowry v. Southern R. Co. [Tenn.] 101 S. W. 1157.

76. Evidence admitted must appear. Rice v. Knostman [Wash.] 88 P. 194; McFarland v. Darien & W. R. Co. 127 Ga. 97, 56 S. E. 74; Maxwell v. Rucker, 127 Ga. 111, 56 S. E. 91; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Breeding [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 800; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hill [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 227; Garbanati v. Johnson [Colo.] 86 P. 1009; Robinson v. Muir [Cal.] 90 P. 521; Kinsly v. New Vulture Min. Co. [Ariz.] 90 P. 438; Green v. Dodge [Vt.] 64 A. 499; Sullivan v. Fugazzi [Mass.] 79 N. E. 775. In an action tried by the court without a jury, it will be presumed that the court considered only competent evidence. Palmer v. McFarlane [Neb.] 111 N. W. 794; Adams v. Weir [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 726; Stubblefield v. Hanson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 36, 94 S. W. 406; Champion v. McCarthy [Ill.] 81 N. E. 808; Strayhorn v. McCall, 78 Ark. 209, 95 S. W. 455; Wald v. Wald, 119 Mo. App. 341, 96 S. W. 302. Where the date of a previous transfer admitted on the issue of value does not appear, whether it was too remote cannot be considered. Cane Belt R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 927, 97 S. W. 1966. Where a conductor was charged with negligence and the evidence on that issue was not abstracted, the court could not determine whether it was prejudicial error to admit evidence of a conversation between the conductor and the engineer wherein the conductor asked the engineer if he was drunk. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Boyles, 78 Ark. 374, 95 S. W. 783. It must be considered on appeal that the contents of a paper "introduced in evidence" were made known to the jury. Arkansas S. W. R. Co. v. Dickinson, 78 Ark. 483, 95 S. W. 802. Where secondary evidence is admitted after a demand for the original on trial, it will be presumed that the evidence taken showed that party of whom production was demanded had sufficient time to produce where the bill of exceptions is silent upon the question. Scott v. Christenson [Or.] 89 P. 376. An objection that the court permitted defendant to contradict by parol evidence the legal effect of his blank endorsement cannot be reviewed where the abstract does not disclose whether the evidence was oral or written. Kinsel v. Wieland [Colo.] 88 P. 153. Where evidence is admissible on any ground it will be presumed that it was admitted on such ground where the record does not show the contrary. Southern Car Mfg. & Supply Co. v. Wagener [N. M.] 89 P. 259. Where documentary evidence was admitted and judgment rendered in favor of the respondent, it will be presumed on appeal that they were properly proven notwithstanding respondent's contention on appeal that no sufficient foundation was laid. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Duparquet, Huot & Moneuse Co., 104 N. Y. S. 375. Record held sufficient to authorize court to pass on question of waiver of privilege against disclosure by physician of plaintiff's physical condition. Elliott v. Kansas City, 198 Mo. 593, 96 S. W. 1023. Objection on account of reception of evidence by master cannot be considered where case does not show that he was requested to report any evidence received by him and report does not show that any evidence was received over objection and exception. Allen's Adm'r v. Allen's Adm'r's [Vt.] 64 A. 1160. Admission of testimony on re-examination will not be considered where it does not appear that it was not rendered admissible by the cross-examination. Grout v. Moulton [Vt.] 64 A. 453. Record must show wherein error in admitting testimony lies. Cushman v. Davis [Vt.] 64 A. 456. An appellate court cannot decide on the admissibility of evidence having relation to a certain issue if the evidence on such issue is not set out in the record. Seago v. White [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1015. An assignment of error in the admission of certain evidence over the objection that the same was "hearsay, immaterial and irrelevant and not admissible for any purpose," cannot be considered where no such grounds of objection are disclosed in the statement of facts to which the brief refers. London v. Crow [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 177.

77. An assignment of error that a part of an answer of a witness stricken out should have been admitted with the other part in order to explain and qualify it cannot be considered if the bill of exceptions does not show that the other part was admitted. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Sloss [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 354. On appeal from a judgment for plaintiff in action to recover from the executor of a decedent a sum alleged to be due plaintiff, alleged error in refusing to admit in evidence decedent's will will not be considered where the will is not contained in the record. Stuyvaert v. Arnold, 122 Mo. App. 421, 99 S. W. 529. Objections on account of exclusion of evidence by master cannot be considered where case shows no request for master to report evidence excluded and report shows no evidence excluded over objection and exception. Allen's Adm'r v. Allen's Adm'r's [Vt.] 64 A. 1110. Alleged error in refusing to admit the transcript of the evidence of an absent witness taken at a former trial of the case cannot be considered if the bill of exceptions does not show that the testimony of the stenographer who took the evidence down was offered to prove the correctness of the transcript. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Kitt [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 587. Where the trial court by its findings of fact set forth its action in refusing an offer of an instrument in evidence in sufficient detail to bring the ruling properly before the court for review, the ruling may be reviewed although the instrument was not brought up by the record. Otero v. Otero [Ariz.] 90 P. 601. Exclusion of evidence not reviewed unless the objection made appears. Linn v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 430; San Antonio Trac. Co. v. Lambkin [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 574; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Pearce [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1133.

Excluded evidence must appear. Blackburn v. Woodward [Ga.] 57 S. E. 318; Priddy v. Boice [Mo.] 99 S. W. 1055; Barnes v. Squier [Mass.] 78 N. E. 731; Christy v. Campbell [Colo.] 87 P. 548; Devlne v. Kerwin, 102 N. Y. S. 841; Neves v. Costa [Cal. App.] 89 P. 860. An assignment of error to the exclusion of evidence cannot be considered where there is no approved statement of facts. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Edwards [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1049; McFern v. Gardner, 121 Mo. App. 1, 97 S. W. 972; Montezuma Canal Co. v. Smithville Canal Co. [Ariz.] 89 P. 512; Stevens v. Citizens' Gas & Elec. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1090; Gabbert v. Penfield [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 627. Where objections to question propounded witness are sustained,

bill of exceptions must show what answer would have been. Bluestein v. Collins [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 787; Mutter v. Lawrence Mfg. Co. [Mass.] 81 N. E. 263; St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Gunter [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 152; Meredith v. Miller [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 430.

Evidence and pleadings must appear. Race v. Isaacson, 124 Ill. App. 196; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hill [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 227; In re Stillman [R. I.] 67 A. 5.

78. Where in an equity case oral evidence was heard, it will be presumed that it sustained the findings where it is not preserved. Meeks v. State [Ark.] 98 S. W. 378; Jones v. Mitchell [Ark.] 102 S. W. 710. Where defendants pleaded a material alteration of a chattel mortgage sought to be foreclosed and the court made no finding as to the alteration but decreed a foreclosure, it cannot be presumed on appeal that the allegation was established. Slyfield v. Willard [Wash.] 86 P. 392. If the statement of facts fails to show what was the holding in cases offered in evidence to prove the law of a foreign jurisdiction, it will be presumed that it was such as would support the action of the trial court. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Sloss [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 354. Where a cause is remanded with directions to award the custody of children to the mother and to make such provisions for their maintenance "as the court may deem necessary," a denial of an order requiring the father to pay the mother for their past and future support will not be held an abuse of discretion in the absence of a statement of facts or a bill of exceptions. Kane v. Miller [Wash.] 86 P. 568. Affidavits offered to show error in master's findings as unsupported by evidence cannot be considered where they do not show all the evidence. Allen's Adm'r's v. Allen's Adm'r's [Vt.] 64 A. 1110. What jury sees upon view in condemnation case is not evidence, and hence court is not precluded by such a view from reviewing evidence where it is all in record. Zanesville, etc., R. Co. v. Bolen [Ohio] 81 N. E. 681. Where, on appeal in a suit for specific performance of a contract to convey lands, the evidence is not in the record, it will be assumed that the proof was no more definite as to the description of the land than that contained in the petition. Freeburgh v. Lamoureux [Wyo.] 85 P. 1054. In Massachusetts findings in equity case conclusive in absence of evidence in record. First Baptist Soc. v. Dexter [Mass.] 79 N. E. 342. Where documentary evidence could not be considered because not properly made part of record, held that it would be presumed that evidence supported judgment, it being impossible to determine without documentary evidence whether assignment that it did not was well taken or not. Newnom v. Williamson [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 656. Where an appeal is sufficient to bring up errors of law alone, appellant cannot secure a review of the sufficiency of the evidence by assigning that the verdict is "against the law," thereby requiring the court to consider the evidence to ascertain the facts proven in order to pass on the assignment. Trull v. Modern Woodmen of America [Idaho] 85 P.

1081. Where the evidence is not preserved, an assignment that the court erred in approving the findings of fact and conclusions of law of the referee and dismissing the action can only be considered on the judgment roll, and the facts found are not reviewable. Howe v. Hobart [Okla.] 90 P. 431. Where the judgment entry recites that the case was heard upon the pleadings and stipulation of counsel, but the stipulation is not copied therein and there is no bill of exceptions and it does not appear that any motion for a new trial was filed, it will be presumed that the evidence sustained the findings of the trial court. Robinson v. Cross [Ark.] 101 S. W. 754. Though there is no evidence in the record to support a finding, yet if the recitals of the decree show that evidence was heard that is not preserved in the record it will be presumed that such evidence supports the finding. Dierks Lumber & Coal Co. v. Cunningham [Ark.] 99 S. W. 693. Where in an action to recover damages to a growing crop the record does not purport to contain all the evidence, it must be presumed that the evidence was of a character to enable the jury to assess the damages in the proper manner. Montgomery v. Somers [Or.] 90 P. 674.

Must show all the testimony. Schoen Plumbing Co. v. Empire Brew. Co. [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 1064; Tabler v. Yaple, 120 Ill. App. 69; Ritter Lumber Co. v. Lester-shire Lumber & Box Co. [C. C. 79. Though bill of exceptions does not show that instructions refused were separately asked, rulings on each are reviewable where each charge shows that it was separately considered and marked refused. Alabama Steel & Wire Co. v. Griffin [Ala.] 42 So. 1034. Refusal of given instructions cannot be considered on appeal if the record fails to show the action of the trial court upon such instructions or that they were submitted to that court. International, etc., R. Co. v. Kyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 272. If the record shows that a special charge bears no notation of the trial judge with his signature, as required by the Texas statute, Rev. St. 1895, art. 1320, an assignment of error complaining of the giving of such charge cannot be considered, although there is an annotation on the margin of the record to the effect that it was given. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Worcester [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 990. It will not be presumed that an instruction objected to by appellant on appeal or any similar thereto was given at appellant's request, but such fact must be affirmatively shown. First Nat. Bk. v. Carroll [Mont.] 88 P. 1012. Refusal to give special charges will not be considered on appeal where the record does not show that they were requested, and they are not signed by either appellants or their counsel. Selman v. Gulf, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1030. Error in modifying instructions not reviewable where modifications did not appear in abstract. Peterson v. St. Louis Transit Co., 199 Mo. 331, 97 S. W. 860. Appellate court would not assume that amended instruction was not taken out by jury when it retired. Cunningham v. Springer, 203 U. S. 647, 51 Law. Ed. 662. The refusal of the lower court to give an instruction asked cannot be considered where the record does not show what prayers were granted. Kecoughtan Lodge v. Steiner [Va.] 56 S. E. 569. Where documentary evidence could not be considered because not properly made part of record, and it could not be determined without it whether assignment that court erred in directing verdict was well taken or not, held that it would be presumed that there was no error in directing verdict. Newnom v. Williamson [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 656.

Necessity of showing instructions refused or excepted to. Stainback v. Henderson, 79 Ark. 176, 95 S. W. 786; Wallen v. Wallen [Va.] 57 S. E. 596; Coal Bluff Min. Co. v. Akers [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 545; O'Neal v. Parker [Ark.] 103 S. W. 165; Capital Fire Ins. Co. v. Montgomery [Ark.] 99 S. W. 687. Rule that charges or refusals to charge, which are made basis of assignment of error, must be set out in bill of exceptions does not prevent court from looking to entire record to ascertain whether prejudicial error was committed, and where the record on appeal by defendant shows that the general charge was given for appellant as to certain counts, the action of the trial court upon the pleadings relating to the charged out counts will not be reviewed, though such changes are not in the bill. Gambill v. Fuqua [Ala.] 42 So. 735.

Necessity of showing entire charge: Where not all instructions are in record, erroneous instructions will be presumed to have been corrected or withdrawn. People's State Bk. v. Ruxer [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 337; Shotts v. McKinney [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 219. Where instructions given and refused do not appear, it will be assumed that an instruction objected to, together with the others, properly presented the law of the case. Churchill v. More [Cal. App.] 88 P. 290. In Arkansas objections to instructions will not be considered if the instructions are not set out in appellant's abstract as required by the rules of practice. O'Neal v. Parker [Ark.] 103 S. W. 165. Where instructions were not abstracted, refusal to give a particular instruction was not reviewable though appellant asserted that no other instruction was given presenting the same theory. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Boyles, 78 Ark. 374, 95 S. W. 783. Instructions presumed correct or cured where certain evidence and other instructions were not abstracted. Dobbins v. Little Rock Ry. & Electric Co., 79 Ark. 85, 95 S. W. 794. Where bill of exceptions did not show that it contained all instructions given, but there was nothing in it tending to show that others were given, held that it could not be presumed that instructions erroneously stating that certain claims could not be considered was cured by other instructions. Bourland v. McKnight, 79 Ark. 427, 96 S. W. 179. Giving and refusal of charges requested in writing will not be considered unless charges are set out in bill of exceptions. Jones v. Adkins [Ala.] 44 So. 53.

Necessity of showing evidence: Instructions and refusals to instruct will be presumed to be sustained by the evidence where the evidence is not in the bill of exceptions. Simmons v. Hanne [Fla.] 42 So. 590; Jenkins v. St. Louis S. W. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 937; Decker v. Mann [Conn.] 66 A. 884; Wallace v. Skinner [Wyo.] 88 P. 221; Mayo v. Goldman [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 862, 97 S. W. 1061; Holland v. Williams, 126 Ga. 617, 55 S. E. 1023; Donovan-McCormick v. Sparr, 34 Mont. 237, 85 P. 1029; Baker County v. Huntington [Or.] 87 P. 1036; People's State Bk. v. Ruxer [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 337; Politowitz v. Citizens' Tel. Co. [Mo. App.] 99 S. W. 756; San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 457, 94 S. W. 214; Christy v. Campbell [Colo.] 87 P. 548; Oliver v. Grant [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1022; Clements v. Mutersbaugh, 27 App. D. C. 165; Roach v. Warren, Neely & Co. [Ala.] 44 So. 103; Jonesboro, etc., R. Co. v. Chicago Portrait Co. [Ark.] 99 S. W. 75; St. Louis S. W. R. Co. v. Hill [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 227; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Edwards [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1049; Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Breeding [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 800; Foreman v. Norfolk, Portsmouth & Newport News Co. [Va.] 56 S. E. 805; Hooker v. Forrester [Fla.] 43 So. 241; Roe v. Doe [Ala.] 43 So. 856; Sherrell v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 44 So. 153. The rule that in the absence of a bill of exceptions it will be presumed that instructions are based upon the evidence does not apply to instructions which are recalled before a verdict was reached. Hibner v. Westover [Neb.] 110 N. W. 732. Notwithstanding the absence of a statement of facts, an error in the charge will be reviewed if the pleadings show that such charge is necessarily erroneous.

Haight & Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 196.

80. Where the only error complained of is that the decree is not supported by the finding of facts, and there is no bill of exceptions bringing up the evidence, the judgment will be affirmed. Pitts v. Pitts [Mo.] 100 S. W. 1047. Though under the provisions of the Texas statute, Rev. St. 1895, art. 1333, the trial court has no authority to file his conclusions of fact and law without being requested to do so by one of the parties, yet in the absence of a showing in the record that he was not so requested, it will be presumed that such conclusions were filed by request. Riggins v. Trickey [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 918. Finding that property was transferred with interest to defraud creditors implies a finding that the property was not exempt from execution, in absence of finding showing such exemption. Starke v. Lamb [Ind.] 79 N. E. 895. Where no amendments were proposed to the finding and no objection made, they will be aided on appeal by all reasonable intendments. Schelske v. Orange Tp. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 988, 110 N. W. 506. A failure to find upon certain issues, where other findings fully support a judgment, is no ground for reversal unless it be shown by the statement of facts or bill of exceptions that evidence was submitted relative to such issues. People v. McCue [Cal.] 88 P. 899. Decree overruling exceptions to register's report will not be reversed unless record clearly shows that his conclusions are erroneous. Harper v. Raisin Fertilizer Co. [Ala.] 42 So. 550. Marking draft findings as "proven" is sufficient to enable appellate court to treat them as incorporated in the trial court's finding. Jackson v. Savage [Conn.] 64 A. 737. In construing an ambiguous finding subject to two reasonable constructions, that construction will be adopted which supports the judgment, and in construing it resort will be had to the evidence dealt with by the finding. Bautz v. Adams [Wis.] 111 N. W. 69. Where the court's finding is silent as to an allegation established by uncontradicted evidence an affirmative finding will be assumed on appeal. Allen v. Bryant [Cal. App.] 88 P. 294. Where the salary of a justice was dependent upon the population of his township as shown by a particular census, a finding of the court as to population will be presumed to be based upon such census in the absence of anything to the contrary. Guiberson v. Argabrite [Cal. App.] 87 P. 226. Where a contractor agrees to cut a certain quantity of timber for the landowner and under another contract was to cut timber for himself, in conversion it will be presumed that the timber cut was under the latter contract where the trial court made no finding in respect thereto, but rendered judgment for defendant. Rice v. Knostman [Wash.] 88 P. 194. If it was necessary for a trustee in bankruptcy to represent both contract and judgment creditors in a suit, it must be presumed in the Federal supreme court that the trial court found that he did where record of bankruptcy court was before it, though not returned to Federal supreme court. Frank v. Vollkommer, 205 U. S. 521, 51 Law. Ed. 911. Rule that in trial by court without jury, in absence of findings of fact, such findings will be imputed to trial court as, supported by evidence, will sustain judgment, held not to apply to case where court on exceptions struck out defense and refused to consider same, and it did not appear from record that judgment would have been same had it been considered. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 888, 97 S. W. 106. Where a statement and bill of exceptions cannot be considered, the only question reviewable is the sufficiency of the findings to support the judgment, though exceptions were taken to the findings as not covering all the issues, the exceptions being incorporated in the statement. Vreeland v. Eden [Mont.] 89 P. 735. Cannot assume that a judgment was based upon a finding of fact, where the trial court distinctly stated that no such finding was made. Steinfeld v. Zeckendorf [Ariz.] 86 P. 7. In the absence of specific findings to the contrary, it must be assumed that the court found those facts which are responsive to the issues and essential to the judgment rendered. Deaner v. O'Hara [Colo.] 85 P. 1123. Findings are to be construed to support a judgment rather than defeat it (Ripperdan v. Weldy, 149 Cal. 667, 87 P. 276), and when, from the facts found, other facts may be inferred which will support the judgment, such inference will be deemed to have been made by the trial court (Id.). A phase of the case which appears without any controversy in the record will be considered in support of the judgment though not specifically covered by the findings. Hoskins v. O'Brien [Wis.] 112 N. W. 466. Where findings on particular issues are not made by the trial court, they cannot be considered as made in favor of appellant though the evidence is sufficient to sustain them. Robinson v. Muir [Cal.] 90 P. 521.

81. Bill of exceptions did not show that instructions were such as to render findings on various counts contradictory. Luffkin v. Hitchcock [Mass.] 80 N. E. 456. Where under the issues framed there was but one question for the jury, in the absence of the charge, it will be presumed that but one was submitted. Kennedy v. Agricultural Ins. Co. [S. D.] 110 N. W. 116. On a motion for judgment as against a general verdict based on special findings, every issue raised by the pleadings and not eliminated by the instructions will be presumed to have been found for the party in whose favor the general verdict was returned, and it will be presumed that such findings are supported by sufficient evidence, but they will be given effect only in so far as they necessarily negative the findings which might otherwise be assumed in support of the general verdict. Conwell v. Tri-City R. Co. [Iowa] 112 N. W. 546. Presumed that jury were permitted to make all proper allowances of interest in arriving at a balance found due. Clements v. Mutersbaugh, 27 App. D. C. 165. Where no rule of damages was laid down by the court, it cannot be presumed that the jury adopted the correct rule. Barr v. Schefer, 103 N. Y. S. 733. It will be presumed that the jury followed the instructions. Abby v. Wood [Wash.] 86 P. 558; Frepons v. Grostein [Idaho] 87 P. 1004; in the absence of the evidence, a presumption will be indulged in favor of the materiality of a special interrogatory submitted. Wallace v. Skinner [Wyo.] 88 P. 221; Shafer v. McIntyre, 101 N. Y. S. 268.

82. Interest will be presumed to have been properly computed when the record does not show the number of partial payments, or whether any of them exceeded the amount then due on the principal. Northwestern Mortg. Trust Co. v. Ellis [S. D.] 108 N. W. 22. Transcript of record so incomplete that appellate court could not hold that the judgment below was contrary to the law and evidence, and without evidence to support it. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Jones, 127 Ga. 447, 56 S. E. 761. Where a valid general assignment is essential to sustain the judgment of the trial court, and the instrument of assignment was before the court but has not been brought into the record on appeal, it will be presumed that the court found that it was a valid assignment. Tapp, Leathers & Co. v. Harper [Ark.] 103 S. W. 161. Upon appeal from a refusal to vacate a judgment it was held that it would be presumed, the record not showing the contrary, that an order of revivor after the death of the defendant in the original action was made in time and by consent of parties, and after all the heirs of deceased defendant had come of age. Estep v. Estep, 30 Ky. L. R. 577, 99 S. W. 280. No presumption that facts sustain decree where facts are stated. Kidd v. New Hampshire Traction Co. [N. H.] 66 A. 127. Where at the close of the evidence both parties move for a directed verdict and the court dismisses the complaint, disputed issues of fact will be deemed on appeal to have been determined by the court by consent of the parties in favor of the defendant, no requests having been made to submit any questions. O'Dwyer v. Verdon, 100 N. Y. S. 538. Appeal from judgment rendered at time when law made no provision for holding general term dismissed where record indicated that it was made at special term, but did not show organization of court nor that special term was had in compliance with statute, and therefore failed to show such a judgment as was appealable. Tidmore v. Perritt [Ala.] 42 So. 818. Judgment will be taken as correct and legal if brought up without the evidence, and there is no reversible error on face of proceedings. Martel v. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate [La.] 42 So. 975. Where all parties agreed that sheriff was entitled to some compensation for services and left it to court to determine amount without introducing any evidence, held that it would be presumed that allowance was correct where no error was shown. Id. Where decision as to amount of compensation to which sheriff was entitled was, by agreement, rendered by court on his own knowledge, no evidence being introduced, and it did not appear that items of charges were allowed which were not before court, held that judgment would not be set aside. Jennings-Heywood Oil Syndicate v. Houssiere Latreille Oil Co. [La.] 42 So. 930. In action against stockholder of dissolved bank, where evidence as to defendant being a director, and hence a trustee in charge of liquidation, was conflicting, and there were no findings of fact or conclusions of law, held that it would be assumed in support of judgment that such issue was determined against defendant. Daugherty v. Poundstone, 120 Mo. App. 300, 96 S. W. 728. Where books upon which chancellor and commissioner based findings were not brought up on appeal, held that it would be presumed that they reached correct conclusion and judgment could not be disturbed. Combs v. Combs, 29 Ky. L. R. 919, 96 S. W. 589. Not presumed that court's judgment included an item of expense as to which there was no evidence, though its declaration of law seemed to so indicate. Fulbright v. Wabash R. Co., 118 Mo. App. 482, 94 S. W. 992. No presumption arises in support of a judgment shown by the record not to conform to the verdict notwithstanding absence of a statement of facts. Letot v. Peacock [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 345, 94 S. W. 1121. Presumed that a judgment was based on estoppel supported by evidence, though question was not submitted to jury. Parker v. Citizens' R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 718, 95 S. W. 38. Where evidence of different items of damages was objected to as not provable but admitted, it will not be presumed in support of a general judgment that such evidence was not considered, but a contrary presumption will be indulged. Callahan & Co. v. Chickasha Cotton Oil Co. [Okla.] 87 P. 331. Where in an action to restrain defendant from interfering with plaintiff's prescriptive easement, a judgment is rendered for plaintiff, it will be presumed in support of such judgment that a finding that plaintiff had used the pipe adversely for more than five years related to the time of commencement of the action. Collins v. Gray [Cal. App.] 86 P. 983. Thus, it not appearing in the record, it cannot be inferred that action was dismissed by justice "upon answer and proof by defendant that the title to real estate was in controversy," which fact would have precluded defendant's denying jurisdiction of superior court under North Carolina statute, Revisal 1905, § 1424. Brown v. Southerland, 142 N. C. 225, 55 S. E. 108.

Judgment for Costs: Rev. St. § 5141, relative to costs after offer to confess judgment, presumed to have been complied with by trial court before entering judgment for costs as provided by the statute. Fisher v. Quillen [Ohio] 81 N. E. 182. An order re-taxing costs which does not appear in the printed papers on appeal will not be considered. Ost v. Salmanowitz, 104 N. Y. S. 849.

83. Denial of motion for new trial sustained where court did not specifically find undue influence on jury. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Warren [C. C. A.] 149 F. 658. Where motion for a new trial was dismissed because certain material documentary evidence was omitted from the brief of the evidence, and on appeal the omitted evidence does not appear in the record or bill of exceptions, it cannot be determined that it was immaterial. Norred v. State, 127 Ga. 347, 56 S. E. 464. On appeal from judgment on verdict, overruling of motion for new trial is reviewable though record does not contain formal order overruling such motion. Southern R. Co. v. Nelson [Ala.] 41 So. 1006. The granting of a motion for a new trial on the ground of newly-discovered evidence will not be reviewed in the absence of a bill of exceptions containing both the evidence used at the trial and that alleged to have been newly-discovered. In re Winch's Estate [Neb.] 112 N. W. 293. Where the trial court was not bound to consider the sufficiency of the evidence to support the verdict because not properly specified in the statement of the case, it will be presumed that he did not consider it in passing on a motion for a new trial. Boettcher v. Thompson [S. D.] 110 N. W. 108. An order denying a new trial will not be reviewed where the record does not contain the lower court's reasons for overruling the motion. Moerman v. Clark-Rutka-Weaver Co., 145 Mich. 540, 13 Det. Leg. N. 648, 108 N. W. 988. Under Comp. Laws, § 10,504, where the record does not contain a statement of the reasons of the trial judge in denying a new trial as to certain grounds, the denial of the motion as to such grounds cannot be reviewed. Wilbur v. Michigan Cent. R. Co., 145 Mich. 344, 13 Det. Leg. N. 522, 108 N. W. 713. Where want of diligence is the only ground relied upon for the reversal of an order granting a new trial on the ground of newly-discovered evidence, it will be presumed that the evidence was pertinent and material. Woerdenhoff v. Muekel, 131 Iowa, 300, 108 N. W. 533. Where an order granting a new trial was entered on the first day of a new term, but the order recited that the motion was heard on an adjourned day of a preceding term, it will be presumed that the order was made prior to the adjournment of such preceding term. Cooper v. Granger, 129 Wis. 50, 108 N. W. 193. Where the record on appeal from an order granting a new trial does not show what was used on the motion, it will be presumed that the motion was based on a ground upon which affidavits could be used and that they were used. Thompson v. Wheeler [Cal. App.] 89 P. 1065. Where no reason for granting new trial was given and there was no error of law, and evidence was conflicting, held that it would be presumed that new trial was granted on ground that verdict was contrary to weight of evidence. Sharp v. Odom, 121 Mo. App. 565, 97 S. W. 225. Assignments that court erred in refusing to grant a new trial dismissed where no exceptions were taken and reasons for motion for new trial were not printed in paper book. Hentzler v. Weniger, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 164. On appeal from order sustaining motion for new trial and in arrest of judgment, held that court could not consider either motion where bill of exceptions did not specify whether exception was taken to sustaining of one, or other, or both motions, and did not give or call for any of the evidence, call for the motion for new trial, or refer to motion in arrest of judgment. Kupke v. United Rys. Co., 120 Mo. App. 452, 96 S. W. 1034. The granting of a new trial on the ground that the verdict is against law is equivalent to a holding that it was contrary to instructions, and therefore the order will not be reviewed in the absence of the instructions. Miller v. Griffith [Cal. App.] 88 P. 285. Where the facts upon which the trial court acted in setting aside a default are not brought up, the action will be presumed correct. Mitchell v. Danielson [Colo.] 89 P. 823. In the absence of a showing to the contrary, it will be assumed that a sufficient showing was made to authorize the court in setting aside a judgment under § 473, Code of Civ. Proc. Fox v. Townsend, 149 Cal. 659, 87 P. 82. Where a trial court passed upon a motion for a new trial, it will be presumed that it had a notice before it sufficient to justify it in so doing. Ettien v. Drum [Mont.] 88 P. 659. Where there is no bill of exceptions showing evidence was offered on a motion for new trial on the ground of newly-discovered evidence, it will be presumed that affidavits were offered authorizing the granting of the motion. Central Trust Co. v. Stoddard [Cal. App.] 88 P. 806.

84. Supreme court not justified in reversing decision of intermediate court setting aside trial court's findings of fact, though it did not appear how the facts were brought before it where its recital of what it considered and its conclusions therefrom were sufficient to sustain the judgment. Andrews v. Eastern Oregon Land Co., 203 U. S. 127, 51 Law. Ed. 119. Where record on appeal from judgment of circuit court on appeal from justice's court did not show any appeal from justice's court, nor any judgment there, nor any appeal to circuit court, held that supreme court was without jurisdiction and appeal would be dismissed. Rayborn v. Cothorn [Miss.] 43 So. 70. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1238, an order of reversal made by the appellate division which fails to state the grounds thereof is presumed not to be based on questions of fact. Such an order will be reversed by the court of appeals where there is evidence to sustain the findings upon which the trial court based its judgment. Butler v. Wright, 186 N. Y. 259, 78 N. E. 1002. Where upon appeal from the Texas court of civil appeals to the supreme court, based upon the fact that the judges had disagreed, it appears that the disagreement is about an abstract question of law, and the facts of the such approval, the objector being a party supreme court is without jurisdiction to review the question and cannot refer the case back to the court of civil appeals for a finding of facts under Laws 1905, p. 71, c. 51. Schneider v. Wetz [Tex.] 100 S. W. 135. In matters of practice a presumption in conformity with the regular practice in similar cases may be indulged in favor of the appellant. Objections by appellant to approval of receiver's report not presumed, upon the record recitals, to have been filed after such approval, the reasonable presumption in such case being that they were filed before such approval, the objection being a party and having received due notice. Standish v. Musgrove, 223 Ill. 590, 79 N. E. 161. Appellant's exceptions to master's report which were filed after expiration of twenty days, presumed to have been filed under special order of court. See Sup. Ct. rule 21. Nye v. Whittemore [Mass.] 79 N. E. 253. Where on appeal heard by single justice all exceptions are waived, and on a further appeal to full court no findings are filed and the evidence is not reported, the only question that can be considered is whether the single justice had jurisdiction. Codwise v. Livermore [Mass.] 80 N. E. 609. An appeal from a judgment dismissing an appeal from the justice court will be dismissed where the bill of exceptions does not contain the transcript from the justice, notice of appeal to the district court, motion to dismiss, or order dismissing the appeal. McKee v. Bielenberg [Mont.] 90 P. 757.

85. See 7 C. L. 189.

§ 10. Transmission of record to reviewing court. A. Form and contents of transcript or return.<sup>93</sup>—The transcript includes both the record proper and the secondary record, and generally all of such records should be included,<sup>94</sup> excluding extraneous and needless matter,<sup>95</sup> though in some states the parties indicate by prae-

N. Y. S. 942; Atkinson v. Maris [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 745; Broadstreet v. Hall [Ind.] 80 N. E. 145; Boettcher v. Thompson [S. D.] 110 N. W. 108; Thornburgh v. Beakley [Ark.] 102 S. W. 362; Eliot v. Kansas City, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 102 S. W. 532. The return is binding on the court on appeal. Gottlieb v. Kurlander, 101 N. Y. S. 751. As to time of denying a rehearing. In re McCall [C. C. A.] 145 F. 898. Recitals of evidence in certificate of evidence or bill of exceptions conclusive on reviewing court. Franklin Union v. People, 121 Ill. App. 647. Nunc pro tunc order purporting to have been made by the court could not be impeached by contention that it was made by judge in vacation. Waynesburg Borough's North Ward, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 525. Cannot be contradicted, varied, or explained, by outside evidence. Martin v. Todd, 121 Ill. App. 230. In absence of compliance with statutory requirements as to signing or establishment of bill of exceptions, its incorporation in the transcript does not make it a part of the record, and hence it may be shown by parol that it was signed after expiration of time fixed by statute, and that attempted extension of such time was invalid. Rainey v. Ridgway [Ala.] 43 So. 843. Presumptions in favor of the records of the trial court are of no avail as against the facts shown by the record itself. First Nat. Bk. v. Sutton Mercantile Co. [Neb.] 110 N. W. 306. Entries as to extension of time to file bill of exceptions. Roberts & Shaeffer Co. v. Jones [Ark.] 99 S. W. 66.

87. Hardie v. Blissell [Ark.] 94 S. W. 611; Main Inv. Co. v. Olsen [Wash.] 86 P. 657; Broadstreet v. Hall [Ind.] 80 N. E. 145; Atkinson v. Maris [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 745. Appeal having been allowed in open court, the presumption is that it was allowed by a judge duly authorized to hold such court and the record cannot be made to show otherwise by affidavits in the appellate court on motion to dismiss. Columbus Chain Co. v. Standard Chain Co. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 186.

88. Smith v. Gustin [Ind.] 81 N. E. 722; Kempner v. Patrick [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 51.

89. Where record affirmatively shows that the case was tried without taking testimony, it cannot be contradicted or enlarged by an ex parte certificate of the judge. In re Oilschlager's Estate [Or.] 89 P. 1049.

90. Certificate of clerk that cause was not set down for hearing held not evidence to contradict certified transcript showing that it was so set down. Haile v. Venable [Fla.] 44 So. 76. Where the transcript of the record does not show that the pleadings were amended such fact cannot be shown by a letter of the circuit clerk to the effect that the transcript from the circuit court of another county showed that amended pleadings were filed. Hastings Industrial Co. v. Baxter [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 1075.

91. If there is conflict between bill of exceptions and record proper as to matters properly a part of the latter, the record must control. Malott v. Central Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 369. Bill of exceptions controls as to what were grounds on which new trial was granted. Martin v. McLeod [Ala.] 42 So. 622. Transcript prevails over bill of exceptions as to whether amount of verdict as written included dollar mark. Broadstreet v. Hall [Ind.] 80 N. E. 145. In case of conflict between bill of exceptions and record proper as to terms of an order, the bill of exceptions prevails. Paepcke-Leicht Lumber Co. v. Becker, 124 Ill. App. 311. Recitals in a judgment that defendant has been duly served with process or that he has appeared and answered are not conclusive on the appellate court, and if upon inspection of the entire record it appears that the recitals were untrue and the court acquired no jurisdiction over defendant, the judgment will be declared void. Orchard v. National Exch. Bk., 121 Mo. App. 338, 98 S. W. 824. Recitals in the bill of exceptions control the stenographer's transcript. Woodmen of the World v. Jackson [Ark.] 97 S. W. 673.

92. Interlineation changing return day of appeal held conclusive, in absence of explanatory evidence, in computing time for filing transcript. Parker Co. v. Succession of Griffin, 117 La. 977, 42 So. 473.

93. See 7 C. L. 189.

94. Where a rule of the trial court provided that such rule should constitute a part of the record in every case, it is the duty of the clerk to include it without further direction. Seymour v. Southern R. Co. [Tenn.] 98 S. W. 174. The fact that an amended petition is lost from the record and not copied into the transcript is immaterial, if it could throw no light on the case. McClellan's Adm'r v. Troendle, 30 Ky. L. R. 611, 99 S. W. 329. Where case is disposed of on exception of no cause of action, all the transcript need contain is the petition, the exception, the judgment and the minutes of the court. State v. Reid [La.] 42 So. 662. Docket entries constitute the record until formally extended, and where the entire proceedings are thus set out the appellate court may consider any question of law thus disclosed. Shanahan v. Boston, etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 79 N. E. 751. Case presented by copy of docket entries presented by copy, supplemented by agreed statement, sanctioned by trial judge. Id.

95. Costs of matter in transcript not made basis of any assignment of error taxed against appellants. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 1087.

cipe what shall be included.<sup>96</sup> Transcript should be made up in strict accordance with the rules of the appellate court.<sup>97</sup> Copies, not the original files, should be sent up unless the statute requires originals.<sup>98</sup> Rules usually require the transcript to be indexed<sup>99</sup> and arranged in an orderly manner.<sup>1</sup> Defects and omissions may be curable by amendment,<sup>2</sup> or they may limit review,<sup>3</sup> or be ground for dismissal.<sup>4</sup>

(§ 10) B. Authentication and certification.<sup>5</sup>—The approval of the secondary record<sup>6</sup> and the sufficiency of the certificate to show that all matter essential to review is included<sup>7</sup> are elsewhere treated. The transcript must be authenticated by the clerk<sup>8</sup> of the court from which it comes,<sup>9</sup> showing its completeness and

A paper designated "affidavit on motion for a new trial and on appeal" will be stricken from the transcript where there is no appeal from an order denying a motion for new trial, an affidavit on appeal being unknown. Hart v. Spencer [Nev.] 89 P. 289. Transcript should not be incumbered with improper and unnecessary papers. Savage v. Parker [Fla.] 43 So. 507.

96. Filing of schedule with trial court within 90 days after granting appeal is necessary only where appellant brings up part of record, and hence appeal will not be dismissed because schedule is filed after such time where complete transcript is filed in due time, but schedule will in such case be disregarded. Grubbs v. Fish, 29 Ky. L. R. 1291, 97 S. W. 358. Praecipe designating entries called for by reference to pages in order book is sufficient under Acts 1903, p. 340, c. 193, § 7, requiring clerk to include all entries called for. Hages v. Shirk [Ind.] 78 N. E. 653. Where entries called for are designated only by reference to pages of order book, it will be presumed that an entry included in the transcript by the clerk was found on one of the pages designated. Id. Where paragraphs of a complaint are called for by number, and there are no amended paragraphs of such number, the paragraphs called for are properly included in transcript, though marked as amended paragraphs by the marginal notes. Id. Praecipe requesting complete record may be either oral or in writing. Price v. Huddleston [Ind.] 79 N. E. 496. Where transcript is sent up without praecipe, it will be presumed that there was an oral praecipe. Id. Under praecipe for full transcript, such transcript need not contain all pleadings and ruling, but need only show such matters as will fully present the error relied on. Id. Clerk has no discretion to omit from transcript anything directed by either party to be inserted, provided it be a paper or proceeding in the cause having a relation or leading up to the order or decree appealed from. Worley v. Dade County Security Co. [Fla.] 42 So. 527. Where appeal is granted in circuit court, and schedule filed within 90 days thereafter, no notice of filing is necessary. Civ. Code Prac. § 737. Carr v. Calvert's Admr [Ky.] 102 S. W. 282.

97. Is duty of appellant to see that transcript is properly prepared in accordance with rules of court, and to make errors complained of clearly appear. Savage v. Parker [Fla.] 43 So. 507; Worley v. Dade County Security Co. [Fla.] 42 So. 527. A transcript is not prepared as required by rule 90 for the Texas courts of civil appeals, where some of the pages are left partly blank, and one entirely so, and there are erasures on some, and parts of sheets written on are past on others over writing not distinguishable, and some of the sheets are cut and not of uniform size. Aspley v. Wheat [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1135. A transcript not prepared in strict conformity with the rules of the appellate court will not prevent review where no matter of substance has been disregarded and no prejudice to the adverse party done. Lyon v. Mauss [Utah] 87 P. 1014.

98. Under Acts 1903, p. 338, c. 202, the original bill of exceptions may be considered as part of the transcript. New York, etc., R. Co. v. Callahan [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 670.

99. In North Carolina an index must be placed in front of the record. Supreme Court Rule 19 (3). Davis v. Wall, 142 N. C. 450, 55 S. E. 350.

1. In North Carolina the exceptions must be numbered and grouped immediately after the end of the case on appeal. Revisal 1905, § 591; Supreme Court Rules (1902), 21 27. Davis v. Wall, 142 N. C. 450, 55 S. E. 350. A record which is so confused that it does not appear where the record proper ends and the bill of exceptions begins will not be considered. Clay v. Union Wholesale Pub. Co., 200 Mo. 665, 98 S. W. 575.

2. See post, § 10 D. That the transcript does not contain all the evidence is not ground for striking it, the proper procedure being for appellee to suggest a diminution of the record. Flickinger v. First Nat. Bk. [C. C. A.] 145 F. 162.

3. See ante, § 9 D.

4. See post, § 11 G.

5. See 7 C. L. 190.

6. See ante, § 9 C.

7. See ante, § 9 D.

8. Register of chancery court of Calhoun County held pro hac vice clerk, within Code 1896, § 4314, for purpose of certifying record on appeal in habeas corpus proceedings. State v. Fuller [Ala.] 41 So. 990. Deputy clerk of civil district court of a parish not authorized to certify as to facts of case tried in one of the divisions of such court, each division having its own stenographer and minute clerk who alone are cognizant of what takes place on trial in such division. Rosenthal v. Rosenthal, 117 La. 786, 42 So. 270.

9. A suit was brought in the Superior court of B. county, for a personal injury which occurred in the city of T., and after recovery and while motion for a new trial was pending, the county of T. was created and organized so as to include the city of T. within its boundaries; and suits pending in the original counties from which the territory was taken to create the new county, which would properly belong in such county, were by law provided to be transferred thereto. After the motion for verity.<sup>10</sup> Objection to the certification must be made before submission on the merits.<sup>11</sup>

a new trial had been overruled, a bill of exceptions was tendered, and the clerk of the superior court of the new county was directed to send up a transcript of the record to the supreme court. It was held that a motion to dismiss the writ of error on the ground that the bill of exceptions and transcript should have been transmitted by the clerk of the superior court of B. county was without merit. Atlantic & B. R. Co. v. Johnson, 127 Ga. 392, 56 S. E. 482.

10. Under the Arkansas statute (Kirby's Dig. §§ 1194, 1195), the clerk is not required to certify that the transcript contains all the evidence. His duty is merely to send up a duly authenticated transcript of the record. Dierk's Lumber & Coal Co. v. Cunningham [Ark.] 99 S. W. 693. Where the court can consider only a complaint and demurrer thereto a certificate of the clerk that the transcript contains true copies of those papers is sufficient. Kootenai County v. Hope Lumber Co. [Idaho] 89 P. 1054.

11. Objection to the certificate of the trial judge to the judgment roll cannot be raised except by a motion duly made prior to the submission of the argument on the merits of the appeal. McLain v. Nurnberg [N. D.] 112 N. W. 245.

12. See 7 C. L. 191.

13. Agreed statement cannot take place of transcript. McDevitt v. Bryant [Md.] 64 A. 931.

14. Barney v. Elkhart County Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 492. On appeal under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4225, from county commissioners to circuit court, it was appellant's duty to see that auditor filed transcript in proper time. Kelly v. Lawson [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 553. It is not necessary or proper to file transcript until after leave to appeal is granted, and the transcript filed after such time is the only one that will be considered. Atkinson v. Maris [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 745. Code Prac. § 738, requiring filing of transcript in office of clerk of court of appeals at least twenty days before the first day of second term of that court after granting of appeal applies to appeals granted by the clerk of the court of appeals as well as to other appeals. Rush v. Handley, 30 Ky. L. R. 170, 97 S. W. 726. Filing timely where within the twenty days though not within the two years allowed for appeal where appeal was allowed within the two years. Id. Under Acts 1900, p. 150, no. 92, appeals, except in parish of Orleans, are returnable to supreme court, whether in term time, or vacation, in not less than fifteen nor more than sixty days, exclusive of days of grace, after date of order of appeal, except by consent of parties. Brooks v. Smith [La.] 43 So. 399. Where extension of time has been granted to file transcript, and return day fixed, no days of grace are allowed. Id. Return day, or extension of return day, fixed for date within period of vacation cannot be extended by implication to first day of next term of supreme court. Id. Statute held to have repealed Acts Ex. Sess. 1870, p. 10, no. 45, in so far as appeals from country parishes are concerned. Id. Where transcript is not filed in time and time is not extended, appeal will be dismissed, though good reason for delay is shown, court having no power to extend time after time fixed by code has expired. Alford v. Guffy, 30 Ky. L. R. 54, 97 S. W. 369. The fact that appellant removed the case into the Federal courts after judgment was rendered against him in the state court and the same was not remanded until after the expiration of the time for serving and filing a transcript, does not excuse his failure to file. Finney v. American Bonding Co. [Idaho] 90 P. 859. By the express provisions of Rev. St. 1901, par. 1582, the record of a case must be filed in the supreme court within thirty days after the perfection of the record in the district court. Leatherwood v. Richardson [Ariz.] 89 P. 503. The phrase in court rule 2 (78 Pac. vii), providing that "when there is a proceeding pending for the settlement of a bill of exceptions" the period within which the transcript must be filed does not commence to run until, etc., related to any proceeding actually pending, regardless of whether the bill can be legally settled. Dernham v. Bagley [Cal.] 90 P. 543. Under par. 9, rule 27 (32 Pac. v), requiring a transcript to be served and filed in the supreme court within 60 days after the appeal is perfected, a transcript not filed for nearly two years is too late. Finney v. American Bonding Co. [Idaho] 90 P. 859. Since the statute does not fix the time for filing the transcript and papers in the county court on appeal from the police magistrate's court by the city they must be filed within a reasonable time. Hummel v. Ouray [Colo.] 88 P. 582. B. & C. Comp. § 553, requires the transcript to be filed within 30 days after the appeal is perfected, § 549 gives the adverse party 5 days after the service of the undertaking to object to the sureties, and § 531 provides that in computing such time the first day shall be excluded and the last included. Held that where the undertaking was served on August 24th a transcript filed on September 29th was timely. Boothe v. Scriber [Or.] 87 P. 887. When the records show that ample time has elapsed between the perfecting of an appeal and the opening of the term of the supreme court at which it must be heard within which to comply with the rules of the court relative to the filing of an abstract and brief and no attempt is made to excuse the delay, the appeal will be dismissed. Brink v. Whisler [S. D.] 110 N. W. 94.

15. An order extending the time for filing a transcript on appeal cannot be attacked on a motion to dismiss the appeal. Garel v. Page [Cal. App.] 88 P. 591. An application for extension of time for filing a transcript will ordinarily be granted where no delay in the hearing will result therefrom. Id. Where time is insufficient, appellant should apply for extension under code Prac. 883. Hayes v. Mayer, 117 La. 1067, 42 So. 505. Where on second day of term time is given to file an additional transcript, appellate court is without power after expiration of such period to further extend the time. McDonald v. Greenwood, 124 Ill. App. 163. Inability of clerk to make out transcript because some of proceedings were lost, held good reason for extending time for filing it. Alford v. Guffy, 30 Ky. L. R. 54, 97 S. W. 369. Where the delay for the return of an appeal has been extended, and the transcript is not filed in the supreme court until after the return day, the appeal will be dismissed. Succession of Theriot [La.] 43 So. 265. Where there is not sufficient time between the perfecting of an appeal and the time when an abstract and brief must be filed, in which to prepare, serve, and file same, appellant should obtain the consent of opposing counsel or an order of the supreme court for an extension. Brink v. Whisler [S. D.] 110 N. W. 94. Where appellant's attorneys made timely request of court stenographer for transcript of record, which the latter failed to furnish because of alleged excess of work on hand, a motion for extension of time to perfect appeal was granted, conditionally. Love v. Turner, 75 S. C. 547, 56 S. E. 232.

16. Appeal not effective until transcript is filed in appellate court. Wade v. Goza, 78 Ark. 7, 96 S. W. 388. Appeal held perfected on filing so far as limitations were concerned though no notice had been given. Niemitz v. State [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 357.

17. Where judge filled out order to stenographer for transcript to be delivered to appellant instead of fixing time for filing, case was one for application to Supreme Court for leave to file bill of exceptions. See Court and Practice Act 1905, §§ 71, 72, 473, 490. Baker v. Tyler [R. I.] 66 A. 65. Belief of appellant as to intentions of judge in retaining bill without signing it held not an accident, mistake, or unforeseen circumstance, excusing appellant from filing petition in appellate court for allowance of bill within thirty days. See Court & Practice Act 1905, § 473. Hartley v. Rhode Island Co. [R. I.] 66 A. 576. Where on appeal from district court to supreme court no point was taken by appellee on account of appellant's failure to bring up judgment record with state of case, appellant was allowed time to perfect the appeal by bringing up such record. Katzin v. Jenny [N. J. Law] 65 A. 192. Where delay was caused by omission of register and not due to any fault of appellant or his attorney. Koenig v. Ward [Md.] 65 A. 345. Where there is a default in the service of a case on appeal, or in the filing of the case as settled, an application to open the default should be made to the special term; but where the default consists in a failure to file or serve the printed copy of the papers upon which the appeal is to be heard as required by rule 41 of the general rules of practice, the default must be relieved against in the appellate division. Hanson v. Walsh 101 N. Y. S. 1061. Where the papers constituting the record proper have been misplaced without any laches on the part of appellant, the proper course is to file the case on appeal "settled," and ask for a certiorari for the record proper. Slocumb v. Philadelphia Const. Co., 142 N. C. 349, 55 S. E. 196.

18. See 7 C. L. 192.

19. Atkinson v. Maris [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 745. Where the record does not show the date of actual entry of the judgment, the trial court should on motion, even after an attempted appeal, correct it upon a showing as to the actual date upon which the entry was made. Hoffman-Bruner Granite Co. v. Stark [Iowa] 108 N. W. 329.

20. Discrepancy between verified application under Gen. St. 1902, § 801, to rectify an appeal, and the finding does not necessarily dispense with the necessity of a verified answer by appellee as required by the statute. Avery v. White [Conn.] 66 A. 517.

21. Appellate court could not correct a purported statement of facts so as to have it precede the signatures of the parties and judge instead of following them. Walker & Sons v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 585. Where the appellee raises a question in his argument which was not presented to the court below, an amendment of the abstract which will show the true record on the point thus made will be allowed. Biglow v. Ritter, 131 Iowa, 213, 108 N. W. 218. Where the record does not show that objections to jurisdiction because of defects in the summons had been sustained prior to a motion to amend, application should be made to the trial court to correct it. Barker Co. v. Central West Inv. Co. [Neb.] 105 N. W. 985.

22. Where parties in their briefs refer to essential documents which are not contained in the record, each being equally derelict, the record will be returned to the court below for amendment. Waldman v. Mann, 101 N. Y. S. 757. Where the notice of appeal recites that the appeal is from a judgment and the record does not contain the judgment, the case will be returned to the court below for such action as the parties deem proper. Shiel v. Miller, 101 N. Y. S. 789. Where it is impossible to tell from the record who were parties plaintiff and defendant, it will be returned to the court below for correction. Bruck v. Gilmartin, 101 N. Y. S. 527.

23. Where in response to rule trial court makes answer that record was returned complete, rule for mandamus requiring return of papers will be discharged and depositions in denial of the judge's return refused. Commonwealth v. Hutton, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 66. Where a case originally tried before a justice has reached the court of appeals from the circuit court, the court of appeals will not direct the circuit court to take evidence of an alleged alteration of the stipulation,<sup>25</sup> or by certiorari.<sup>26</sup> A supersedeas does not prevent an application to correct the record.<sup>27</sup> Unnecessary amendments will be stricken.<sup>28</sup> Superfluous matters in the record will be ignored or stricken.<sup>29</sup> The time within which amendments may be made is usually limited by rule and where there is laches the application will be denied.<sup>30</sup>

filing mark on the justice's transcript, and to send up another bill of exceptions with such evidence and the court's finding, where such issue had not been raised in the circuit court. McGuffin v. McQuary [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 3. On certiorari directing court below to correct and complete the record, that court may by nunc pro tunc entry make any change necessary to make the record conform to the facts and recite accurately what was done. Hays v. Wagner [C. C. A.] 150 F. 533. Where absence of seal from bill of exceptions has been corrected by amendment below and certified to appellate court, the defect is fully cured. Bunnell v. Rosenberg, 126 Ill. App. 196. That appellant presented a bill of exceptions showing that the regular judge presided at the trial did not estop him from having the record corrected so as to show that an attorney not elected special judge presided. Arkadelphia Lumber Co. v. Asman, 79 Ark. 284, 95 S. W. 134. Contention that appellant failed to prove allegation of his motion before it was overruled held untenable where court below overruled it on the ground of estoppel. Id. Where in an action on a foreign judgment it is urged on appeal that such judgment was not properly authenticated, such defect may be remedied by presenting a properly authenticated judgment. Milliken v. Dotson, 102 N. Y. S. 564. Where pending an appeal and supersedeas the return of service of process commencing a suit is amended in the lower court, such fact may be shown to the appellate court by supplemental record. Gauley Coal Land Ass'n v. Spies [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 903.

24. Where a judgment would be affirmed except for an erroneous record entry showing apparent error, it seems that it would be proper for trial court to amend its record. Mumma v. Easton & A. R. Co. [N. J. Err. & App.] 65 A. 208. Upon motion in the appellate court, appellant will be allowed to withdraw his bills of exceptions for the purpose of having orders made in the trial court filing them of record. Eubanks v. Com., 20 Ky. L. R. 606, 99 S. W. 232.

25. Stipulations for future corrections will ordinarily be sanctioned if availed of in due time. Cramer v. Springfield Trac. Co. [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 969. The bill of exceptions cannot, by agreement of counsel in the appellate court, be amended by the insertion of additional evidence, not certified to by the presiding judge. Board of Education of Glynn County v. Day [Ga.] 57 S. E. 259.

26. Ordinarily motions for certiorari to complete the record are granted without examination of the transcripts on file (McGowan v. Elroy, 28 App. D. C. 84); where the matter sought to be brought up would add immensely to the record, the court will look into the transcript to see if there is reasonable ground for granting the motion (Id.). Failure of the clerk to include in the record a rule of the trial court which provided that it should be included in the record of every case is such a defect as may be corrected by certiorari on suggestion of diminution. Seymour v. Southern R. Co. [Tenn.] 98 S. W. 174. The appellate court will not by certiorari direct the trial court to make changes in the case on appeal, where a letter from the trial judge states that in his opinion the statement is fair and correct in all the material parts. Slocumb v. Philadelphia Const. Co., 142 N. C. 349, 55 S. E. 196. Either party may have record corrected or supplied with necessary matter by writ of certiorari. Price v. Huddleston [Ind.] 79 N. E. 496.

27. Pickeren v. Northcutt [Ark.] 102 S. W. 708.

28. One will not be permitted to bring up unnecessary or immaterial matters, and accordingly, a motion to compel the bringing up of the evidence below, on appeal from dismissal of a bill of review, will be denied. McGowan v. Elroy, 28 App. D. C. 84.

29. Appeal records should not be encumbered with unnecessary recitals and such will be stricken. Howell v. Hess, 28 App. D. C. 167. On appeal from decision of commissioner of patents awarding a priority in interference, certain briefs, copies of patents, etc., held improperly included in transcript. Id.

30. Under the Missouri statute (Rev. St. 1899, § 813), and appellate court rule 15, an appellant cannot amend his abstract one day before the cause is set for trial in the appellate court, and cannot, after submission of the case, file amended abstracts without the permission of the court. Fleisher v. Hinde, 122 Mo. App. 218, 99 S. W. 25. Permission to file new bill of exceptions not grantable after argument on appeal. Pittsburg Gas & Coke Co. v. Goff-Kirby Coal Co. [C. C. A.] 151 F. 466. After mandate issued, motion to recall it and to file additional transcript too late. Smith v. Cosey, 26 App. D. C. 569. Leave to cure defects in abstract denied by appellate court where application was not made till shortly before hearing and oversight of counsel was the only excuse given. Redd v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 122 Mo. App. 93, 98 S. W. 89. Where appeal from county court was dismissed because suit was not within original jurisdiction of county court, and there was no appeal bond or transcript from justice's court showing that it was pending in county court on appeal, held that subsequent motion for rehearing and certiorari to bring up appeal bond and transcript from justice's court would be overruled where no excuse was made for failure to bring them up originally. St. Louis & S. F. R. Co. v. Pettigrew [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 986, 97 S. W. 338. A record will not be corrected so as to show service of citation on defendants in error, if, when upon motion to dismiss grounded in part upon failure to perfect service of citation, plaintiff in error did not move to correct the record. Aspley v. Alcott [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1133. Where a hearing on appeal has been continued to give appellant an opportunity to correct the record, and the time in which to make the correction has expired, the court must determine the case upon the record as it stands. Jones v. Mitchell [Ark.] 102 S. W. 710. A record omitting a part of the pleadings cannot be amended after the expiration of a year from rendition of judgment in the lower court. Vanhorn v. Vanhorn [Kan.] 88 P. 62. An appellant's motion to postpone hearing on appellee's motion to dismiss or affirm, in order to make a stipulation and a part of the testimony a part of the record, denied where no excuse was offered for failure to make the testimony a part of the record. Jones v. Starr, 26 App. D. C. 64.

§ 11. Practice and proceedings in appellate court before hearing. A. Joint and several appeals: consolidation, severance.<sup>31</sup>—Several orders or judgments may sometimes be brought up by the same appeal,<sup>32</sup> and several appeals may sometimes be consolidated.<sup>33</sup>

(§ 11) C. Amendment of parties.<sup>38</sup>—Amendment and substitution may be allowed in case of the death of a party.<sup>39</sup> So, too, necessary parties who have been omitted may be brought in by way of amendment.<sup>40</sup>

32. Two judgments signed same day, one making absolute rule to annul premature appointment of administrator, and other maintaining an opposition to his appointment. Succession of Weincke [La.] 42 So. 776.

33. Two cases, one brought up by writ of error and one by appeal consolidated, where they were in fact the same. Nixon v. Malone [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 715, 95 S. W. 577.

36. Patterson v. Patterson, 200 Mo. 335, 98 S. W. 613; Anderson v. Fry, 102 N. Y. S. 112; Matthews v. Fry [N. C.] 55 S. E. 787. Hence, on plaintiff's appeal from judgment wholly in defendant's favor, defendant cannot bring up bill of exceptions to review findings, since such judgment is not appealable by him. Patterson v. Patterson, 200 Mo. 335, 98 S. W. 613. One who succeeds in having a decree modified so as to uphold trust as to him alone may not on appeal, he himself not appealing, go beyond supporting the modified decree and opposing the assignments of error. Landram v. Jordan, 203 U. S. 56, 51 Law. Ed. 88. Error prejudicial to respondent cannot be corrected without a cross appeal, particularly where he did not call the attention of the trial court to it. In re Switzer [Mo.] 98 S. W. 461. Writ of error awarded defendant does not bring up action of trial court in sustaining demurrer to declaration. Jenkins v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 48. Judgment cannot be disturbed as between coappellees. Garner v. Freeman [La.] 42 So. 767. Where judgment is rendered in petitory action against two or more persons claiming interest in property, and appeals are taken by some of the parties cast and not by others, plaintiff and parties not appealing are coappellees, and as between them judgment cannot be reversed or amended upon an answer filed by either in the appellate courts. In re Interstate Land Co. [La.] 43 So. 173. Cross assignment raising question of jurisdiction of trial court over certain trustees, who were originally parties defendant, held not open to consideration where there was no controversy between them and appellant, and no appeal bond was filed by them or by appellee. Houston Ice & Brew. Co. v. Nicolini [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 663, 96 S. W. 84. Prior to statute of 1905, cross appeal in equity could be prosecuted by filing brief in due season assailing decree appealed from, and such brief will be deemed to have been filed in due season where appellant neither objects to service or filing thereof, nor moves to have it stricken from the record as having been filed out of time. Meade Plumbing, H. & L. Co. v. Irwin [Neb.] 111 N. W. 636; Hahn v. Bonacum [Neb.] 109 N. W. 368.

Court rule 9 [45 S. E. vi] as to practice in writ of error, makes whole case reviewable regardless of absence of cross appeal. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Bryant, 105 Va. 403, 54 S. E. 320.

Cross appeal brings up only questions decided in favor of appellant or any co-appellee against the appellee praying the cross appeal. Kirby's Dig. § 1225. Wade v. Goza, 78 Ark. 7, 96 S. W. 388.

37. Where a railroad company and construction company were sued jointly for injuries caused by fellow servant, and plaintiff did not appeal from a judgment for the railroad company, he could not on appeal by the construction company, urge that the two companies were practically identical and that hence the fellow-servant rule, as in cases against railroads, did not apply. Bradford Const. Co. v. Heflin [Miss.] 42 So. 174.

39. Where trustee, in action against him in his representative, dies after filing petition in error but before submission, his successor will be substituted instead of entering an order finally disposing of cause as of date prior to its submission and before his death. Field v. Leiter [Wyo.] 90 P. 378. Where intermediate appellate court affirmed judgment not knowing of death of an appellee, error could be corrected on further appeal. Wilhite v. Skelton [C. C. A.] 149 F. 67. Several reasons given. Id. Where deceased litigant had conveyed his interest and there was no counterclaim in the action, the grantee or successor should be substituted rather than the representative (Twaddle v. Winters [Nev.] 89 P. 289), but where there are several successors holding as tenants in common, they need not all be substituted (Id.). Where there is conflict between statute and supreme court rule as to substitution of parties, the former controls. Id. Held no conflict between Supreme Court Rule 9 (73 Pac. xiii), and Comp. Laws, § 3111, the two agreeing in allowing the substitution of the representative of a deceased litigant, but the statute going further and providing for substitution of a successor or transferee of interest. Id. Under Comp. Laws, § 3111, death of litigant and failure to substitute his representative does not oust supreme court of jurisdiction and render its decision void. Id.

(§ 11) E. Forming issues; pleading, assigning, and specifying error. 1. In general.<sup>45</sup>—The assignment of errors is appellant's pleading tendering an issue of law,<sup>46</sup> and generally must be filed in the appellate court.<sup>47</sup> In some states it is required that the assignment of errors must be filed simultaneously with the entry of the appeal,<sup>48</sup> or must be made on the transcript itself,<sup>49</sup> or in the appellant's proper book.<sup>50</sup> Assignments first made in the reply brief will not be considered.<sup>51</sup>

40. The right to amend a writ of error and citation by adding omitted plaintiffs depends upon whether the record shows enough to authorize the amendment under Rev. St. § 1005, and if it appears from the record that the omission was accidental, the amendment should be allowed. Thomas v. Green County [C. C. A.] 146 F. 969. Assignment held amendable by inserting names of administrators as parties appellee when it affirmatively appeared that the administrators had been appointed, were represented by counsel, and filed a brief on the merits, and the amendment would not affect the consequences of either an affirmation or a reversal. Pierse v. Bronnenberg's Estate [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 1045. Necessary parties appellant cannot be brought in by amendment of assignment of errors after expiration of time limit for appeal. Brown v. Brown [Ind.] 80 N. E. 535; Polk v. Johnson [Ind.] 79 N. E. 491. Selection of wrong party as appellee cannot be remedied by amendment bringing in proper party after expiration of time limit on the appeal. Hurst v. Hawkins [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 216.

41. See 7 C. L. 194.

42. Case not before appellate court for hearing until assigned on trial docket. Wait v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 60.

43. Clerk of supreme court must inspect all bills of exceptions and enter case therein upon docket for proper term, even though term to which case is returnable in certificate of the judge is erroneously stated therein, the action of clerk in the premises being, of course, always subject to review. Gray v. Gray, 127 Ga. 345, 56 S. E. 433.

44. Where on motion of appellee an appeal is submitted as of a date prior to that on which appellant's argument was filed, it is before the court without argument for appellant and cannot be considered. Miller v. Machinery Mut. Ins. Ass'n [Iowa] 109 N. W. 118.

45. See 7 C. L. 195.

46. The assignment of error in a strict common-law sense is, in effect, the complaint or declaration of the plaintiff in error, and resembles in every material respect the initial pleading in a court of original jurisdiction. Scott v. Great Western Coal & Coke Co., 223 Ill. 271, 79 N. E. 53.

47. Requirement of Equity Rule 92 that statement of errors be filed in trial court does not dispense with necessity of filing assignment in appellate court. Jones v. Weir [Pa.] 66 A. 550. Supreme Court Rule 26, requiring appellant to assign errors in writing, signed by himself or counsel, and serve a copy thereof on respondent and file the original with the clerk of the supreme court, is not complied with by appellant placing in his abstract what purports to be an assignment of errors. Lyon v. Mauss [Utah] 87 P. 1014.

48. Rev. Laws, c. 162, § 10. Codwise v. Livermore [Mass.] 80 N. E. 609.

49. Assigning of errors on separate sheets of paper and attaching same to page of transcript with paper fasteners held not compliance with rule, and such assignment cannot be considered. Hunter v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 43 So. 802.

50. Rule requiring appellant to print in his paper book a statement of the question involved is highly mandatory and if not complied with the appeal will be non-prosced. Rabinowitz v. Kenah, 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 334. Rule requiring a concise statement of question involved to be printed in appellant's paper book held mandatory and violated by printing a long statement. McMellen v. Williamson, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 263.

51. Unless good excuse is shown and leave of court is obtained. Isabella Gold Min. Co. v. Glenn [Colo.] 86 P. 349. This rule is not subject to waiver by appellee. Id. Fact that appellee in answer to point raised for first time in appellant's reply brief cited authorities on issue is not waiver of appellant's tardiness where appellee also objects to the consideration thereof. Id.

Admissions of evidence: Overruling motion to exclude witness' answer. Neviers Lumber Co. v. Fields [Ala.] 44 So. 81.

Instructions: Omissions in instructions. Shupack v. Gordon [Conn.] 64 A. 740. Refusal of instruction. Kirk v. Salt Lake City [Utah] 89 P. 458. Peremptory instructions. American Surety Co. v. San Antonio L. & T. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 387. Direction

rors may be reviewed though not assigned.<sup>53</sup> As a general rule, where a motion for a new trial is necessary to preserve errors at the trial, the denial of such motion must also be assigned.<sup>54</sup> Assignments must name all the parties,<sup>55</sup> and must be sufficiently identified with the party who files it, the cause and the court.<sup>56</sup> Failure to designate the special capacity of the appellants is not necessarily fatal,<sup>57</sup> but the right of the party to assign errors must appear.<sup>58</sup> Questions upon which the jurisdiction of the appellate court depends must be presented by the assignment of errors.<sup>59</sup> of verdict. Teakle v. San Pedro, etc., R. Co. [Utah] 90 P. 402.

Findings and judgment. Finding on which there is no assignment will not be disturbed. Bandy v. Cates [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 811, 97 S. W. 710; Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Bovard, 121 Ill. App. 49. Failure to assign as error that findings are contrary to or not supported by the evidence warrants court in refusing to search the record. My Laundry Co. v. Schmeling, 129 Wis. 597, 109 N. W. 540; objection that judgment for husband and wife for damages for injuries did not separately assess damages. Sperbeck v. Camden & S. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 64 A. 1012. Where appellant only complains of so much of a judgment granting divorce and allowing alimony as relates to alimony, the appellate court can only review the judgment in respect to the question of alimony. Patrick v. Patrick, 30 Ky. L. R. 1364, 101 S. W. 328.

Costs: Failure to tax costs against plaintiff on account of two defendants whose pleas of coverture were sustained and another who died and as to whom suit was abated. Prestwood v. McGowan [Ala.] 41 So. 779.

Conditional assignment: Request in brief to consider certain assignment if court should remand case held waiver of questions raised by such assignment where case was not remanded. Houston Ice & Brew. Co. v. Nicoline [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 663, 96 S. W. 84.

53. Where error is not fundamental and there is no assignment at all, appellate court has no discretion. Carrera v. Dibrell [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 587, 95 S. W. 628.

Held reviewable: Question as to whether action judgment in which was appealed from could have been maintained will be reviewed. Magoun v. Quigley, 115 App. Div. 226, 100 N. Y. S. 1037. Alleged error in declarations of law depending on construction of a written contract set out in bill of exceptions. Alexander v. Beekman Lumber Co., 78 Ark. 169, 95 S. W. 449. Fundamental error in including interest in judgment apparent. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 21, 97 S. W. 720. Rev. St. 1895, art. 1333, does not require a trial judge to file conclusions of law and fact unless requested, and when conclusions are voluntarily filed, no assignment of error on findings therein contained is necessary to an attack of the judgment for not being supported by the evidence. City of Houston v. Kapner [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 331, 95 S. W. 1103. Where note sued on showed on its face that it had been altered, and uncontradicted evidence showed that it was done without knowledge or consent of makers, and at instance and with connivance of payee, held that, under

Rev. St. 1895, art. 1014, error could be considered though not assigned. Adams v. Faircloth [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 16, 97 S. W. 507.

Held not reviewable. Behn, Meyer & Co. v. Campbell & Go. Taugo, 205 U. S. 403, 51 Law. Ed. 557. Though main issue was whether certain property was homestead, exclusion of evidence of its abandonment is not such fundamental error as will be reviewed in the absence of an assignment of error. Linn v. Waller [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 430.

55. Supreme Court Rule 6. Hoag v. Deter [Ind.] 78 N. E. 331. Personal representatives of deceased party below must be named. La Porte Land Co. v. Morrison [Ind.] 78 N. E. 321. One not party below need not be named. Carr v. Duhme [Ind.] 78 N. E. 322. Appellate court does not acquire jurisdiction to pass on merits unless all parties in whose favor judgment was rendered below or who will be affected thereby are named in assignment of errors. West v. Goodwin [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 734. Sufficient where only abbreviated names were "Ed." and "Fred." and all names were set out more fully than in judgment. Kline v. Hagey [Ind.] 81 N. E. 209.

56. Failure to designate court by which ruling was made is not fatal where record clearly shows ruling and court that made it. Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Kane [Ind.] 80 N. E. 841. An assignment of errors which does not bear the title of any court or cause nor the signature of any party or attorney and does not show by whom it was made is insufficient. Hawthorne v. Cartier Lumber Co., 121 Ill. App. 494. On appeal in case in which there was change of venue, an assignment of errors to rulings of court to which change was made as having been made by court from which case was transferred presented no questions for review. Indianapolis Traction & Terminal Co. v. Richey [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 609.

57. Where appeal was taken by probate judge and commissioners' court in their official capacity, the assignment was not fatally defective because it began "come the appellants," etc. Commissioners' Ct. v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 463.

58. Where writ of error is sued out by one not a party of record, his right thereto must affirmatively appear in his assignment of errors. Scott v. Great Western Coal & Coke Co., 223 Ill. 271, 79 N. E. 53.

Timon* [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 418. Argumentativeness in statement of objections on appeal will not render statement insufficient. Codwise v. Livermore [Mass.] 80 N. E. 609. Statement of abstract proposition, as that statute is unconstitutional under certain constitutional provisions, is insufficient when assigned independently and not as involved in decision of trial court brought up by record. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Collins [Ind.] 80 N. E. 415. Rule 11 of circuit court of appeals requiring assignments to point out the particular errors relied on applies in appeals in bankruptcy. Flickinger v. First Nat. Bank [C. C. A.] 145 F. 162.

Held sufficient: Sufficiently specific. Martin v. Craven, 126 Ga. 780, 55 S. E. 962.

Held insufficient: Statement of objections on appeal to supreme judicial court is in nature of assignment of errors and must disclose issue to be tried. See Rev. Laws, c. 162, § 10. Codwise v. Livermore [Mass.] 80 N. E. 609. Such statement will not, however be construed with same strictness as pleading at common law. 1d.

Assignments held not to comply with supreme court Rule 20, requiring that in case of error in law the proposition of law relied on must be stated, followed by the authorities relied on, and if the error is in the action of the court on demurrer or plea, a statement of the substance thereof. Fort v. Fort [Tenn.] 101 S. W. 423. Assignment to sustaining of demurrer to complaint is insufficient where defendants demurred separately. State v. Lung [Ind.] 80 N. E. 541. Objection to one of two paragraphs of complaint will not sustain assignment to overruling of demurrer to whole complaint. Excelsior Clay Works v. De Camp [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 981. Where demurrer was directed to whole complaint, an assignment to overruling of demurrer to single paragraph presents no question. Richardson v. Stephenson [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 256. On assignment based upon overruling of demurrer, plaintiff in error will be confined to grounds stated in demurrer and argued in appellate court, and no other grounds will be considered unless declaration wholly fails to state cause of action. Royal Phosphate Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 43 So. 916. Assignment predicated upon overruling of demurrer to a declaration need not designate or specify particular grounds of demurrer relied on, though plaintiff in error will be confined to grounds stated in demurrer and argued, unless declaration wholly fails to state cause of action. Atlantic Coast Line R. Co. v. Crosby [Fla.] 43 So. 318. Alleged defects in petition cannot be considered under an assignment of error that "the court erred in directing a verdict for plaintiffs for the recovery of the land." Irvin v. Porterfield, 126 Ga. 729, 55 S. E. 946. An assignment of error that neither under the pleadings nor the evidence is the plaintiff entitled to recover is sufficient not only to bring up for decision the question as to whether the evidence authorizes the recovery, but also whether the petition set forth a cause of action. Western & A. R. Co. v. Third Nat. Bank, 125 Ga. 489, 54 S. E. 621. Assignment that court erred in making rule for mandamus absolute, because the allegations of the answer raised certain issues of fact which should first have been submitted to jury, raises question whether any issue of fact was made by answer. Southern R. Co. v. Atlanta Stove Works [Ga.] 57 S. E. 429. Assignment that court erred in overruling each and all of plaintiff's special exceptions to defendant's answer and cross bill held too general to be considered. Delaney v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 519. Assignments of error in bill of exceptions, upon allowance of amendment of pleadings, will not be considered when such amendment is not set forth, either literally or in substance, nor attached as an exhibit, nor specified as material to a clear understanding of the errors complained of. Webb v. Hicks, 127 Ga. 170, 56 S. E. 307.

70. Assignment that court erred in its rulings on evidence held too general for consideration. Jones v. Adkins [Ala.] 44 So. 53. Assignment "that the court erred in admitting and rejecting evidence" held too general. Liberty Min. & Smelting Co. v. Geddes [Ariz.] 90 P. 332. Assignment must disclose the evidence either literally or in substance. Blackburn v. Woodward [Ga.] 57 S. E. 318; Lewis, Robinson & Co. v. Hutchinson, 127 Ga. 789, 56 S. E. 998. Assignments based on answers to points and admission of testimony not reviewable where points and testimony are not set out in assignments. Mathushek Piano Mfg. Co. v. Engberry, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 543. Assignment must quote full substance of evidence admitted or rejected with citation of record, where the evidence and ruling may be found. Bar Rule No. 20, subsec. 2. Nance v. Smyth [Tenn.] 99 S. W. 698.

Admission of evidence not considered when particular objection is not pointed out either in assignment of errors or brief. Parrish v. Mills [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 184. Assignment need not be considered where there is no reference to evidence objected to. Draughon v. Sterling [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 689. Under rule 31, reference must be made to proper book where the evidence may be found. Hallock v. Lebanon, 215 Pa. 1, 64 A. 362; Cameron v. Citizens' Traction Co. [Pa.] 65 A. 534. Where assignment and statement thereunder did not set forth evidence objected to, and there was no reference in either to bill of exceptions, held that rules were not complied with. Draughon v. Sterling [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 689. Assignment is defective which objects to admission of the evidence as whole, part of which was admissible, without pointing out the inadmissible portion. Lewis, Robinson & Co. v. Hutchinson, 127 Ga. 789, 56 S. E. 998. Reference to evidence as being contained in brief of evidence is insufficient. Id. Evidence must be set out in such manner that its admissibility can be decided without reference to other parts of record. Webb v. Hicks, 127 Ga. 170, 56 S. E. 307.

Exclusion of evidence will not be considered unless assignment designates wherein court erred. Hall v. Kary [Iowa] 110 N. W. 920. Attention of appellate court must be called to specific evidence against which the objection is urged. Tarpenning v. Knapp [Neb.] 112 N. W. 290. Assignment should contain copies of written evidence excluded. Hallock v. Lebanon, 215 Pa. 1, 64 A. 362. Assignment to rejection of inquiries on cross-examination is insufficient where it is impossible to determine, without searching through brief of evidence, whether excluded evidence would have been relevant and material. McFarland v. Darien & W. R. Co., 127 Ga. 97, 56 S. E. 74. If exception is made of exclusion of evidence on which tenant relies to prove violation of lease the assignment of error must present so much of the excluded evidence as will show that the landlord has violated his obligations under the contract to the tenant's damage. Smith v. Green [Ga.] 57 S. E. 98. Assignments of error, stating generally that court erred in the admission of evidence of certain witnesses who had not qualified, and not particularly specifying error in any ruling, and containing no reference to the folio numbers of the transcript or abstract, will not be considered. Roberson v. Wilmoth [Colo.] 90 P. 95. Where court sustained two separate and distinct motions to exclude evidence and one of them was properly sustained, reference to "— page" of the record was insufficient to identify the other motion. McCreary v. Jackson Lumber Co. [Ala.] 41 So. 822.

71. Specific ground of exception must be assigned. McLean v. Hattan, 127 Ga. 579, 56 S. E. 643. Mere general assignment that court erred in charging or in refusing to charge is not sufficiently specific where there were several prayers and instructions on different subjects. Decker v. Mann [Conn.] 66 A. 884. Where trial judge fails to subscribe his name to instruction given and refused as required by the Texas statute, Sayle's Ann. Civ. St. 1897, art. 1320, and in the record name of the instructions are numbered assignments of error in which the instructions rejected are numbered, but with no reference indicating which of the unnumbered instructions are referred to, cannot be considered. International & G. N. R. Co. v. Hall [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 740.

Assignments to instructions given must be specific, a broadside assignment "for errors in the charge" being insufficient. Davis v. Wall, 142 N. C. 450, 55 S. E. 350. Must des-

ignite wherein instructions were indefinite, uncertain, and inapplicable. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lighthouse [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1033. That instruction is erroneous is too general. Inland Steel Co. v. Smith [Ind.] 80 N. E. 538. General assignment to instruction abstractly correct is insufficient. Demmores v. Booker [Ga.] 57 S. E. 108. Where excerpts from charge complained of state sound propositions of law, and no specific error is pointed out, no ground of error is alleged. Brackett & Co. v. Americus Grocery Co., 127 Ga. 672, 56 S. E. 762. That court erred in directing verdict held too general. Liberty Min. & Smelting Co. v. Geddes [Ariz.] 90 P. 332. That court erred in refusing to give certain instructions held too general. Omensky v. Gieske, 125 Ill. App. 77. That the court failed to state in a plain and correct manner the evidence in the case and to declare and explain the law arising thereon is too general. Davis v. Keen [N. C.] 55 S. E. 339. Statement under assignment, reciting "the charge of the court contained the objectionable feature as shown in the assignment (see Tr. p. 92, at the top)," held insufficient, the charge not being included in assignment. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Stevens [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 977, 94 S. W. 395. Should challenge propriety or legal accuracy of some definite proposition contained therein, and if there be more than one erroneous proposition the safer way is to file an exception to each. Flannigan v. Strauss [Wis.] 111 N. W. 216. It is improper for appellant to try and convict lower court of error by merely extracting a portion of proper charge. Mapes v. Pittsburgh Provision Co., 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 453. That court erred in charging as indicated in certain paragraphs of findings, which paragraphs respectively contained charge on all matters deemed noticed by appellee stated in language of his prayers, and all matters deemed noticed by court stated in its language, was equivalent to assignment that charge as given was erroneous and was too general to be considered. Woodbury v. Wittstine [Conn.] 64 A. 221. Under subd. 4, rule 7, Sup. Ct. (71 Pac. viii), assignment giving instruction must state wherein the instruction is erroneous in its statement of the law applicable to the case or any particular fact or facts thereof. De Amado v. Friedman [Ariz.] 89 P. 588. That charge "does not correctly state the law applicable to the case," and that it is "indefinite and so much so as to be confusing" is too general. Gilmore v. Houston Elec. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 168. That court erred "in charging as stated in appellant's proposed findings of facts and as stated in the finding of the court" held too general. In re Anderson's Appeal [Conn.] 66 A. 7. Where alleged erroneous instructions are set out in separate paragraphs, but language complained of is not indicated by separate assignments, the court will not hold the entire assignment unavailing merely because a part of the charge is held correct. First Nat. Bank v. Miller [Or.] 87 P. 892. Assignment must quote portion objected to totidem verbis. Reading Co. v. Seip, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 330. Assignment complaining of a charge incorrectly quoted is fatally defective. Ferguson v. Morrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1091.

Assignments to refusal or failure to instruct: That court erred in refusing to give instructions numbered 1 to 13 inclusive. Empire State Cattle Co. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 457. Assignment to failure to instruct as to effect of evidence that defendant had disputed plaintiff's claim within six years held insufficient to raise point that payments on disputed claim within six years would not suspend limitations. Decker v. Mann [Conn.] 66 A. 884. Joint assignment to refusal of several instructions cannot be sustained if any of the instructions were properly refused. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Hayes [Ind.] 79 N. E. 443. Error assigned upon refusal to charge that plaintiff assumed risk of negligence of fellow-servant is sufficient to present application of fellow-servant rule. Hartnett v. Owosso Sugar Co. [Mich.] 111 N. W. 457. Assignments that court erred in refusing plaintiff's request for directed verdict and erred in granting defendant's similar request held to present single question whether court erred in directing verdict for defendant instead of for plaintiff where both invoked action of court. Empire State Cattle Co. v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 457.

72. Assignments to insufficiency of evidence must point out wherein it is insufficient. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Indianapolis & L. R. Co. [Ind.] 81 N. E. 65; Jackson v. Ellerson [N. D.] 108 N. W. 241. The test is whether the specification is sufficient to inform opposing counsel of the grounds of the alleged insufficiency to support the finding. Brown v. Bracking, 11 Idaho, 678, 83 P. 950. A specification alleging that the evidence was insufficient to support the decision and particularly finding No. 4, for the reason that there was no evidence to show that, etc., and particularly finding No. 5, for the reason that there was no evidence tending to prove, etc., held sufficient. Ahlers v. Barrett [Cal. App.] 87 P. 232. Under Rev. St. 1899, § 2727, providing that the Code of Civil Procedure shall be liberally construed to promote justice, the sufficiency of evidence to support a finding will be reviewed under an assignment challenging the sufficiency of the evidence to support the "judgment." Schiller v. Blyth & Fargo Co. [Wyo.] 83 P. 648. Assignment that evidence does not sustain judgment or verdict and is contrary to law of the case held insufficient. Liberty Min. & Smelting Co. v. Geddes [Ariz.] 90 P. 332. Where evidence supports verdict, allegations that verdict is contrary to law and is not sustained by law and evidence are too general. Livering's Ex'r v. Russell, 20 Ky. L. R. 1185, 100 S. W. 840. Assignment that there is "no" evidence to support the allegations of plaintiff's complaint which the court found to be true is not objectionable as failing to point out the respects in which the evidence is insufficient. Ahlers v. Barrett [Cal. App.] 87 P. 232. That verdict and judgment are not warranted by evidence held insufficient. Bills v. Stevens Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 868, 109 N. W. 1059.

73. Assignment of error in granting an injunction is insufficient if it does not set forth the decree itself. McConahy v. Western Allegheny R. Co., 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 215. Assignment of error in denial of temporary for new trials,<sup>77</sup> and an exception to the right of an auditor,<sup>78</sup> will be found in the notes.

The assignment should be accurate.<sup>79</sup> Distinct errors must not be grouped in one assignment.<sup>80</sup> injunction held not so imperfect as to require dismissal of bill of exceptions on motion Kirkland v. Atlantic & B. R. Co., 126 Ga. 246, 55 S. E. 23.

74. Where excessiveness of a verdict was presented as a ground for a new trial, and the overruling of the motion is properly assigned as error, the excessiveness of the verdict is presented for review. Williams v. Spokane Falls & N. Ry. [Wash.] 87 P. 491.

75. Assignment that court erred in holding that reply did not present such issues of fact as entitled plaintiff to trial thereon held insufficient to present claim that notwithstanding findings on issues of law there remained undetermined issues of fact presented by plaintiff's pleadings entitling him to a trial. Coughlin v. Knights of Columbus [Conn.] 64 A. 223. Assignment that decision is against law is sufficient to present failure of court to find on all material issues. Dillon Implement Co. v. Cleveland [Utah] 88 P. 670.

76. On appeal in action of trespass to try title, following assignment of error: "The court erred in overruling defendant's motion for a new trial because the judgment of the court is contrary to the law. Under the law the title of the defendant was good and superior to the plaintiff's title," held too general. Musick v. O'Brien [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 458. Assignment which merely states contents of judgment and follows same with statement that plaintiff in error comes "within less than thirty days from the said judgment and excepts to the same and assigns the same as error" does not comply with statutory requirement that alleged errors shall be plainly and distinctly pointed out. Jackson Banking Co. v. Maddox, 127 Ga. 96, 56 S. E. 119. To judgment passing upon questions both of law and fact, an assignment of error in this language, "and the defendant assigns error generally upon said judgment," fails to specify any error, and cannot be considered. Marshall v. English-American L. & T. Co., 127 Ga. 376, 56 S. E. 449. On appeal from judgment rendered by court without jury the following assignment of error: "To which ruling and judgment the defendants then and there excepted, and now except and assign the same as error," held too general to be considered. Smith v. Marshall, 127 Ga. 374, 56 S. E. 416. "Contrary to the law and the evidence" too general to authorize review of decree entered without findings of fact. Craig v. Dorr [C. C. A.] 145 F. 307. Assignment that court erred in rendering judgment in favor of the plaintiff and against defendant are insufficient. Bills v. Stevens Co. [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 868, 109 N. W. 1059.

77. That motion for new trial was not supported by evidence is too general. Inland Steel Co. v. Smith [Ind.] 80 N. E. 538. Assignment that court erred in denying new trial and refusing to set aside verdict held too general. Liberty Min. & Smelting Co. v. Geddes [Ariz.] 90 P. 322. Where a bill of exceptions merely recites that the presiding judge refused to approve the brief of the evidence and dismissed the motion for a new trial "to which said order the defendant excepted and now assigns the same as error," the objection cannot be raised that the movant was not allowed an opportunity to correct the brief. Norred v. State, 127 Ga. 347, 56 S. E. 464. Assignment that "court erred in rendering judgment denying plaintiff the right to enforce the performance of the contract sued on, and in sustaining the cross action of the defendant for a cancellation of said contract," is too general to require consideration. Fisher v. Dippel [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 448. Assignment that "the court erred in overruling defendant's motion for a new trial because the judgment of the court is contrary to the evidence. The plaintiffs failed to make out a case and failed to prove their title by a preponderance of the evidence" is too general to warrant consideration. Musick v. O'Brien [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 458. Proposition under assignment that where verdict is clearly excessive it is error to refuse to grant a new trial held not to present anything tangible for review. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Middleton [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 198, 94 S. W. 1097.

78. Assignment that court should have sustained each and all of appellant's exceptions to auditor's report and should have overruled each and all of the exceptions to such report filed by defendant in error held too general. Baxter & Co. v. Camp, 126 Ga. 354, 54 S. E. 1036.

79. An assignment of error to failure to give a special charge cannot be sustained if the record shows a material difference in such charge as embraced in it from the one which was really requested. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Worcester [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 990.

80. Reading Co. v. Seip, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 330. Court of civil appeals rules 24, 25, 26. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Powers [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 250; Henry v. Red Water Lumber Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 749; Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Powers [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 990. Assignment raising question of pleading and one of evidence held improper. Baldwin v. Polti [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 543. Where each of separate demurrers filed by two of three defendants sued as joint trespassers were sustained by a separate order of the court, wherein the case was dismissed as to the particular demurrant, the following assignment of error was held sufficient: "Each of which orders and judgment the plaintiff excepted to, and now excepts, and assigns the same as error." Burns v. Horkan, 126 Ga. 161, 54 S. E. 946. Under stenographer's act of 29th Leg. p. 220, § 7, which provides that "all objections to the admissibility of testimony, if any shown by the stenographer's report and ruling of the court thereon, shall be regarded * * * as though they were separate bills of exceptions," it is not permissible to base an assignment of error upon a question formed by consolidating

A joint assignment by several parties presents no question if the ruling was right as to any of them,<sup>81</sup> or if any of them failed to save the point below,<sup>82</sup> but where the assignments are joint and several, each appellant has the benefit of all of them.<sup>83</sup> A joint exception will not support a separate assignment, nor can a joint assignment be based upon several exceptions.<sup>84</sup>

Error must be assigned to a reviewable judgment.<sup>85</sup> In Indiana, matters which are grounds for a new trial cannot be assigned as independent errors.<sup>86</sup> In Georgia a direct bill of exceptions to rulings pendente lite must assign errors also to a final verdict or judgment.<sup>87</sup>

several others because there could be no ruling of the court below upon such fabricated question which could be regarded as a bill of exceptions. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Powers [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 250. Single assignment complaining of court's refusal to give certain special instructions, involving separate rulings relating to different questions cannot be considered. Texas-Mexican R. Co. v. Lewis [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 577. Single assignment to court's refusal to give charge presenting all issues involved cannot be considered. Morrow v. Camp [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 819. Where contrary to rule a single assignment set out different parts of the court's charge, it could not after being held bad as to one be sustained as to another. Acme Food Co. v. Meier [C. C. A.] 153 F. 74. Assignment setting forth two distinct orders held bad. McConahy v. Western Allegheny R. Co., 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 215. Assignment that court erred in dismissing exceptions to auditor's report violates rule 14 where there are several exceptions. Graybill v. Deitrich, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 482.

Inadvertent mistake in name of witness in an assignment alleging error in permitting certain questions to be put to him will not preclude consideration of the assignment. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Still [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 176.

81. Greenberg v. People, 125 Ill. App. 626. Where defendant against whom judgment was rendered and a codefendant against whom no judgment was rendered joined in assignment to striking out paragraph of answer. Denkewalter v. Wilson [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 1049. But upon a joint appeal from a joint judgment, all appellants may by joint assignment take advantage of any error committed against any one of the defendants. Greenberg v. People, 125 Ill. App. 626.

82. Davy v. Brown [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 335.

83. A joint assignment by several appellants will be construed as several where proper words of severance are used, such as that "each of them swearing from the other separately and severally says." etc. Southern Ind. R. Co. v. Indianapolis & L. R. Co. [Ind.] 81 N. E. 65.

84. Separate exceptions must be presented by separate assignments. Davy v. Brown [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 335; Whitesell v. Strickler [Ind.] 78 N. E. 845. Assignment that court erred in sustaining plaintiff's first and second special exceptions held too general, the exceptions presenting entirely different questions of law. Southern Kan. R. Co. v. Cox [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1124.

85. Entry of nonsuit not assignable as error, but assignment may be made to refusal to take off compulsory nonsuit. Hallock v. Lebanon, 215 Pa. 1, 64 A. 362.

86. Objection that judgment is not supported by evidence and is against weight of same cannot be made subject of independent assignment of error. Walters v. Walters [Ind.] 79 N. E. 1037.

87. Montgomery v. Reynolds, 124 Ga. 1053, 53 S. E. 512; Hendricks v. Reid, 125 Ga. 775, 54 S. E. 747. Under Laws 1898, p. 92, an assignment to a ruling which controlled the verdict, as where verdict was directed, is sufficient. Scarborough v. Holder, 127 Ga. 256, 56 S. E. 293.

88. See 7 C. L. 201.

89. Three days allowed for filing answer to appeal are computed from day for which case has been reassigned when first assignment has been set aside by consent. Williams' Heirs v. Zengel, 117 La. 599, 42 So. 153. Under Code Proc. art. 890, answer to appeal cannot be considered unless it is filed three days before that fixed for argument. Relly v. Johnston [La.] 43 So. 977.

90. See Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 368. Kline v. Hagey [Ind.] 81 N. E. 209.

91. Otherwise it is demurrable. Kelly v. Jacobs, 123 Ill. App. 251.

92. Whether by formal release, acceptance of benefits of judgment or decree, or statute of limitations. Kelly v. Jacobs, 123 Ill. App. 251.

93. See 7 C. L. 202.

94. Where assignments of errors do not comply with Tennessee Supreme Court Rule 20, brief submitted in their support cannot cure defect if not filed within time required by rule. Port v. Fort [Tenn.] 101 S. W. 433.

95. Must be timely filed. Egressy v. Stansbury, 149 Cal. 392, 87 P. 280; Sackett v. Price County [Wis.] 110 N. W. 821. Supplemental Statutes and rules of court prescribing the form and contents of the brief must be complied with,<sup>98</sup> but substantial compliance only is required,<sup>99</sup> and the court generally has discretionary power to consider matters not properly presented.<sup>1</sup> Among the common requirements is a summary of so much of the record as presents the errors relied on,<sup>2</sup> with reference to the record for verification,<sup>3</sup> and a separate assignment or statement of the contentions or alleged errors.<sup>4</sup> Assignments not ar-brief filed out of time will be stricken where no excuse is given for not including the matter therein in the original brief. Groesbeck Cotton Oil Gin & Compress Co. v. Oliver [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 241, 97 S. W. 1092. Where the time for filing points and authorities has expired, holidays coming thereafter have no effect upon his right to file. Egressy v. Stansbury, 149 Cal. 392, 87 P. 280.

96. Failure to serve and file the brief strictly on time held not to defeat an appeal where no substantial prejudice is done. Lyon v. Mauss [Utah] 87 P. 1014. Notwithstanding Rev. St. 1899, § 3286, giving to the supreme court rules the force of statutes, and rule 20, providing that for good cause shown before the expiration of the time for filing briefs the time may be extended, the court may extend the time after expiration of the period allowed where justice requires it. Phillips v. Brill [Wyo.] 90 P. 443.

97. Illness of counsel held good cause. Whiting v. Straup [Wyo.] 90 P. 445; Phillips v. Brill [Wyo.] 90 P. 443. Pressure of business and absence of counsel held not to excuse delay. Delmoe v. Bailey [Mont.] 88 P. 662.

98. Under rule 8, subd. 5 (40 Pac. x), appellant is not required to print all the findings made by the lower court, but only those on which questions are raised. Parish v. Collins [Wash.] 86 P. 557. Where a transcript was not printed and appellant's brief did not refer to the pleadings or state the issues made thereby or how they were raised, as required by Sup. Ct. Rule 10, par. 3, subd. a (82 Pac. x), the appeal will be dismissed. Alexander v. Great Northern R. Co., 34 Mont. 432, 87 P. 447.

99. Howard v. Adkins [Ind.] 78 N. E. 665; Hart v. Scott [Ind.] 81 N. E. 481. Failure of brief to state that bill of exceptions containing evidence has been filed does not preclude consideration of questions concerning evidence, where briefs of both parties are largely taken up with matters concerning the evidence. Hart v. Scott [Ind.] 81 N. E. 481.

1. Thistle Coal Co. v. Rex Coal & Min. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1094; Schultz v. Ford Bros. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 614. Omissions in appellant's brief of matter required by Supreme Court Rule 22 [55 N. E. v] may be supplied by appellee's brief. Adams v. Betz [Ind.] 73 N. E. 649; Wood v. Hall [Iowa] 110 N. W. 270.

2. Talbot v. New Castle [Ind.] 81 N. E. 724. Supreme Court Rule 22, subd. 5. Hayes v. Shirk [Ind.] 78 N. E. 653.

Rulings on pleadings: Only so much of pleading as is necessary to present ruling complained of is required by Supreme Court Rule 22, subd. 5. Hayes v. Shirk [Ind.] 78 N. E. 653. Statement that appellant demurred to complaint for want of facts to constitute cause of action, with reference to page and line of transcript, held sufficient statement of substance of demurrer. Kintz

v. Johnson [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 533. In support of assignment of error to overruling of motion to make complaint more specific, the objections to the complaint must be specifically pointed out. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co. v. Ross [Ind.] 80 N. E. 845. Defects in statement of pleadings will be disregarded where appellant has made a bona fide attempt to comply with the rule, and the parts claimed to show the insufficiency of the pleading are stated. Huber Mfg. Co. v. Wagner [Ind.] 78 N. E. 329.

Evidence: Evidence and grounds for new trial must be set out. City of Richmond v. Lincoln [Ind.] 79 N. E. 445. A rule of the supreme court requiring the argument to contain a condensed recital of the evidence, where the insufficiency of the evidence to sustain the verdict is assigned as error, contemplates merely a concise statement of the substance of the testimony and does not require the evidence to be set out in detail, but it must show wherein the testimony fails to establish the essential facts. In re Wiltsey's Will [Iowa] 109 N. W. 776; Vial v. Larson [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1007. Statement of evidence held insufficient to authorize review of amount of assessment of damages from sewer construction. Talbot v. New Castle [Ind.] 81 N. E. 724.

Instructions: Where appellant's instructions are not set out in his brief, court will not search record to determine whether they are in conflict with appellee's instructions. Indianapolis Trac. & T. Co. v. Kidd [Ind.] 79 N. E. 347. Exception to charge not considered where brief does not point out portion of charge to which the exception is directed. In re Murray's Will, 141 N. C. 588, 54 S. E. 435. Where defendant in error makes no appearance, it cannot be assumed that the statement of the case in plaintiff in error's brief is correct, unless the same is founded on the printed abstract. Kinsel v. Wieland [Colo.] 88 P. 153.

W. 258; Zeigler v. Creditors, 116 La. 250, 40 So. 693; Smith v. Hampshire [Cal. App.] 87 P. 224. Page and line of record where objectionable evidence may be found. Providence Washington Ins. Co. v. Wolf [Ind.] 80 N. E. 26; Inland Steel Co. v. Smith [Ind.] 80 N. E. 338; Blumenthal v. Stancliff, 104 N. Y. S. 262.

4. Substantial compliance sufficient. First Nat. Bank v. Miller [Or.] 87 P. 892. Alleged inconsistent instructions not considered where brief did not point out wherein they were in conflict. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Horne [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 124, 95 S. W. 97. Supreme Court Rule 22 does not require abandoned points to be set out in brief. Pomeroy v. Wimer [Ind.] 79 N. E. 446. No precise order or form of setting out objections and points is required by Supreme Court Rule 22, and substantial compliance therewith is sufficient. Id. Where a brief merely states that appellant relies upon a large number of exceptions referred to by number only, such exceptions cannot be considered. Snipes v. Norfolk & So. R. Co. [N. C.] 56 S. E. 477. Failed to specify error in overruling his demurrer on ground of misjoinder. O'Brien v. Quinn [Mont.] 90 P. 166. Sufficiency of the pleadings. Delmoe v. Long [Mont.] 88 P. 778. One desiring to question a judgment must present in his brief the particular matters complained of. Herman v. Dunman [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 372, 95 S. W. 80. Brief and argument must point out wherein instruction was erroneous. Wickes v. Walden [Ill.] 81 N. E. 798; Duerler Mfg. Co. v. Eichhorn [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 715. Must point out wherein error in admitting testimony lies. Cushman v. Davis [Vt.] 64 A. 456.

Assignment, Statement, and Proposition Under the Texas Rule. Assignments: Assignments of error not copied in the brief will be deemed waived. Texas Courts of Civil Appeals Rule 29. Scanlon v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 982; Poland v. Porter [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 214; Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Barnes [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 524, 95 S. W. 714; Koch v. Missouri Valley Bridge & Iron Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 136. And this although it be stated that they are not waived. Martin v. German-American Nat. Bk. [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 131. The numbers of the assignments as given in the record should be presented consecutively. Kirby Lumber Co. v. Chambers [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 913, 95 S. W. 607; Martin v. German-American Nat. Bk. [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 131; Eckert v. McDermott [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 572; Moore v. Woodson [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 116; Faison v. Meyenberg [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 1066. By the word "copied" used in this rule it is not meant that reconstructed or amended assignments shall be placed in the brief, but that the assignments contained in the record shall be printed in the brief. Martin v. German-American Nat. Bk. [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 131. Grouped and general assignments will not be considered unless the propositions under them serve to separate and make specific the errors urged. Jones v. Western Union Tel. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 808; Haight & Co. v. Turner [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 196; Frontroy v. Atkinson [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1023; Cantelou v. Trinity & B. V. R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1017; Young v. Pecos County [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1055; Reeves v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 498, 98 S. W. 929. Questions reviewed though all assignments were grouped together, particularly where it appeared that vital error had been committed. Pinkston v. Boyd [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 759, 97 S. W. 103.

Statements: In Texas the law authorizing the sending up of the stenographer's transcript has not changed the rule requiring condensed statements from the record to follow each proposition in the brief. United Oil & Refining Co. v. Grey [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 934. Rule 31 for the Texas courts of civil appeals requires that there shall be subjoined to each proposition a brief statement of such proceedings contained in the record as will be necessary and sufficient to explain and support the proposition. Scan-

Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 746. Where the only statement under certain assignments of error is a reference to the statement under another assignment, which embraces forty-four pages of printed matter and practically covers all the testimony given on the trial, such assignments will not be considered. Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Caldwell [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 461. Must show that appellant reserved a bill of exceptions to the action of the court complained of by the assignment. Holmes v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 816. Brief must on its face disclose reasons for reversal, and hence statement must show respects in which rulings were harmful. Pipkin v. Hayward Lumber Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 760, 96 S. W. 635. Limiting abandoned pleadings offered as evidence to single purpose not ground for reversal where appellant's brief does not show that they were admissible for any other purpose. Southern Kansas R. Co. v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 433. Statement subjoined to proposition following an assignment of error, complaining of the overruling of a special exception to a supplemental petition, held not full enough to require the appellate court to consider the assignment. City of San Antonio v. Routledge [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 756. Assignment to a charge cannot be considered if such charge is not contained in the statement. Holmes v. Adams [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 816. Statement under assignment on refusal of instructions must state that such instruction was requested and refused. American Surety Co. v. Lyons [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 947, 97 S. W. 1080; Gilmore v. Houston Elec. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 168. Statement under assignment on refusal of instructions must contain the instructions or refer to the page of the record where they may be found. American Surety Co. v. Lyons [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 947, 97 S. W. 1080. Where no evidence is stated in the brief, under an assignment of error to the refusal of an instruction showing its applicability, the assignment will be overruled. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Furber [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1041; International, etc., R. Co. v. Stewart [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 282; El Paso, etc., R. Co. v. Foth [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 171; Ferguson v. Morrison [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1091. Where an assignment of error is directed against a part of the court's charge, the proposition should be followed by a statement of so much of the pleadings and evidence as is necessary to show what issues were. Scanlon v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 982. Assignment on admission of evidence must show the evidence and refer to the record. Kirby Lumber Co. v. Chambers [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 913, 95 S. W. 607. Must show whether the evidence objected to was favorable or unfavorable to appellant. Schneider v. Rabb [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 163. Must state that bill of exceptions was reserved to its admission and state its substance and site to the transcript or stenographer's report where it can be found. Morgan v. Barber [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 730. Must point out part of record where offer of such evidence was made, and where bills of exception were reserved. El Paso Elec. R. Co. v. Telles [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 444. Alleged error in excluding answers of witnesses to questions will not be considered where the brief fails to show what would have been the answers to such questions. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Birk [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 753. Where appellant's brief does not state what testimony has been introduced in regard to matters embraced in a hypothetical question calling for witness' opinion, on objection that no predicate was laid for the question will be considered. Duerler Mfg. Co. v. Eichhorn [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 715. Must show what objection was made when the testimony was offered. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Matlock [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1052.

Propositions: Particular point or points sought to be made by an assignment must be stated in form of propositions followed by an appropriate statement. Rules 29, 30, 31 (67 S. W. xvi). McAllen v. Raphael [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 760; City of San Antonio v. Routledge [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 756; Kirby Lumber Co. v. Chambers [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 913, 95 S. W. 607; International Harvester Co. v. Campbell [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 653, 96 S. W. 93. An assignment of error in the brief that is not a proposition of law in itself and is not followed by any proposition cannot be considered. Storms v. Mundy [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 258; Scanlon v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 982. Assignments relating to special exceptions to different pleadings held not open to consideration where there was no statement giving nature of any particular exception that was ruled on, nor its application to the pleading demurred to, but only reference was to pleadings generally. McAllen v. Raphael [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 760. Proposition that plaintiff's motion for change of venue should have been granted held not appropriate to assignment that court erred in not granting change of venue. Id. Assignment held not open to consideration where subjoined proposition dealt with more than one subject. Id. Where the only proposition advanced under an assignment of error is the enunciation of a law relating to affidavits, and neither the assignment nor proposition asserts the infraction of such law, its infraction cannot be considered. Young v. Pecos County [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1055. Where an assignment of error in the brief is not a copy of any assignment in the record, and the propositions presented thereunder are not appropriate to and do not arise under such assignment, neither the assignment nor the propositions can be considered. Kruegel v. Bolanz [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 435. Where the bill of exceptions shows that a question to a witness was objected to on two grounds, but the proposition under the assignment of error attacks the court's action in sustaining the question only on one ground, the other ground cannot be considered. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Hardison [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 541. Where a single assignment of error attempts to collect every point upon which the appeal is based, and is placed before the court as a proposition and reference made to statements under five other assignments, it is multifarious and will not be considered. Russell v. Deutschman [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1164. A proposition which alleges that a special instruction was argumentative, contradictory, misleading, and on the weight of the evidence, is not proper under the rules for the Texas courts of civil appeals. Reeves v. Galveston, etc., R. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 498, 98 S. W. 929. A proposition under an assignment of error which is not germane to the assignment will not be considered. Texas & N. O. R. Co. v. Conway [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 898, 98 S. W. 1070. Where in the only assignment of error complaining of the charge to the jury the entire charge is alleged to be erroneous, and there is no accompanying proposition stating the particular instruction complained of, the assignment will not be considered. Ross v. Moskowitz [Tex.] 100 S. W. 768.

Insufficient argument: Where only argument is curt statement that certain rulings were erroneous and prejudicial, court need not consider the point. Kevane v. Miller [Cal. App.] 88 P. 643. Statement by counsel that "many other charges requested by defendant and refused by the court announce correct propositions of law" is not such argument as to require their consideration. Birmingham R. Light & Power Co. v. Martin [Ala.] 42 So. 618. Statement by counsel that "an examination of a large number of charges refused to the defendant will lead to the conclusion that many of these charges were erroneously refused" is not sufficient argument. Id. Mere repetition of assignment is not argument. Harper v. Raisin Fertilizer Co. [Ala.] 42 So. 550; Rhodes & Son Co. v. Charleston [Ala.] 41 So. 746. The mere enumeration of exceptions in regard to which no grounds are stated, no propositions of law argued, and no principles of law discussed, is not sufficient. Roedler v.

Chicago, etc., R. Co., 129 Wis. 270, 109 N. W. 88. Where appellant's counsel on one argument states that a point in his brief is not insisted on, such point will not be considered. Griesbach v. People, 226 Ill. 65, 80 N. E. 734. Statement in brief that all other points have been eliminated constitutes a waiver of such points. Merritt v. Crane Co., 225 Ill. 181, 80 N. E. 103. Where, on motion to dismiss an appeal, counsel requested a supersedeas in case of dismissal, but assigned no reason therefor in his brief, the application will be denied. Walton v. Canon City [Colo.] 88 P. 860.

6. Excessiveness of recovery. Williams v. Spokane Falls & N. R. Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 491.

7. Where the nature of the case is such as to require it, the court may take a broader view of the subject involved than is presented by the briefs or argument of counsel even to the extent of considering questions involved in pending litigation when closely connected with the subject of decision. State v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Wis.] 108 N. W. 594. The appellate court is not bound by the reasons urged by counsel in reaching the right result. Fagan v. Hook [Iowa] 111 N. W. 981.

App.] 90 P. 713.

10. Sheker v. Machovec [Iowa] 110 N. W. 1055.

11. Where an error was not assigned and appellant stated that the only question desired to be raised was the validity of certain bonds, court would not notice the error though authorized by rule to do so. Board of Com'rs v. Tollman [C. C. A.] 145 F. 753.

12. Shirk v. Hupp [Ind.] 79 N. E. 490. Where a brief contains a lengthy and wholly unnecessary tirade against witnesses, the brief will be stricken with leave to file a proper one. Stern v. Daniel [Wash.] 88 P. 1116.

13. A brief should be confined to a statement of the points or propositions of law arising upon pertinent matters in the record and relied on for reversal of the judgment and should not present views or use inappropriate language on impertinent matters of which the court cannot take notice. Fourteenth Street Bk. v. Strauss, 104 N. Y. S. 956. Statements in briefs extraneous of the record will not be considered. Evers v. Gould, 105 N. Y. S. 150.

14. Where no attention is paid to the rules of court in the preparation of a brief, and it does not present the errors relied upon for reversal in such a way as to enable the court to intelligently pass upon them, it cannot be considered. Lowrey v. Haynes [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 277, 98 S. W. 1068.

An appellate court being without jurisdiction of the subject-matter, the only judgment it can render is one dismissing appeal. Sena v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 485. Appeal to court of appeals dismissed where record showed that case originated in justice court, but did not show that circuit court ever obtained jurisdiction of it by appeal. Inks v. Brakebill Bros., 119 Mo. App. 159, 96 S. W. 220.

Jurisdictional amount not involved. State v. Pearl River [La.] 43 So. 815; State v. Briede [La.] 43 So. 992. Demand obviously inflated and real amount in controversy not sufficient. Leury v. Baton Rouge Compress Co., 117 La. 956, 42 So. 439. Appeal ordered dismissed unless appellant took proper steps to have it transferred to court of appeals. Robson v. Beasley [La.] 44 So. 136; Bodcaw Lumber Co. v. Huddleston [La.] 44 So. 258. Amount less than $1,000 and no certificate of importance. Bache v. Ward, 225 Ill. 320, 80 N. E. 330.

Reid* [Miss.] 43 So. 952. Appeal from default judgment. Chute Co. v. Westlay, 101 N. Y. S. 527; Rogg v. Simelowitz, 102 N. Y. S. 535.

Death of party: Where pending appeal, from judgment for plaintiff in action on liquor dealer's bond, plaintiff dies, and record on appeal shows death in such way as to justify court in taking notice of it for purpose of rendering its judgment, proper practice, if error is found, is to dismiss cause rather than remand it. Ellis v. Brooks [Tex.] 102 S. W. 94.

17. Where appeal was taken in name of attorney instead of client. Voelkel v. Anrich [La.] 43 So. 151. Appeal dismissed as to appellee against whom appellant sought no remedy in court below. City of Covington v. Whitney, 29 Ky. L. R. 1096, 96 S. W. 907. Contractor sued abutting owner to enforce lien for local improvements and made town party. Judgment was rendered adjudging lien against property and dismissing petition as against town. Property owner appealed, making town and contractor appellees. Held that appeal would be dismissed as to former, appellant having no cause to complain that contractor did not recover judgment against it. Wolf v. Pierce, 29 Ky. L. R. 1095, 96 S. W. 903. Where appellant was party to proceedings and condemned by judgment, and it did not appear on face of papers that he was absolutely without interest, held that appeal would not be dismissed on ground of want of interest, but question would not be determined until hearing on merits. Succession of Dielmann [La.] 43 So. 972. Inclusion, as plaintiffs in error, of persons not parties below is not ground for dismissal but is an error which may be corrected by dismissing writ only as to them, or by striking out their names. Thomas v. Green County [C. C. A.] 146 F. 969. Under Civ. Code Prac. §§ 757, 785, if it be made to appear that appellant's right to prosecute an appeal has ceased, appellee may, upon stating grounds in writing, obtain a dismissal. Haggin v. Montague [Ky.] 101 S. W. 893. Court would dismiss of own motion where appellants had no right to appeal. Foreman v. Defrees, 120 Ill. App. 486.

18. See, also, § 13 B, post.

Appeal dismissed: Where trial court, in proper exercise of its power, vacates judgment appealed from and grants new trial. Kendall v. Kendall [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 222. Where pending appeal, event occurs which makes determination of question unnecessary, or which would of necessity render judgment that might be pronounced ineffectual. Waller v. Henderson Tel. & T. Co. [Ky.] 101 S. W. 372. Appeal from order arresting judgment where abstract of record shows order was made on appellants as well as on respondent's motion. Dockery v. Lowenstein, 121 Mo. App. 394, 99 S. W. 40. Appeal from order denying new trial on ground of newly-discovered evidence, where on prior appeal appellant moved that case be remanded to give it an opportunity to amend and renew its motion for a new trial on same ground, which motion was denied. Kennedy v. Fidelity & Casualty Co., 100 Minn. 144, 110 N. W. 624. Where peremptory writ of mandamus was complied with prior to taking any steps to perfect appeal. People v. Voorhis, 100 N. Y. S. 717. Where prior to argument of appeal from order restraining appellant from acting as executor pending application to revoke his letters, his letters testamentary were revoked. In re Hirsch's Estate, 101 N. Y. S. 1027. Where record obviously presents no substantial question. Only sufficiency of conflicting evidence. Northern Texas Traction Co. v. Ake [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 207. Where plaintiff's attorney has contract for percentage of recovery, and after appeal from judgment for plaintiff there is compromise and settlement without attorney's consent, such attorney, if he fears that retention of jurisdiction by appellate court will preclude him from proceeding, nisi, to enforce his lien, may by apt motion raise question of his right to dismiss appeal. Walt v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 60.

Held not ground for dismissal: Part performance of mandate of writ of mandamus. People v. Voorhis, 186 N. Y. 263, 73 N. E. 1001. Where appeal is predicated on error below and error is established, mere fact that respondent consents to relief sought.

McCrea v. Burnstine, 105 N. Y. S. 194. Appeal will not be dismissed or its determination postponed on motion of third person on ground that action is collusive and that questions of public importance are sought to be reviewed in ex parte manner, where parties did not avail themselves of ample opportunities to intervene in action or submit a brief, a single question being in issue and action having been fairly tried. Kelly v. New York City R. Co., 102 N. Y. S. 741. Appeal in contest for political office will not be dismissed though term of office has expired and it is therefore impossible to induct appellant into office, where his right to fees still remains in controversy. McClelland v. Erwin, 16 Okl. 612, 86 P. 283.

19. See Saving Questions for Review, 8 C. L. 1822. Failure of appellant to serve proper notice of intention to move for new trial is not ground for dismissal of appeal from order overruling the motion, since it goes only to merits of order appealed from and not to regularity of appeal. Vreeland v. Edens [Mont.] 89 P. 735.

20. Where by uncontradicted affidavits it appears that appellant has consented to dismissal of appeal, it must be dismissed. Riney v. Furniture Co. [La.] 44 So. 116. Affidavits may be considered to show agreement. Id.

21. Where transcript was filed and citation served more than ten days before time for call of docket at which time case was returnable held that motion to docket and dismiss would be denied. Adams Lumber Co. v. Stevenson [Miss.] 42 So. 796. Held not a dilatoriness requiring dismissal. Driscoll v. Dufur [Wash.] 88 P. 929.

22. Should not be dismissed for mere curable defects in bond. Northrup v. Bathrick [Neb.] 110 N. W. 685.

23. Where the record showed that bond was not filed in time but appellant presented affidavits that it was timely left with clerk and that he had no knowledge that it was not immediately filed until he received respondent's brief, held that appeal would not be dismissed until appellant had opportunity to present the matter to trial court for correction. Main Inv. Co. v. Olsen [Wash.] 86 P. 657.

24. Failure to appeal in time. Thornburgh v. Beakley [Ark.] 102 S. W. 362. Writ of error sued out and taken in civil action after time allowed by statute. Eaton v. McCaskill [Fla.] 43 So. 447. Appeal from order taxing costs not taken within sixty days after entry thereof, as required by subd. 3, § 4807, Rev. St. 1887. Campbell v. First Nat. Bk. [Idaho] 88 P. 639. Appeal dismissed in so far as it purported to be suspensive one, where bond was signed after ten days within which suspensive appeal should be signed had elapsed. O'Brien v. D'Hemecourt [La.] 43 So. 654.

Prematurity: Exceptions by trustee in garnishment proceedings from ruling that court had jurisdiction, and charging him with the debt, dismissed because taken before service on principal defendant. Alexander v. Segree, 101 Me. 561, 64 A. 1049. No final judgment in record. Monroe County v. Fox [Ala.] 42 So. 441; Dexter v. Seaboard Air Line R. Co. [Fla.] 42 So. 695; Sautter v.

Supreme Conclave Improved Order of Hep-tasophs [N. J. Err. & App.] 65 A. 990; Key-stone Brew. Co. v. Canavan [Pa.] 67 A. 48. Bill of exceptions before verdict or final decision held prematurely preferred and dismissed without prejudice. Court and Practice Act 1905, p. 141, § 497. McDonald v. Providence Tel. Co., 27 R. I. 595, 65 A. 266. Where order vacating default was entered upon condition that defendant deposit amount of the judgment in court as security within certain time, appeal before expiration of that time held not premature. Fallon v. Crocicchia, 102 N. Y. S. 541.

Application for appeal: Held not ground for dismissal that application for appeal inadvertently referred to only one instead of two appellants where error was substantially cured and appellee acknowledged service of summons. Little Rock Trac. & Elec. Co. v. Hicks, 78 Ark. 597, 94 S. W. 711.

Order of appeal: Under Code Prac. 893, defects in order not imputable to appellant is not ground for dismissal. Hays v. Mayer, 117 La. 1067, 42 So. 505.

Notice of appeal: Failure to serve citation. Dowling v. Buckley, 26 App. D. C. 266. Where order resettling order appealed from materially changed latter, failure to serve notice of appeal from order as resettled. Dewsnap v. Bachrach, 104 N. Y. S. 330. Failure to serve notice of intention to appeal in time. Foster v. Western Union Tel. Co. [S. C.] 57 S. E. 760. Failure to give notice of filing of bill of exceptions as required by Superior Court Rule 32. See Court and Practice Act 1905, §§ 34, 490, 491. Smith v. Haskell Mfg. Co. [R. I.] 65 A. 610. Under Texas statute writ of error will be dismissed if issuance of alias citation is not promptly demanded upon return of citation showing certain parties not served. Aspley v. Wheat [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1135; Aspley v. Alcott [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 1133. Equity rule requiring appellant to file in court below, with notice of appeal, a statement of errors, is not mere formality and noncompliance therewith cannot be subsequently cured by mere motion with no excuse offered. McMellen v. Williamson, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 263. Appeal will be quashed for noncompliance with this rule in absence of exceptional circumstances. Groff v. City Sav. Fund & Trust Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 416. General appeal from land court to superior court for failure to comply with St. 1904, p. 450, c. 448, § 8, requiring questions to be specified in the appeal. Mead v. Cutler [Mass.] 80 N. E. 496. Failure to file notice and proof of service until nine days after service held not ground for dismissal. Main Inv. Co. v. Olsen [Wash.] 86 P. 657.

Defect of parties. La Porte Land Co. v. Morrison [Ind.] 78 N. E. 321; Polk v. Johnson [Ind.] 78 N. E. 652; Brown v. Brown [Ind.] 80 N. E. 535. Failure to make creditors parties on appeal from homologation of provisional account of decedent's estate. Succession of Guillebert, 117 La. 371, 41 So. 653. Dismissal for want of necessary party cannot be obviated by appearance of such party after expiration of time limit for the appeal. Polk v. Johnson [Ind.] 79 N. E. 491. Where record showed that case below proceeded in name of "Samuel Mandle, administrator of Julius Mandle," and in bill of exceptions "Samuel Mandle" individually was named as defendant in error, held that variance was a substantial one warranting dismissal. Rozier v. Mandle, 127 Ga. 295, 56 S. E. 428. Writ of error dismissed where it was sued out in case of "City of St. Louis v. Empire Theatre Company," and record returned was in case entitled "City of St. Louis v. Edward Butler and Empire Circuit Company, a Corporation." City of St. Louis v. Butler [Mo.] 99 S. W. 1092. Where action was pending against city of Denver at time Const. art. 20 (Sess. Laws 1901, p. 98, c. 46), providing that city and county of Denver shall succeed to rights and liabilities of City of Denver, went into effect, an appeal will not be dismissed because taken in name of original parties where parties impliedly agreed thereto by their action. City of Denver v. Iliff [Colo.] 89 P. 823.

Bonds; failure to give and defects therein: Failure to file bond within time allowed. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co. v. Acrea [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 213; Kehler v. Walls, 118 Mo. App. 384, 94 S. W. 760. Failure to file bond on appeal in ditch proceedings ground for dismissal notwithstanding Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1307, forbidding dismissal for defects of form or substance of the bond. Smith v. Gustin [Ind.] 80 N. E. 959. Bond approved more than twenty days after adjournment of court. Houston & T. C. R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 519. Appeal by business corporation from money judgment quashed where objection was made to bond which was not approved and no other bail was offered. Denlinger v. Conestoga, etc., Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 418. Insufficient bond by railroad receiver who appeared below only after judgment against company and then without leave of court. Palmer v. Pittsburg, etc., R. Co., 215 Pa. 518, 64 A. 686. Const. art. 6, § 4, declaring that no appeal to supreme court or to district court of appeals shall be dismissed because taken to the proper court, but shall be transferred, does not save appeal which is not sufficient as to court to which it was taken, as where an undertaking on appeal to supreme court recited an appeal to a court which did not exist, though probably district court of appeals was meant. McAuley v. Tahoe Ice Co. [Cal. App.] 86 P. 912.

Docketing: If bill of exceptions properly sued out to the supreme court to review final judgment be docketed as "fast" writ of error, when in fact it is not such, case will not be dismissed, but will be transferred to docket of next term. Ivey v. Rome, 126 Ga. 806, 55 S. E. 1034. Appellee held entitled to have case docketed and dismissed where appellant failed to enter appeal before return day, as per rule 16 of circuit court of appeals. Wong Sang v. U. S. [C. C. A.] 144 F. 968.

Return day: Appeal returned to day less than thirty days from taking of appeal. Griffith v. Henderson [Fla.] 42 So. 705. Where bill of exceptions was sued out and transmitted to supreme court in time, motion to dismiss upon ground that writ of error in cause made same returnable to March term, 1906, when it should have been made returnable to October term, 1905, minutes of court showing that October term was still in session at time writ of error was sued out was held to be without merit and was overruled. Bell v. Gress Mfg. Co., 127 Ga. 15, 55 S. E. 1043.

25. No brief statement of error alleged filed in trial court as required by Equity Rule 92. Mason v. Linn [Pa.] 67 A. 61. Failure to file exceptions below. Wingert v. Teitrick, 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 187. Failure to serve the case and exceptions for approval within time required by law, in absence of satisfactory showing of mistake or excusable neglect. Code Civ. Proc. § 345. Bledsoe v. Columbia Mills Co., 75 S. C. 545, 55 S. E. 886. Where "abstract statement and brief" was served on respondents within required time, fact that corrected copy thereof was not served until after expiration of such time is not ground for dismissal where respondents are not prejudiced thereby. Hastings Industrial Co. v. Baxter [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 1075. Unreasonable delay in making corrections in bill of exceptions or brief of evidence required by judge as condition precedent to certifying bill is sufficient ground for dismissal, unless it affirmatively appears that it was caused solely by providential cause or imperative necessity; and that cause was of such character must appear from certificate of judge. Dykes v. Brock [Ga.] 57 S. E. 700. The mere failure or refusal of the official stenographer to furnish transcript of notes of evidence at trial is neither providential cause nor imperative necessity. Id. Delay in presenting corrected brief of evidence for fifty-four days after attention had been called by judge to fact that brief as originally presented was not correct, held unreasonable. Id. Objection that bill of exceptions was not timely served must be presented to trial upon settlement of same, and it will not be determined by appellate court in first instance on motion to dismiss. Dernham v. Bogley [Cal.] 90 P. 543. Where there has been unwarranted delay in settlement of statement on appeal, trial court is forum in which to seek redress. Young v. Updike [Nev.] 89 P. 457.

26. Where record has been filed before service of citation has been completed, correct practice is not to dismiss writ of error but to strike cause from docket. Vineyard v. McCombs [Tex.] 99 S. W. 544. Delay of five days in filing record not ground for dismissal where motion was not made until nearly four months after filing when case had been docketed and record printed, and there was no injury or hardship to defendant in error. Equitable Life Assur. Soc. v. Tolbert [C. C. A.] 145 F. 338.

Abstract not filed in time. Goesse & Remmers Bldg. & Contracting Co. v. Kinnerk [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 218.

Transcript. Failure to file. Prine v. Duncan [Cal. App.] 90 P. 712; Brooks v. Smith [La.] 43 So. 399. Failure to file transcript, though parties submitted agreed statement in lieu thereof. McDevitt v. Bryant [Md.] 64 A. 931. Failure to file in time. Fenney v. American Bonding Co. [Idaho] 90 P. 859; Alford v. Guffy, 30 Ky. L. R. 54, 97 S. W. 369; Hays v. Mayer, 117 La. 1067, 42 So. 505. Failure of auditor to file transcript in proper time on appeal from county commissioners under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 4225, held attributable to appellant, and hence ground for dismissal. Kelly v. Lawson [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 553. Appeal not dismissed where before hearing appellant filed affidavit made by register that delay was fault of latter and not of appellant or his attorney. Koenig v. Ward [Md.] 65 A. 345. Under Supreme Court Rules 2, 3 (73 Pac. xii), providing for dismissal where transcript is not timely filed, appeal will be dismissed where no statement or bill of exceptions has been served or filed and where appellant has never requested that transcript be forwarded to supreme court. Young v. Updike [Nev.] 89 P. 457.

27. Record did not show any organization of lower court. Thomas v. Daniel Bros. [Ala.] 42 So. 623. Where abstract of record proper does not show that motions for a new trial and in arrest of judgment were filed and overruled, but bill of exceptions is filed in time and in compliance with order of court, appellate court will dismiss appeal instead of affirming judgment. Mason v. Smith [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 1149. Where appellant filed no abstract of record and his statement on appeal failed to show that bill of exceptions was filed or that any exceptions were taken to admission or rejection of evidence or to peremptory instruction to jury to find for defendant, or to show what was contained in motions for new trial and in arrest of judgment, appeal was dismissed. Haer v. Van Vickle [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 61. Where judgment roll fails to include any paper purporting to be judgment and nothing but judgment roll can be considered because of absence of statement of facts or bill of exceptions, appeal must be dismissed. Hart v. Spencer [Mo.] 89 P. 289. Appeal dismissed under Supreme Court Rule 20, because of failure to properly index record and number and properly group exceptions. Davis v. Wall, 142 N. C. 450, 55 S. E. 350. Appeal quashed for failure to print evidence, charge and exceptions, specifications of error, etc. National Lumber Co. v. Mehaffey, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 544. Under Rules 12 and 13, where case is before court upon complete transcript which requires review of evidence, and no abstract of the record has been filed and there is no index to manuscript record, nor any reference to evidence of respective witnesses in appellant's brief, appeal will be dismissed. Ozark City v. Wells [Mo.] 103 S. W. 32. Failure to send up all the testimony in equity case is not ground for dismissal since certain questions may be presented without evidence. Kieffer v. Victor Land Co. [Or.] 90 P. 582. Irregularity as to place in record of convening order of lower court before entering judgment and as to recital in bill of exceptions of prayer for and order granting appeal, held not ground for dismissal. People v. Cincinnati, etc., R. Co., 224 Ill. 523, 79 N. E. 657.

Defects in transcript: Failure to print plaintiff's statement as required by rules on appeal by plaintiff. Morris v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 215 Pa. 317, 64 A. 464. Under Code Prac. 898, errors in certificate of clerk not imputable to appellant are not ground for dismissal. Hays v. Mayer, 117 La. 1067, 42 So. 505. Defects which may be remedied by suggestion of diminution and certiorari are not ground for dismissal. Price v. Huddleston [Ind.] 79 N. E. 496. See ante, § 10 D, Amendment and Correction. Where no essential part of the record is omitted and appellee was not prejudiced, an appeal will not be dismissed for nonobservance of a provision of a rule relating to transcripts. McGowan v. Elroy, 28 App. D. C. 86.

Defects in abstract: Failure to prepare abstract in accordance with rules, or to amend same within time allowed. Lampman v. Bump [Colo.] 87 P. 1146. Where abstract insufficient to comply with statute. Goesse & Remmers Bldg. & Contracting Co. v. Kinnerk [Mo. App.] 97 S. W. 218. Imperfect abstract no ground for dismissal. Inks v. Brakebill Bros., 119 Mo. App. 159, 96 S. W. 220.

Bills of exceptions: Where certificate of trial judge omits to certify that bill is true, writ of error will be dismissed. Cade v. Du Bose, 125 Ga. 832, 54 S. E. 697. Where, by stipulation of counsel, two cases are to be heard together, fact that bill of exceptions in one contains evidence of other is not ground for dismissal, but substitution will be allowed. Mosca Milling & Elevator Co. v. Rhodes [Colo.] 88 P. 468.

28. Failure to comply with rules. Moline Trust & Sav. Bk. v. Wylie [C. C. A.] 149 F. 734. Failure to comply with Supreme Court Rule 11, and Equity Rule 92. Howard v. Swissvale Borough [Pa.] 65 A. 814. Failure to file assignments in appellate court. Commonwealth v. Owen, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 420. Failure to comply with statute requiring assignments to be specific. Smith v. Marshall, 127 Ga. 374, 56 S. E. 416. Failure to comply with Supreme Court Rule 6, requiring assignments to contain the full name of all parties. Haag v. Deter [Ind.] 78 N. E. 331. In ditch proceedings and other analogous proceedings wherein much liberality in pleading is allowed, noncompliance with rule 6, is not ground for dismissal at instance of parties who have not caused their full names to be subscribed to their pleadings. Smith v. Gustin [Ind.] 80 N. E. 959. Entire failure to comply with supreme court rule 26, requiring appellant to assign errors in writing signed by himself or counsel, and serve copy on respondent and file original with clerk of supreme court within five days from filing of transcript. Lyon v. Mauss [Utah] 87 P. 1014.

29. Failure to file. Fitch v. Richardson [C. C. A.] 147 F. 196. Failure to comply with rules. Moline Trust & Sav. Bk. v. Wylie [C. C. A.] 149 F. 734; Niemitz v. State [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 357. Failure to conform to subd. 3, rule 10, in that it contains no specification of errors. Delmoe v. Bailey [Mont.] 88 P. 662. Failure to file argument. State v. Scott [Iowa] 112 N. W. 185.

30. Delmoe v. Bailey [Mont.] 88 P. 662. Failure to file within time fixed by order of supreme court. Long v. Bank of Winden, 126 Ga. 679, 55 S. E. 915. Ordinary delays of the mail do not constitute providential cause excusing failure. Id. Where there was great delay in giving copy for brief to printer, fact that further delay was caused by illness of printer will not prevent dismissal. Bradley v. De Laney, 126 Mo. App. 715, 97 S. W. 634. Action of lower court in dismissing appeal held not abuse of discretion. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Kidd [C. C. A.] 146 F. 499.

31. Frivolous appeal: Motion to affirm a

As a general rule, abandonment of a perfected appeal<sup>33</sup> or pro forma affirmance<sup>34</sup> precludes a second appeal, while a voluntary dismissal,<sup>35</sup> or a dismissal on motion for defects in procedure,<sup>36</sup> does not. In some states, where an appeal is dismissed for defects of procedure, but the appellate court would have jurisdiction on error, the cause will be entered as pending on a writ or error.<sup>37</sup> In Louisiana the dismissal of an appeal in so far as it purports to be a suspensive one does not affect it in so far as it is devolutive.<sup>38</sup>

Appeals may, of course, be dismissed by stipulation,<sup>39</sup> and appellants are generally entitled to dismiss as of course at any time before hearing on payment of costs,<sup>40</sup> but respondent's right to a pro forma affirmance is not affected by the fact judgment as a delay case will be overruled if appellees have failed to note upon record statement required by code. Staton v. Byrom [Ky.] 101 S. W. 882.

Record: Where, owing to fact that abstract contained no record entries, there was nothing before court but record proper in which errors assigned did not appear. Cummings v. Eiler, 121 Mo. App. 576, 97 S. W. 218. Fact that record was prepared by appellee does not prevent affirmance for insufficiency of record to present error. Thompson v. Wheeler [Cal. App.] 89 P. 1065. Where on appeal by plaintiff his statement was not printed and it was practically admitted that the cause of action was not proved. Morris v. Philadelphia Rapid Transit Co., 215 Pa. 317, 64 A. 464.

Abstract: Failure to file. State v. Allison [S. D.] 103 N. W. 556; Farmers' Mut. Hail & Cyclone Ins. Ass'n v. Roche [S. D.] 109 N. W. 512; Erickson v. Stevenson [S. D.] 110 N. W. 36. For failure to comply with rule 9 prescribing contents. Houghton v. Mosely [Ark.] 6 S. W. 1066. Insufficiency of abstract. Clifford v. Chicago, 124 Ill. App. 123. Incomplete abstract. McCellan v. Powell, 197 Mo. 495, 95 S. W. 335. Where appellant's abstract was unfair and defective. Knight v. Collings, 127 Ill. App. 333.

Bill of exceptions: For absence of bill. City of Alton v. Eck, 122 Ill. App. 282. Where assignments relate exclusively to matters which can be presented only by proper bill of exceptions, and there is no proper bill. Rainey v. Ridgway [Ala.] 43 So. 843. If for any reason a bill of exceptions is ineffectual, appellee should move to strike it and to affirm and not to dismiss. Moran v. Wagner, 28 App. D. C. 166.

Failure to assign error: Where there are no assignments in record. Renshaw v. Brennan [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 1099. For failure to assign in manner prescribed by rules. Hunter v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 43 So. 802. Failure to assign discharge of defendant in action of replevin in which third person intervened will result in affirmance of judgment in that respect, although notice of appeal recited that appeal was from entire judgment. Hurley v. Walter, 129 Wis. 508, 109 N. W. 558.

32. Reversed and remanded for appellee's failure to file briefs as per rule. Matthews v. Williams, 122 Ill. App. 245. Appellee's failure to file briefs justifies reversal pro forma where questions involved are important. Cleveland, etc., R. Co. v. Storm, 127 Ill. App. 333.

Briefs: Failure to file. State v. Allison [S. D.] 103 N. W. 556; Farmers' Mut. Hail & Cyclone Ins. Ass'n v. Roche [S. D.] 109 N.

W. 512; Erickson v. Stevenson [S. D.] 110 N. W. 36. Where appellant's brief had not been filed at time of final submission. Larson v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Neb.] 110 N. W. 1015.

Argument: Where no argument is filed by the appellant at the time of the submission of an appeal, the order appealed from will be affirmed. Larson v. Larson [Iowa] 109 N. W. 783. Cause submitted on short transcript without argument for either side. State v. Bulechek [Iowa] 110 N. W. 929.

33. Where an appellant has obtained an order for both a suspensive and devolutive appeal, and has perfected neither by giving bond, he is entitled, within the year, to another order for a devolutive appeal, there being no appeal to be abandoned until the bond is given. Durand v. Landry [La.] 43 So. 307.

34. Sureties on replevin bond who had not appealed from judgment against them held entitled to writ of error, though principal, who had appealed, and as to whom judgment had been affirmed pro forma joined in petition for writ and in giving writ of error bond. Wandelohr v. Rainey [Tex.] 100 S. W. 1155.

35. Dismissal of writ of error by leave of court without prejudice, for failure to file printed record within sixty days as required by Rev. St. 1906, § 6711, is no bar to subsequent writ of error to review same case provided the same writ is within the four months after judgment limitation prescribed by § 6723. Louisville & N. R. Co. v. Globe Soap Co., 74 Ohio St. 359, 78 N. E. 506.

36. May have another appeal allowed if applied for within time prescribed by statute limiting appeals. Kelner v. Cowden [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 649.

37. Where appeal is taken from judgment reviewable only by writ of error and defendant confers personal jurisdiction by appearing, appeal may be dismissed and action entered as on writ of error, under Mills' Ann. Code, § 388a. People v. Horan, 34 Colo. 304, 86 P. 252.

38. O'Brien v. D'Hemecourt [La.] 43 So. 651.

39. Stipulation canceling appeal bond held not to affect jurisdiction of appellate court acquired by order granting appeal. Dunlap v. Weber Gas & Gasoline Engine Co. [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 761.

40. At any time while cause remains within jurisdiction of the appellate court. Fort v. Fort [Tenn.] 101 S. W. 433. Appellee is entitled to costs on such dismissal, but cannot object, nor is his consent required. Id. Power of appellant to dismiss that appellant files a motion to dismiss after the filing of the motion to affirm.<sup>41</sup> Abandonment is equivalent to a dismissal.<sup>42</sup> A motion to dismiss,<sup>43</sup> specifying the grounds relied on<sup>44</sup> and made within the time fixed by the rules,<sup>45</sup> is ordinarily required when the respondent seeks a dismissal. Notice is sometimes required to be given the adverse party.<sup>46</sup> Matters involving the merits will not ordinarily be considered on the hearing of a motion to dismiss,<sup>47</sup> nor, in some states, matters which might have been presented in opposition to the petition for leave to appeal.<sup>48</sup> is limited to appeal and he cannot after judgment dismiss the case. Id.

41. Dunlap v. Weber Gas & Gasoline Engine Co. [Mo. App.] 94 S. W. 761.

42. Prosecution of writ of error held abandoned as to certain parties who had not filed cost bond and were not represented by counsel. Yates v. Jones Nat. Bk., 206 U. S. 158, 51 Law. Ed. 1002.

43. Supreme court not bound to consider mere suggestion that suspensive appeal from interlocutory judgment, allowed pursuant to Code Prac. art. 566, on ground that judgment might work irreparable injury, should be dismissed because judgment does not work such an injury, where no motion to dismiss is filed. Ansley v. Stuart [La.] 43 So. 892. Will not be considered where same issues are before court on appeal from judgment on merits. Id. Where trial judge allowed suspensive appeal from interlocutory judgment as authorized by Code Prac. art. 566, on ground that it might work irreparable injury to defendant, held that appeal would not be dismissed ex parte and ex proprio motu on mere suggestion by plaintiff without a motion to dismiss, but action in that regard would be reserved until the hearing on the merits. Id.

44. Motion to dismiss on ground of defects in undertaking should specify defects complained of. In re Paige's Estate [Idaho] 86 P. 273. Motion to dismiss on ground that undertaking is insufficient is too indefinite. Jackson v. Barrett [Idaho] 86 P. 270. Where appeal is sought to be dismissed on ground that it is barred by limitation, statute must be pleaded. Spradlin v. Stanley's Adm'r, 77 Ky. 612, 99 S. W. 965. That failure to prosecute appeal with due diligence is not specified as a ground for dismissal is not objectionable where order to show cause is based on an affidavit setting forth facts which entitle respondent to relief sought. Brink v. Whisler [S. D.] 110 N. W. 94.

45. Motion to dismiss for incompleteness of transcript and insufficiency of clerk's certificate cannot be entertained, if filed after lapse of three judicial days from day upon which transcript should be filed. Barton v. Burbank [La.] 43 So. 1014. Motion made within two days of hearing and after joinder of issues too late. Long v. Farmers' State Bk. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 360. Under Supreme Court Rules 5, 17, where the call of the docket of district to which appeal from judgment rendered before commencement of term belonged was commenced on February 26th, and there was no offer to docket the appeal until February 20th, a motion for dismissal filed on February 19th was not premature. Vivian v. Mitchell [N. C.] 57 S. E. 167. Motion to dismiss for want of jurisdiction must be considered, no matter at what stage of proceedings it is filed. United

Iron Works Co. v. Sand Ridge Lead & Zinc Co. [Mo. App.] 102 S. W. 1104.

46. Appeal may be dismissed, though statutory notice is not given if appellant appears, replies to answer, pleading his satisfaction and abandonment of appeal, and briefs case on motion to dismiss. Haggin v. Montague [Ky.] 101 S. W. 893.

47. Case must be clear to justify appellate court in affirming a decision below on motion in advance of hearing on printed record. Jones v. Starr, 26 App. D. C. 64. Motion granted in interference case where appellee was entitled to priority on the record dates, and where appellate court could not possibly consider certain suppressed testimony. Id. Regularity of appeal from county court to circuit court cannot be determined on motion to dismiss appeal from decree of circuit dismissing appeal from county court, since it involves merits. In re Crawford's Estate [Or.] 90 P. 147. That there is nothing in record showing or tending to show that respondent owes appellant anything is not proper ground for dismissing appeal. Shepard v. McNail, 122 Mo. App. 418, 99 S. W. 494. Where motion to dismiss involves some of the questions to be considered on appeal, consideration thereof will be postponed. Darlington v. Butler [Cal. App.] 85 P. 931.

48. Atkinson v. Maris [Ind. App.] 81 N. E. 745.

49. See 7 C. L. 215.

50. Appeal dismissed for want of timely prosecution will not be reinstated except for good cause. Emerson v. Edge [Ark.] 98 S. W. 357. On application to reinstate, whether there is merit in the appeal will be considered. Id. Where an appeal by one of several joint defendants is dismissed for want of summons and severance, it will not be reinstated in such proceedings being taken. Faulkner v. Hutchins, 6 Ind. T. 442, 98 S. W. 153. Where appeal is dismissed for want of prosecution, surety on stay bond is not entitled to reinstatement where it delays for five months after receiving notice of dismissal before applying therefor. Where appeal is dismissed because of failure to file bond at or before docketing, as required by statute, court will not reinstate case and allow a bond to be filed, unless laches is negatived or reasonable excuse shown. Vivian v. Mitchell [N. C.] 57 S. E. 167. Appeal dismissed for failure to docket it in time will not be reinstated on ground of accident, mistake, or excusable neglect, if appellant neglected to give prompt notice of motion to reinstate and failed to show such diligence in repairing his fault as would enable the case to be argued in its regular order. Id.

51. Affirmance for failure to assign errors in manner required by rules set aside, and

(§ 11) H. Raising and waiver of defects.<sup>54</sup>—Nonjurisdictional defects are waived by failure to object at the proper time<sup>55</sup> or by proceeding with the case without objection.<sup>56</sup> The court will of its own motion dismiss for want of jurisdiction<sup>57</sup> or other fundamental error.<sup>58</sup> The practice on motions to dismiss is treated elsewhere.<sup>59</sup>

§ 12. Hearing.<sup>60</sup>—In Louisiana the death of the defendant in a proceeding via executiva, who has not been made a party to an injunction suit staying the writ, or to the appeal from the judgment therein, affords no ground for staying the hearing of such suit in the supreme court.<sup>61</sup>

§ 13. Review. A. Mode of review; review proper or trial de novo.<sup>62</sup>—Judgments at law and judgments or orders brought upon error or like proceedings, though called on appeal,<sup>63</sup> are reviewed for matter of law only,<sup>64</sup> as found in the record and appellant allowed to assign errors properly where original attempt was under misconception of rules. Hunter v. Louisville & N. R. Co. [Ala.] 43 So. 802.

52. See 7 C. L. 214.

53. Where a husband dies pending an appeal from a decree allotting to his wife a portion of his real estate during her life, his administrator may prosecute the appeal, but after a reversal the action will abate and the property descend and be distributed as required by law. Johnson v. Bates [Ark.] 101 S. W. 412. Appeal by plaintiff in suit against state by permission does not abate on ground that permission to sue is personal to plaintiff, but may proceed to judgment on substitution of plaintiff's personal representative, leaving legislature to determine what its intentions were. Durbridge v. State, 117 La. 841, 42 So. 337. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1026, a suit does not abate by death of the party after appeal perfected, notwithstanding original cause of action may be one which does not survive. White v. Manning [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 1160. Grant of new trial from which an appeal is pending does not destroy judgment so that death of plaintiff will abate proceeding. Wright v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 832. Where petition in error is filed and summons issued, supreme court has jurisdiction and death of petitioner in error thereafter does not abate the proceedings. Field v. Leiter [Wyo.] 90 P. 378.

54. See 7 C. L. 215.

55. Irregularities in form of transcript. State v. Reid [La.] 42 So. 662. Technical defects in abstract. Sanguinette v. Mississippi River & B. T. R. Co., 196 Mo. 466, 95 S. W. 386. Defect of parties to a writ of error. Roth v. Burnham, 126 Ill. App. 222.

56. Motion to strike bill of exceptions is a general appearance waiving want of service of notice of issuing writ of error. McNealy v. Bartlett [Mo. App.] 95 S. W. 273. Irregularity in perfecting appeal waived by filing briefs. Carter v. People, 122 Ill. App. 77. Joinder in error on appeal to appellate court and an appeal therefrom to supreme court waives objection that error was the proper method of review. Sullivan v. People, 224 Ill. 468, 79 N. E. 695. Joinder in error waives failure of party in interest to join as appellant. Rensford v. Magnus & Co. [Ala.] 43 So. 853. An appeal in proceedings by executors for allowance of claims is not void as being an appeal from action of administrator in dealing with independent claims in severalty merely because it combines an appeal from allowance of a certain claim in favor of a certain party and an appeal from the disallowance of the same claim as to appellant, such joinder being at most only matter for plea in abatement. 63. Motion to set aside sheriff's sale under foreclosure in equity is in nature of special proceeding and cannot be tried de novo on appeal. Fuller v. O'Connell [Iowa] 110 N. W. 281. Word "appeal" when used in a statute does not necessarily imply removal of whole cause to be tried as a new proceeding, but is to be construed under ordinary rules of construction. Nash v. Glen Elder [Kan.] 88 P. 62. Gen. St. 1901, § 1175, granting an appeal from an order of board of commissioners enlarging municipal boundaries, held to authorize only a review of so much of action of board as was judicial in its nature, and hence not unconstitutional as conferring legislative power. Id. Rev. Codes 1905, § 7229, providing for trial of "actions" de novo on appeal, does not apply to special proceedings such as mandamus. State v. Fabrick [N. D.] 112 N. W. 74.

64. Under Rev. Laws, c. 173, § 96, supreme judicial court can review on appeal from superior court only matters of law apparent on record. Hicks v. Graves [Mass.] 80 N. E. 590. Unless erroneous as a matter of law, findings of fact of probate court in proceedings for adoption of child cannot be disturbed on review on exceptions only without any appeal. Purinton v. Jamrock [Mass.] 80 N. E. 802. Whether a delay in disaffirming a release of the cause of action sued on was unreasonable is a question of fact and a ruling thereon will not support a writ of error. Galveston, etc., R. Co. v. Cade [Tex.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 826, 94 S. W. 219. Appeal brings up questions of fact as well as of law; error, only questions of law apparent on the record. Behn, Meyer & Co. v. Camp- bell, 205 U. S. 403, 51 Law. Ed. 857. Whether supreme court of Philippine Islands erred in setting aside conclusions of lower court as manifestly against weight of evidence not reviewable on writ of error. Id.

bill of exceptions.<sup>65</sup> Equitable decrees and orders are usually reviewed de novo,<sup>66</sup> and even in states where a contrary rule prevails, a more generally revisory power is exercised than actions at law.<sup>67</sup> A trial de novo is also frequently provided for on appeals in certain special proceedings,<sup>68</sup> or from inferior courts or tribunals.<sup>69</sup> Subject to limitation to the issues as originally made, the rules of pleading and practice are the same as in ordinary actions when there is a formal retrial by a court of general superior jurisdiction.<sup>70</sup>

65. See § 9, ante.

66. Foreclosure in equity. Fuller v. O'Connell [Iowa.] 110 N. W. 281. On appeal from decree in equity given in any court, suit must be tried on transcript and evidence accompanying it, as prescribed by B. & C. Comp. § 555. In re Morrison's Estate [Or.] 87 P. 1043.

67. Where no findings of fact or rulings of law are made by court in equity case, the only question on appeal is whether upon all the evidence the decree is wrong. Staples v. Mullen [Mass.] 81 N. E. 877. Contentions justified by the evidence may be considered on appeal from decision of single justice though not raised below, and pleadings may be amended to meet the evidence. Old Corner Book Store v. Upham [Mass.] 80 N. E. 228. Appeal to full court from single justice with full report of testimony brings up all questions of law and fact unless the scope of the appeal is abridged by stipulation, though the issues tried before the single justice were abridged by stipulation. Bartlett v. New York Cent., etc., R. Co. [Mass.] 81 N. E. 204.

68. Where issues in bankruptcy were submitted to a jury but not under § 19a of the bankruptcy act, appeal from an adjudication of bankruptcy was "an appeal as in equity cases" under § 25, which brought up the whole case and could not be made to turn on errors in rulings made on trial of a feigned issue. In re Neasmith [C. C. A.] 147 F. 160.

69. On appeal to circuit court from judgment of county court allowing claim of jailer for feeding prisoners. Kirby's Dig. § 1492. Marion County v. Estes, 79 Ark. 504, 96 S. W. 165. Appeal to supreme court from judgment of circuit court affirming order of probate court confirming findings of auditor on accounting by administrator, held not to be treated as chancery appeal and determined on weight of evidence. Kirby's Dig. § 144, construed. Matthews v. Taylor Co., 79 Ark. 577, 96 S. W. 134. Under Sess. Laws 1899, pp. 240, 249, on appeal from order of board of county commissioners granting road through premises and awarding damages, the cause is tried de novo in district court. Latah County v. Hasfurther [Idaho] 88 P. 423. Appeal to the circuit court in proceeding to require listing of property for taxation is to be tried de novo, and circuit court cannot refuse to take jurisdiction because judgment of county court is silent as to particular steps taken in that court. Commonwealth v. Ilaggin, 30 Ky. L. R. 788, 99 S. W. 906. On appeal from county to circuit court in proceeding to require listing of property for taxation, evidence introduced in lower court cannot be sent up by bill of exceptions, but circuit court may receive such evidence as may be offered therein on hearing of appeal. Id. Where judgment of the county court in probate proceeding is reversed by district court in proceeding in error, latter court properly retains jurisdiction over the cause for trial de novo. In re Ray [Neb.] 109 N. W. 496.

70. On appeal from county court to district court, either party has same right to amend his pleadings as he would have had had action been originally instituted in district court. Myers v. Moore [Neb.] 110 N. W. 989.

71. See 7 C. L. 218.

72. Whether verdict was contrary to evidence, where grant of new trial was affirmed on ground that instruction was erroneous. Chambers v. Morris [Ala.] 42 So. 549. Where it was held that trial court erred in refusing to allow plea in abatement to be interposed, other assignments to matters accruing at trial. Eagle Iron Co. v. Malone [Ala.] 42 So. 734. Where findings supported by evidence are sufficient to warrant a judgment, sufficiency of evidence to support other findings. Percival v. Jack [Cal. App.] 90 P. 555. Where the appeal is decided on a controlling issue, no other assignments will be considered. Heile v. South Georgia Grocery Co., 125 Ga. 562, 54 S. E. 540. Correctness of proposition of law, where trial court decided that it was inapplicable under the evidence. Pratt v. Davis, 224 Ill. 300, 79 N. E. 562. Where court on appeal held that state's attorney was the actual and not merely nominal party to suit, whether private person joined with him could have maintained the suit alone. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. People, 222 Ill. 427, 78 N. E. 790. Unnecessary to determine whether trial court correctly placed burden of proof on appellant, the defendant below, as to defense unsustained by any evidence. Pratt v. Davis, 224 Ill. 300, 79 N. E. 562. Questions eliminated by decision below where verdict not based on count complained of. Schillinger Bros. Co. v. Smith, 225 Ill. 74, 80 N. E. 65. Where judgment reversed for insufficiency of complaint, questions arising on motion for new trial. Kintz v. Johnson [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 533. Whether interlocutory decree established existence of partnership, when supreme court has found evidence sufficient to show its existence. Chase v. Angell [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 616, 108 N. W. 1105. Questions eliminated by decision on appeal. Reddy v. Raymond [Mass.] 80 N. E. 484. Questions that have become immaterial. Lord v. Rowse [Mass.] 80 N. E. 822. Constitutional questions are peculiarly within this rule, and a statute will not be declared unconstitutional unless it is absolutely necessary to do so in order to dispose of the cause. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hunt [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 927. Where complaint demurred to generally was held good at common law, it was unnecessary to pass upon constitutionality of employers' liability act in order to sustain the complaint. Oolitic Stone Co. v. Ridge [Ind. App.] 80 N. E. 441. Paragraph of complaint, where it affirmatively appears that verdict rests on certain other paragraphs alone. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Williams [Ind.] 79 N. E. 442; City of Indianapolis v. Keeley [Ind.] 79 N. E. 499. Sufficiency of pleadings where same facts are presented by exception to conclusions of law on findings. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Stryker [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 245. Sufficiency of complaint on demurrer where fundamental questions of case are presented by demurrers to answers. State v. Spittler [Conn.] 65 A. 949. Where declaration is insufficient and demurrer should have been sustained thereto, other questions in record are not open for consideration. Royal Phosphate Co. v. Van Ness [Fla.] 43 So. 916. On appeal from judgment for defendant, entered on plaintiff declining to plead over and taking a nonsuit after demurrers to complaint were sustained, where only questions of pleading were involved, held that court would not consider assignments predicated on mere expression of opinion by trial court that plaintiff could not recover under any state of facts. Esters v. Hurt [Ala.] 43 So. 565. Where demurrer to petition on ground of duplicity is erroneously overruled, all subsequent proceedings in trial are to be considered as nugatory and will not be reviewed. Macon & B. R. Co. v. Walton, 127 Ga. 294, 56 S. E. 419. Error cannot be predicated upon claims of law based upon contingency of court's finding contrary to way it actually did find. Contaldi v. Errichetti [Conn.] 64 A. 219.

73. Counsel cannot by stipulation in abstract submit questions of law not arising on record. Hubbard v. Justices' Court of San Jose Tp. [Cal. App.] 89 P. 865. Where term of imprisonment of alleged lunatic under criminal charge expires pending appeal from order denying application to investigate his sanity, only abstract questions are presented for review. In re Brooks, 104 N. Y. S. 670. Court cannot give mere advisory opinion, touching extraneous questions, for purpose of influencing future litigation. Interstate Coal & Iron Co. v. Clintwood Coal & Timber Co., 105 Va. 574, 54 S. E. 593. Will not construe statute passed after rights of parties became fixed, and which does not, therefore, affect them. City of New Orleans v. Board of Liquidation of City Debt [La.] 42 So. 157. Question whether court should allow separate bills of exceptions to be filed and included in record, where was stenographer's transcript of all the evidence with objections, rulings, and exceptions, held not open to consideration where appellant's appeal was in no way affected thereby because statement of facts as certified to by stenographer contained and presented as part of record subject-matter of separate bills. Cobb v. Bryan [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 12, 97 S. W. 513. Questions which will not arise at another trial. Southwestern Tel. & T. Co. v. Tucker [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 598, 98 S. W. 909. Instruction need not be reviewed where it will probably be changed on new trial after reversal and remand for other error. Grout v. Moulton [Vt.] 61 A. 453. Questions which may or may not arise at a subsequent trial of the case will not be considered. Singer Mfg. Co. v. Bryant, 103 Va. 403, 54 S. E. 320.

75. Keenan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 103 N. Y. S. 61. Opinion of court expressed to jury on matters of fact but ultimately submitted to them for decision not reviewable, no rule of law being incorrectly stated. Union Pac. R. Co. v. Thomas [C. C. A.] 152 F. 365.

76. Where from order granting new trial writ of error was perfected before new trial was had, held that rendition of final judgment ion,<sup>78</sup> will be ignored. Important public questions may, however, be considered on the merits though the case is disposed of on a point of practice.<sup>79</sup> The scope of review is limited to such matters as fall within the appellate jurisdiction pertaining to the reviewing court.<sup>80</sup> As a general rule no question not properly saved below,<sup>81</sup> preserved and presented in the record,<sup>82</sup> properly assigned,<sup>83</sup> and briefed and argued,<sup>84</sup> and no questions which do not harm the person appealing or objecting,<sup>85</sup> will be considered, but fundamental errors and jurisdictional defects apparent on the face of the record are reviewable though never before claimed or urged.<sup>86</sup> The appellate court may, also, when justice requires it, consider questions not properly saved. A statute forbidding the review of a particular question precludes consideration of other questions necessarily involved therein.<sup>87</sup> An instruction not given at appellant's instance may be reviewed though not given at the instance of the respondent.<sup>88</sup> Failure to perform a mere clerical duty is not reviewable.<sup>89</sup> An objection is waived by assuming an attitude inconsistent therewith on appeal.<sup>90</sup>

ment, on second verdict obtained after writ of error was perfected, did not constitute settlement and adjustment of controversy barring prosecution of writ. De Board v. Camden Interstate R. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 279.

77. Where pending appeal by railroad from order of railroad commission fixing rates railroad complied with order, there was nothing to review, though railroad company might be liable to shippers for excess in rates already collected. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Hunt [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 927.

78. Where new trial is granted, errors in first trial will not be considered on appeal from second. Multnomah County v. Willamette Towing Co. [Or.] 89 P. 389.

Appeal will not be retained to review abstract propositions as public questions where because of defendant's failure to deny allegations of petition for mandamus, theory upon which they proceeded and correctness of which they seek to have reviewed cannot be considered. People v. Voorhis, 100 N. Y. S. 717.

Circuit court of appeals cannot decide jurisdictional question respecting circuit court, the same being directly reviewable by the supreme court, though for all other purposes the circuit court of appeals had jurisdiction. Act March 3, 1891, § 6, c. 517, 26 St. 828. Town of Waterford v. Elson [C. C. A.] 149 F. 91. Decisions of state courts on questions of local law are not reviewable by the Federal courts. Iroquois Transp. Co. v. De Laney Forge & Iron Co., 205 U. S. 354, 51 Law. Ed. 836. Whether an order of a state corporation commission regulating train service was arbitrary and unreasonable as being beyond the scope of the commission's authority under the state laws, was a local question not reviewable on error to state court. *Atlantic Coast Line R. (§ 13) D. The extent of the review and the questions reached are determined by the character and effect of the order or judgment.<sup>98</sup>—Generally speaking, the main or final judgment takes up all intermediate orders or proceedings,<sup>99</sup> but not visory court, will not decide what was expressly premitted in chancery court. Peirce v. Halsell [Miss.] 43 So. 83. Evidence excluded below cannot be considered as evidence on appeal, but court can only determine whether it was erroneously excluded. Stubblefield v. Hanson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 36, 94 S. W. 406. The sustaining of cross errors to the admission of secondary evidence for appellant does not justify the appellate court in affirming the judgment just as though such evidence was not in the record, but if on all the evidence the judgment was wrong, it will be reversed and the trial court instructed as to the incompetency of such evidence. Smith v. Berz, 125 Ill. App. 122. Question of validity of an assessment not reviewable where ruling of state court that question was not in the case was based on its view of objector's application and of the pleadings, it not being contended that such view was erroneous. Fair Haven & W. People, 224 Ill. 160, 79 N. E. 648. Where order of reference in a suit to enjoin infringement of a trademark was limited to question of profits, no damages being allowed, question as to right of court to assess damages was not involved on appeal by defendant. Regis v. Jaynes, 191 Mass. 245, 77 N. E. 774. A case not passed upon by single justice who entered decree appealed from cannot on appeal to full court be substituted by agreement of counsel in place of case passed on by such justice. Holland v. Ball [Mass.] 78 N. E. 772. An assumption by trial court that mandamus is the proper remedy is equivalent to decision to that effect and may be reviewed. Dickinson v. Cheboygan County Canvassers [Mich.] 14 Det. Leg. N. 196, 111 N. W. 1075. On appeal from order of quarter sessions dividing a borough ward into election districts, appellate court is confined strictly to questions affecting jurisdiction of quarter sessions and regularity of proceedings therein. Waynesburg Borough's North Ward, 29 Pa. Super. Ct. 525. Matters arising subsequent to judgment appealed from not considered. Pipkin v. Tinch [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 1077. Parties cannot by stipulation inject into an appeal matters not determined in the cause in which the decree appealed from was rendered. Headrick v. Larson [C. C. A.] 152 F. 93.

Emmer* [La.] 43 So. 148. On appeal from decree pro confesso, where the party not only demurs and pleads but the court takes evidence, the demurrers and pleas as well as the decree are reviewable. Turpin v. Derickson [Md.] 66 A. 276. Appeal from judgment brings up all interlocutory and nonappealable orders of district court made prior to judgment, if they are properly presented by record. In re Paige's Estate [Idaho] 86 P. 273. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1742, order correcting verdict by striking finding may be reviewed on appeal from judgment. Frank v. Symons [Mont.] 88 P. 561. If a plaintiff is denied an opportunity to prove his cause of action upon a sufficient pleading, it is immaterial whether such denial is upon a motion or a demurrer, and he is entitled, if he has not waived his right, to have an adverse judgment reviewed. Walters v. Exeter [Neb.] 116 N. W. 631. Unauthorized transfer of case from one district to another is reviewable on appeal from the final judgment. People v. Murray, 104 N. Y. S. 740. Where judgment by default was entered in municipal court after defendant had appeared and answered, and motion to open default was denied, both judgment and order are before court on review. North Side Iron Works v. Thacke & Co., 104 N. Y. S. 365. Upon appeal from judgment on the merits, court will review order of municipal those subsequent to it,<sup>1</sup> nor separate parts not appealed.<sup>2</sup> In some states it does not take up appealable interlocutory orders,<sup>3</sup> though a contrary rule prevails in most code states,<sup>4</sup> at least in cases where the time for appealing therefrom has not expired.<sup>5</sup> An appeal from an interlocutory order brings up only the order itself as it stood at the making thereof and nothing subsequent.<sup>6</sup> In some states it does not bring up a previous appealable order on which it is based if the time for appealing from the latter has expired.<sup>7</sup> Appeals from the grant or refusal of a new trial,<sup>8</sup> or other orders made in the courts of the trial<sup>9</sup> or after judgment, reach only those matters which entered in the order itself, and other matters can be considered only on appeal from final judgment.<sup>10</sup> In some states, however an appeal from the order on a motion for a new trial, rather than an appeal from the judgment, reaches the facts,<sup>11</sup> and only matters urged as grounds for a new trial can be reviewed.<sup>12</sup> In states where a final decree cannot be rendered pending the determination of excep-

4. Order sustaining demurrer to evidence is reviewable on appeal from final judgment if made within year preceding filing of petition, although it is appealable in itself. White v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Kan.] 88 P. 54. Under § 1316, Code Civ. Proc., providing that right to review interlocutory judgment is not affected by expiration of time within which separate appeal might have been taken, party appealing from final judgment is entitled to have reviewed an interlocutory judgment appointing a referee. Bauer v. Parker, 101 N. Y. S. 455.

5. Ruling on demurrer made more than year before proceeding in error is instituted is not reviewable. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Murphy [Kan.] 90 P. 290.

6. Motion below after appeal from such order to set it aside does not constitute waiver of appeal. Continental Clay & Min. Co. v. Bryson [Ind.] 81 N. E. 210. Action of trial court in sustaining exceptions to answer not being within Code 1896, § 427, specifying what interlocutory orders are appealable, held that it could not be reviewed on appeal from decree overruling demurrers to bill and a motion to dismiss. *Cleveland v. Appeal from order allowing withdrawal of juror upon terms to enable plaintiff to amend his complaint does not bring up for review ruling sufficiency of the complaint. Ranson v. Silo, 105 App. Div. 278, 93 N. Y. S. 416.

7. Where order is appealed from within time provided by statute, and error complained of is based solely on an appealable order not reversed or appealed from, an appeal from which is barred by the statute, such error cannot be reviewed. Kelner v. Cowden [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 649.

8. Sufficiency of complaint can be reviewed only on appeal from judgment and not on appeal from order denying new trial. Jenson v. Will & Finck Co. [Cal.] 89 P. 113. On appeal from order granting new trial, sufficiency of pleadings cannot be considered, but only propriety of order itself is reviewable. Cook v. Skinner [Wash.] 89 P. 553.

9. Appeal from judgment merely allowing defendant treble costs does not present alleged error in the taxation of those costs. Sidway v. Missouri Land & Live Stock Co., 197 Mo. 359, 94 S. W. 855.

10. Where grant of a new trial is affirmed pendente lite, exceptions will not be considered and passed upon as case is still pending in court below. Ogletree v. Livingston, 125 Ga. 548, 54 S. E. 625; Athens Elec. R. Co. v. Jackson, 125 Ga. 551, 54 S. E. 626. On appeal from order of sale made after decree finally settling rights of parties in suit for partition, matters adjudicated by the decree for partition are not open to review. Crowe v. Kennedy, 224 Ill. 526, 79 N. E. 626.

11. Where no appeal was taken from order denying new trial, appellate court will not weigh evidence, being confined to exceptions. Prager v. Schafuss, 99 N. Y. S. 840. Upon appeal from judgment but not from an order denying a new trial, court will only examine record for errors of law which were excepted to and which warrant reversal. Beinhauer v. Baldwin Engineering Co., 104 N. Y. S. 431. Sufficiency of evidence to sustain finding will not be reviewed, in absence of appeal from order denying new trial. Subera v. Jones [S. D.] 108 N. 17. Appellate court will take judicial notice of location of an important line of railroad of congressional grant of land to it, and that a particular section lies within limits of grant and location so that a plaintiff in ejectment connecting with railroad's title sufficiently shows title. Worden v. Colo. [Kan.] 86 P. 464. Supreme court cannot take judicial notice of fact that train going at rate of 20 or 25 miles an hour could have stopped within 80 or 90 yards. *Southern R. Co. v. NOTE. Judicial notice of own records: The court while confined to the "record" will judicially notice such of its own records though of other cases as are material. Sawyer v. First Nat. Bk. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 701, 93 S. W. 151, in which case it is said: [Note.] "For authority in taking judicial notice of our own records, we refer to the following cases: Doremus v. Root, 23 Wash. 721, 63 P. 572, 54 L. R. A. 649; State v. Bowen, 10 Kan. 477; Gans v. Holland, 37 Ark. 485; State v. Jackson, 35 La. Ann. 769; Poole v. Seney, 70 Iowa, 275, 24 N. In the case of Poole v. Seney, 70 Iowa, 275, 24 N. W. 520, 30 N. W. 634, we find that a writ of garnishment had issued, and the garnishee had answered, alleging that one of the defendants in the main litigation was indebted to him in a large amount, and that such amount was secured by mortgages. The plaintiffs in garnishment filed a pleading controverting the answers of the garnishee, and set up that the chattel mortgages had been adjudged fraudulent and void in an equity case in which they were plaintiffs and the garnishee was defendant. At the time that the suit of Poole, Gilliam & Co. was brought, the right of appeal in the equity case existed, but the appeal had not been perfected. Thereafter, a superior court determined that the mortgage was not fraudulent and void, and reversed the equity case. The court says: The determination of the equity case in this court must be regarded as a final and conclusive determination that the mortgage is not invalid. This being so, what effect, if any, does such adjudication have in this action? It is certain that the judgment rendered in the district court was right when it was rendered. It is equally certain that the plaintiffs have a judgment to which they are not now entitled. Is this court powerless to correct the wrong? is the question to be determined. On a rehearing of the case, the court says: Our own records, of which we take notice, show that the case referred to has been reversed. In view of those admissions, we do not think it can be justly said that the equity cause had not been appealed and we bound to know that it has been reversed. In the case of Butler v. Eaton, 141 U. S. 240, 35 Law. Ed. 713, the court says: And it cannot be said, therefore, looking to the record in this case alone, that there is error in the judgment now before us. But by our own judgment just rendered in the other case, the whole basis and foundation of the defense in the present case, viz: the judgment of the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts is subverted and rendered null and void, for the purpose of any such defense. * * * It is apparent from an inspection of the record that the whole foundation of that part of the judgment which is in favor of the defendant is, to our judicial knowledge, without any validity, force or effect, and ought never to have existed. Why then, should not we reverse

Affidavit that communication of judge with jury was with consent of all parties could not be considered on rehearing where not filed below in resistance of motion for new trial. Holliday v. Sampson [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 232, 95 S. W. 643. Will not consider records in other cases between same parties involving substantially same state of facts where such cases were not tried as one, and evidence in some was made part of evidence in other cases. Kahl v. New York City R. Co., 103 N. Y. S. 872. Denial of jury trial on appeal from municipal court to superior court sustained where record of superior court showed no demand for a jury and the only evidence of such demand was defendant's own affidavit. Mitchell v. Thomas [Mass.] 81 N. E. 193. Under St. 1904, p. 450, c. 448, § 8, no matters will be tried in superior court except those specified in the appeal. Mead v. Cutler [Mass.] 80 N. E. 496. Such provision is not an unconstitutional limitation of right of trial by jury. Id. Jurisdiction of land court not involved on appeal to superior court on issue not involving such jurisdiction as a material statement. Woodvine v. Dean [Mass.] 79 N. E. 882.

Opinion of trial court: Correctness of finding cannot be determined from opinion filed with order denying nonsuit. Rose v. Doe [Cal. App.] 89 P. 135. Appellate court must determine the question of excessiveness of a verdict from the evidence and not on opinion of trial court that it was large. Hanchett v. Haas, 125 Ill. App. 111. Opinion copied in abstract of record cannot be made to take place of finding of facts. Little v. Hooker Steam Pump Co., 122 Mo. App. 620, 100 S. W. 561. Under rule that except on exceptions an order granting or refusing a new trial must specify grounds upon which motion was made and those upon which it was granted, where order granting new trial specifies grounds of motion but not those upon which it was granted, court on appeal may consider opinion of trial court to ascertain whether it was granted or exceptions taken at trial. Israel v. Ury, 102 N. Y. S. 871.

21. Appeal brings up questions of discretion as well as matters of law. Decree dismissing bill modified so as to make the dismissal without prejudice. Lakin v. Lawrence [Mass.] 80 N. E. 578. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 3189, as amended by Laws 1902, c. 515, supreme court has power to review acts involving exercise of discretion by city court of New York. Tirpak v. Hoe, 103 N. Y. S. 795. While fact that appellate court is of unanimous opinion that trial court erred in discretionary ruling is not always sufficient to authorize reversal, it is generally so held where reversal will result in trial on merits where none has been had. Cutler v. Haycock [Utah.] 90 P. 897. Rulings of commissioner of patents in discretionary matters not reviewable. Jones v. Starr, 26 App. D. C. 64. General rule that appellate court will not disturb ruling of lower court as to whether an injunction bond shall be prosecuted does not apply where facts appear in pleadings and issues are before appellate court on appeal on merits. Cortelyou v. Houghton, 27 App. D. C. 188. Decision that appointment of administrator was necessary not disturbed. Miguez v. Delcambre [La.] 43 So. 703. 60. Rule that action of trial judge settling case on appeal cannot be reviewed only applies where it reasonably appears that he decided disputed matter upon his recollection or understanding of proceedings had before him, and where case was settled on stipulation while on his death bed, and motion to amend was made before another plication for leave to file bills of review,<sup>63</sup> orders awarding the custody of children in divorce proceedings,<sup>64</sup> and the punishment for contempt.<sup>65</sup> An order granting or denying a new trial made by a judge who did not preside at the trial does not carry with it the usual presumption under which such orders will be sustained.<sup>66</sup> Where an application addressed to discretion is denied generally, it will be presumed that the denial was in the exercise of discretion.<sup>67</sup>

justice, latter's decision is not conclusive. McMahon v. Delaware, etc., R. Co., 101 N. Y. S. 805.

61. Attorney's fees allowed in mechanic's lien proceedings held not such as to show abuse of discretion. Title Guarantee & Trust Co. v. Burdette [Md.] 65 A. 341. Under Comp. Laws 1897, § 6240, trial judge is final arbiter of amount to be allowed as attorney's fees in condemnation proceedings and his decision is not subject to review. Boyne City, etc., R. Co. v. Anderson [Mich.] 13 Det. Leg. N. 739, 109 N. W. 429.

62. Allowance by surrogate court to special guardians of infants so excessive as to constitute an abuse of discretion will be reversed. In re Stevens, 114 App. Div. 607, 99 N. Y. S. 1070. Where there was no dispute as to facts, question whether case was difficult and extraordinary so as to authorize allowance of additional costs held reviewable as presenting a question of law. *Campbell v. 66. Appellate court will examine and weigh evidence same as nisi prius court should do. Van Camp v. Emery [Idaho] 89 P. 752.

67. Since Const. art. 3, § 5, authorizing review by court of appeals of apportionment of legislative districts, makes no provision as to scope of such review, the general rules apply, including the rule that refusal of mandamus will not be reviewed unless it affirmatively appears that the order of refusal was not made by the lower court in the exercise of its discretion. *Sherill v. Action to quiet title is triable by jury, and hence Acts 1903, p. 338, c. 193, § 8, Burns' Ann. St. 1905, § 641, requiring supreme court to weigh evidence in actions not triable by jury, does not apply. Adams v. Betz [Ind.] 78 N. E. 649. Is within province of appellate court to determine, as question of law, whether evidence given below in support of verdict and judgment has enough probative strength to present real issues of fact which may be honestly settled either way by a jury of reasonable men. Pickens v. Metropolitan St. R. Co. [Mo. App.] 103 S. W. 124. Where case is heard on affidavits, reviewing court has same means of judging as to the weight of testimony or credibility of the witnesses as trial court, and should treat such testimony as though it were presented in reviewing court for the first time. Finding of ultimate fact from stipulation as to facts in detail is entitled to same consideration as finding on conflicting evidence. Crisman v. Lanterman, 149 Cal. 647, 87 P. 89.

72. Three States Lumber Co. v. Blanks [Tenn.] 102 S. W. 79. Usual presumption in favor of verdict is not destroyed because it was based solely on evidence given at former trial and read to jury by agreement of parties. C., P. & St. L. R. Co. v. Condon, 121 Ill. App. 440. Finding that solicitor had no authority to file suit held as finding of fact, and presumed correct in absence of evidence. Bellinger v. Barnes, 223 Ill. 121, 79 N. E. 11. On demurrer to sufficiency of evidence, appellate court will draw every reasonable inference from the facts in evidence that may be indulged in favor of the cause of action. Dunphy v. St. Joseph Stock Yards Co., 118 Mo. App. 506, 95 S. W. 301. Where third person at request of maker of note secured by mortgage gave holder a check to prevent him from foreclosing, and there was verdict for such holder in a suit on the check, it was presumed in support of the verdict that the check was given to prevent plaintiff from foreclosing, and not in purchase of the note, which had been paid, the check being without consideration in the latter case but not in the former. National Bk. v. Sayer [N. H.] 65 A. 254. Question whether freight schedules had been posted not reviewable where state court in effect declared that it was conceded to have been filed and published as per statute, and it did not appear but that court found facts showing that such was the case. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Abitene Cotton Oil Co., 204 U. S. 426, 51 Law. Ed. 553.

74. La Salle Pressed Brick Co. v. Coe, 126 Ill. App. 308. Where three juries reached same conclusion. Consolidated Coal Co. v. Shepherd, 122 Ill. App. 323; Mills v. Larrance, 120 Ill. App. 83. Where two juries in expropriation proceedings have assessed damages at about same amount and their verdicts are sustained by preponderance of evidence, last verdict will not be disturbed. Louisiana & A. R. Co. v. Moseley, 117 La. 313, 41 So. 585.

75. See, also, § 13 G, post. Adjudication of county court on testamentary capacity and undue influence, affirmed by circuit court and sustained by evidence, will not be disturbed by supreme court. Sweetser v. Ladd [Fla.] 41 So. 705. Trial court held evidence too uncertain to award damages. Court of appeal awarded damages and supreme court reduced them and affirmed. Brown v. Louisiana, etc., R. Co. [La.] 42 So. 656. Findings approved by two courts not disturbed if there is any evidence to support them. Davidson S. S. Co. v. U. S., 205 U. S. 187, 51 Law. Ed. 764.

76. Findings of fact by court have same weight as verdict of jury. McGeevry v. Harris [Ala.] 41 So. 930; Roberts & Shafer Co. v. Jones [Ark.] 101 S. W. 165; Caughlin v. Campbell-Sell Baking Co. Under Code 1896, § 3319, general finding of court has same effect as verdict and is not reviewable in absence of special findings or any request therefor. Nichols v. Ragsdale [Ala.] 41 So. 633. Findings on disputed questions of fact are presumptively correct and though, by statute, not as controlling as verdict of a jury, will stand unless evidence clearly preponderates against them. Buchanan v. Randall [S. D.] 109 N. W. 513. Are not binding where evidence is undisputed and question is merely as to its effect and construction. Bromley v. Atwood, 79 Ark. 357, 96 S. W. 356. Finding which merely affirmed issues joined by general denial of allegations of complaint without declaring specifically upon affirmative defenses raised by answer, except that all material allegations of answer were unproven and untrue, held not such a finding of fact as to be conclusive on appeal in presence of evidence so conflicting as to present but a mere preponderance either way. *Closuit v. (§ 13) G. Rulings and decisions on intermediate appeals.<sup>85</sup>—Where an intermediate appeal is had, the findings of fact therein are usually final, review in the court of last resort being confined to questions of law,<sup>86</sup> and to questions litigated

Finding of single justice will not be disturbed unless plainly wrong. United Shoe Mach. Co. v. Kimball [Mass.] 79 N. E. 790; Elliott v. Baker [Mass.] 80 N. E. 450. Rule that when appeal from decision of single judge is heard by full court on report of all evidence adduced at original hearing, the decision of such judge as to matters of fact will not be reversed unless clearly erroneous, is confined to cases where the evidence is oral and conflicting, and does not apply where the evidence is documentary, and in appellate court is in equally good position as trial judge was with respect to inferences from the evidence. Harvey-Watts Co. v. Worcester Umbrella Co. [Mass.] 78 N. E. 886. Rule does not prevent full court, upon consideration of all the evidence, from reaching different conclusion. Poland v. Beal, 192 Mass. 559, 78 N. E. 728. Rule does not apply where all the evidence is documentary. Old Corner Book Store v. Upham [Mass.] 80 N. E. 228.

Questions of fact are reviewable. Linkemann v. Knepper, 226 Ill. 473, 80 N. E. 1009. No presumptions of correctness can be indulged in favor of chancellor's decree, but appellate court must reach its own conclusions in regard to it. Spears v. Taylor [Ala.] 42 So. 1016. Chancellor's decision is of persuasive force only and case must be decided on the weight of the evidence. Gray v. Gray [Ark.] 98 S. W. 376. Judgment of chancellor will not be followed where it is against preponderance of evidence. Deatley v. Tolle, 29 Ky. L. R. 1111, 96 S. W. 920. Judgment will be given according to weight of evidence and truth of matter as it shall appear to court from the whole record. United Loan & Deposit Bk. v. Minor, 30 Ky. L. R. 496, 99 S. W. 227. Where appeal brings up facts as well as questions of law, reviewing court must determine case according to its own judgment. Jennings v. Demmon [Mass.] 80 N. E. 471. Where evidence is conflicting, credibility of witnesses involved, and charge of fraud to be determined, and proof is not sufficiently definite and certain to satisfy the appellate court that ends of justice have been attained by decree below, it will be reversed and an issue framed to be tried by jury. Morgan v. Booker [Va.] 56 S. E. 137. That trial court disregarded admitted evidence as immaterial held not available to appellant as appellate court would consider same. Budlong v. Budlong [Wash.] 86 P. 559. Finding upon an issue involving not merely question of fact but construction of written instruments is not conclusive. Pile v. Carpenter [Tenn.] 99 S. W. 360. Finding of chancellor based solely on an affidavit is not conclusive. Krieger v. Krieger, 120 Ill. App. 634. Finding on motion to set aside sheriff's sale under foreclosure in equity not being triable de novo on appeal is binding. evidence being in conflict. Fuller v. O'Connell [Iowa] 110 N. W. 281. Finding of jury in suit in equity is binding neither upon trial nor appellate court. Burdall v. Johnson, 122 Mo. App. 119, 99 S. W. 2.

Ruling that there is no evidence is reviewable as question of law, though affirmed by appellate court. Rigdon v. More, 226 Ill. 382, 80 N. E. 901. Where appellate court on reversal of judgment of trial court incorporates in its judgment findings of fact different from those made below, findings so incorporated are not reviewable by the supreme court. Toolen v. Chicago Towel Supply Co., 222 Ill. 517, 78 N. E. 825; Chaplin v. Illinois Terminal R. Co. [Ill.] 81 N. E. 15; Schaller v. Independent Brew. Ass'n, 225 Ill. 492, 80 N. E. 334. New York: Unanimous affirmance by appellate division is conclusive on court of appeals on questions of fact. Rand v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 186 N. Y. 58, 78 N. E. 574; People v. Bingham, 186 N. Y. 538, 78 N. E. 1098; Seger v. Farmers' L. & T. Co. [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 977; Busch v. Interborough Rapid Transit Co., 187 N. Y. 388, 80 N. E. 197; In re Stevens, 187 N. Y. 471, 80 N. E. 358; In re Caldwell, 188 N. Y. 115, 80 N. E. 663; Harris v. Baltimore M. & E. Works, 188 N. Y. 141, 80 N. E. 1028; Burke v. Baker [N. Y.] 80 N. E. 1033; Adams v. Lawson [N. Y.] 81 N. E. 315; Blum v. Mayer [N. Y.] 81 N. E. 780. Under Const. art. 6, § 3, and Code Civ. Proc. § 190, and § 191, subd. 3, authorizing review by court of appeals of final orders by appellate division in special proceedings, the review thus authorized extends only to questions of law in proceedings to review senatorial and assembly apportionments made by legislature. In re Sherill [N. Y.] 81 N. E. 124. Denial of motion to dismiss complaint for want of facts before evidence taken survives unanimous affirmance, and is reviewable by court of appeals. Kelly v. Security M. L. Ins. Co., 186 N. Y. 16, 78 N. E. 584. When affirmance is not unanimous, court of appeals will ascertain whether there is any evidence to support the verdict. Milbaur v. Larkin [N. Y.] 81 N. E. 321; Parsons v. Teller, 188 N. Y. 318, 80 N. E. 930. Where affirmance is not unanimous, trial court's failure to make findings is reviewable. Arnot v. Union Salt Co., 186 N. Y. 501, 79 N. E. 719. Under Code Civ. Proc. § 1338, it will be presumed that reversal by appellate division was upon law, where it does not appear that it was upon the facts. Freedman v. Oppenheim [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 841. Hence where, in such case, the findings of trial court are supported by evidence, they will control decision of court of appeals. Untermeyer v. Yonkers [N. Y.] 80 N. E. 1087. Only question for the court of appeals in such case is whether the conclusions of law are supported by the facts found. Stokes v. Continental Trust Co., 186 N. Y. 285, 78 N. E. 1090. On appeal from order of appellate division dismissing appeal from an order of the special term granting peremptory writ of mandamus, the court of appeals will not consider the sufficiency of the grounds for the writ. People v. Voorhis, 186 N. Y. 263, 78 N. E. 1001.

Texas: Finding of trial court approved by court of civil appeals is conclusive upon supreme court if there is any evidence to support it. McDonald v. Cabiness [Tex.] 102 S. W. 721. While supreme court cannot review objections that verdict is against preponderance of evidence and so excessive as to require a new trial, court of civil appeals should decide such questions before final decision. Parks v. San Antonio Traction Co. [Tex.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 186, 94 S. W. 331. Assignments directed to improper remarks of counsel and denial of new trial for newly discovered evidence while reviewable by supreme court to determine whether appellant is entitled to a new trial as a matter of law can be passed on by that court only after court of civil appeals has determined how far misconduct influenced verdict and whether new evidence was sufficiently important to justify new trial. Id.

87. Matters not made subject of cross assignments by plaintiff on appeal by defendant to appellate court will not be considered by supreme court on error by plaintiff. Gay v. Kohlsaat, 223 Ill. 260, 79 N. E. 77.

88. Where, on plaintiff's appeal, court of civil appeals rendered judgment of affirmance, while its opinion indicated a reversal, defendant's application to supreme court for writ of error was returned that error if any might be corrected. Moore v. Rogers [Tex.] 95 S. W. 500.

7. Is duty of appellate court to reverse for error plainly appearing, unless it can be said from consideration of entire record that no injury resulted to complaining party. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Williams [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 847, 96 S. W. 1037. Supreme court can and should reverse only in cases where, in its judgment, there is reversible error in what was done, omitted, or declined to be decided in court of original jurisdiction. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Wallace [Miss.] 43 So. 469. Judgment for defendant will not be affirmed where reversible error appears, unless the petition presents a case of which the trial court has no jurisdiction, or it clearly appears that no matter can be introduced that will change the result. Miller v. Drought [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 145. Where finding is so insufficient in form as not to be conclusive on appeal, the court may affirm the judgment if clearly supported by preponderance of the evidence; reverse if not so supported, ordering judgment with what appears to be the preponderance of the evidence, or remand for further trial and findings. Closuit

9. Where appellate court finds that plea to jurisdiction below is still undisposed of, it will reverse and remand in order that a final decree may be rendered settling so far as practicable the rights of the parties concerned. Bryan v. Curtis, 26 App. D. C. 95. Where amendment raising new issue was not filed until after taking of proof was completed, and testimony on such issue was not developed as fully as it might have been, held that, in interests of justice, decree would be reversed with directions to allow either party to introduce additional evidence as to it. Carlile v. Corrigan [Ark.] 103 S. W. 620. Where necessary question was expressly pretermitted by lower court, and case decided on wrong theory, held that judgment would be reversed and remanded for full adjudication. Peirce v. Halsell [Miss.] 43 So. 83.

10. Joint decree against several defendants will be reversed where court has never acquired jurisdiction over one of them. Sarasota Ice, F. & P. Co. v. Lyle & Co. [Fla.] 43 So. 602.

Would not reverse where only $2.81 was involved. Spunner v. Roney, 122 Ill. App. 19. A judgment in an equity case will not be reversed and the case sent back for amendment of the complaint to allege a fact as to which there is a finding on sufficient evidence, but the complaint will be considered as amended. Brown v. Baldwin [Wash.] 89 P. 483. Where, if a reversal was granted, it would only be necessary for respondent to plead a former judgment by way of estoppel to again succeed, the appeal will be affirmed. Bird v. Winyer [Wash.] 87 P. 259. Where in a boundary line dispute the jury awarded the successful party a few inches too much, the error will not be disregarded under the maxim "Lex non minimum curat" where the strip extends under the eaves of appellant's house and may involve further litigation. *Thornely v. On overruling of exceptions to allowance of injunction, the case may be remanded for purpose of ascertaining damages. Parker v. American Woolen Co. [Mass.] 81 N. E. 468. Judgment in claim and delivery affirmed as to issue of ownership, and case remanded for new trial on issue of damages. Haggerty Bros. v. Lash, 34 Mont. 517, 87 P. 907.

currence of a majority of the court<sup>23</sup> as constituted at the time of decision<sup>24</sup> is necessary to a reversal, and, where the justices are equally divided in opinion, the judgment stands affirmed by operation of law.<sup>25</sup> In Florida a majority is constitutionally required for decision, and the rule as to affirmance by a divided court is abrogated, but if the division seems permanent all should vote for affirmance, which will be binding only in the instant case.<sup>26</sup> A judgment may be affirmed upon condition<sup>27</sup> or without prejudice to proceedings had since the appeal.<sup>28</sup> Affirmance acts of the date which judgment was rendered, or of the date of submission.<sup>29</sup> A reversal relates back to the time when judgment was entered,<sup>30</sup> unless the mandate thereon gives it a different effect.<sup>31</sup>

(§ 15) B. Transfers and removals, certifications and reservations.<sup>32</sup>—Certification and reservation by trial court to reviewing court is elsewhere treated.<sup>33</sup> An appeal may, if taken to the court not having jurisdiction, be transferred by a court of primary to one of final appeal,<sup>34</sup> or vice versa.<sup>35</sup> Transfer or certification in case of failure of judges to agree,<sup>36</sup> or in case of difficulty or importance,<sup>37</sup> or conflicting decisions,<sup>38</sup> is sometimes allowed.

23. Mugge v. Tate, Jones & Co. [Fla.] 41 So. 603. Where three justices of the district court of appeals are unable to agree, a writ of habeas corpus must be denied under Const. art. 6, § 4, requiring a concurrence of three to pronounce a judgment. Ex parte Sauer [Cal. App.] 84 P. 995.

24. Where a case was argued and submitted before the constitutional supreme court was changed from three to seven members, but was decided thereafter, no valid decision could be made by two judges, and a rehearing is proper. Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Burchard [Colo.] 86 P. 749.

28. Where an order refusing to allow an amendment of a referee's report so as to show the facts results in no prejudice to the appellant, the order will be reversed without prejudice to any proceedings had in the action since the filing of the report. Hudson & M. R. Co. v. Jackson, 115 App. Div. 168, 100 N. Y. S. 737.

29. Hence, where respondent dies after submission, a judgment of affirmance rendered after his death may be revived by his personal representative after it has been certified to the lower court. Birmingham R., L. & P. Co. v. Cunningham, 141 Ala. 470, 37 So. 689.

30. Reversal of decree construing will held to vacate partition as between parties, but not to affect titles acquired by innocent third parties. Ure v. Ure, 223 Ill. 454, 79 N. E. 153. Such a reversal requires an accounting and restitution between the parties. Id. Mortgagee who lent money to one of parties on faith of decree held an innocent third party, and as such not affected by the reversal. Id.

31. A decree adjudicating water rights is set aside and a readjudication had, but on appeal the judgment was reversed with instructions to reinstate the priorities granted by the first decree and to modify its decree accordingly, held that the effect of the mandate was to reinstate the original decree and the rights are determined thereby and not by the decree entered. Farmers' Union Ditch Co. v. Rio Grande Canal Co. [Colo.] 86 P. 1042.

34. Under Act 1904, No. 56, p. 135, the supreme court has the "right" to transfer to proper court, but may dismiss where it deems proper to do so. Samuel Israelite Baptist Church v. Thomas, 117 La. 253, 41 So. 564. Acts 1904, p. 135, no. 56, providing for transfer of cases appealed to wrong court where case has been otherwise "properly brought up," held not unconstitutional as conferring jurisdiction on appellate courts of cases of which they have none under constitution because it authorizes them to determine whether cases have been properly brought up, that being first question to be determined in any appeal, and court necessarily having jurisdiction to determine it regardless of such statute. Bolden v. Barnes [La.] 42 So. 934. In Missouri, where an appeal is taken to the court of appeals, in a case in which a constitutional question was raised, the cause will be certified to the supreme court, even though it seems to the court of appeals that the constitutional point was not well taken. Wabash R. Co. v. Flannigan, 118 Mo. App. 124, 100 S. W. 661. Constitutional questions will not authorize a transfer to the supreme court from the appellate court where neither court has any jurisdiction of an appeal in the particular case. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission [Ind.] 78 N. E. 981. A transfer from supreme court to court of appeals for want of jurisdiction of supreme court must be of such court's own motion. Parker & Co. v. Succession of Griffin, 117 La. 977, 42 So. 473.

35. Where jurisdictional amount is not involved, supreme court will transfer case to court of appeals. Pittsburg Bridge Co. v. St. Louis Transit Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 546.

36. Under Burns' Rev. St. 1901, § 13370, cause will be transferred to supreme court where cause is submitted to entire appellate and four of judges thereof fail to concur

(§ 15) C. Remand or final determination.<sup>39</sup>—On reversal the ordinary practice is to remand for a new trial,<sup>40</sup> but if the error is formal or clerical,<sup>41</sup> or a mere matter of computation,<sup>42</sup> the error will be corrected and the judgment affirmed as reformed or the party may be required to cure the error by remittitur,<sup>43</sup> unless such

37. Questions certified by the circuit court of appeals to the United States supreme court must not contain more than a single question or proposition of law. As to liability on certain bonds. Quinlan v. Green County, 205 U. S. 410, 51 Law. Ed. 860. Questions of mixed law and facts cannot be certified by circuit court of appeals to Federal supreme court. Chicago, B. & Q. R. Co. v. Williams, 205 U. S. 444, 51 Law. Ed. 875. The Federal circuit court of appeals should not certify a question of law to the supreme court except in cases of grave doubt (Cella v. Brown [C. C. A.] 144 F. 742), and not after the case has been decided (Id.). Under Burns' Ann. St. 1901, § 1337j, subd. 1, requiring transfer to supreme court where appellate court decides "new questions of law erroneously," only the opinion of the appellate court will be looked to in determining whether there is ground for transfer, regardless of questions presented to such court for determination, but not decided. Grand Rapids & I. R. Co. v. Railroad Commission [Ind.] 78 N. E. 981.

38. Opinion of Texas court of civil appeals held not to be in conflict with opinions of other courts of civil appeals, so as to require certification to supreme court under Laws 1899, p. 170, c. 95. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Conner [Tex.] 100 S. W. 367.

39. See 7 C. L. 241.

40. Where defendant's motion to dismiss in an equity case was sustained, though case was triable de novo on appeal, on reversal it was remanded for a new trial to give defendant an opportunity to rebut the prima facie case made out by plaintiff. Shetler v. Stewart [Iowa] 110 N. W. 582. New trial will not be awarded on reversal solely for error in sustaining a motion in arrest of judgment. Field v. Winheim, 123 Ill. App. 227. Where the conclusion below is based upon erroneous rulings excluding testimony, will remand the case for a rehearing. Faust v. Southern R. Co., 74 S. C. 360, 54 S. E. 566. Where real estate is involved it is the practice to remand the cause on reversal in order that the titles may be cleared and supplementary proceedings had where the land is situate. Foster v. Beidler [Ark.] 98 S. W. 968. Where under Rev. St. 1899, § 866, the supreme court reverses a judgment without remanding case for new trial, the lower court is without jurisdiction to proceed. Donnell v. Wright, 199 Mo. 304, 97 S. W. 928.

41. Where interest was added to verdict and judgment entered for lump sum, appellate court would order judgment only for amount of verdict "with interest" from date thereof. Green v. Sun Co., 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 521. Where names of plaintiffs are omitted from the caption or body of decree, such informality will be corrected in the appellate court where the record shows who the plaintiffs are. Dixon v. Hunter [Mo.] 102 S. W. 970. In affirming judgment for defendants, certain state and county officers, in a suit to restrain such officers from imposing a tax under certain sections of the Texas statute, c. 48, p. 358, Acts 29th Legislature, the court will correct the judgment so as to recite the recovery by the state of Texas of the amount therein stated. Texas Co. v. Stephens [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 160. Where moving party failed to appear at hearing of motion to open default and order thereon improperly recited that motion was denied instead of dismissed, upon appeal from the order it can only be modified by making it conform to the facts. Levine v. Munchit, 101 N. Y. S. 14. A judgment erroneously requiring surety on appeal bond to pay certain sum to successful respondent instead of requiring him to deposit it to the credit of respondent pursuant to conditions of bond may be corrected on appeal. Mossein v. Empire State Surety Co., 102 N. Y. S. 1013.

42. Henry County v. Salmon [Mo.] 100 S. W. 20. Where jury returned verdict for more than was justified by the paper sued on, appellate court at plaintiff's request could reduce the amount to conform thereto. King v. McKinstry, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 34. Error of 77 cents in calculation of interest not reversible. Ellis v. National City Bk. [Tex. Civ. App.] 14 Tex. Ct. Rep. 892, 94 S. W. 437. Failure to deduct unpaid premium from judgment on insurance policy. St. Paul Fire & Marine Ins. Co. v. Stogner [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 260, 98 S. W. 218. Judgment in excess of specific amount shown by appellee's own evidence modified. McConnell v. Corona City Water Co., 149 Cal. 60, 85 P. 929. Where judgment is correct except that it includes items not authorized by findings, it may be modified; Kern Valley Water Co. v. Kern County [Cal.] 90 P. 121. Allowance of $462 excessive attorney's fees not reversible but to be deducted from judgment. Trabue v. Wade [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 591, 95 S. W. 616. Judgment allowing recovery of an engine and tender when verdict referred to engine only could be corrected on appeal. Jonesboro, etc., R. Co. v. United Iron Works Co., 117 Mo. App. 153, 94 S. W. 726.

43. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Barr [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 437; Lyttle v. Goldberg [Wis.] 111 N. W. 718; Lupton v. Taylor [Ind. App.] 79 N. E. 523; Blowers v. Southern R. Co., 74 S. C. 221, 54 S. E. 368; Gulf, etc., R. Co. v. Bates [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 319, 95 S. W. 738. Code 1906, § 4910, providing that circuit court shall not in any case cause plaintiff to enter remittitur on pain of a new trial, but that motion for new trial shall be overruled where only error is that, in court's opinion, verdict is excessive, but that supreme court may reverse when verdict is excessive unless remittitur is entered, held unconstitutional as preventing defendants from having complete disposition of their rights below, and correction involves the rights of a party not in court;<sup>44</sup> and though the appellate court will not, except where the appeal is triable dé novo, find additional facts or adjudicate matters not tried below,<sup>45</sup> or proceed to the assessment of damages,<sup>46</sup> it may, if it has all the facts before it, proceed to do complete justice,<sup>47</sup> particularly if the case was heard below on agreed facts<sup>48</sup> or without a jury,<sup>49</sup> the courts inclining to a final disposition of the case if it can be justly made.<sup>50</sup> If it clearly appears on reversal that but one result could be reached on a retrial, the court will order judgment absolute,<sup>51</sup> or remand with specific directions to the court as giving supreme court original jurisdiction. Yazoo & M. V. R. Co. v. Wallace [Miss.] 43 So. 469. Where it is apparent that the damages are excessive, but the court on appeal is unable to determine in what amount so that a remittitur could be ordered, the judgment will be reversed and a new trial granted. Babbitt v. Union Pac. R. Co. [Neb.] 110 N. W. 1014; Phoenix Assur. Co. v. Maryland Gold Min. & Development Co. [C. C. A.] 146 F. 501; Hebbethwaite v. Flint, 101 N. Y. S. 43; In re Stevens, 114 App. Div. 607, 99 N. Y. S. 1070; Ackerman v. True, 105 N. Y. S. 12.

44. Appellate court could not finally dispose of certain insurance funds where all the claimants were not parties to the appeal. Nixon v. Malone [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 715, 95 S. W. 577.

45. Where testimony on issue not decided by trial court is conflicting, appellate court cannot find facts and give judgment accordingly. Steinfeld v. Zeckendorf [Ariz.] 86 P. 7. Where, in proceedings to set aside mortgage foreclosure appeal record shows real issue tried was the validity of mortgage and foreclosure, leaving other questions to be more fully heard if foreclosure was set aside, judgment absolute should not be granted on holding mortgage void. Curry v. Wilson [Wash.] 87 P. 1065. Where trial court erroneously awarded rents after a certain date, the supreme court cannot order an entry of judgment for a reduced amount in absence of finding or agreement of facts in respect thereto. Crane v. Cameron [Kan.] 87 P. 466. Cannot consider erroneously excluded evidence as admitted in passing on sufficiency of findings nor determine what findings should have been made with such evidence in the case. In re Miller's Estate [Utah] 88 P. 233. Under Hurd's Rev. St. c. 110, § 88, authorizing appellate court to recite in its final judgment, order, or decree fact found by it where the final determination of such court is based on findings in whole or in part different from those of the lower court, the appellate court is not authorized to recite in its judgment findings on an issue not raised below and to reverse without remanding. Gilmore v. Chicago, 224 Ill. 490, 79 N. E. 596. If record contains evidence sufficient to establish a fact, court on appeal may find it. Bautz v. Adams [Wis.] 111 N. W. 69.

46. When the appellate court reverses an order of the circuit court denying a motion to dissolve an injunction and orders the injunction dissolved, the circuit and not the appellate court should assess the damages. Fry v. Radzinski, 121 Ill. App. 303.

47. Moore v. Price [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 234; New York Life Ins. Co. v. Thomas [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 423; Board of County Com'rs v. Smith [Okla.] 89 P. 1121.

Where judgment in action to annul tax title annulled title to other lands than those in which plaintiff claimed an interest, held that it would be modified to that extent at plaintiff's cost. Kernan v. Young [La.] 44 So. 1.

48. Miller v. Kern County [Cal.] 90 P. 119. Under the municipal court act where justice requires it, the court may modify a judgment absolute for defendant by directing a judgment of dismissal without prejudice to a new action. Aetna Life Ins. Co. v. Deparquet, Huot & Moneuse Co., 103 N. Y. S. 800. Where on appeal to the general term a reversal is ordered for an error of law in dismissing a complaint, it may order an interlocutory judgment for an accounting as the judgment which should have been entered below. Jones v. Jones, 103 N. Y. S. 141. The supreme court has jurisdiction to declare a judgment brought up by writ of error fully paid. Ducey v. Patterson [Colo.] 86 P. 109. Where from judgment in an action of trespass to try title only two of a number of defendants appealed, and no error was complained of except as to the location of the west line of plaintiff's survey, it was held that the appeal carried up the entire case and brought before the appellate court all of the parties in such a way as to enable it to determine the effect of its decision upon the rights of those who did not appeal, and to render such judgment as would fully protect all concerned. Thompson v. Kelley [Tex.] 101 S. W. 1074.

49. Davidson v. Equitable Securities Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 95, 96 S. W. 787. Heard entirely on written evidence. Reeder v. Eidson [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 750. Judgment below held improper under findings and rendered for appellant. Matthews v. Fry [N. C.] 55 S. E. 787. Where, in a suit under Rev. St. U. S. § 2326 (U. S. Comp. St. 1901, p. 1430), by an adverse claimant to a mining claim, there is no conflict in the evidence and the possession and right to patent is supported by the evidence so that a contrary decree would not stand, the failure of the court to find thereon does not necessitate a new trial. Slothower v. Hunter [Wyo.] 88 P. 36.

50. Where public or semi-public questions are involved, the appellate court will incline toward finally determining the merits of a controversy rather than upon mere technical or formal issues to send the case back to the trial court for obvious, and not apparently useful, amendment. Gordon v. Doran, 100 Minn., 343, 111 N. W. 272.

Direction that the plaintiff have leave to vacate the verdict and substitute therefor a judgment of nonsuit when the remittitur is made the judgment of the court below. Zipperer v. Savannah [Ga.] 57 S. E. 311. In Virginia the supreme court in reversing a decree granting a divorce on appellee's cross bill, and directing a dismissal of the cross bill and a grant of divorce to appellant on her bill, will direct the circuit court to make its own decree in relation to alimony and appellant's counsel fees. Code 1887, §§ 2261, 2263 (Code 1904, p. 1123). Davenport v. Davenport [Va.] 56 S. E. 562. In North Carolina, where a motion to nonsuit is made and the requirements of the statute are followed, and such motion denied, and on appeal to supreme court such decision is reversed, the case will be remanded with instructions to enter judgment dismissing the action. Hollingsworth v. Skelding, 142 N. C. 246, 55 S. E. 212. Where no error has intervened prior to entry of judgment, but court has erred in such entry, as when judgment is not entered according to law and findings, the judgment will be reversed and the case remanded with direction to enter proper judgment. Village of Shumway v. Leturno, 225 Ill. 601, 80 N. E. 403. Where the decision reversed involves a question of fact, the power of the appellate court to give specific directions on remand is subject to the same limitations as its power to review questions of fact. Rand v. Iowa Cent. R. Co., 186 N. Y. 55, 78 N. E. 574. Court of appeals cannot give specific direction on reversal of judgment of appellate division affirming judgment. Where the judgment of both the trial court and of the appellate division involved the decision of a question of fact. Id. Where on appeal from an order dismissing an action to enjoin a blacksmith shop as a nuisance the record is not sufficiently clear to enable the court to determine under what conditions the shop could be operated without constituting a nuisance, the case will be remanded with directions prescribing the conditions under which the shop could be maintained and directing an injunction if the shop could not be operated under those conditions. Hughes v. Scheurman Bros. [Iowa] 112 N. W. 198. Where judgment is reversed on account of omissions in officer's return and it does not appear whether or not such omission was due to error, the cause will be remanded with direction to allow officer to amend or to dismiss cause according to the omission in return was a mere mistake or not. Abbott v. Abbott, 101 Me. 343, 64 A. 615.

53. Lembeck & Betz Eagle Brew. Co. v. Sexton, 184 N. Y. 185, 77 N. E. 38; In re Froment, 184 N. Y. 568, 77 N. E. 9; Dunham v. Salmon [Wis.] 109 N. W. 959; Powers v. Worlds Fair Min. Co. [Ariz.] 86 P. 15. It is only under exceptional circumstances that final judgment on reversal will be ordered. Lenon v. Mutual Life Ins. Co. [Ark.] 98 S. W. 117. Judgment will not be rendered for plaintiff though the defense found below is without merit if another alleged defense was not passed on. Elliott v. Morris [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 259, 98 S. W. 220. On reversal of judgment holding certificate of county clerk no proof of recording and indexing of abstract of judgment, case remanded to enable appellee to show that there was not a proper record and indexing of the abstract. Abee v. Bargas [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 191. Though the Texas court of civil appeals may reverse a judgment for plaintiff in an action on an insurance policy, upon the ground that the policy was forfeited by nonpayment of the premium note, it is error if the evidence on that issue is conflicting for it to enter judgment for the insured. Reppond v. National Life Ins. Co. [Tex.] 101 S. W. 786. Where it does not conclusively appear that case was fully developed below, appellate court will remand for new trial instead of rendering judgment. Allen v. Anderson & Anderson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 343, 96 S. W. 54; Brown Hardware Co. v. Catrett [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 559. Where nearly four years elapsed between commencement of suit and close of appellant's proofs, case would not be remanded in order to allow appellant to introduce further evidence of damages. Junction Min. Co. v. Springfield Junction Coal Co., 222 Ill. 600, 78 N. E. 902. On reversal for failure to prove foreign law on which plaintiff's case depended. Robb v. Washington & Jefferson College, 185 N. Y. 485, 78 N. E. 359. Where a tax deed wholly insufficient in form to constitute evidence of title is admitted in evidence upon the assumption by both the parties and the court that it is in proper form, attention being first called to its insufficiency on appeal, a new trial will be granted to afford the party claiming under it an opportunity to establish his title by other evidence. Beggs v. Paine [N. D.] 109 N. W. 322.

54. Where a petition for a statutory penalty contained also a general averment of negligence, on holding the penalty statute invalid the court will remand for a trial on the issue of damages. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Allen [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 256, 98 S. W. 450. Upon reversal if case was not fully developed below, appellate court will not direct decree in favor of appellants but will remand with directions to allow amendment of pleading and taking of further proof. Gaither v. Gage & Co. [Ark.] 100 S. W. 80. Where special count purporting to be in assumpsit but in reality in tort was improperly joined with counts in assumpsit, the appellate court upon reversing judgment overruling demurrer to such special count remanded the case with instructions to sustain the demurrer, with leave to plaintiff to amend, and in case of amendment for such further proceedings as should be proper. Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Smith [Va.] 56 S. E. 567. On reversing decree for insufficiency of the bill in cause in which a good case is disclosed by the evidence, appellate court will remand cause with leave to plaintiff to amend. Toothman v. Courtney [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 415. Where plaintiff, who has brought suit for himself and others not connected with his interest, stands upon his amended complaint after a demurrer thereto has been sustained, the cause, upon affirmance on appeal, will not be remanded to permit plaintiff to apply for leave to amend to substitute a cause in his own favor only. State v. Warner Valley Stock Co. [Or.] 87 P. 534. In Texas court of civil appeals, if evidence is undisputed, the rule obtains that a judgment will not be reversed in order that pleadings may be amended so as to conform to the facts, but if error appears proper judgment will be rendered. Stovall v. Gardner [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 405.

(§ 15) D. Findings, conclusions, and opinions on which decision is predicated.<sup>55</sup>—The decision may be rendered by a quorum of the justices.<sup>56</sup> Courts of intermediate review are often required to find facts or file reasons for their decisions,<sup>57</sup> and where such findings have not been made, the case may, on further appeal, be remanded therefor.<sup>58</sup>

(§ 15) E. Modifying or relieving from appellate decree.<sup>59</sup>—An appellate court may at any time amend its judgment to conform it to the decision actually made.<sup>60</sup>

55. See 7 C. L. 245.

56. Civ. Code 1895, §§ 5622, 5832, 5833, Acts 1896, p. 42. Greene County v. Wright, 127 Ga. 150, 56 S. E. 288. Fact that special order was passed that case be heard by full court did not make failure of one of justices who heard case participate in decision fatal to validity thereof.

57. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1039, requiring courts of civil appeals to file reasons for reversal in all cases, a cause cannot be reversed by agreement of the parties without reasons. Higgins v. Matlock [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 571. The Texas statute, Act 29th Leg. p. 71, adding art. 1024a to chapter 17, tit. 27, Rev. St. 1895, requiring courts of civil appeals to announce in writing their conclusions upon all issues presented to them either of fact or law, where construed in connection with Rev. St. 1895, art. 1039, held to apply only to causes in which writ of error will lie to the supreme court. Tucker & Co. v. Freiberg [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 837. Under Acts 29th Legislature, p. 71, c. 51, court of civil appeals is not required, in all cases where assignments of error are addressed to admission or exclusion of evidence, to file conclusions of fact, setting out in full the evidence admitted or excluded with the objections thereto. Walker v. Dickey [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 934, 98 S. W. 658. Where supreme court of a territory adopted a previous opinion in the same case containing findings of fact, an objection that court below found no facts on which a review could be had in Federal supreme court was untenable. National Live Stock Bank v. First Nat. Bk., 203 U. S. 296, 51 Law. Ed. 192.

58. Where question of fact has not been passed on by court of civil appeals, supreme court cannot pass upon it but will send back record for a finding. Ellis v. Brooks [Tex.] 102 S. W. 94. When the supreme court of Texas is unable to review errors by reason of the failure of the court of civil appeals to pass on questions of fact, the cause will be remanded to the latter court for a determination of such questions. Failure to determine how far misconduct of counsel influenced verdict and how important was alleged newly-discovered evidence. Parks v. San Antonio Trac. Co. [Tex.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 186, 94 S. W. 331.

60. City of Durham v. Eno Cotton Mills [N. C.] 57 S. E. 465.

61. See 7 C. L. 245.

62. A statute providing that no mandate shall issue to the court below unless taken within twelve months from decision on appeal reversing and remanding the judgment below does not apply where the judgment is affirmed in part and reversed in part. National Bk. v. Kenney [Tex.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 271, 94 S. W. 328.

63. Filing of mandate with clerk of lower court is filing "in the court." Hollingsworth v. McAndrews, 79 Ark. 185, 95 S. W. 485.

64. Where appeal is dismissed without prejudice to another appeal, second appeal may be taken before remittitur is filed in trial court. Jackson v. Barrett [Idaho] 86 P. 270. The taking of depositions before mandate is filed is premature. Fugate v. Gill, 30 Ky. L. R. 731, 99 S. W. 602. Under a statute requiring the clerk to remit the record to the lower court within sixty days after judgment on appeal, and a rule of the court requiring him to keep the papers for thirty days in the absence of the consent of the parties, the supreme court loses jurisdiction where the record is transmitted to the lower court at the expiration of the period limited by the rule and within the period limited by statute, and a motion to recall the record will not lie. Ott v. Boring [Wis.]

It is conclusive on the court below which must implicitly follow its directions,<sup>66</sup>

111 N. W. 833. Where main case is not removed from trial court by appeal which results in dissolution of injunction, trial court may assess damages for granting injunction before mandate of reversal is actually filed with it. Fry v. Radzinski, 121 Ill. App. 303. Where new trial was granted by court on appeal, fact that no mandate was sent down may be waived by parties. Courtney v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co., 100 Minn. 434, 111 N. W. 399. Where judgment for costs has been docketed in conformity with Supreme Court rule 23 (78 Pac. xi) on remand of case and as provided by Code Civ. Proc. § 958, court still has jurisdiction to modify it so as to make it conform to mandate. Chapman v. Hughes [Cal. App.] 86 P. 908. Rule requiring judgment of supreme court to be entered of record in circuit court has no bearing on jurisdiction of trial court to proceed after remand. Hollingsworth v. McAndrews, 79 Ark. 185, 95 S. W. 485.

65. Only necessary where trial is demanded at first term after reversal. Kirby's Dig. § 6174. Nunn v. Robertson [Ark.] 97 S. W. 293. Notice required by Proc. Act, § 83, Laws 1885, p. 229, 3 Starr & C. Ann. St. 1896, p. 3111, c. 110, par. 84, of refile of case in trial court after reversal and remand, need not be in any particular form, and is sufficient if it indicates what cause it is that is to be redocketed and when the redocketing is to take place. Gage v. People, 223 Ill. 410, 79 N. E. 158. Designation of county treasurer as plaintiff instead of county collector held not to render notice insufficient where treasurer was ex officio collector. Id. Failure to designate order of supreme court as an order reversing and remanding the cause was not fatal to notice, since such an order is the only order of supreme court authorized to be filed in trial court. Id.

66. Specific directions wherein to amend a decree precludes amendment in any other respect. South Chicago Brew. Co. v. Taylor, 126 Ill. App. 498. Circuit court could not modify mandate relating to validity of a patent. Keasbey & Mattison Co. v. American M. & C. Co., 148 F. 91. Decree of foreclosure charging a wife's life estate in land held to conform to mandate without a modification requested by her. Burns v. Cooper [C. C. A.] 153 F. 148. Mandate construed to authorize allowance of reasonable counsel fee to attorney of trustee in bankruptcy. Page v. Rogers [C. C. A.] 149 F. 194. Supreme court having held that without aid of extrinsic evidence it appeared that there was no infringement of a patent, and ordered a new trial, lower court was required to direct a verdict for defendant regardless of new evidence. Cramer v. Singer Mfg. Co. [C. C. A.] 147 F. 917. On remand with specific directions to amend a decree, the cause on reinstatement is not one for hearing in the ordinary sense and need not be placed upon the chancery calendar. South Chicago Brew. Co. v. Taylor, 126 Ill. App. 498. Mandate held not to justify summary judgment for defendant but a retrial in conformity with opinion of appellate court, and peremptory instruction for defendant if the same evidence should be introduced. Quisenberry v. Chenault, 30 Ky. L. R. 229, 97 S. W. 803. Where mandate did not include interest, held proper for lower court to enter judgment without it. Citizens' Nat. Bk. v. Donnell, 195 Mo. 564, 94 S. W. 516. On reversal with instructions to render judgment in accordance with the opinion, all defenses which might have been raised were foreclosed, and it was not error for lower court to refuse to permit the filing of new defenses. Hollingsworth v. McAndrews, 79 Ark. 185, 95 S. W. 485. Direction to trial court to direct a verdict for plaintiff. Western & A. R. Co. v. Third Nat. Bk., 125 Ga. 489, 54 S. E. 621. Where a case has been remanded for a new trial, no final judgment can be entered until such trial has been had. Bauer v. Parker, 101 N. Y. S. 455. The court at special term has no power to correct a judgment in a material particular after the judgment has been affirmed on appeal. Ferguson v. Bien, 104 N. Y. S. 715. Where case is tried on merits and is remanded with direction to proceed in accordance with views of appellate court, it is the duty of trial court to enter judgment in accordance with such views and not to retry the case. Noble v. Tipton, 222 Ill. 639, 78 N. E. 927. Where a judgment for the foreclosure of a mortgage is reversed on the appeal of a defendant who was a bona fide purchaser, and the mandate ordered judgment reversed and cause remanded with directions to enter judgment as prayed for by the appealing defendant which was the dismissal of the complaint, that defendant's claim be established against plaintiff, and that plaintiff be barred from claiming title, such a mandate does not authorize the entry of a personal judgment in favor of plaintiff against person individually liable on the debt for which the mortgage was deposited as collateral. Marling v. Maynard, 129 Wis. 580, 109 N. W. 537. Where on appeal from refusal to quash partition proceedings it was held that appellant had not sufficient title to authorize him to object to the partition, a petition by appellant after remand to stay proceedings pending determination of title in action at law was properly refused on ground of prior adjudication. In re McMahon's Estate, 215 Pa. 10, 64 A. 321. Where decree is affirmed for reasons given by lower court, such reasons will be treated by latter as opinion of former. Eureka Fire Hose Co. v. Eureka Rubber Mfg. Co. [N. J. Eq.] 65 A. 870. Decree cannot be modified by trial court on points affirmed on appeal. Id. In Texas when the judgment of the district court is reversed by the court of civil appeals and judgment rendered by that court, it is proper for the lower court to have the judgment of the appellate court entered of record upon its minutes as its judgment. Sayles' Rev. Civ. St. art. 1035. Henry v. Red Water Lumber Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 749. And this it may do without citation or other notice to the parties against whom the judgment was rendered. Id. The designation of two of the prevailing parties in a judgment for costs on appeal, in the remittitur by the term, "et al.," the judgment being so docketed in the trial court does not annul the judgment as to the parties not named, where they were parties to the action and had never been eliminated. Garrison v. Huntimer [S. D.] 111 N. W. 563. Where a cause is remanded with directions and mandamus lies to enforce its commands.<sup>67</sup> In like manner an intermediate appellate court must enter judgment in accordance with the decision of the court of last resort.<sup>68</sup> The trial court should order such restitution<sup>69</sup> and otherwise undo its former proceedings<sup>70</sup> as the decision on appeal may require. A general reversal leaves the case as though it had not been tried<sup>71</sup> except as to matters adjudicated on the appeal,<sup>72</sup> as to which the decision is the law of the case<sup>73</sup> in so far as the

to award the custody of children to the mother on and after a certain date, an order awarding their custody after the date and "until the further order" of the court is a compliance therewith. Kane v. Miller [Wash.] 86 P. 568. Where on appeal from judgment enjoining defendant from interfering with plaintiff's operations on certain land, it was determined that plaintiff's rights had terminated, and judgment was reversed and cause remanded with directions to dismiss petition, held that it was duty of trial court to restore defendants to possession of land, regardless of fact that plaintiff had made improvements pending appeal. Penn Lubricating Co. v. Bay City Petroleum Co., 29 Ky. L. R. 1215, 96 S. W. 1118.

67. Mandamus held to lie to enforce proper fulfillment of mandate where there were no legal obstacles to entry of decree pursuant thereto, though chancellor erroneously found that there were. Nunn v. Robertson [Ark.] 97 S. W. 293.

68. Olschewske v. Summerville [Tex. Civ. App.] 95 S. W. 1. Case cannot be reopened below for purpose of hearing new testimony except so far as specifically designated by the supreme court. Id.

69. In applying the doctrine of restitution after reversal, the nature of the action and the peculiar facts of the case must be considered. Where, pending appeal from judgment for plaintiff in detinue, plaintiff to whom property had been delivered sold same, trial court after reversal and remand would not be compelled to issue order of restitution or for alternate relief by payment of value and damages. Ex parte Wellen [Ala.] 42 So. 632. Where upon reversal of a decree for plaintiff, in an action involving title to real estate, the appellate court, through oversight, dismisses the complaint instead of remanding the cause, the trial court should, after proper notice, make restitution of what was taken under its erroneous decree, and appellants have a clear remedy at law. Therefore a writ of restitution will not be granted. Foster v. Beidler [Ark.] 98 S. W. 968.

70. Where a judgment has been reversed on error and remanded without specific directions, the trial court should retrace its steps to the point where the first material error occurred, and from that point the trial should progress anew, unless from the nature of the error, or the connection in which it occurred, a trial de novo is necessary to correct it. Colby v. Foxworthy [Neb.] 110 N. W. 857. But, where the court proceeds to try the case de novo, it is not at liberty to disregard the evidence taken and enter judgment on the findings of the former trial. Id. The court on appeal will not review the sufficiency of the evidence taken at a second trial where the judgment appealed from was entered upon findings made at a former trial. Id. Where upon reversal and remand without directions the trial court permitted plaintiff to file an amended petition, subsequently striking it out on motion as a departure, and entering judgment upon the record, a reversal of the order striking out the amended petition is in effect a determination that the case was not to be decided upon the findings made upon the first trial in the district court, and it was then too late for either party to insist that the first mandate required the decree to be entered on such findings. E. 621. A general reversal without specific directions awards a new trial. Riley v. Loma Vista Ranch Co. [Cal. App.] 89 P. 849. Where, upon a reversal of a judgment for a defendant, a judgment is entered against him on motion on the findings of fact made against his codefendants, there is not a new trial within Code Civ. Proc. § 656. Id. Where a judgment is reversed because the findings are not sustained by the evidence, such findings are of no further effect, and a subsequent judgment cannot be based thereon. Id. Where an appellate court does not decide a case on its merits but reverses and remands it for error of law preceding verdict, appellant is entitled to a new trial. Seymour v. Richardson Fueling Co., 123 Ill. App. 401. Plaintiff claimed title to certain lands as accretion, while defendant asserted that it first appeared as an island and by accretion thereto became attached to plaintiff's land. The court found for defendant and on appeal it was held that the evidence justified the finding but the court erred in not awarding plaintiff a strip not included in the island, and a general order of reversal was made. Held that plaintiff could relitigate his original claims. Glassell v. Hansen, 149 Cal. 511, 87 P. 200. Where upon appeal from a judgment refusing to grant a new trial there is a reversal and remand for proceedings consistent with the opinion, and the opinion simply decides that on the facts presented appellants are entitled to a new trial, the rights of the parties are not concluded, but they are remitted to the trial court for a trial of the matters in issue. Fugate v. Gill, 30 Ky. L. R. 731, 99 S. W. 602.

72. Western & A. R. Co. v. Third Nat. Bk., 125 Ga. 489, 54 S. E. 621. Where a case is remanded with directions that a new trial be granted, "or if either party does not care to introduce new testimony the court may make findings of fact and conclusions of law and enter judgment," etc., and plaintiff elects to submit his case on the evidence of the former trial, the judgment will not be disturbed on the ground that no evidence was introduced, and nonsuit ought to have been granted. Huber v. Mother Aurelia of St. Joseph's Hospital [Idaho] 89 P. 942. Where chancellor found that land in controversy belonged to defendants and dismissed action, and hence did not adjudicate plaintiff's claim for rents and damages, held that reversal of judgment with directions to enter decree for plaintiffs necessarily implied that court should enter decree for recovery of land and adjudicate any rights flowing therefrom, and that failure of appellate court to direct finding for plaintiffs on question of rents and damages was not decision that they were not entitled thereto. Munn v. Robertson [Ark.] 97 S. W. 293.

Limited retrial may be ordered. Smith v. Whittlesey [Conn.] 63 A. 1085. Where in an action for injuries the only error related to the assessment of damages the circuit court of appeals had jurisdiction on reversal to limit retrial to the question of damages. Rev. St. § 701. Farrar v. Wheeler [C. C. A.] 145 F. 482. Where a portion of the verdict was unauthorized, court would not direct that only the amount of that portion be found and deducted from verdict already rendered. Id.

The court on retrial is bound by a decision of the appellate court that questions of contributory negligence and assumption of risk were for the jury. Kiernan v. Eidlitz, 100 N. Y. S. 731. In so far as instructions are not criticised on appeal, they are in legal effect approved, and it is, therefore, proper to give them on the second trial. National L. Ins. Co. v. Anderson [Ky.] 102 S. W. 323. All questions which were presented to the appellate court by the record are concluded by its opinion, whether passed on in the opinion or not. Id. Where judgment on directed verdict had been reversed on the ground that the evidence was sufficient to take the case to the jury, the court is without power in a subsequent trial to set aside the verdict on the ground of the insufficiency of the evidence. Hensley v. Davidson Bros. Co. [Iowa] 112 N. W. 227. Where issues are fixed by decision retrial must be conferred thereto. Kincheloe v. Smith [Ky.] 102 S. W. 335. Prayer for instruction not discussed or approved on appeal need not and if erroneous should not be granted on retrial. Baltimore Belt R. Co. v. Sattler [Md.] 64 A. 507. Where overruling of demurrer to complaint is reversed, judgment sustaining the demurrer must be entered on remand, no change in pleadings having been made. Converse v. Aetna Nat. Bk. [Conn.] 65 A. 1064. Adjudication of reviewing court must be given effect by trial court on remand, though there is no specific direction in the remittitur, as where in suit challenging validity of license to keep dram shop on certain premises the supreme judicial court held that the license was invalid, it was the duty of the trial court to enter judgment of ouster, though the remittitur contained no such direction, and it was improper to allow the filing of additional pleas or to have other evidence. Griesbach v. People, 226 Ill. 65, 80 N. E. 734. Upon second trial after judgment on appeal eliminating every issue but one, it is not error to refuse to give an instruction on any other issue. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Stith's Adm'x, 30 Ky. L. R. 531, 99 S. W. 303. Where an instruction is upheld on appeal, it is, upon a second trial below, the law of the case. Illinois Cent. R. Co. v. Houchins [Ky.] 101 S. W. 924. Supreme court not bound on retrial by findings of fact by court of errors and appeals unless facts are same as on former trial. Sisters of Charity of St. Elizabeth v. Corey [N. J. Err. & App.] 65 A. 500. Same rule applies as to facts involved in a mixed question of law and fact. Id.

Upon reversal of an order sustaining a bill of interpleader on the ground that the amount the interpleader admits to be due is less than that demanded by one of the claimants, if the discrepancy is small, the interpleader on remand may amend his allegation as to the amount due. Smith v. Grand Lodge A. O. U. W. [Mo. App.] 101 S. W. 662. The filing by appellants of an amended pleading before the mandate had been filed as required by the Kentucky statute, Civil Code of Practice, § 761, was premature, and it was proper for the lower court to strike it from the record. Fugate v. Gill, 30 Ky. L. R. 731, 99 S. W. 602. Where judgment in favor of county enjoining issue of tax deed was reversed because it did not find amount due purchaser by county, it was proper to allow county to file replication on remand if necessary to let in evidence as to amount thus due. Butts v. Peoria County, 226 Ill. 270, 80 N. E. 765. On affirmance by court of appeals of judgment of appellate court affirming an order overruling a demurrer, express leave to the demurrant to plead over is not necessary where such leave is granted by the judgment affirmed. Casidy v. Sauer [N. Y.] 80 N. E. 625. An amendment involving a change of theory is not allowable when it will require a new trial upon an issue finally disposed of by the appellate court. Where deed was held void on account of nondelivery, and case was remanded with direction to proceed in accordance with views of appellate court, an amendment alleging that the deed was intended as a testamentary disposition of the property was not allowable. Noble v. Tipton, 222 Ill. 639, 73 N. E. 927. Where a complaint is held defective on appeal, the plaintiff may on paying the taxable costs of the appellate courts amend his pleadings. House v. Carr, 103 N. Y. S. 929. The special term has power to amend a complaint so as to make it conform to a decision of the court of appeals, though an order dismissing the complaint was affirmed by the latter court with leave to the plaintiffs to "apply to the supreme court for such relief as they may be advised." Town of Palatine v. Canajoharie Water Supply Co., 101 N. Y. S. 810.

§ 16. Rehearing and relief thereon.<sup>79</sup>—After final decision, a motion for rehearing may in the discretion of the court<sup>80</sup> be entertained to correct error or oversight of the court.<sup>81</sup> A motion based on points not urged at the hearing,<sup>82</sup> or one which is a mere reargument of points decided,<sup>83</sup> will not be considered except in cases of great doubt or where there was a dissenting opinion,<sup>84</sup> nor, as a rule, will amendments of the record be allowed.<sup>85</sup> On grant of a rehearing, the case stands as if there had been no hearing,<sup>86</sup> unless the rehearing is restricted in scope.<sup>87</sup> The petition for rehearing must be respectful in tone,<sup>88</sup> and be filed within the time limited<sup>89</sup> and before jurisdiction is lost,<sup>90</sup> the filing thereof not operating as

Where on a former trial the case was tried upon the issue as to whether an exclusive agency for the sale of land was broken by a sale made by the owner personally, and decided on appeal upon that issue, on a subsequent trial the plaintiff cannot amend so as to set up an issue that the contract was broken by a sale through another agent. Ingold v. Symonds [Iowa] 111 N. W. 802. Where petition warranted only recovery of nominal damages, but was sufficient to that extent, held that, on reversal of judgment for defendant and remand, he might have leave to amend. Shepherd v. Gambill, 29 Ky. L. R. 1163, 96 S. W. 1104.

76. Where judgment in favor of county enjoining clerk from issuing tax deed was reversed generally because it did not find amount due holder of certificate, it was proper on remand to receive evidence of amount so due. Butts v. Peoria County, 226 Ill. 270, 80 N. E. 765. Where defendant's exceptions to denial of motion to dismiss for lack of evidence were sustained. Clark v. Middleton [N. H.] 66 A. 115.

77. The trial court has power to grant a new trial on the ground of newly-discovered evidence, though its judgment has been affirmed by the supreme court of the United States. James McCreery Realty Corp. v. Equitable Nat. Bk., 102 N. Y. S. 975.

78. The trial court has power to grant a new trial in an action for the obstruction of a highway on the ground that while the title to the land was in the United States a township could not acquire title by user, though a judgment against the defendant was affirmed on appeal where that question was not presented. Parkey v. Galloway [Mich.] 14 Det. Leg. N. 34, 111 N. W. 348.

Too late on rehearing for debtor to claim that amount due was less than admitted in pleading. Trabue v. Wade [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 591, 95 S. W. 616. New case cannot be made on petition for rehearing, nor can matters then be insisted upon which were not presented in the original case. Long v. Garey Inv. Co. [Iowa] 112 N. W. 550. Claim that statute was unconstitutional not made in original brief cannot be made on rehearing. See Sup. Ct. Rule 22 (55 N. E. v.). Indianapolis St. R. Co. v. Kane [Ind.] 81 N. E. 721.

83. With reference to costs of intervention and opposition, the rule laid down on hearing is the law of the case on rehearing. Campbell v. Campbell Co., 117 La. 418, 41 So. 702.

84. The fact that one of the justices did not concur in the opinion as to one of the points decided is not ground for a rehearing as to such point. Moon v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 143 Mich. 125, 13 Det. Leg. N. 255, 108 N. W. 78.

85. Schneider v. Metcalf [Iowa] 109 N. W. 298; Smith v. Gustin [Ind.] 81 N. E. 722. That amendment of record showing entry of judgment appealed from was served on opposing counsel and mailed to clerk for filing is not sufficient to warrant allowance of such an amendment on rehearing after dismissal of appeal, original amendments never having been filed by clerk. Schneider v. Metcalf [Iowa] 109 N. W. 298. If no valid excuse is offered why jurisdictional facts were omitted in record, motion will be overruled. Bower v. Legg [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 839.

86. Fleisher Bros. v. Hinde, 122 Mo. App. 218, 99 S. W. 25.

87. The judgment from which a restricted rehearing is granted continues to stand, and is decisive of all issues not embraced in the order of rehearing. Levy v. Levy, 117 La. 779, 42 So. 267.

88. Brief on a motion for a rehearing held so disrespectful and discourteous in its reference to the opinion of the court on the former hearing as to justify its being stricken from the files of the supreme court. Lynch v. Ryan [Wis.] 112 N. W. 427.

89. Under rules of court, motion for rehearing filed after adjournment of term at which decision was rendered will not be considered. Greene County v. Wright, 127 Ga. 150, 56 S. E. 288. The rule of the circuit court of appeals requiring a petition for rehearing to be filed within thirty days after filing of opinion is one of convenience and should not be enforced where the point raised is a reversal of the authority on which decision was based after time for petition to rehear but before the court had lost jurisdiction over judgment by expiration of term. Unitype Co. v. Long [C. C. A.] 149 F. 196.

90. A motion for a rehearing as used in a a stay.<sup>91</sup> Amendment of the petition before hearing thereon may be allowed.<sup>92</sup> Renewal of a motion once denied will rarely be allowed.<sup>93</sup>

In the absence of fraud, mistake, or circumstances, working an estoppel, a surety on a supersedeas bond can be held only for consequences of the proceedings in which the instrument was given,<sup>98</sup> and his liability cannot extend beyond the terms of the bond,<sup>99</sup> and arises only on breach of its conditions.<sup>1</sup> It is immaterial to such liability that the loss was not by fault of the appellant.<sup>2</sup> Interest may be charged against a surety from the time his liability is fixed.<sup>3</sup>

A surety is estopped by the judgment against his principal<sup>4</sup> and by the recitals of the bond.<sup>5</sup> Where no judgment is rendered against the appellant because of a discharge in bankruptcy, the sureties on the appeal bond will not be liable,<sup>6</sup> but discharge of the principal after judgment will not affect the liability of the sure-statute requiring the presence of the record in the appellate court for the purpose of such motion does not refer to a motion for a reargument which is a motion in the nature of a motion for a rehearing. Ott v. Boring [Wis.] 111 N. W. 833.

91. The mere filing of a petition for a rehearing does not operate to suspend a judgment or to continue in force a restraining order previously granted by one of the justices of the supreme court, under § 4148 of the code, unless the court or one of the justices so order. State v. Cahill, 131 Iowa, 286, 108 N. W. 453.

92. Where a motion for leave to assign an additional reason as a ground for a rehearing was made on notice and filed within six days after the filing of the petition for a rehearing and before the petition had been considered, the application should be granted. Denver & R. G. R. Co. v. Burchard [Colo.] 86 P. 749.

93. Where a petition for a rehearing has been denied, a motion to modify or vacate the decision on alleged error, in a controlling matter of law which was not advanced on the original hearing, will be dismissed. Brandon v. West [Nev.] 88 P. 140. A second application for a rehearing after the denial of the first will not be entertained. Id. In Louisiana a rehearing cannot be had after judgment on rehearing unless permission for the second rehearing is reserved. Succession of Morere, 117 La. 543, 42 So. 132.

94. See 7 C. L. 249.

95. Appeal dismissed for lack of jurisdiction. Davis v. Huth [Wash.] 86 P. 654. No action lies on an appeal bond given on appeal from a judgment at law in a Federal court. United States v. Morris' Heirs, 153 F. 240.

96. Obligor may proceed upon either or both until he has obtained satisfaction. Obligors in one could not defend that creditor had brought suit upon the other. Fidelity Deposit Co. v. Cooney, 127 Ill. App. 523.

97. Ellis v. Cross, 6 Ind. T. 268, 97 S. W. 1030.

98. Under a statute providing that an undertaking on appeal to the circuit court shall be conditioned that appellant "will diligently prosecute his appeal to effect and pay all damages and costs which may be awarded against him on such appeal," a surety on a bond given on appeal from the county to the circuit court is not liable for costs incurred on an appeal to the supreme court. Breed v. Weed [Wis.] 110 N. W. 197. Where the recovery of land and not of the buildings thereon is sought in a suit of unlawful detainer, recovery cannot be had on the supersedeas bond for detention of the buildings pending appeal. Ellis v. Cross, 6 Ind. T. 268, 97 S. W. 1030.

99. Under a bond obligating a surety in case of the affirmation of the order appealed from to make restitution of a certain amount by depositing it to the credit of the respondent in a certain bank, a judgment requiring the payment of the amount to the respondent is erroneous. Mossein v. Empire State Surety Co., 102 N. Y. S. 1013.

1. Party who by appeal gained the right to further possession of land for ten months held to have so far prosecuted appeal to effect as to preclude recovery on supersedeas bond for use and occupation during that time. Crane v. Buckley, 203 U. S. 441, 51 Law. Ed. 260.

2. A supersedeas bond given by an appealing mortgagor in foreclosure under which he holds the property subject to final orders is a forthcoming bond, and where the property is destroyed by fire pending appeal, the obligors are liable. Perry v. Tacoma Mill Co. [C. C. A.] 152 F. 115.

§ 1 General; special; what constitutes each. General appearance.<sup>12</sup>—The general rule is that an appearance for any other purpose than to question the jurisdiction is general.<sup>13</sup> Every appearance not limited in terms is general.<sup>14</sup> Any step looking to a hearing on the merits is a general appearance; thus one appears generally by requesting time to plead,<sup>15</sup> asking a continuance,<sup>16</sup> filing a counterclaim,<sup>17</sup> answer,<sup>18</sup> or demurrer,<sup>19</sup> or proceeding to set aside an ex parte order,<sup>20</sup> dissolution of an attachment by giving the statutory bond to pay any judgment which may be recovered,<sup>21</sup> participating in the trial,<sup>22</sup> or filing a motion challenging a judg-

8. Under Rev. St. 1895, art. 1028, upon appeal to the court of civil appeals from a separable judgment if the court affirms the personal judgment against appellant but sets aside that part of the judgment foreclosing a lien, the appellate court will render judgment against the sureties on the appeal bond. Russell v. Deutschman [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1164. Damages on a supersedeas will be awarded on dismissal of an appeal taken by a county or other municipality, though it may be impracticable to collect the judgment. Nelson County v. Bardstown, 30 Ky. L. R. 408, 97 S. W. 765. Failure to award damages on a supersedeas on dismissal of an appeal is a mere clerical error which may be corrected on motion, though time for rehearing has expired. Id. Damages will be awarded on a supersedeas where appeal is dismissed for want of jurisdiction and judgment is for the payment of money. Id. It is only where there has been a recovery of a money judgment or decree that a summary judgment against the sureties on the supersedeas bond is authorized. Their liability in other respects on the bond must be tested by an action at law on the bond after the decree has been executed. Bolling v. Fitzhugh [Ark.] 101 S. W. 173.

ment as entered without the court having jurisdiction over the persons of the movants.<sup>23</sup> Merely testifying or a witness for the plaintiff in a cause by a defendant who does so solely at the instance of the plaintiff is not an appearance by him as a party.<sup>24</sup> A mere agreement for postponement made out of court for the convenience of counsel has been held not a general appearance.<sup>25</sup> The rule that participation is an appearance is limited by the scope of the proceeding,<sup>26</sup> and a like restriction is read into the Iowa statute providing that an appearance for any purpose connected with the cause will be taken to be a general appearance is not to be deemed wholly unrestricted in meaning.<sup>27</sup> A general appearance will not ordinarily result from a proceeding which looks to the questioning of jurisdiction,<sup>28</sup> as a motion to quash the service of process<sup>29</sup> plea to the jurisdiction,<sup>30</sup> or removal to Federal court under special appearance.<sup>31</sup> Nor, if one objects to the jurisdiction on every appropriate occasion, does he lose the benefit of his objections by proceedings taken after they are overruled,<sup>32</sup> unless he asks affirmative relief,<sup>33</sup> but the benefit of a special appearance is lost when a general appearance is entered after the objection taken by special appearance is adversely ruled upon.<sup>34</sup> It is held in Kentucky that an answer in bar pleaded with an answer denying jurisdiction of the person of the defendant is not equivalent to an appearance.<sup>35</sup> In Michigan pleas to the jurisdiction, like ordinary pleas in abatement, may be put in by attorney without admitting jurisdiction of the person.<sup>36</sup>

Appeal.<sup>37</sup>—When one has properly saved his objections to the jurisdiction over his person, he does not by appealing from adverse holdings on such objections confer jurisdiction,<sup>38</sup> but in some jurisdictions appeals,<sup>39</sup> or proceedings in error,<sup>40</sup> operate as a general appearance. One not a party of record may so connect himself with litigation by appearance and filing pleadings after judgment is rendered therein and appeal taken therefrom as to estop himself from attacking for lack of jurisdiction of his person the validity of a judgment adverse to him by the appellate tribunal.<sup>41</sup>

A special appearance,<sup>42</sup> which is one limited to the purposes of an attack on the jurisdiction of defendant's person,<sup>43</sup> is the proper procedure to reach defect of such jurisdiction resulting from irregularities of process or service thereof,<sup>44</sup> but where for some reason a party is privileged from suit in the place or at the time he is sued, he may set up want of jurisdiction of his person by answer, along with other defenses he may have, without making a special appearance or preliminary objections.<sup>45</sup> The Iowa statute that an appearance for any purpose connected with the case renders any further notice unnecessary does not prevent a special appearance.<sup>46</sup> A special appearance must challenge only jurisdiction, and if it is for the purpose of defending on the merits of any part of the proceeding, it becomes general.<sup>47</sup> Where on a hearing in equity as to the sufficiency of pleas to the jurisdiction a discussion of the merits is permitted or invited by the court in order that it may be informed on that question in the event it concludes to consider the merits along with such pleas, the benefit of a qualified appearance is not thereby waived, no motion for dismissal for want of equity having been interposed.<sup>48</sup>

make the objection,<sup>67</sup> but when no special appearance is involved a general appearance will cure anterior defects affecting the jurisdiction of the court over the person of the party generally appearing.<sup>68</sup> It is held in Louisiana that appearance to apply for bond in sequestration proceedings has no relation back of the date of the application so as to entitle the plaintiff to claim that defendant had been previously cited when such was not the fact.<sup>69</sup> A statute vesting the court with discretion to set aside a judgment and afford a hearing to a defendant not personally served has no application when a defendant constructively served has appeared prior to the rendition of the judgment.<sup>70</sup> By the terms of the Federal statute the right to remove a cause from a state court to the Federal court is lost by a general appearance or its equivalent.<sup>71</sup>

Withdrawal or vacation.<sup>72</sup>—To warrant the exercise of the court's discretion to vacate an unauthorized appearance by an attorney and set aside a judgment entered by reason of such appearance, the application must be made promptly and before the adverse party has lost any rights by the delay.<sup>73</sup>

APPRENTICES.<sup>74</sup>

Rights and liabilities of apprentices considered generally as servants are elsewhere treated.<sup>75</sup> In Pennsylvania a binding by indenture to service is essential to create a technical apprenticeship,<sup>76</sup> but a contract of apprenticeship in the popular sense as descriptive of one who is learning a mechanical art is valid,<sup>77</sup> and a provision in such contract requiring the making up of lost time after the expiration of the term of service includes time lost by sickness.<sup>78</sup> Removal by a master of his entire plant from the state in which he has entered into a common-law contract of apprenticeship, and in which performance was contemplated, is a breach of the contract on his part.<sup>79</sup> A provision in an indenture requiring the apprentice to be received, maintained, and treated as an adopted child of the master is not such an adoption as to constitute the apprentice an heir of the master.<sup>80</sup>

Arbitration under provisions of the by-laws of associations,<sup>81</sup> and under the terms of insurance policies,<sup>82</sup> and building contracts,<sup>83</sup> is distinctive in character and elsewhere treated.

§ 1. The remedy in general.<sup>84</sup>—An agreement to submit to arbitration is void when it seeks to wrest the courts of jurisdiction.<sup>85</sup> Future as well as past damages may be submitted to arbitration.<sup>86</sup>

§ 2. The submission and agreements to submit.<sup>87</sup>—A submission is essential,<sup>88</sup> and if the arbitration is statutory it must be in substantial conformity to the statute.<sup>89</sup> An award made under an agreement for submission contained in an illegal contract will not be enforced.<sup>90</sup> A common-law submission obtains its sanction wholly from the consent of the parties, and accordingly, where a consent out of court is revoked by the filing of exceptions, the award is naught.<sup>91</sup> A provision relating to the mode of settling special matters of difference prevails over a general agreement to submit all matters to arbitration.<sup>92</sup> The agreement to arbitrate is revocable though on consideration.<sup>93</sup> Unless so stated therein the submission to arbitration is not a condition precedent to a right of action on a contract containing an agreement for submission.<sup>94</sup> A submission is revoked by the death of a party before the award.<sup>95</sup>

Effect.<sup>96</sup>—When a submission under the statute is void, the court may disregard it and proceed with the trial.<sup>97</sup> In Kentucky an agreement to submit an accrued liability is no defense to an action.<sup>98</sup>

87. See 7 C. L. 254.

88. Before there can be a final award there must be something mutually submitted by the parties. Account rendered by accountants appointed by United States under agreement with Cherokee nation to render account of money due the nation held not an award, there being no mutual agreement to submit. Cherokee Nation v. U. S., 40 Ct. Cl. 252. An award of an ecclesiastical court is not binding where there was no agreement to submit the controversy to such court nor to abide by its award. Poggenborg v. Conniff, 29 Ky. L. R. 912, 96 S. W. 547.

89. A submission under the statute must conform substantially to the statutory form.

Provision that no hearings are to be had except in the discretion of the arbitrators, or that "some reputable physician" be selected as referee if the arbitrators were unable to agree. May v. Boston & W. St. R. Co., 192 Mass. 517, 78 N. E. 547. Acknowledgment of agreement for submission as required by statute held essential. Gessner v. Minneapolis, etc., R. Co. [N. D.] 108 N. W. 786.

2. Where the arbitrators agreed upon finding. Kaplan v. Niagara Fire Ins. Co., 73 N. J. Law, 780, 65 A. 188.

§ 4. Hearing and procedure before arbitrators.<sup>3</sup>—Receipt by the arbitrators of an erroneous opinion of an attorney, produced by one party without objection from the other, is not ground for setting the award aside,<sup>4</sup> nor is the taking of legal advice by arbitrators.<sup>5</sup> An arbitrator selected because he is an expert accountant, with the intention that he alone is to examine the books, does not by reporting the result of such examination become a witness.<sup>6</sup> It is not error to hold a hearing in the absence of a party where he has been notified and has declined to attend.<sup>7</sup>

§ 5. The award; requisites, validity, and effect.<sup>8</sup>—The award cannot be impeached at law for fraud or misconduct of the arbitrators but only in equity,<sup>9</sup> and the parties are bound by the award of the arbitrator within the scope of the submission notwithstanding his mistakes on questions of law or fact.<sup>10</sup> The award must embrace all matters submitted<sup>11</sup> and nothing beyond.<sup>12</sup> When the statutory mode of arbitration is attempted, the statute must be substantially complied with.<sup>13</sup> An award published on Monday is not void because agreed to on Sunday.<sup>14</sup>

Effect.<sup>15</sup>—The award is not admissible in evidence in an action between different parties.<sup>16</sup> The lien of a statutory award attaches on the making thereof though confirmation of the award is required.<sup>17</sup>

Enforcement of award.<sup>18</sup>—Mere omission from the award of items in controversy cannot be shown by parol, for it is conclusive as to matters within the submission,<sup>19</sup> and objections to the introduction of evidence cannot be urged on appeal from the judgment entered on the award.<sup>20</sup> The court may not enter judgment on the award when the parties agreed to a trial before arbitrators.<sup>21</sup> A submission by rule of court is the only method wherein the award amounts to a judgment which ends the proceedings.<sup>22</sup>

Review of award.<sup>23</sup>—The mistakes for which an award may be referred back are only such as would be obvious when pointed out.<sup>24</sup> Every presumption is in

ARGUMENT AND CONDUCT OF COUNSEL

§ 1. Right of Argument and Order of Same (239). The Right to Open and Close (240).

§ 2. Opening Statement (241).

§ 3. Kind, Extent, and Mode of Argument or Comment During Trial (241). Statements of Law and Reading from Decisions or Papers Pertinent to Other Cases (241). Comments on Pleadings and Evidence and Scope of Argument in Relation Thereto (242).

Comments on Witnesses, Parties, and Counsel (243). Comments on Instructions and Special Interrogatories (245). Appeals to Passion, Prejudice, and Sympathy (245).

§ 4. Conduct and Demeanor During Trial (246).

§ 5. Excuses for Impropriety (247).

§ 6. Objections and Rulings (247).

§ 7. Action of Court or Counsel During Objections (247).

Argument and conduct of counsel in criminal cases is treated elsewhere.<sup>34</sup>

§ 1. Right of argument and order of same.<sup>35</sup>—As a general rule the trial court has discretionary power to determine the order of argument,<sup>36</sup> or to limit its duration,<sup>37</sup> or to dispense with it entirely when unnecessary.<sup>38</sup>

providing that for mistake in fact or law the court may refer the cause back to the same referees for further proceedings. Klipstein v. Whitesides, 30 Pa. Super. Ct. 35.

25. Tyblewski v. Svea Fire & Life Assurance Co., 121 Ill. App. 528; In re Burke, 117 App. Div. 477, 102 N. Y. S. 785.

26. Tyblewski v. Svea Fire & Life Assurance Co., 121 Ill. App. 528. Nor for error in allowing interest. In re Burke, 117 App. Div. 477, 102 N. Y. S. 785. Not for errors of law. Stone v. Baldwin, 226 Ill. 338, 80 N. E. 890. Not on testimony of a single arbitrator that he was guilty of misconduct. In consulting an attorney. Id. An award based on fraud or perjured testimony may be set aside. Evidence held to show the falsity of the testimony on which the award for a loss under a fire insurance policy was based. Fire Ass'n v. Allesina [Or.] 89 P. 960.

27. On exceptions to the award. Waisner v. Waisner [Wyo.] 89 P. 580.

28. Held waived by party to dissolution proceedings appearing and submitting evidence on hearing on exceptions to award, and stipulating that the firm is dissolved and its affairs with reference to the property in controversy wound up. Waisner v. Waisner [Wyo.] 89 P. 580.

29. Stone v. Baldwin, 127 Ill. App. 563.

30. Failure to embrace all matters submitted. Bigler v. Sveitzer, 127 Ill. App. 14.

31. Award as to distribution of partnership personalty held divisible from part thereof providing for distribution of the real property. Waisner v. Waisner [Wyo.] 89 P. 580.

32, 33. See 3 C. L. 306.

34. See Indictment and Prosecution, § C. L. 189.

35. See 7 C. L. 257.

36. Though order of argument and conduct thereof is prescribed by statute in a general way, it is still peculiarly within sound discretion of trial court, and failure to follow statute is not reversible error in absence of prejudicial abuse of discretion. Breiner v. Nugent [Iowa] 111 N. W. 446. Denial of right to reply to new points in closing argument held not an abuse of discretion. Id.

37. Limitation of forty-five minutes in action for personal injuries held not an abuse of discretion. Christiansen v. Graver Tank Works, 126 Ill. App. 86, affd. 223 Ill. 142, 79 N. E. 97.

38. Right to be heard in argument is not an absolute right in civil cases, and does not exist at all where there is nothing jointly debatable, and it is therefore within court's power to dispense with argument where it is unnecessary. Warner v. Close, 120 Mo. App. 211, 96 S. W. 491. Where court decides civil case, tried without jury, without hearing argument, it is presumed on appeal that no argument was necessary. Id. Deciding case without permitting argument by defendant's counsel held not ground for reversal where statement of facts did not show request therefor. Jackson v. Mercantile Mut. Fire Ins. Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 127.

39. See 7 C. L. 257.

40. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 74 Kan. 83, 86 P. 156. Denial of defendant's right to close, where he has affirmative of issue, is reversible error. Fischer v. Frohne, 100 N. Y. S. 1016. Claimant, who admits prima facie case for plaintiff in fi. fa. in claim case, and assumes burden of proof, is entitled to open and conclude the argument, though plaintiff has introduced no evidence. Turner v. Elliott, 127 Ga. 338, 56 S. E. 434. In will contest, where there was no controversy as to fact of execution of will, only issue submitted to jury being as to mental capacity and undue influence, held that burden was on contestants, and hence they were entitled to open and close. In re Wharton's Will [Iowa] 109 N. W. 492.

Plaintiff held to have right: In action for money paid and services rendered, where defendant pleaded general issue. Semler Mill. Co. v. Fyffe, 127 Ill. App. 514. In action against carrier for assault on passenger by conductor, where answer denied all allegations of complainant, including allegations that plaintiff was passenger and had been wantonly assaulted, etc., except that it admitted ejecting him, and pleaded that conductor acted in self-defense. Civ. Code Prac. § 526. Frankfort & Versailles Trac. Co. v. Marshall, 30 Ky. L. R. 431, 98 S. W. 1035. Right of defendant to open and close depends upon whether answer admits plaintiff's cause of action, and relies on affirmative defense, so that if defendant offered no evidence plaintiff would be entitled to judgment on pleadings. Leesville Mfg. Co. v. Morgan Wood & Iron Works, 75 S. C. 342, 55 S. E. 768. Refusal held proper where answer admitted only that defendant was corporation, and denied all other allegations of complaint. Id. Civ. Code Prac. § 526, providing that burden of proof in whole action is on party who would be defeated if no evidence were given on either side, refers to party who would be defeated as to what is in issue, since party cannot be said to be defeated in action when judgment is rendered against him for what he has confessed, and hence defendant sued for gross negligence does not acquire right to open and close by admitting ordinary negligence and nominal damages. Southern R. Co. v. Steele, 29 Ky. L. R. 690, 94 S. W. 653. Offer of defendant to confess judgment for certain sum in full settlement of plaintiff's claim held not to give defendant right. Nelson County v. Bardstown & L. Turnpike Road Co., 30 Ky. L. R. 1254, 100 S. W. 1181. Confession of assault and battery by defendant and pleading mitigating facts held not to shift burden of proof so as to give him right. Doerhoefer v. Shewmaker, 29 Ky. L. R. 1193, 97 S. W. 7. In any event refusal to allow him to do so held not prejudicial where there was no evidence whatever tending to prove such facts. Id.

Defendant held to have right: Where he admitted execution of note sued on and its assignment to plaintiff, but alleged failure of consideration, that it was procured by fraud, and that plaintiff was not bona fide purchaser. Kirby's Dig. §§ 6196, 3107. Roberts v. Padgett [Ark.] 101 S. W. 753. Where he admits prima facie case for plaintiff in his plea and assumes burden of proof, though plaintiff introduces no evidence. Dickey v. Smith, 127 Ga. 645, 56 S. E. 756. Where only issue tried was whether note sued on had been satisfied as claimed by defendants. Gibson v. Reisel, 123 Ill. App. 52. In action for false arrest where he admitted arrest and justified it. Rich v. Bailey, 30 Ky. L. R. 155, 97 S. W. 747. In replevin where only issue was as to whether plaintiff authorized certain person as his agent to sell property in question, which fact defendant affirmed and plaintiff denied. Absher v. Franklin, 121 Mo. App. 29, 97 S. W. 1002. Where he interposed counterclaim and plaintiff voluntarily withdrew only disputed item of his claim. Fischer v. Frohne, 100 N. Y. S. 1016. In action on note where right to recover was admitted unless defeated by alleged settlement. Berry v. Joiner [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 289. Where admitted of record plaintiff's right to recover unless it could be defeated upon affirmative grounds set up in answer. Stone v. Pettus [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 413.

41. Under Kirby's Dig. § 6196, matter must be determined by pleadings in case. Beal & Doyle Dry Goods Co. v. Barton, 80 Ark. 326, 97 S. W. 58. To entitle defendant to right he must in his pleadings, and before plaintiff begins to introduce testimony, admit enough to make out a prima facie case for plaintiff. Mitchem v. Allen [Ga.] 57 S. E. 721. Right held properly awarded to plaintiff where answer set up affirmative plea and denied plaintiff's allegation that defendant was indebted to him, and where defendant did not assume burden of proof or claim right until after plaintiffs had proceeded to make out case, and he had introduced evidence in his own behalf. Id. Right is determined by pleadings at time of trial and cannot be altered by admissions made during course of trial. Hollander v. Farber, 52 Misc. 507, 102 N. Y. S. 506. Plaintiff held to have right where defendant interposed general denial and counterclaim. Id. Defendant held not entitled to new trial for refusal of court to permit him to open and close, where it did not appear upon face of pleadings that he admitted plaintiff's cause of action and relied solely upon an affirmative defense. Early v. Early, 75 S. C. 15, 54 S. E. 827.

42. Allowing amendment of answer after close of testimony so as to strike out denial of allegation, thereby giving defendant burden of proof and right to open and close, held not an abuse of discretion. Beal & Doyle Dry Goods Co. v. Barton, 80 Ark. 326, 97 S. W. 58. Amendments for sole purpose of changing order of argument should never open, or to close, or both.<sup>43</sup> A waiver of the opening is ordinarily a waiver of the right to close provided the other party also waives argument, but not otherwise.<sup>44</sup>

§ 3. Kind, extent, and mode of argument or comment during trial.<sup>49</sup>—The propriety of argument is a question largely addressed to the sound discretion of the trial court, which is not subject to review on appeal unless manifest abuse is shown.<sup>50</sup>

Statements of law and reading from decisions or papers pertinent to other cases.<sup>51</sup>—Counsel should not misstate the law in his argument.<sup>52</sup> Permitting him to read authorities to the jury is largely discretionary,<sup>53</sup> but it is error to read portions of decisions in other similar cases which are calculated to arouse their sympathies and prejudices.<sup>54</sup> be allowed after trial has begun. Southern R. Co. v. Smith [Ky.] 102 S. W. 232. Refusal to adjudge defendant burden of proof and right to open and close held proper where amended answer withdrawing all denials of original, except those as to value of goods alleged to have been lost, was filed after trial had begun. Id.

43. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 74 Kan. 83, 86 P. 156.

44. When other party proceeds to argue case to jury, party having burden of issue is entitled to reply. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Johnson, 74 Kan. 83, 86 P. 156.

45. See 7 C. L. 258.

46. Hoyt v. Garlock, 145 Mich. 632, 13 Det. Leg. N. 578, 108 N. W. 1074.

47. In will contest held not improper to emphasize and rely on financial condition of testator and principal beneficiary as tending to show unreasonableness, since that fact could properly be considered in determining whether will was so unreasonable as to show incapacity or undue influence. In re Wharton's Will [Iowa] 109 N. W. 492. Fact that statements made were not fully borne out by evidence held not necessarily ground for reversal, particularly where court cautioned jury to disregard statements, etc., not supported by evidence. Id.

48. Statement by counsel for plaintiff that he did not think one of the defendants was liable in case at bar held not to give such defendant right to be dismissed or to have verdict directed in its favor, so that its rights were not prejudiced by court's action in excluding such argument as improper on objection of other defendant and instructing jury not to consider it, etc. Consolidated Kansas City Smelting & Refining Co. v. Binkley [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 181.

Appellate court will not interfere except where from survey of whole situation it appears likely different result would have been reached but for misconduct. Hannestad v. Chicago, etc., R. Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 718. Will not interfere with discretion in refusing to grant new trial unless it is affirmatively made to appear that discretion has been abused to prejudice of appellant. In re Wharton's Will [Iowa] 109 N. W. 492. Will not reverse unless it can see that remarks objected to were clearly prejudicial to objecting party. Chicago & Grand Trunk R. Co. v. Smith, 124 Ill. App. 627. Failure to reprimand counsel for referring to excluded letters held not abuse of discretion, where he did not disclose contents, and opposing counsel was first offender. Locher v. Knechenmiester, 120 Mo. App. 701, 98 S. W. 92. Will not be presumed that court was improperly influenced by remarks on motion for nonsuit. Brown v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 1053.

51. See 7 C. L. 259.

52. Refusal to sustain objection to statement that carrier was liable to plaintiff because car was in charge of inexperienced motorman held reversible error, argument being in conflict with law and instructions. Ft. Smith Light & Trac. Co. v. Flint [Ark.] 99 S. W. 79. In action against railroad for damages by fire alleged to have been caused by sparks from engine, argument that it was negligence for defendant to use wood instead of coal in engines held improper, that not being the law. Monte Ne R. Co. v. Phillips, 80 Ark. 292, 96 S. W. 1060. Statement as to damages which should be allowed in personal injury case and statement by court that argument was proper held not ground for reversal, even if erroneous and embracing incorrect statement of law, where only possible effect could have been to increase verdict, and it was not claimed that it was excessive, and court correctly instructed as to measure of damages. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Ark.] 100 S. W. 884.

53. Is somewhat a matter of discretion, though of doubtful propriety. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Smith [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 453. Refusal to prohibit reading of case excerpt from former opinion in same case held not an abuse of discretion. Mahoney v. Dixon, 34 Mont. 454, 87 P. 452.

54. Permitting reading in jury's presence, and evidently for their benefit, held error. San Antonio Trac. Co. v. Lambkin [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 574.

Comments on pleadings and evidence and scope of argument in relation thereto.<sup>55</sup>—It is proper to comment on the evidence in the case<sup>56</sup> and to draw fair inferences therefrom,<sup>57</sup> but not to call attention to or comment on facts not within the issues made by the pleadings,<sup>58</sup> or not in evidence,<sup>59</sup> unless they are mat-

56. Papers properly in evidence may be referred to and read to jury for first time in argument. Terry v. Williams [Ala.] 41 So. 804. Argument in action on note for price of horse, that horse had been returned to payee, and that if he had not disposed of him he had him yet, held sustained by evidence. Carey v. Nissle, 145 Mich. 383, 13 Det. Leg. N. 490, 108 N. W. 733. Statement held substance of what was in evidence and proper. Hax v. Quincey, etc., R. Co., 123 Mo. App. 172, 100 S. W. 693.

57. May state evidence as he understands it, and draw his own conclusions therefrom and state them to jury. Evidence held to support argument. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 123 Mo. App. 513, 100 S. W. 569. Referring to edger as "that old rattle-trap of a machine" held warranted where there was proof that it was badly out of repair. Bodcaw Lumber Co. v. Ford [Ark.] 102 S. W. 896. Where there was evidence of permanent injury held not improper in personal injury suit to state that jury are to settle claim for damages, to date and for all time to come. Chicago & Joliet Elec. R. Co. v. Patton, 122 Ill. App. 174. Argument as to probability of plaintiff's dying and leaving wife and children held based on testimony and proper. Wells, Fargo & Co. Exp. v. Boyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 98 S. W. 441. Argument that rule of defendant railroad in regard to coupling cars was never intended to be enforced, but was made solely for use in defending litigation, held not impossible inference from evidence. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Conway [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 898, 98 S. W. 1070. In an action for breach of contract to purchase screenings, argument expressing contention that samples shipped to defendant ought to convince any one that they were mere sweepings, and that if, as was made to appear, plaintiff's process involved removal of dirt from screenings, it was dirt and not screenings that had been shipped to defendant, held within limits of legitimate contention as to inference to be drawn from evidence. Listman Mill Co. v. Miller [Wis.] 111 N. W. 496.

58. Excluding remarks wholly immaterial to issue held proper. Berger v. Standard Oil Co. [Ky.] 103 S. W. 245. Argument predicated on defects in car testified to by witness, but not alleged as ground of recovery in petition, held improper. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 990, 97 S. W. 325.

59. Argument held proper: Reference to fact that defendant was insured, taken in connection with incompetent testimony, held reversible error, where counsel did not withdraw it, though he offered to do so, and jury was not instructed to disregard it, and exception was properly saved. Capital Const. Co. v. Holtzman, 27 App. D. C. 125. Statement that there was no evidence that defendant was insured but that most of such people were, held prejudicial, particularly where defendant was an individual, though court told jury that there was no evidence on subject and to disregard it. Loughlin v. Brassil [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 854. Held error in will contest for counsel for propounder to show revocatory words on margin of will to jury and point out difference, in formation of letters, etc., between signature on margin and signature to will, jury not being entitled to decide question of genuineness of signature on margin by comparison of handwriting. In re Shelton's Will, 143 N. C. 218, 55 S. E. 705. Statement as to customary practice before magistrates, as to which there was no evidence. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Cherry [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 712. Statement that certain matters were shown by evidence, when in fact they were not. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Cherry [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 29, 97 S. W. 712. Appeal to jury to consult their own knowledge as to reputation of witness for truth and veracity, outside of impressions received at trial. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. McMillan [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 596, 98 S. W. 421. Statements of counsel as to character of plaintiff and improbability that she was lying, based on his own knowledge, held reversible error, where evidence was sharply conflicting. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Harrington [Tex. Civ. App.] 98 S. W. 653. Going outside of facts and testimony, or asking jury to found verdict on matters they may have observed outside facts proved on trial. San Antonio Trac. Co. v. Lambkin [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 574. Statement that every conductor on defendant's line would testify that sign "For Negroes" was not placed in customary place. San Antonio Trac. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 554. Comments on effort to impeach witness by testimony as to his reputation for truth and veracity. International, etc., R. Co. v. Munn [Tex. Civ. App.] 102 S. W. 442.

Argument held not ground for reversal: If, as contended, proximate cause of accident was negligence of conductor in failing to see that switch was thrown before starting train out of side track, and that fact was conclusively established, argument that crew was drunk. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Boyles, 78 Ark. 374, 95 S. W. 783. Attempt to go outside of case and state verdicts returned in other cases, to which objection was sustained. Richardson v. Nelson, 123 Ill. App. 550. In trover against sheriff to recover value of chattels seized and sold under writ of attachment as property of a debtor who had previously transferred them to plaintiff's intestate, which transfer defendant claimed was fraudulent, statement that certain witness for defendant, who testified that he was creditor of judgment debtor and had investigated his financial condition, "did not proceed with any such proceeding as we find in this case." Major v. Brewster [Mich.] 14 Det. Leg. N. 323, 112 N. W. 490. Statements of fact not supported by evidence, and having no bearing on case except in so far as they tended to support conclu-

Comments on witnesses, parties, and counsel.<sup>65</sup>—Counsel may draw any and all proper inferences from the evidence tending to discredit a party<sup>66</sup> or a witness,<sup>67</sup> but it is improper to make unwarranted and unreasonable assaults upon the character or integrity of parties,<sup>68</sup> or witnesses,<sup>69</sup> or opposing counsel,<sup>70</sup> or to state, without sions of law attempted to be drawn by counsel, where court declined to charge in accordance with such conclusions. Beckman v. Hampton [N. H.] 65 A. 254. Fact that counsel stated in direct terms that he was not at certain place, instead of stating that evidence showed that he was not, where he stated nothing that evidence did not justify. Hammock v. Tacoma [Wash.] 87 P. 924.

60. Argument that as matter of common knowledge it is easier to copy or simulate handwriting with a pencil than with a pen held proper, as appealing to general experience of jury. Foss v. Smith, 79 Vt. 434, 65 A. 553.

61. Commenting on excluded evidence held reversible error where court failed and refused to instruct jury to disregard it. Hanstad v. Canadian Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 87 P. 832. Attempt by innuendo to suggest to jury that evidence properly excluded upon objection of opposing party would have been injurious to latter held improper. Listman Mill Co. v. Miller [Wis.] 111 N. W. 496. Ruling that counsel could not refer to letter which had been excluded from evidence, and instructing jury to disregard his comment on it held proper, though comment related only to fact that letter was written, and not to its contents. Leesville Mfg. Co. v. Morgan Wood & Iron Works, 75 S. C. 342, 55 S. E. 768. A ruling properly excluding evidence held nullified by the court's permitting counsel to refer to such evidence, over objection thereto. Steltemeier v. Barrett, 115 Mo. App. 323, 91 S. W. 56.

62. Seeking to base right of recovery on allegations of count of declaration which had been withdrawn and taunting counsel for objecting. Springfield Boiler & Mfg. Co. v. Parks, 123 Ill. App. 503. Permitting allegation of pleading to which special exception had been sustained to be read to jury held prejudicial, where evidence was equally balanced. Simpson v. Thompson [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 352, 95 S. W. 94.

63. In action against traction company for injuries, telling jury if they wanted to find out whether defendant's motorman and conductors were negligent, to go to records of county and see what juries in other cases had said about them. San Antonio Traction Co. v. Parks [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 171, 93 S. W. 130.

64. Referring to fact that opposing party had been unable to get verdict on former trial. Prewitt v. Southern Tel. & T. Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 812.

65. See 7 C. L. 261.

66. Argument as to dangerous character of plaintiff held not so unwarranted as to be error. Foss v. Smith, 79 Vt. 434, 65 A. 553.

67. Where affidavit for continuance was read as deposition of absent witnesses, remarks of counsel to effect that he knew nothing about them, had had no opportunity to cross-examine them, and that they might have been produced if they had been wanted, held not improper or prejudicial, particularly where testimony was not material except in one particular, as to which it was corroborated. Louisville St. R. Co. v. Brownfield, 29 Ky. L. R. 1097, 96 S. W. 912. Waiver of privilege by plaintiff after physician who had attended him was produced in court, in presence of jury as witness for defendant, held not to bar comment by counsel for plaintiff affecting physician's credibility as witness. Hodge v. St. Louis, 146 Mich. 173, 13 Det. Leg. N. 749, 109 N. W. 252. When made under claim that improper disclosures by the physician led to his being called as a witness. Id. Referring to testimony as manufactured of much the same stuff as dreams are made of, as baseless fabrication of dream, etc., held proper. Harless v. Southwest Missouri Elec. R. Co., 123 Mo. App. 22, 99 S. W. 793. Where testimony is conflicting, may urge that testimony of adverse witness is untrue, and, if manner of witness and character of his testimony indicates that he has been coached, may endeavor to induce jury to believe that such is fact; but it is improper to make such a statement as a fact, or in absence of anything to warrant jury in believing it a fact, to argue that it is. Beaumont Trac. Co. v. Dilworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 257, 94 S. W. 352.

68. Constitutes prejudicial error where it tends to inflame minds of jurors. Young v. Kinney [Neb.] 112 N. W. 558. Argument from which jury could draw no inference except that defendant was thief and was keeping a fence for pack of organized thieves. Id. Making statements concerning opposite party, not supported by evidence, and which were calculated to prejudice minds of jury against him. Hurst v. Williams [Ky.] 102 S. W. 1176. Persisting in charges and accusations in nowise supported by evidence, and which clearly tended to arouse prejudice of jury against defendant, held reversible error. Fishblatt v. New York City R. Co., 99 N. Y. S. 336. Though conduct of defendant was justly subject to censure, held improper to vilify him. Crow v. Ball [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 533. Vilification in action for conversion held harmless, where undisputed evidence showed that he converted plaintiff's property, and verdict was not in excess of its reasonable value. Id.

69. Constitutes prejudicial error where it tends to inflame minds of jurors. Young v. Kinney [Neb.] 112 N. W. 558. Argument from which jury could draw no inference except that certain of defendants witnesses were perjured, and testified falsely at instance of defendant. Id. Statement of counsel that he had "mighty little" respect for experts "because they are employed to serve their clients and paid mighty well for it," held reversible error, where was no evi-

any evidence to support the assertion, that employes will lose their positions unless they testify in favor of their employer.<sup>71</sup> It is proper to comment on the failure of a party to testify,<sup>72</sup> the absence of testimony to meet the case made,<sup>73</sup> or the failure to produce witnesses,<sup>74</sup> not equally accessible to both parties,<sup>75</sup> but not on the refusal of a witness to testify on the ground of self incrimination,<sup>76</sup> or the failure of an attorney in the case to testify in behalf of his client, when it would have been improper for him to do so,<sup>77</sup> or to refer to the ability of a corporate defendant to procure witnesses to meet the case made against it,<sup>78</sup> or to state the reasons why certain witnesses were not called.<sup>79</sup> dence respecting compensation of experts who testified, or that they were specially employed by plaintiff for whom they testified, and no steps were taken to remove prejudicial effect from minds of jury. Winslow v. Smith [N. H.] 65 A. 108. Dwelling unduly on fact that conductor on car on which plaintiff was injured did not give right name on entering defendant's employ, and referring to him as man who committed crime on entering that corporation, held improper. Keenan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 103 N. Y. S. 61. In action against railroad for injury to horses, argument to effect that railroad men always swore that shipments were handled carefully because they did not want to be censured, and that jury had doubtless seen railroad men in court, who were doubtless inspectors and knew of condition of car, and, if condition of car was not as plaintiff claimed, why were they not called to prove it, held reversible error, where evidence was conflicting. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Terry [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 990, 97 S. W. 325. Refusal to grant no trial for gratuitous assault on character of experts held not cause for reversal, particularly where brief did not show that their testimony was favorable to complaining defendant, or material on any defensive issue. Duerler Mfg. Co. v. Eichhorn [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 715.

70. Continued attacks on conduct of counsel for unprofessional conduct in taking different sides of same question in different suits held cause for reversal, when persisted in after objections had been repeatedly sustained. Thompson v. Hoppert, 120 Ill. App. 588. Unjustifiable attacks on integrity of opposing counsel in briefs filed in appellate court, unless voluntarily withdrawn or satisfactorily explained, will be ordered erased from copies which remain part of public records, where brief is not stricken on that account. Ogg v. Glover, 72 Kan. 247, 83 P. 1039.

71. Kentucky & I. Bridge & R. Co. v. Nuttall, 29 Ky. L. R. 1167, 96 S. W. 1131. Held violation of rule 39, and reversible error. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Beezley [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1051. Refusal to require counsel to withdraw statement held harmless. Minard v. West Jersey & S. R. Co. [N. J. Law] 64 A. 1054.

72. On fact that defendant, though present, failed to testify in denial of plaintiff's evidence, and offered no explanation for failure to testify. Hull v. Douglass, 79 Conn. 266, 64 A. 351. Fairly within latitude allowed counsel to call it refusal on defendant's part to take stand in his own behalf. Id. Where the principal facts attending transaction are peculiarly within knowledge of plaintiff and defendant and plaintiff gives his version favoring his claim. Ledford v. Emerson, 141 N. C. 596, 54 S. E. 433. His voluntary absence in Europe, in violation of bail bond made by order in cause, he having been arrested on allegations of fraud, held not to alter case to his advantage. Id.

73. Dahrooge v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 144 Mich. 544, 13 Det. Leg. N. 381, 108 N. W. 283.

74. In action against city, reference to nonproduction of witnesses to show want of notice of defect in sidewalk held fair argument. Stagner v. Rich Hill, 119 Mo. App. 281, 95 S. W. 957. In action for personal injuries, refusal to permit defendant's counsel to comment on failure of plaintiff to produce physician who treated him as witness, with view of having jury infer that his testimony would not have been favorable to plaintiff, held reversible error. Brotherton v. Barber Asphalt Pav. Co., 117 App. Div. 791, 102 N. Y. S. 1089.

75. Held reversible error to permit counsel to call attention to fact that defendant had not produced certain witness and ask jury to draw unfavorable inference from that fact against defendant, where such person was no longer in defendant's employ and latter had no knowledge of his whereabouts. Mutual Industrial Indemnity Co. v. Perkins [Ark.] 98 S. W. 709. In slander, where defendant testifies that alleged defamation was told him by third person living within few miles of and equally as accessible to him as to plaintiff, unfavorable comment on plaintiff's failure to call such third person as witness is reversible error. Sears v. Duling, 79 Vt. 334, 65 A. 90.

76. Easterly v. Gater, 17 Okl. 93, 87 P. 853.

77. Failure of court, on objection, to stop argument, reprimand counsel, and instruct jury to disregard it, held virtual holding that it was proper. Sanger v. McDonald [Ark.] 102 S. W. 690.

78. Held not prejudicial. Dahrooge v. Pere Marquette R. Co., 144 Mich. 544, 13 Det. Leg. N. 381, 108 N. W. 283; Bettis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 131 Iowa, 46, 108 N. W. 103. Statement, without any evidence to justify it, that defendant had millions of capital, and thousands of employes, and had failed to produce a passenger who saw accident, held improper. Keenan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 103 N. Y. S. 61.

79. Statement in reply to comments of opposing counsel on their absence held not ground for reversal, it not appearing that result of trial was in any way affected thereby. Hammock v. Tacoma [Wash.] 87 P. 924.

Comments on instructions and special interrogatories.<sup>80</sup>—Counsel may read and comment upon interrogatories, and array the evidence necessary to be considered in answering the same,<sup>81</sup> though he may not tell the jury how to answer them.<sup>82</sup> He may also use the instructions to illustrate his argument,<sup>83</sup> but he may not discuss the significance of a refused instruction,<sup>84</sup> or to tell the jury that they need only consider such instructions as present his theory.<sup>85</sup>

Appeals to passion, prejudice, and sympathy.<sup>86</sup>—Appeals on considerations other than the merits of the case,<sup>87</sup> or the use of language or argument calculated to arouse the sympathy of the jury,<sup>88</sup> or to prejudice them against the opposite party,<sup>89</sup> are improper. Thus, it is improper to contrast the financial conditions

80. See 7 C. L. 261.

81. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lighthouse [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1033.

82. Pittsburgh, etc., R. Co. v. Lighthouse [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1033. In case he does so, opposite party is only entitled to have jury sufficiently admonished without delay that such statement may not be considered, and is no ground for discharging jury. Id.

83. Under Sess. Laws 1901, p. 160, counsel held entitled to use instructions to illustrate Sess. Laws 1901, p. 160. Held no impropriety in his re-reading such portions of charge as he deemed particularly pertinent. Storm v. Butte [Mont.] 89 P. 726. Refusal to allow such use held harmless, where it did not appear that he was unable to properly argue case without them, or that he could not recall to jury substance of charge given. Id.

84. Statement that it was duty of court to give demurrer to evidence if plaintiff had no case, and in not giving demurrer and letting case go to jury he decided, in effect, that plaintiff did have case, held improper. Eppstein v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 197 Mo. 720, 94 S. W. 967.

85. Statement that first instruction required jury to find for plaintiff, and that others need not be considered if they believed as therein defined, held improper. Hurst v. Williams [Ky.] 102 S. W. 1176.

86. See 7 C. L. 261.

87. Statement as to probable size of fee of defendant's counsel in insurance case held improper. Cox v. Continental Ins. Co., 104 N. Y. S. 421. Statement in case against insurance company that insurance companies will go to any ends (Id.), that they have stacks of money (Id.), and pay large dividends, held reversible error (Id.). Persisting, after being reproved, in making remarks showing an intention to procure verdict through prejudice of jury rather than upon evidence held reversible error. Id. In action for death by wrongful act statement by counsel for defendant in arguing motion for nonsuit that if it was done he would promise to take care of plaintiff and her children, etc., held improper, but not reversible error, where granting of nonsuit was proper on evidence. Brown v. Northern Pac. R. Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 1053.

88. Held improper: Allusion to plaintiff's orphanage in personal injury action. Chicago City R. Co. v. Schaefer, 121 Ill. App. 334. Referring to plaintiff as "penniless girl." Duerler Mfg. Co. v. Eichhorn [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 715. Statement that if jury did not believe plaintiff and thought him a fraud, and that there was no evidence backing him, then they should throw him and his wife and children on world, held not reversible error. Wells, Fargo & Co. Exp. v. Boyle [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 350, 98 S. W. 441.

Held not improper for counsel to speak of his client as "this honest German girl," and to ask verdict in her favor, though such characterization was not authorized by any testimony, and though most of jury were Germans, it not appearing that he sought verdict because she was German. Duerler Mfg. Co. v. Eichhorn [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 715.

89. Argument held improper: Referring to contract under which cattle were shipped as "yellow backed literature," where was no issue as to its validity. St. Louis, etc., Ry. Co. v. Crowder [Ark.] 103 S. W. 172. In action against railroad for personal injuries, statement that by reports of interstate commerce commission there had been many thousands of deaths and injuries by railroad accidents during past year. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Smith [Fla.] 43 So. 235. In action against railroad for wrongful death, unwarranted assertion by plaintiff's counsel that defendant's engineers and firemen were murderers held cause for reversal where persistently repeated after he had been warned, and after jury had been instructed to disregard statements. Orendorf v. New York Cent. & H. R. R. Co., 104 N. Y. S. 222. Statement that action of defendant corporation was unheard of and damnable. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Cherry [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 29, 97 S. W. 712. Statement that foreman of grand jury, who was vice-president of defendant company, had no right to request court for attendance of witnesses before grand jury who had been sworn and placed under rule as witnesses in case at bar. Id. Expressing fear that employes of defendant who had testified for plaintiff would lose their places, though there was no evidence on that point. Southern R. Co. v. Simmons, 105 Va. 651, 55 S. E. 459. Statement that counsel for defendant railroad rode in their private and palace cars when they came to court, though there was no evidence to that effect. Id. Argument that in many states defendant's conduct would have landed him in the penitentiary "as it ought to do here" held not ground for reversal under the circumstances. Bradford v. National Benefit Ass'n, 26 App. D. C. 263. Reference to number of employes killed annually through negligence of railroads, held not prejudicial. Louisville & A. R. Co. v. Wilson, 30 Ky. L. R. 734, 99 S. W. 634.

of the parties,<sup>90</sup> appeal to the prejudice against corporations,<sup>91</sup> or to sectional prejudice,<sup>92</sup> refer to the fact that the opposite party had taken exceptions and will appeal if the verdict is against him,<sup>93</sup> or to attempt to create an impression in the minds of the jury that whatever they do will be approved on appeal.<sup>94</sup>

90. Seaboard Air Line Ry. v. Smith [Fla.] 43 So. 235; Bettis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 131 Iowa, 46, 108 N. W. 103; Davis v. Adrian, 147 Mich. 300, 13 Det. Leg. N. 1023, 110 N. W. 1084; Southern R. Co. v. Simmons, 105 Va. 651, 55 S. E. 459. Held violation of rule 39, and reversible error. Texas & P. R. Co. v. Beezley [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1051. In action by bank against receiver of an insolvent bank on fraudulently certified checks, argument that plaintiff was solvent while creditors of defendant bank were poor held prejudicial error. Detroit Nat. Bk. v. Union Trust Co., 145 Mich. 656, 13 Det. Leg. N. 593, 108 N. W. 1092. In action for injuries to miner, where counsel for plaintiff stated in argument respecting plaintiff's return to work before his injuries were healed, that miners do not have a very large bank account, and that if plaintiff went to work he did not do so because he wanted to, but because he had to, and because he had wife and family, and had to get daily bread, refusal of new trial was within discretion of the trial court. Cook v. Smith-Lowe Co. [Iowa] 109 N. W. 798.

91. Statements as to difficulty of controlling corporations, etc. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Cherry [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 29, 97 S. W. 712. Refusal to withdraw juror because of statement in suit for personal injury against city that corporate property owner was ultimately liable held reversible error, where court did not attempt to withdraw remark from jury or admonish them in regard to it. Walsh v. City of Wilkes-Barre, 215 Pa. 226, 64 A. 407.

92. In action against carrier for damages for alleged insulting conduct of conductor to female passengers, argument that latter were from south and that conductor was from north held improper, particularly where there was no evidence tending to show latter fact. San Antonio Trac. Co. v. Lambkin [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 574.

93. Statement that in estimating damages jury should take into consideration fact that defendant had taken exceptions, and that it had been stated if verdict was against it, it would appeal. Southern R. Co. v. Simmons, 105 Va. 651, 55 S. E. 459.

94. Statement that member of appellate court would approve verdict in double amount sued for because he was a Confederate soldier held highly prejudicial. San Antonio Trac. Co. v. Lambkin [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 574.

95. See 7 C. L. 263.

96. Statement to witness in course of examination that counsel did not think that oath amounted to anything with him. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Rilling, 121 Ill. App. 169. Asking witness during cross-examination if he had anything to conceal, where not justified by record. Libby v. Cook, 123 Ill. App. 574.

97. Statement by counsel in controversy over admission of evidence and in presence of jury that issue to which such evidence related had been determined in his client's favor by two juries held improper. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Madden, Graham & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 723.

98. Where plaintiff introduced evidence that age of certain person was shown in family Bible, but did not introduce latter in evidence, held improper, on defendant's counsel commenting in argument on failure to introduce it, for plaintiff's counsel to produce it and tell defendant's counsel he could then introduce it himself. Levels v. St. Louis & H. R. Co., 196 Mo. 606, 94 S. W. 275. Remark on objection to testimony being sustained "That's all right. It doesn't hurt much," and, on counsel for adverse party announcing that they would offer objections to testimony, "I have no doubt you will," held too trivial to influence jury. Guffy Petroleum Co. v. Hamill [Tex. Civ. App.] 94 S. W. 458. Where plaintiff's counsel stated that defendant's counsel might state that plaintiff was a knave, but could not claim that he was a fool, argument by defendant's counsel on assumption that plaintiff's counsel granted that plaintiff was a knave and that speaker guessed it was generally granted held not prejudicial. Foss v. Smith, 79 Vt. 434, 65 A. 553.

99. Statements by counsel during cross-examination of his witnesses calculated to prejudice opponent's right to cross-examine without witness being assisted by his counsel. Keenan v. Metropolitan St. R. Co., 103 N. Y. S. 61.

1. Suggesting such fact by questioning jurors and opposing counsel held ground for new trial. Beaumont Trac. Co. v. Dilworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 257, 94 S. W. 352. Is improper in examining jurors as to their interest in any casualty insurance company to do so in an extraordinary manner as if this portion of their examination were of peculiar moment. Howard v. Belldenville Lumber Co., 129 Wis. 98, 108 N. W. or the asking of improper questions,<sup>3</sup> is not ordinarily ground for reversal unless done in bad faith,<sup>4</sup> or persisted in after an adverse ruling.<sup>5</sup> Misconduct of counsel is no ground for striking a pleading from the files and entering judgment by default in the absence of a showing that his client in any way participated in or instigated it.<sup>6</sup>

§ 5. Excuses for impropriety.<sup>7</sup>—There is a conflict of authority as to whether misconduct is excused because provoked by opposing counsel or because the latter has been guilty of the same offense.<sup>8</sup>

§ 7. Action of court to counsel curing objections.<sup>12</sup>—Unless improper remarks are such as to prevent a fair verdict,<sup>13</sup> their harmful effect may generally be

48. Should simply ask fair questions in regard to subject, same as in examination as to any other matter, and should not discuss same with court and counsel, etc. Id.

2. Colloquy with court as to making of record on exclusion of evidence tending to show that defendant in action for wrongful death of servant was indemnified held not prejudicial. Hamner v. Janowitz, 131 Iowa, 20, 103 N. W. 109. Statement of counsel in opening argument that evidence would show certain fact, and subsequent offer to prove same, which court, after argument, refused to permit, held not in any sense improper or prejudicial, even if such evidence was not competent for purpose for which it was offered, and particularly where it was not incompetent for all purposes. McGinnis v. Rigby Printing Co., 122 Mo. App. 227, 99 S. W. 4. Denial of motion to withdraw juror and continue case because of offer of certain testimony held not an abuse of discretion, there being nothing in record indicating that court had any ground to believe that offer was not made in good faith. Frech v. Lewis, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 279. Statement in answer to court's inquiry as to purpose of certain evidence, that it was to show that there was nothing in defendant's defense and that it was entirely fictitious held not prejudicial in view of fact that plaintiff claimed that contract on which defendants relied was forgery. Walker v. Dickey [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 934, 98 S. W. 658.

3. Asking improper question held not prejudicial where it was answered in negative. Bodecaw Lumber Co. v. Ford [Ark.] 102 S. W. 896. Refusal to reprimand counsel for asking question to which objection was sustained held not an abuse of discretion. Collins v. Chipman [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 411, 95 S. W. 666. Asking question, answer to which had been ruled out on former trial, but which was not question to which any answer would have been illegitimate, held not improper, though counsel had been notified by opposing counsel before trial not to ask it, of which fact court was informed when objection was made, particularly where record did not show that answer was improper. Paris & G. N. R. Co. v. Calvin [Tex. Civ. App.] 103 S. W. 428.

4. Refusal to withdraw juror because of an offer of record in previous suit against another party for same injury, showing large verdict for plaintiff which was set aside on appeal, held reversible error. Wagner v. Hazle Tp., 215 Pa. 219, 64 A. 405.

5. Persistently disregarding rulings of court in continuing to ask incompetent questions after they had been ruled out, and indulging in remarks in regard to current testimony in presence and hearing of jury during examination of witnesses, of character tending to prejudice adverse party, thereby getting incompetent matter before jury, held reversible error. English v. Ricks [Tenn.] 95 S. W. 189. Repeatedly asking same question of different witnesses after court had held it improper held not ground for reversal where verdict was clearly justified by evidence. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Knowles [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 867.

6. Misconduct of defendant's attorney in purposely absents himself at time fixed for arguing demurrer to answer and taking papers with him held not imputable to client in absence of showing that he participated in or instigated it. Chenault v. Norton, 30 Ky. L. R. 875, 99 S. W. 899.

Mild rebuke held insufficient. Id. Pronounced and persistent misconduct in making charges in nowise supported by evidence, and which clearly tended to arouse prejudice of jury against defendant, held not cured by mild observation of judge to jury that they should base verdict on evidence alone. Fishblatt v. New York City R. Co., 99 N. Y. S. 836. Improper argument not necessarily cured by instructions to disregard it, but counsel takes chances of reversal in using it. Missouri, K. & T. R. Co. v. Cherry [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 29, 97 S. W. 712.

14 Where argument is stopped on sustained objection, failure of court to reprimand counsel or instruct jury to disregard argument or to declare mistrial is not generally sufficient reason for setting verdict aside in absence of request for such instructions or reprimand, or motion for mistrial. Southern R. Co. v. Brown, 126 Ga. 1, 54 S. E. 911.

15. Held not ground for reversal: Attacking witness, where remark was withdrawn and court was not asked to reverse on that ground. Libby v. Cook, 123 Ill. App. 574. Referring to fact that child had been thrown off car, when it was not claimed or proved that violence had been used, where remark was immediately recalled and disavowed by counsel. Harless v. Southwest Missouri Elec. R. Co., 123 Mo. App. 22, 99 S. W. 793. Argument, where counsel withdrew statement and asked jury to discharge it, and verdict was not contrary to preponderance of evidence. San Antonio & A. P. R. Co. v. McMillan [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 596, 98 S. W. 421. Remarks withdrawn on objection thereto being sustained. International, etc., R. Co. v. Brice [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 408, 95 S. W. 660. Statement that every conductor on defendant's line would testify to certain thing, where it was withdrawn, and there was no evidence of it having been injurious. San Antonio Trac. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 554.

16. Statement that witnesses had to swear as they did, or lose their jobs held not prejudicial where court promptly rebuked counsel in presence of jury. Kentucky & I. Bridge & R. Co. v. Nuttall, 29 Ky. L. R. 1167, 96 S. W. 1131.

17. Fact that counsel told jury how to answer interrogatories does not entitle opponent to have jury discharged, but only to have them warned not to consider it, if so requested. Pittsburgh R. Co. v. Lightheiser [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1033. Where jury is instructed to disregard argument, on appeal it will be presumed in favor of judgment that they did so, and that verdict was not affected thereby. Collins v. Chipman [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 411, 95 S. W. 666.

18. Held cured by instruction to disregard. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Cherry [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 29, 97 S. W. 712. In action for libel, any misconduct on part of counsel for plaintiff in discussing action to be taken by court, and right to interrogate jury, in regard to publication of article in defendant's paper in regard to case pending trial. Tingley v. Times Mirror Co. [Cal.] 89 P. 1097. Harmful effect of remark. any, Macon & B. R. Co. v. Parker, 127 Ga. 471, 56 S. E. 616. Statement that if suit had not been brought until after sound examination damages would have been $10,000 held not cause for reversal, where verdict did not indicate that jury were influenced thereby. City of Gibson v. Murray, 120 Ill. App. 296. Statement to witness while examining him that speaker did not think oath amounted to anything with him. New York Life Ins. Co. v. Rilling, 121 Ill. App. 169. Contrasting financial condition of parties, where no further instruction in regard to matter was requested, and it did not appear that jury was influenced thereby. Davis v. Adrian, 147 Mich. 300, 13 Det. Leg. N. 1023, 110 N. W. 1084. In action by children for death of father, telling jury that they might award substantial damages for loss of parents advice and counsel. Beaumont Trac. Co. v. Dilworth [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 257, 94 S. W. 352. Stating as facts that witness had been drilled, where exception was not taken till close of argument in which it was used. Id. Appeal to sympathy of jury, if improper, where verdict did not indicate that it was result of prejudice or sympathy. San Antonio, etc., R. Co. v. McMillan [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 596, 98 S. W. 421. Improper side bar remarks. St. Louis, etc., R. Co. v. Knowles [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 867. Improper remarks, where they were provoked by opposing counsel and jury was instructed to disregard same, and there was nothing to indicate that jury did not obey instruction. Western Union Tel. Co. v. Sloss [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 354. Calling attention to fact that affidavit for continuance, which was received as testimony of absent witness, was made by counsel and not by witness. Thompson v. Issaquah Shingle Co. [Wash.] 86 P. 588. Remarks as to probable force of evidentiary facts and claim predicated thereon by opposing counsel. Glettlar v. Sheboygan Light, Power & R. Co., 130 Wis. 137, 109 N. W. 973. In action against railroad for damages by fire alleged to have been caused by sparks from engine, argument that it was negligent for defendant to burn wood instead of coal held not to require reversal, where instructions required verdict to be based on negligence in use of insufficient appliances to arrest sparks, and not on negligence in kind of fuel used. Monte Ne R. Co. v. Phillips, 80 Ark. 292, 96 S. W. 1060. Fact that counsel told jury how to answer interrogatories held not prejudicial where court instructed them to answer according to preponderance of evidence. Pittsburgh, etc. R. Co. v. Lightheiser, [Ind.] 78 N. E. 1033. Refusal to set aside verdict because of argument against propriety of taking advantage of bankruptcy law held not to require reversal in view of charge of court, particularly where record was insufficient to properly present question. Pearsall v. Tabour, 98 Minn. 218, 108 N. W. 808. Misstatement of evidence held no ground for new trial where jury were instructed they must rely solely on their own collection of evidence. Aetna Ins. Co. v. Missouri Pac. R. Co., 123 Mo. App. 513, 100 S. W. 569. Comments on refusal of witness to testify on ground of self-incrimination held not ground for reversal where court subsequently instructed jury that refusal should not be considered, and record did not justify appellate court in assuming that they disregarded such instruction. Easterly v. Gater, 17 Okl. 93, 87 P. 853.

19. Remarks held not ground for reversal:

Where they were withdrawn and jury instructed to disregard them. Arden Lumber Co. v. Henderson Iron Works & Supply Co. [Ark.] 103 S. W. 185; San Antonio Trac. Co. v. Parks [Tex. Civ. App.] 15 Tex. Ct. Rep. 171, 93 S. W. 130. Seeking to base recovery on allegations of court in declaration which had been withdrawn, etc., where court sustained objections, rebuked counsel, and made it clear to jury that matter was not in case, and it was not claimed that verdict was excessive. Springfield Boiler & Mfg. Co. v. Parks, 123 Ill. App. 503. Where counsel withdrew remarks, and court without delay admonished jury not to consider them. Malott v. Central Trust Co. [Ind.] 79 N. E. 369. Reference to disparity of financial condition between parties, where, on objection, court stopped counsel and directed jury not to pay any attention to such statements or allow them to prejudice defendant, in absence of anything in record to show disregard of admonition by counsel or jury, particularly where trial court ruled on motion for new trial that misconduct was not prejudicial. Bettis v. Chicago, etc., R. Co., 131 Iowa, 46, 108 N. W. 103. Improper argument as to damages recoverable in condemnation proceedings, where court carefully gave jury proper rules for their guidance, and instructed them to disregard argument complained of, unless it seems probable that argument affected verdict. City of Detroit v. Little Co., 146 Mich. 373, 13 Det. Leg. N. 803, 109 N. W. 671. Where the court promptly interfered and reprimanded counsel, did not permit him to complete his statements, and instructed jury to disregard remarks. Brockmiller v. Industrial Works [Mich.] 14 Det. Leg. N. 336, 112 N. W. 688. In action for injuries by fall of elevator, where plaintiff's counsel remarked that the question whether plaintiff was a passenger was turning point in case. Court overruled objection but later changed ruling and stated that in special verdict there is no turning point. Held no reversible error in rulings. Ferguson v. Truax [Wis.] 110 N. W. 395. Attempt by innuendo to suggest to jury that evidence properly excluded upon objection of opposing party would have been injurious to latter, where court promptly suppressed it, commanded counsel to confine himself to evidence which had been admitted and ruled that jury had no right to infer what excluded evidence would have shown, particularly where trial court concluded that prejudice had not occurred warranting new trial. Listman Mill Co. v. Miller [Wis.] 111 N. W. 496. Where language was withdrawn as soon as objected to, and court instructed jury not to consider it, it being presumed that jury obeyed. San Antonio Trac. Co. v. Parks [Tex. Civ. App.] 97 S. W. 510. Where counsel was promptly reprimanded, jury instructed to disregard it, and counsel withdrew it. Texas, etc., R. Co. v. Conway [Tex. Civ. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 898, 98 S. W. 1070. Where remarks were withdrawn, and jury instructed not to consider them, held that it would be presumed on appeal, in absence of anything to contrary, that no prejudice resulted. Chicago, etc., R. Co. v. Gillett [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 712. Referring to plaintiff as penniless girl cured, where court instructed jury to disregard it, and counsel asked them not to consider it. Duerler Mfg. Co. v. Eichhorn [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 715. Statements in jury's presence that issue raised by evidence sought to be introduced had been determined in his client's favor by two juries, where such statement was repeatedly and emphatically denied by court and opposing counsel, and such issue was not submitted to the jury, and evidence justified verdict. Meyer Bros. Drug Co. v. Madden, Graham & Co. [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 723. Argument based on excluded testimony, where, on objection, counsel stated that he had not understood that it was excluded and would refrain from discussing it, and did so, and court instructed jury to disregard it. Houston, etc., R. Co. v. Davis [Tex. Civ. App.] 100 S. W. 1013. Improper comments on effort to impeach witness, where objection was promptly sustained, and court instructed jury at time to disregard it. International, etc., R. Co. v. Munn [Tex. Civ. arrest.<sup>24</sup> Purpose to lawfully arrest and resistance to unlawful arrest as justification for assault,<sup>25</sup> or homicide,<sup>26</sup> are also more fully treated elsewhere.

§ 1. Occasion or necessity for warrant.<sup>27</sup>—A peace officer may ordinarily arrest without a warrant for an offense committed in his presence,<sup>28</sup> particularly if it constitutes a breach of the peace,<sup>29</sup> and authority is sometimes given to magistrates to order arrest under like circumstances.<sup>30</sup> An officer may likewise arrest without warrant where a felony has been committed and he has reasonable ground to believe that the person to be apprehended is guilty thereof.<sup>31</sup> He has, however, no right to arrest a person without a warrant merely because he is acting in a suspicious manner,<sup>32</sup> and a police officer finding a person in possession of lost property has no authority to arrest him without a warrant on refusal to surrender it.<sup>33</sup> The authority of officers charged with the enforcement of particular laws is ordinarily more limited.<sup>34</sup> In some jurisdictions a warrant is not essential to authorize the arrest of one who has violated a town ordinance.<sup>35</sup> The right to arrest without warrant is generally regulated by the statutes and is in such case limited to the terms of the statute.<sup>36</sup> Among the specific offenses which under the statutes of different states authorize an arrest without a warrant are drunkenness,<sup>37</sup> carrying a pistol,<sup>38</sup> engaged in a public exhibition of baseball on Sunday,<sup>39</sup> theft,<sup>40</sup> and obstructing voting.<sup>41</sup>

The criminal act must have been committed in the sight of the officer, or in such a manner that he could detect it by sight or hearing as the act of the person arrested. Brown v. Vallis [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 1068.

30. Code, § 5198, providing that "a magistrate may orally order a peace officer—to arrest any one committing or attempting to commit a public offense" in his presence, does not authorize a magistrate to order the arrest of a person whom he did not see commit an offense. 35. In Alabama a policeman has authority to arrest without a warrant for violation of a town ordinance if the offense is committed in his presence. Hammond v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 761. In Georgia, as a general rule, a municipal peace officer in whose presence a town ordinance has been violated has no authority to arrest without a warrant, when he has had ample time and opportunity since the commission of the offense to procure a warrant. Yates v. State, 127 Ga. 313, 56 S. E. 1017.

37. Under Code, § 2402, the offender must be "found in a state of intoxication." Snyder v. Thompson [Iowa] 112 N. W. 239. Under Texas Code Cr. Proc., art. 249, and Rev. St. 1895, arts. 593, 598, 607, and the ordinance is of a town, a policeman of the town held authorized to arrest without a warrant one found drunk in a public place. Early v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 78, 97 S. W. 82.

38. Under the Texas Code Cr. Proc. 1895, art. 43, a policeman is a peace officer, and under Pen. Code 1895, art. 342, may, without a warrant, arrest any person carrying a pistol on his knowledge or upon information derived from some credible person. Hull v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 100 S. W. 403. Under this statute, § 342, where a sheriff, who has without a warrant arrested a person for gaming, is subsequently informed that such person was carrying a pistol, he may hold him in custody for the latter offense. Garner v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 173, 97 S. W. 98. A deputy sheriff may without a warrant arrest a person who, on information received, he believes to be carrying a pistol, even though the information is not correct. Saye v. State [Tex. Cr. A private person may ordinarily arrest for an offense in his presence or on information that a felony has been committed.<sup>42</sup> Where a congregation has met in a church for religious worship, and no peace officer is present or accessible, members of the congregation may arrest persons in the immediate vicinity, though not on the church premises, who are committing acts which are statutory misdemeanors and thereby disturbing the worshipers.<sup>43</sup>

§ 2. Privilege from arrest.<sup>44</sup>

§ 3. Complaint, affidavit, or information to procure warrant.—The form of the complaint or information is generally prescribed by statute,<sup>45</sup> but it must be made under oath, although there is no statutory requirement that it shall be,<sup>47</sup> and must either be on the complainant's knowledge or discloses the facts on which his belief is based.<sup>48</sup> Where an affidavit is required as the basis of a prosecution or accusation, it must be made before such officer as the statute prescribes,<sup>49</sup> but if the statute fails to make provision on this subject, it may be made before a commercial notary public.<sup>50</sup> Statutory requirements and the nature of the offense are determination of what shall be stated in a complaint or information,<sup>51</sup> but it must affirmatively disclose the commission of a definite crime,<sup>52</sup> and in New York a magistrate need not examine witnesses in aid of an information deficient in this respect.<sup>53</sup> The failure of a complaint to give the date of the commission of the offense alleged will not render it void.<sup>54</sup> In the absence of statutory requirement to the contrary, a complaint may be made by any person who can legally be a witness and who has knowledge or information of the facts.<sup>55</sup> Amendment may be allowed after demurrer sustained for nonjurisdictional defects,<sup>56</sup> and a lost information may ordinarily be allowed to be supplied by copy.<sup>57</sup>

§ 4. The warrant and its issuance.<sup>58</sup>—The purpose of a warrant being to get a warrant for that crime, or under Code Cr. Proc. art. 364, authorizing such arrest where stolen property is found in the possession of the thief. Martin v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 63, 95 S. W. 501.

41. Under the Missouri statutes, Rev. St. 1899, §§ 6212, 6213, 6232, a police officer in the city of St. Louis may arrest without warrants persons who, in his view, obstruct the voting at a polling place by assaulting the voters. State v. Flynn, 119 Mo. App. 712, 94 S. W. 543.

the accused into court, if he be present and stand trial, it is immaterial that there was no warrant,<sup>59</sup> or that it has become functus officio because of delay,<sup>60</sup> nor can mere technical defects in a warrant be invoked to set aside the conviction of the person arrested under it.<sup>61</sup> What judicial officers have jurisdiction to issue warrants is generally determined by statute.<sup>62</sup> In Nebraska a county court or county judge has jurisdiction to issue a warrant in a case where the offense is beyond his jurisdiction.<sup>63</sup> It is the duty of a magistrate to whom a complaint has been made to determine for himself whether an offense has been committed.<sup>64</sup> If the facts shown do not warrant an inference of the existence of probable cause to believe that the crime charged has been committed, the magistrate is without jurisdiction to cause the arrest of the accused.<sup>65</sup> A warrant which by its terms is based upon a complaint filed on a certain date cannot be supported by a complaint of another date.<sup>66</sup> The warrant must state the offense.<sup>67</sup> When a warrant is delivered to a sheriff for service and the sheriff thereafter, by direction of the county attorney, returns the warrant "not found," and files the same with the justice who issued it, such warrant thereupon becomes functus officio.<sup>68</sup>

§ 5. Making arrest, and keeping and disposing of prisoner.<sup>69</sup>—Technically, any detention of the person of another by the laying on of hands, or by the exercise of force or threats, may be an arrest.<sup>70</sup> That the warrant was defective<sup>71</sup> or the arrest illegal is no ground for acquittal of the person arrested.<sup>72</sup> Where persons having authority to arrest, and using the proper means for that purpose, are resisted in so doing, they may repel force with force and need not give back.<sup>73</sup> In making an arrest for a felony, a peace officer is justified in using a greater degree of force than in arresting for a misdemeanor.<sup>74</sup> Where an officer has reasonable grounds

61. Under the Michigan statute, Pub. Acts 1893, p. 170, Act No. 118, providing for the trial of convicts for crimes committed in prison, if a warrant for the arrest of a convict is made in the ordinary form and directed to the warden of the prison, the fact that it uses the word "inmate" instead of "convict" cannot be invoked in behalf of the convict to set aside his subsequent conviction and cause his discharge. People v. Cook, 147 Mich. 127, 13 Det. Leg. N. 971, 110 N. W. 514. The warden may waive the technical defect in the warrant. Id.

specified statute "as amended" by another statute, specifying it, states an offense, under the requirement of the New York statute, Code Cr. Proc. § 152, although the amending statute is in part unconstitutional. People v. Mensching [N. Y.] 79 N. E. 884. 74. In making an arrest for a felony a peace officer may use such force as is necesto apprehend that one who has committed a breach of the peace will resist arrest, he is justified in summoning bystanders as a posse comitatus.<sup>75</sup> If a suspect refuses to submit to arrest and compels the officers to use force, he is guilty of resisting officers provided he is aware of their character as officers.<sup>76</sup> In a prosecution for killing an officer while he was attempting to make an arrest for a felony, if the killing was premeditated, and the officer was fully advised as to the crime, and would have been authorized in making the arrest without a warrant, the question of the legality of the warrant under which the arrest was made is of no importance and does not excuse the willful and premeditated killing of the officer.<sup>77</sup> It is the duty of an officer to whom a warrant is delivered to arrest the person named therein and take him before the proper judicial officer.<sup>78</sup> While prisoners may be searched, a suspected person cannot be searched without a formal arrest.<sup>79</sup> It is improper to photograph for police records a person under arrest and not yet tried unless such photograph is necessary for purposes of identification with reference to the particular offense charged.<sup>80</sup> An officer arresting without warrant and discovering that he has made a mistake as to the identity of the prisoner should at once release him.<sup>81</sup>

sary to arrest the felon, even to the extent of killing him while in flight. Reed v. Com., 30 Ky. L. R. 1212, 100 S. W. 856. But the killing of a felon is not excusable if he could have been arrested without the taking of his life. Id.

In arresting one guilty of a misdemeanor, a peace officer is never justified in killing the offender merely to effect the arrest. Reed v. Com., 30 Ky. L. R. 1212, 100 S. W. 856. But if the officer met with resistance he may oppose sufficient force to overcome it, even to the taking of life, provided the offender is resisting to such an extent as to place the officer in danger of loss of life or great bodily harm. Id. But the officer must use no greater force than is reasonably necessary, or apparently so, for his protection, or to prevent the prisoner, if in custody, from effecting his escape by overcoming him by violence or force. Id. If after a legal arrest by a peace officer for a misdemeanor the prisoner attempts to release himself by forcibly overpowering the officer, the latter may use such force as is reasonable necessary to overcome that being used by the prisoner even to the extent of shooting and killing him, if it reasonably appears that that is the only way to prevent his escape. Stevens v. Com., 30 Ky. L. R. 290, 93 S. W. 284.

75. Reed v. Com., 30 Ky. L. R. 1212, 100 S. W. 856. In such case, what would have justified the peace officer in killing the person resisting arrest will justify the killing by a member of a posse comitatus. Id.

The crime.<sup>93</sup>—Arson is the unlawful and malicious<sup>94</sup> burning of the house<sup>95</sup> of another.<sup>96</sup> Want of consent to the burning by the owner of the building burned is not an ingredient of the crime.<sup>97</sup> Intent is essential to the crime of arson and the statutory crime of maliciously burning property with intent to defraud an insurance company.<sup>98</sup> At common law arson is a felony.<sup>99</sup> One who aids, abets, or procures the burning of a building may be prosecuted as a principal offender.<sup>1</sup>

88. In Nebraska a county court or county judge has jurisdiction to conduct a preliminary examination in a case where the offense is beyond his jurisdiction. Stetter v. State [Neb.] 110 N. W. 761. In Texas a justice of the peace may not discharge one accused of a capital felony, but he has final jurisdiction to fix the bail until indictment found, or in the absence of an application to increase the bail. Ex parte Wasson [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 173, 97 S. W. 103. Where upon preliminary examination of a felony charge before a justice of the peace acting in his ex-officio capacity of magistrate the accused is discharged upon the felony charge, the justice has not jurisdiction to order him to appear before him as a justice of the peace for trial upon a misdemeanor without the interposition of a formal complaint. People v. Swain [Cal. App.] 90 P. 720.

90. In New York where a prisoner is legally committed for a criminal offense, but the commitment is irregular, he is not entitled to absolute discharge but is entitled to a final order discharging him upon his giving bail. Code Civ. Proc. § 2035. In re Joerns, 51 Misc. 395, 100 N. Y. S. 503.

94. Mal v. People, 224 Ill. 414, 79 N. E. 633. A willful and malicious burning is an essential element of the crime. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 741, 54 S. E. 661. The burning must be the willful act of a person criminally responsible. State v. Pienick [Wash.] 90 P. 645.

95. Mal v. People, 224 Ill. 414, 79 N. E. 633. If one part of a school building is used as a habitation, the entire building is a dwelling house, within the meaning of the law relating to arson, if there is an internal communication between the two parts. United States v. Cardish, 145 F. 242. Building held to be a "house" within the meaning of the Texas statutes (Pen. Code 1895, § 757), which defines a house as "a building, device, or structure, enclosed with walls and covered, whatever be the material used for building." Caddell v. State [Tex. Civ. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 275, 97 S. W. 705.

96. Mal v. People, 224 Ill. 414, 79 N. E. 633. At common law one is not guilty of arson who burns his own house while occupying it. United States v. Cardish, 145 F. 242. But where a building to which a wife held the legal title was set on fire and burned under circumstances indicating guilty complicity of the husband and there is no evidence that she had any connection with the crime, an indictment charging him with arson is proper, rather than one charging him with intent to defraud an insurance company, although such may have been his intent. Hutchinson v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 313. No defense that accused occupied the premises as tenant. Posey v. U. S., 26 App. D. C. 302.

97. Caddell v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 275, 97 S. W. 705.

98. Elgin v. People, 226 Ill. 486, 80 N. E. 1014; Mal v. People, 224 Ill. 414, 79 N. E. 633. Under the Illinois statutes (Starr v. C. Ann. St. 1896, c. 38, par. 48), prescribing the punishment for the willful and malicious burning of goods, etc., with the specific intent to injure the insurer of the same, the intent is the controlling element of the offense. Id.

99. Mal v. People, 224 Ill. 414, 79 N. E. 633.

1. Hutchinson v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 313.

Indictment and prosecution. Indictment or information.<sup>2</sup>—The indictment must so describe the building burned as to clearly identify it<sup>3</sup> and aver its location within the county.<sup>4</sup> The indictment must lay the title<sup>5</sup> and at common law must show that the building burned did not belong to the defendant.<sup>6</sup> Under a Federal statute it does not furnish ground for demurrer to an indictment that one count therein charges the defendants with burning a certain building and another count charges the same defendants with burning a different building.<sup>7</sup> Counts for arson and for burning defendant's own property to defraud insurer may be joined if both offenses were committed by the same act.<sup>8</sup> The proof must correspond with the allegations of the indictment.<sup>9</sup>

Evidence, presumptions and burden of proof.<sup>10</sup>—From the bare fact of destruction by fire, accident rather than criminal design is presumed,<sup>11</sup> and the corpus delicti must be proven beyond a reasonable doubt.<sup>12</sup> The specific intent to defraud an insurer must be proved to convict of burning with such intent.<sup>13</sup>

Admissibility.—Evidence which is part of the res gestae is admissible even though it involves a statement of a third person implicating the defendant.<sup>14</sup> Evidence of previous burning of other property of the same owner is not admissible,<sup>15</sup> nor is evidence that persons other than defendant did<sup>16</sup> or did not<sup>17</sup> entertain malice toward him. Evidence is admissible to rebut showing of motive.<sup>18</sup> Explanatory or significant conditions, such as the location of adjacent buildings,<sup>19</sup> footprints near the scene of the crime,<sup>20</sup> and the contents of the burned building,<sup>21</sup> are admissible.

3. Description held sufficient to identify building. United States v. Cardish, 145 F. 212.

4. Information alleging that the accused "in the county of Okanogan * * * then and there being * * * did then and there * * * burn a certain barn," sufficiently alleges that the situs of the barn was in Okanogan county. State v. McLain [Wash.] 86 P. 390.

5. An incident properly charges the ownership of the property burned when the owner named is the holder of the legal title. Hutchinson v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 313.

6. Averments held sufficient to indicate that building was the habitation of another than defendant. United States v. Cardish, 145 F. 242.

14. Where there is proof of a conspiracy between the defendant and S to burn a building, the testimony of P to the effect that in furtherance of the conspiracy he was employed by S to do the act, is competent as a part of the res gestae, even if it involves a statement of S to P implicating the defendant. Hutchinson v. State, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 313.

15. In a prosecution for burning a barn, evidence that a month before such burning a house on the same farm was burned, was held not admissible, though there was evidence that accused had threatened to "get even" with the owner and the tenant of the farm. Raymond v. Com., 29 Ky. L. R. 785, 96 S. W. 515. Error in admitting such evidence was not cured by an instruction that it was only to be considered in so far as it tended to establish defendant's guilt of the crime charged. Id.

16. Evidence of threats of a third person against the owner of the building burned is inadmissible. State v. McLain [Wash.] 86 P. 390. As is also evidence of accusations by such owner against such third person. Id.

17. It is not permissible for the state to prove by the prosecutor that he did not know of anyone who had anything against him. Moore v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 103 S. W. 188.

18. Where in a prosecution for burning a college building, to prove motive it was shown that defendant had insurance on personal property in the building, evidence that he and his wife were in charge of a boarding house used in connection with the building burned, and that he was a teacher in the college and she matron thereof, and that from these sources their profits were $100 a month, was admissible. Dunlap v. State, [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 444, 93 S. W. 845.

19. In a prosecution for the statutory offense of burning a barn, evidence to show the location of certain adjacent buildings is admissible, where it appears that certain witnesses who first discovered the fire were sleeping therein. State v. McLain [Wash.] 86 P. 390.

20. In a prosecution for arson where the state's case was founded in fact on evidence of tracks resembling defendant's near the scene of the alleged crime, it was not error to allow defendant's shoes to be shown to the jury and a description given them of certain peculiarities about the same in connection with the impressions found near the scene of the alleged crime. Moore v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 103 S. W. 188. In a prosecution for feloniously burning a storehouse in the night time, evidence that a trained bloodhound followed for some distance tracks alleged to be those of the defendant and then seemed to catch the scent of something in the air, whereupon he broke off through the woods and treed the defendant, is admissible in corroboration of other evidence that the tracks were defendant's. State v. Hunter, 143 N. C. 607, 56 S. E. 547. In a prosecution for arson the state's case was grounded in fact on evidence of tracks at and near the scene of the alleged crime resembling tracks shown to have been made by shoes worn by defendant, it was held not error to admit evidence of alterations in defendant's shoes subsequent to the alleged crime, that changed the track made by them, although it was not conclusively shown that the alterations were not made by others than defendant. Moore v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 103 S. W. 188. In such case it was not error to refuse to instruct the jury that unless they believed defendant had made the alterations they must disregard the evidence. Id.

Weight and sufficiency.—Defendant's extrajudicial confession alone is not sufficient to warrant a conviction.<sup>22</sup> An alleged verbal confession testified to by a witness, but denied by defendant cannot be considered by the jury as a fact against defendant, unless they find it to be true beyond a reasonable doubt.<sup>23</sup> To justify a conviction the corpus delicti must be proved,<sup>24</sup> and the evidence must show that the building burned belonged to someone other than defendant.<sup>25</sup> The question of defendant's guilt may be submitted to the jury upon circumstantial evidence, if such evidence is sufficiently strong.<sup>26</sup> But to warrant a conviction upon circumstantial evidence, all the circumstances proved must be consistent with the hypothesis of defendant's guilt, and inconsistent with the hypothesis of his innocence.<sup>27</sup>

21. Under the Washington statute (Ballinger's Ann. Codes & St., § 7095), which declares that the term "structure," as used in § 7094 defining arson, shall include any barn in which property is stored or which is intended to be used for storage, evidence is admissible, in a prosecution for burning a barn of the contents thereof. State v. McLain [Wash.] 86 P. 390.

22. Where there was no evidence of defendant's guilt except the statement of a witness that defendant asked him not to tell on him, and the facts that defendant had insurance on some goods in the building burned and lived near the building, the court should have instructed the jury that accused could not be convicted alone upon his extrajudicial verbal confession. Dunlap v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 444, 98 S. W. 845. The mere extrajudicial confession of the accused is not sufficient to prove the corpus delicti beyond a reasonable doubt. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 741, 54 S. E. 661.

23. So held where the alleged confession was the main evidence relied on for conviction.

Dunlap v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 444, 98 S. W. 845.

24. Proof of the single fact that a building has been burned does not show the corpus delicti of arson, but it must also appear that it was burned by the willful act of some person criminally responsible. State v. Pienick [Wash.] 90 P. 645. In a prosecution for burning a house it was held that after eliminating the confessions of the defendant, there was not sufficient evidence to show beyond a reasonable doubt that there was a willful and malicious burning of the house. Williams v. State, 125 Ga. 741, 54 S. E. 661.

25. In a prosecution for burning a barn, if the evidence shows that one other than defendant had received a bond for title to the land upon which the barn was situated, and had been put in possession of the barn, it sufficiently appears that the barn belonged to one other than the defendant. State v. Perry, 74 S. C. 551, 54 S. E. 764.

26. Circumstantial evidence held sufficiently strong to warrant such submission. State v. McLain [Wash.] 86 P. 390. In a prosecution for feloniously burning a storehouse in the nighttime, there was evidence that tracks leading from the scene of the crime were defendant's; that they were followed by a trained bloodhound and defendant run down and treed; that upon being found in the tree he said: "What does this mean? I didn't do it." It was held that the evidence was sufficient for submission to the jury. State v. Hunter, 143 N. C. 607, 56 S. E. 547.

27. The circumstantial evidence in this case was insufficient to warrant a conviction. State v. Pienick [Wash.] 90 P. 645. Evidence held insufficient to sustain conviction. Heard v. State [Tenn.] 94 S. W. 605.

28. See 7 C. L. 274.

29. If there is an issue made as to whether the building was merely smoked and scorched and not burned, the court should instruct on this subject. Moore v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 103 S. W. 188. Upon a prosecution under an indictment charging the willful and malicious burning of personal property, an instruction that if the jury should believe beyond a reasonable doubt that defendants burned a certain building, they should find them guilty, is erroneous. Mal v. People, 224 Ill. 414, 79 N. E. 633.

30. It is not error to refuse to instruct that there being no evidence other than tracks, the jury should acquit, when there is evidence of motive and an opportunity to

Punishment.—Under a Federal statute the crime of arson when committed by an Indian upon a reservation within a state, whether the property burned belongs to an Indian or a white person, is subject to the same punishment as that prescribed for the same crime when committed by a white person at a place exclusively within the jurisdiction of the United States.<sup>31</sup>

Qualified assaults are elsewhere treated.<sup>31a</sup>

§ 1. Nature and elements of criminal offense.<sup>32</sup>—An assault is an attempt or offer, coupled with a present ability, to do hurt to the person of another.<sup>33</sup> A battery includes an assault, and is the actual striking or shooting of another.<sup>34</sup> To constitute an assault and battery there must be unlawful violence with an intent to injure.<sup>35</sup> In a mutual combat, the one who does not strike the first blow is not guilty of assault, if he did not provoke the other to strike him, and does not use more force than is necessary to defend himself.<sup>36</sup> One who aids or abets the commission of a common assault is a principal in the offense.<sup>37</sup>

Attempt to provoke assault.—Intent is an essential element of the offense of attempting to provoke another to commit an assault.<sup>38</sup>

Aggravated assault.<sup>39</sup>—In determining whether there are such circumstances of aggravation as to make an assault an aggravated one, all the facts in the case must be considered.<sup>40</sup> In some jurisdictions, aggravated assault has been defined by statute.<sup>41</sup>

In a prosecution for aggravated assault on a female, it was held that under the facts in the case the court should have charged that if defendant used violence to the person of prosecutrix with intent to injure her and fondle her person against her will, and thereby create in her mind a sense of shame, or

§ 2. Defenses.<sup>42</sup>—It is lawful to use reasonable force for the protection of life or property, but the force used must be proportionate to the danger to be apprehended.<sup>43</sup> If the aggressor withdraws from the conflict and is pursued by his adversary, his right of self-defense revives, if his withdrawal is made in good faith, and is an actual withdrawal, and not a mere attempt to retreat from the conflict.<sup>44</sup> Except in cases of excess and cruelty, the punishment of a child by its parent is lawful.<sup>45</sup>

§ 3. Indictment.<sup>46</sup>—An information for a statutory assault must be drawn under the appropriate statute.<sup>47</sup> The indictment or information must so set out the elements of the crime as to apprise defendant of the offense charged.<sup>48</sup> In an indictment for a statutory assault, the language of the statute is ordinarily sufficient.<sup>49</sup> A conviction may be had of a lesser offense under an indictment or information charging a greater offense which includes the lesser.<sup>50</sup> The proof must correspond with the allegations of the information.<sup>51</sup>

41. Whoever assaults another with a deadly weapon, not having a premeditated design to effect death, and not having an intent to take life, is guilty of an aggravated assault, under the Florida statutes (Rev. St. 1892, § 2402, and Gen. St. 1906, § 3228). Lindsey v. State [Fla.] 43 So. 87. An assault committed on the gallery of a private residence is an aggravated assault under the Texas statutes, which provides that an assault becomes aggravated when the party making it goes "into" a private residence. *Herd v. To sustain a conviction for assault with intent to inflict "great bodily injury," as defined by the Nebraska statute Cr. Code, § 17b (Comp. St. 1903), the evidence must show an attempt to inflict an injury of a greater and more serious character than an ordinary battery. Bice v. State [Neb.] 108 N. W. 1066.

47. In Missouri in a prosecution for assault upon a child against one who adopted the child under a deed of adoption, the information was properly drawn under Rev. St. 1899, § 1850 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 1280), rather than under Rev. St. 1899, § 1857 (Ann. St. 1906, p. 1282). State v. Koonse, 123 Mo. App. 655, 101 S. W. 139.

48. Indictment for assault with a deadly weapon held sufficient in this respect, and not open to the objection that it charges merely a simple assault. Territory v. Gonzales [N. M.] 89 P. 250. The use of the word "unlawfully" in an information for assault and battery necessarily implies a criminal intent, and precludes the necessity of expressly alleging it. State v. Koonse, 123 Mo. 54. When unlawful violence has been used upon the person of another, an intent to injure will be presumed; but when no such injury has been inflicted, such prosecution will not obtain. Pen. Code 1895, art. 538. Tubbs v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 707, 95 S. W. 112.

55. Evidence of intent: The intent essentestify directly as to his own intent.<sup>56</sup> The evidence must be relevant to the assault charged,<sup>57</sup> but evidence of matters constituting part of the res gestae,<sup>58</sup> and as to conditions at the scene of the assault,<sup>59</sup> and as to its consequences,<sup>60</sup> are admissible. To admit evidence of a custom bearing on which of the parties was in the right in the altercation leading to the assault, it must appear that the custom was applicable.<sup>61</sup>

Instructions.—The court must declare the law applicable to every phase of the case.<sup>62</sup> The elements that would justify the act committed must be given in the charge.<sup>63</sup> The charge must also embody the rule that the burden is upon the prosecution to establish defendant's guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, and that the burden is not upon defendant to establish self-defense.<sup>64</sup> The law applicable to aggravated assault need not be charged where the indictment is for a greater offense not embracing all the elements of aggravated assault.<sup>65</sup> It is error to charge the law applicable to a certain degree of assault or to a certain theory advanced by the prosecutor or defendant, if there is no evidence to warrant a conviction of such offense or to support such theory.<sup>66</sup> But where the defendant submits evidence in support of his theory that no unlawful act was committed, a requested instruction embodying that theory must be given.<sup>67</sup> A charge which pretermits a consideration of all tial to the offense of attempting to provoke another to commit an assault may be proved either by positive or circumstantial evidence. Heard v. State [Ind. App.] 78 N. E. 358. Evidence from which it was held that trial court might find such intent. Id.

59. In a prosecution for assault committed by shooting evidence of a state's witness that shortly after the shooting he saw signs of some shots made by bullets which had taken effect in the walls of the house where it is alleged the shooting occurred, and found some blank shells which had been shot near a path leading to defendant's house, is admissible. Andrews v. State [Ala.] 43 So. 196.

60. Testimony of the wife of the injured person as to the nature and extent of his wounds is admissible in a prosecution under an information alleging only an aggravated assault with a deadly weapon. Whittle v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 573, 95 S. W. 1084.

61. Under the facts, evidence of a custom that when wagons went in the road a loaded wagon should have the right of way over one not loaded held not admissible. Tubbs v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 707, 95 S. W. 112.

62. Speaking generally, it is a sufficient compliance with this requirement if the court has submitted the statutory definitions of the several degrees of the crime. The instruction in this case was held sufficient. State v. Tracey [Mont.] 90 P. 791.

63. In a prosecution for assault committed by shooting another, a charge which leaves it to the jury to determine what elements would justify the shooting is bad. Andrews v. State [Ala.] 43 So. 196.

64. In this case it was held there was a sufficient statement of this rule, and that it was not modified by a subsequent observation by the court. People v. Gatto, 105 N. Y. S. 165.

65. Lindsey v. State [Fla.] 43 So. 87.

66. In a prosecution for assault it is error to give in the charge the law applicable to using dangerous weapons on the semblance thereof, in order to alarm another, if there is no evidence that defendant had any weapon. Menach v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 97 S. W. 503. And it is error in such a prosecution to charge the law in regard to temporary insanity, produced by the recent use of intoxicants, if there is no evidence that defendant was temporarily insane. Id. Upon a prosecution for felonious assault, the court is not required to instruct upon any lower offense, if there is no evidence upon which to predicate such an instruction. State v. Terry, 201 Mo. 697, 100 S. W. 432. It is not error for the court to refuse to give a charge in reference to defendant's right of self-defense when there is no evidence in the case upon which to base it. Collock v. State [Ala.] 41 So. 727. An instruction that if defendant sought the difficulty and willingly engaged in same with intent to do the injured party great bodily harm or take his life, the jury could not acquit on the ground of self-defense, held, under the peculiar facts of the case, to be erroneous. Ward v. Com. [Ky.] 103 S. W. 719. Evidence held not to warrant instruction authorizing jury to find provocation on defendant's part leading to the encounter. Harrison v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 102 S. W. 412.

67. In a prosecution for aggravated assault upon a female, it is error to refuse to give the requested instruction that if defendant accidentally touched the female and did not intentionally assault her, he should be acquitted, when there is evidence to support that theory. Menach v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 97 S. W. 503. It is error not to submit the issues of self-defense and defense of another to the jury where defendant testified that he acted in self-defense and in defense of his youthful brother. Reese v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 98 S. W. 842.

the evidence is bad.<sup>68</sup> In certain cases a special charge need not be given unless requested.<sup>69</sup> Thus failure to instruct as to the law applicable to simple assault in a prosecution for assault of a higher degree is not error if no such instruction is requested.<sup>70</sup> Refusal to give a proper instruction is not reversible error if the court's charge embodies the substance of such instruction.<sup>71</sup> So failure or refusal to give a proper instruction,<sup>72</sup> or the giving of an erroneous one,<sup>73</sup> is not reversible error, if no harm resulted to defendant therefrom. Where the statutory definition of an offense is entirely clear, an instruction in defining such offenses should use the words of the statute.<sup>74</sup> But the omission of a word is not error if a synonymous word or phrase is substituted therefor.<sup>75</sup> The fact that the word "felonious" is used unnecessarily in the indictment, does not require its use in an instruction.<sup>76</sup> The failure to use a qualifying adjective is not reversible error if a jury of reasonable men could not be misled by its omission.<sup>77</sup> A charge on self-defense may assume that an injury was inflicted by defendant if that fact is not controverted.<sup>78</sup>

A verdict is sufficient as to form if it substantially conforms to the statute defining the offense, and contains all the essential elements of such offense.<sup>79</sup> The nature and amount of the punishment, and whether the power to impose it shall reside in the court or the jury, is generally determined by statute.<sup>80</sup>

68. So held of the following charge: "If the jury have a reasonable doubt growing out of any portion of the evidence as to the guilt of the defendant, it will be your duty to acquit." Andrews v. State [Ala.] 43 So. 196.

69. Failure to charge that even though the prosecuting witness was cut, if the jury believed from the evidence that he was cut by some other person than defendant, they should acquit, is not error if such charge was not requested. Shelton v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 100 S. W. 955.

70. High v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 779, 98 S. W. 849; Territory v. Gonzales [N. M.] 89 P. 250; State v. Horn [S. D.] 111 N. W. 552.

72. The refusal of the court to charge an aggravated assault was not prejudicial where defendant was convicted of simple assault. Whittle v. State [Tex. Cr. App.] 16 Tex. Ct. Rep. 573, 95 S. W. 1084. Where upon the evidence the defendant might have been convicted of assault in either the second or third degree, and he was convicted of the lower degree, he cannot complain that the court did not specifically define the distinctions between the several charges of assault. State v. Tracey [Mont.] 90 P. 791. Under the Montana statute (Pen. Code, §§ 2320, 2600), a new trial will not be awarded on such ground. Id.

73. A defendant cannot complain of an instruction defining all the degrees of assault when he was convicted of the lowest degree. State v. Farnham [Mont.] 89 P. 728. Where by statute a verdict of not guilty might be returned where eight jurors agreed thereto, an instruction that a verdict of not guilty must be unanimous was held not reversible error where nine out of ten jurors agreed to a verdict of guilty. Id. Error in charging that though the jury believed that defendants made an assault simply, they might nevertheless be convicted of assault and battery, is not one for which reversal may be had, where the indictment charged assault and battery and the evidence overwhelmingly showed that both assault and battery were committed. Canterberry v. State [Miss.] 43 So. 678.

74. Accessory in an assault and battery. Clerget v. State [Ark.] 103 S. W. 381.

75. In a prosecution for an assault with a deadly weapon the words "without excuse or justification," in an instruction stating what would warrant conviction, held equivalent to the word "unlawful." Territory v. Gonzales [N. M.] 89 P. 250.

76. Territory v. Gonzales [N. M.] 89 P. 250.

77. So held in a prosecution for assault and battery inflicted by a parent on his child, where the word "punishment" was used without qualifying it with the adjective "corporal," or with one of similar import. State v. Koonse, 123 Mo. App. 655, 101 S. W. 139.

79. Verdict finding defendant guilty "of shooting without justifiable or excusable cause, at another with a firearm with intent to injure him, held sufficient as to form under the South Dakota statute (Rev. Pen. Code, § 314). State v. Horn [S. D.] 111 N. W. 552. A verdict will not support a sentence for a statutory assault, which is a felony, if it fails to find the elements necessary to constitute the felony. State v. Third Judicial District Ct. [Mont.] 89 P. 63. Thus a verdict finding defendant guilty of "assault with corrosive acids and caustic chemicals" will not support a sentence for the offense of "willfully and maliciously" throwing upon the person of another any corrosive acid or caustic chemical "with intent to injure the flesh or disfigure the body of such person," which by statute in Montana (Pen. Code, § 403) is made a felony. Id.

Defenses.<sup>85</sup>—Such force as is reasonably necessary under the circumstances may be used to repel an assault,<sup>86</sup> or eject a trespasser.<sup>87</sup> Insulting words<sup>88</sup> or offensive demeanor.<sup>89</sup> do not justify an assault, nor is a defense that the fight was on plaintiff's challenge.<sup>90</sup> Neither is force warranted in the recaption of property taken publicly and peaceably under claim of right.<sup>91</sup> In an action against a corporation for an assault committed by its employes, it is not a sufficient defense that the purpose of one of such employes in laying his hands on plaintiff was to save her from impending danger.<sup>92</sup>

Pleading, evidence and trial.<sup>93</sup>—In Alabama, although the complaint alleges an assault and battery by two persons, a recovery may be had against one only.<sup>94</sup> On plea son assault demesne, the burden is on defendant to show that excessive force was not used.<sup>95</sup> The previous relations of the parties,<sup>96</sup> their condition at the time of the assault,<sup>97</sup> and all that then took place,<sup>98</sup> may be shown. The theory presented by an instruction must be supported by the pleadings and by evidence.<sup>99</sup>

Under the Alabama statutes (Code 1896, §§ 4343, 5415), the power to fix hard labor as a punishment for assault and battery in addition to a fine is given to the court, and the mere fact that the jury attempts to award the additional punishment does not affect the court's power to impose it. Where in an action for assault and battery the defendants pleaded the general issue, and one of them, D., also pleaded son assault demesne, to which last plea plaintiff replied de injuria, it was held that the burden was cast upon defendants to make it affirmatively appear that D. used no more force upon the plaintiff than reasonably appeared to him, under all the circumstances, to be necessary for his own personal safety. McQuiggan v. Ladd, 79 Vt. 90, 64 A. 503.

96. It is not error to admit evidence to prove that prior to the assault and battery defendants had been cautioned by their parents as to their conduct toward plaintiff. McQuiggan v. Ladd, 79 Vt. 90, 64 A. 503. Evidence of what certain persons told defendant a half hour before the assault as to the nature of an alleged insult by plaintiff to defendant's daughter is not admissible in mitigation of punitive damages. Lovelace v. Miller [Ala.] 43 So. 734. Where three days before an alleged assault a dispute had arisen between defendant and plaintiff as to whether the former had delivered a sum of money to the latter, evidence of a witness that he had seen such delivery is not admissible in an action for the assault. 97. In an action for assault and battery, evidence is admissible to show that plaintiff was intoxicated at the time of alleged assault, and that when intoxicated on previous occasions he had been cross and ugly, and defendant knew of this. McQuiggan v. Ladd, 79 Vt. 90, 64 A. 503. Where plaintiff introduced evidence to prove that he never drank intoxicating liquor, evidence for defendants that he was intoxicated several years previous to the alleged assault is not objectionable on the ground of remoteness. § 4. Construction, Interpretation, and Effect (265).

§ 5. Enforcement of Assignment and of Rights Assigned (267).

§ 1. Rights susceptible of assignment.<sup>1</sup>—As a general rule rights of action which survive<sup>2</sup> are assignable,<sup>3</sup> and the fact that an instrument may not be negotiable does not affect its assignability.<sup>4</sup> A contract may be rendered assignable by express provision to that effect,<sup>5</sup> and by statute in some states it may be assigned although it contains a covenant against assignment.<sup>6</sup> An act prohibiting the assignment of claims against a certain class of employes for the purpose of evading the state exemption laws and giving the debtor a right of action against the assignor is constituted.<sup>7</sup>

Contracts for personal services or otherwise appurtenant to persons or specific property.<sup>8</sup>—Contracts involving the exercise of skill or a relation of personal confidence or credit are not assignable,<sup>9</sup> and where one of the contracting parties is is not part of the res gestae, and evidence of it is not admissible against defendant. Louisville N. R. Co. v. Williamson, 29 Ky. L. R., 1165, 96 S. W. 1130. The jury may consider the actions and words of defendant to determine the character of the assault and battery. Henderson v. Agon [Mich.] 14 Det. Leg. N. 106, 111 N. W. 778.

99. Charge in action for assault and battery that plaintiff claimed that he was humiliated and asked damages therefor held not erroneous on the ground that such damages were not authorized by the pleadings or the proof. Morgan v. Langford, 126 Ga. 58, 54 S. E. 818. An instruction as to what would justify the assault held not to be supported by evidence. Lizana v. Lang [Miss.] 43 So. 477.

1. See 7 C. L. 277.

2. Under Act No. 195, Session Laws 1897, authorizing assumption to recover damages for fraudulent representations and providing that the cause of action shall survive a right of action of a state bank for deceit of director of a national bank which it succeeded under § 6106 Comp. Laws 1897, may be assigned. Hicks v. Steel, 142 Mich. 292, 12 Det. Leg. N. 706, 105 N. W. 767. A husband's right of action for loss of consortium survives and is assignable. Forbes v. Omaha [Neb.] 112 N. W. 326.

3. Held assignable: A bond for a deed. Royce v. Carpenter [Vt.] 66 A. 888. Contract to convey land. Moore v. Gariglietti [Ill.] 81 N. E. 826. Attorney's lien on a judgment for services. Fisher v. Mylius [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 276. Charterer's commissions and profits under a charter party. Bank of Yolo v. Bank of Woodland, 3 Cal. App. 561, 86 P. 820. Earned wages of a municipal employee. Kansas City Ordinance No. 11,125, held to apply to unearned salary only. Kansas City Loan Guarantee Co. v. Kansas City, 200 Mo. 159, 98 S. W. 459.

Unassignable: A decree for alimony is not assignable. Fournier v. Clutton, 146 Mich. 298, 13 Det. Leg. N. 747, 109 N. W. 425. But see Cohen v. Cohen [Cal.] 88 P. 267, holding that an assignee of accrued alimony takes subject to defenses available against assignor.

4. Contract to sell fruit trees. Strong v. Moore [Kan.] 89 P. 895.

5. On option to purchase land to the optionee "and his assigns" may be assigned. Fulton v. Messenger [W. Va.] 56 S. E. 830. A provision in a contract permitting its assignment by one of the parties renders it assignable irrespective of the wishes of the other party if the assignment is made in good faith. Harris v. Sheffel, 117 Mo. App. 514, 94 S. W. 738. Contract between another and a publishing company for the publication of books of the former held not assignable by its terms though it obligated the latter its "representatives and assigns" to perform. Wooster v. Crane Co. [N. J. Eq.] 66 A. 1093.

6. Under Code, § 3046, a stipulation of nonassignability in a contract will not prevent its transfer to an assignee subject to all defenses available against the assignor. Thomassen v. De Goeij [Iowa] 110 N. W. 581.

7. Code Civ. Proc. § 531, c. 531 f. Gordon Bros. v. Wageman [Neb.] 103 N. W. 1067. In such an action proof that the assignor claiming to hold an account against the debtor assigned same to a person unknown to plaintiff, that suit was instituted thereon in another state by a person other than the assignor in which exempt wages of the debtor were attached in satisfaction of the account, is sufficient to create a prima facie case notwithstanding that the process under which the wages were attached was irregularly issued and served. Id. An account which one claims to hold against an employee is a claim within the meaning of the act. Id.

8. See 7 C. L. 278.

9. An agreement by the putative father to pay a certain sum per week to the mother of his illegitimate children in consideration of her agreement to support them involves the performance of personal services by the latter and is not assignable. People's Bk. & Trust Co. v. Weidinger, 73 N. J. Law, 433, 64 A. 179. A contract between another and a publishing company for the publication of the books of the former during the continuance of the copyright and renewals, the publishing company to render periodical accounts of sales and to pay a certain percent-a corporation, such a contract cannot be assigned by it to a foreign corporation, though composed of practically the same stockholders.<sup>10</sup> The rule does not apply to contracts which have been fully performed by the assignor,<sup>11</sup> nor to purely mechanical services,<sup>12</sup> nor does it affect the right of an assignee to recover for a breach wholly independent thereof where the services agreed to be performed by the assignor were for the sole benefit of the latter and his assigns.<sup>13</sup>

§ 2. Requisites and sufficiency of express assignments.<sup>21</sup>—The assignment must not be illegal,<sup>22</sup> and, as between the assignor and assignee,<sup>23</sup> or subsequent assignees,<sup>24</sup> must be founded upon a sufficient consideration, but as between the age thereof, is not assignable. Wooster v. Crane & Co. [N. J. Eq.] 66 A. 1093. Contract for the exclusive agency for the sale of land involves a personal relation and is unassignable. So held where a servant of a real estate broker procured such a contract in his own name. Sumner v. Nevin [Cal. App.] 87 P. 1105. Contract for the sale of lumber cut during a certain year held to involve relations and considerations of a personal nature and of trust, confidence, and credit, rendering it unassignable. Demarest v. Dunton Lumber Co., 151 F. 508.

10. A contract with a corporation involving services of a personal nature and responsibility cannot be assigned to a corporation organized under the laws of another state, though the personnel of the two corporations is the same with the exception of a local stockholder and director which the laws of the state under which the assigning corporation was organized require. Wooster v. Crane & Co. [N. J. Eq.] 66 A. 1093.

11. A claim for personal services actually rendered is assignable. United States Title Guaranty & Indemnity Co. v. Marks, 116 App. Div. 341, 101 N. Y. S. 483.

12. The mere mechanical work of printing and binding a book described in a subscription agreement with a publisher may be assigned by the latter. Harris v. Paine [Neb.] 107 N. W. 748.

13. Contract by defendant to deliver lumber and to turn over certain dry kilns and sheds to plaintiff's assignor, and in the event of the destruction of such kilns the latter agreed to give his skill and service in rebuilding them, held the latter clause was for the sole protection of the assignor and did not affect plaintiffs' right to recover for a failure to deliver the lumber. Byrne Mill Co. v. Robertson [Ala.] 42 So. 1008.

14. See 7 C. L. 279.

15. The unearned salary of a public officer is not assignable. McGowan v. New Orleans, 118 La. 429, 43 So. 40.

16. Future earnings under a valid contract whether public or private are assignable. First Nat. Bk. v. School Dist. No. 1 [Neb.] 110 N. W. 349.

17. An assignment of earned and unearned wages as security for a loan is void as to the unearned wages under Laws 1904, p. 84, § 17. Central of Georgia R. Co. v. Dover [Ga. App.] 57 S. E. 1002.

18. See 7 C. L. 279.

19. The daughter of a widow occupying the homestead of her deceased husband who has made no application to have her distributive share set off, or to have her homestead rights fixed and determined, may assign her expectant interest as an heir of her mother. Betts v. Harding [Iowa] 109 N. W. 1074. Contract by a son for the sale of an expectant interest in his father's estate upheld. Hudson v. Hudson, 222 Ill. 527, 78 N. E. 917.

20. An agreement by a son founded on a valuable consideration whereby he relinquished all rights to his expectant interest in his father's estate is void, though the consideration was paid by the father and the relinquishment was made to him. Elliott v. Leslie, 30 Ky. L. R. 743, 99 S. W. 619.

22. An agreement by an assignee of county warrants of doubtful validity to pay for same at their face value and to defend contemplated actions to test their validity is void as against public policy where in such an action the warrants were adjudged void. Giblin v. North Wisconsin Lumber Co. [Wis.] 111 N. W. 499.

23. Where assigned county warrants were adjudged void in a taxpayer's suit against the parties to the assignment, there is a total failure of consideration for the assignment. Giblin v. North Wisconsin Lumber Co. [Wis.] 111 N. W. 499. Where a father assigned his interest in a non-assignable gratuity as security for funds which defendant might advance to preserve his membership in the association, a subsequent assignment by his daughter after his death in consideration of being allowed to retain $500 was without consideration and did not increase defendant's interest in the fund assigned. Holmes v. Seaman, 117 App. Div. 381, 102 N. Y. S. 616.

24. An assignment to a woman in consideration of her agreement to marry the assignor at once is based upon a sufficient consideration as against a subsequent assignment notwithstanding the fact that she had already promised to marry him when his financial condition was such as to enable him to support her, his finances not being in such condition at the time of the assignment. Huntress v. Hanley [Mass.] 80 N. E. 946. An assignment given as collateral security for a pre-existing indebtedness is supported by a sufficient consideration as against a sub-assignee and the debtor,<sup>25</sup> except in the case of equitable assignments,<sup>26</sup> the question of the consideration for the transfer is immaterial. It must be definite in amount or capable of being made definite,<sup>27</sup> and where for only a portion of a fund must specifically identify the identical money intended to be transferred.<sup>28</sup> The fact that an assignment was for more than the amount due the assignor from the debtor does not invalidate it.<sup>29</sup> An assignment under seal passes title without an actual delivery of the property.<sup>30</sup> A power of attorney to the assignee to fill out and date a written assignment of wages to be earned must be strictly complied with.<sup>31</sup>

Notice to the debtor<sup>32</sup> of an assignment is not essential as between the assignor and the assignee,<sup>33</sup> nor is the assignee bound to give notice to third persons dealing with the assignor,<sup>34</sup> but as against subsequent assignees notice to the debtor is essential.<sup>35</sup> As between the assignee and the debtor, notice to the latter is essential and where the debtor is a municipal corporation the notice must be in compliance with the law.<sup>36</sup> The receipt of written notice of assignment by the debtor is sufficient authority for the payment to the assignee of the fund assigned, though the assignment itself is not served.<sup>37</sup> No further notice than that given to the debtor by the assignee at the time of the assignment is required.<sup>38</sup>

sequent assignee. Bank of Yolo v. Bank of Woodland, 3 Cal. App. 561, 86 P. 820.

25. The fact that a foreign corporation had assigned the accounts in controversy to the plaintiff to evade a statute limiting the right of such corporations to sue is no defense in an action against the debtor. Dewey v. Komar [S. D.] 110 N. W. 90.

26. The rule that as between the assignee and the debtor the question of the consideration for the assignment is immaterial is confined to legal as distinguished from equitable assignments. Dewey v. Komar [S. D.] 110 N. W. 90.

27. An assignment of commissions under a charter party is not invalid because not specifying any particular amount where the method for ascertaining the amount clearly appears from the terms of the charter party. Bank of Yolo v. Bank of Woodland, 3 Cal. App. 561, 86 P. 820.

28. An instrument purporting to assign a sum of money out of a fund in the hands of another but which does not identify any specific money intended to be assigned does not vest the legal title thereto in the assignee. At most it vests only an equitable interest in the entire fund. Western & A. R. Co. v. Union Inv. Co. [Ga.] 57 S. E. 100.

29. The assignee takes only the amount actually due. Provident Nat. Bk. v. Harnett Co. [Tex.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 50, 97 S. W. 689.

30. Assignment of a revisionary interest in the principle of an annuity. Taylor v. Vall [Vt.] 66 A. 820.

31. Where wages for a certain month were expressly assigned such a power in the assignment does not authorize the assignee to insert a different month. Simmons Hardware Co. v. Hargate, 122 Ill. App. 287.

32. See 7 C. L. 281.

33. The fact that an assignment of a bond was not presented to the obligor and the bond was not transferred on his books does not invalidate the assignment. Bone v. Holmes [Mass.] 81 N. E. 290. As between the assignor and the assignee and his successors in interest, notice to the debtor is unnecessary. Cogan v. Conover Mfg. Co., 69 N. J. Eq. 809, 64 A. 973.

34. The fact that an assignee of the charterer's commissions under a charter party knew that a third person was financing the undertaking did not require it to give such third person notice of the assignment. Bank of Yolo v. Bank of Woodland, 3 Cal. App. 561, 86 P. 820.

35. Where the equities of two assignees of the same chose in action are otherwise equal, the one first giving notice to the debtor has the prior right though his assignment is subsequent to that of the other assignee. Jack v. National Bk. of Wichita, 17 Okl. 430, 89 P. 219, overruling Gillette v. Murphy, 7 Okl. 91, 54 P. 413.

36. Where an assignee of money due on a contract with a city upon which action was pending filed same with a subordinate in the city clerk's office as an assignment of future wages or earnings under Rev. Laws, c. 189, § 34, it being the duty of such subordinate to receive assignments of that character only and notice was by him given to a subordinate in the treasurer's office whose duty it was to receive similar assignments, it was held that the notice to the city was insufficient where it had in good faith paid a judgment against it or the same claim to the assignor. Hellen v. Boston [Mass.] 80 N. E. 603. Under the Omaha charter the notice must be in writing and must be served upon the executive head of the city or in his absence on the city clerk. Gordon v. Omaha [Neb.] 110 N. W. 313.

37. North Penn. Iron Co. v. International Lithoid Co., 217 Pa. 538, 66 A. 860.

38. If pursuant to the request of the assignor the debtor disregards the notice, he does so at his own risk. City Bk. of New Haven v. Thorp, 79 Conn. 194, 64 A. 205, 465.

39. See 7 C. L. 281.

40. Ohio Nat. Bk. v. Berlin, 26 App. D. C. 218.

§ 3. Constructive or equitable assignments.<sup>41</sup>—An assignment inoperative at law may be good in equity.<sup>42</sup> Thus an assignment of a portion of a fund operates as an equitable assignment pro tanto.<sup>43</sup> Ordinarily the subject-matter of the assignment must be presently under the control of the assignor,<sup>44</sup> and, accordingly, an agreement to satisfy out of the proceeds of a fund to be realized from judicial proceedings is not an assignment pro tanto of such fund.<sup>45</sup> It is generally held that a check does not constitute an assignment pro tanto either in law or in equity,<sup>46</sup> but prior to the adoption of the negotiable instruments law a contrary doctrine prevailed in Kentucky.<sup>47</sup> An unaccepted draft has been held to operate as an assignment.<sup>48</sup> An equitable assignment may be created on the principle of a resulting trust.<sup>49</sup> The equitable owner of a chose in action will be protected against garnishment process against his assignor.<sup>50</sup>

§ 4. Construction, interpretation and effect.<sup>51</sup>—Where there is an actual appropriation which confers a present right on the assignee, the instrument will be construed as an assignment, although the circumstances may not admit of its immediate exercise.<sup>52</sup> An agreement contemplating the transfer of claims of creditors against an insolvent firm to a third person about to become a partner therein but not an extinguishment of such indebtedness is an assignment and not a composition agreement.<sup>53</sup> Equity will regard the substance rather than the form of an assignment and give it such effect as the parties intended.<sup>54</sup> An assignment trans-

41. See 7 C. L. 281.

42. A transfer of the possession of an order for money with intent to pass the title vests the equitable ownership in the transferee and it is unnecessary that an indorsement thereon should be signed by the assignor. Gray v. Bever, 122 Ill. App. 1.

43. And is enforceable in equity though the drawee does not accept. Wamsley v. Ward [W. Va.] 55 S. E. 998.

44. Alleged equitable assignment held a mere promise to pay when the fund alleged to have been assigned was paid to the promisor, and therefore not enforceable. Speckman v. Smedley Bros., 153 F. 771.

45. Agreement by a party to a partition suit to pay a mortgage on the land out of her share of the proceeds, or that the master should make distribution on such basis upon the assumption that the personal estate of the decedent through whom they derived title was responsible for the payment of the mortgage, and the other parties not being entitled to participate in the distribution thereof, held not to constitute an equitable assignment of the proceeds of the partition sale to the extent of the mortgage. Mathison v. Magnuson, 226 Ill. 368, 80 N. E. 885.

46. The mere giving of a check does not operate as an assignment of the drawer's funds pro tanto. Poland v. Love [Ind. T.] 103 S. W. 759; Bowker v. Haight & Freese Co., 146 F. 257. A check drawn by a depositor on his general account and not on a special fund does not constitute an assignment. Pennell v. Ennis [Mo. App.] 103 S. W. 147. The fact that a check was presented to the bank prior to the appointment of a receiver for the maker does not entitle the payee to a preference over the general creditors of the maker. Eastern Mill. Export Co. v. Eastern Mill. & Export Co., 146 F. 761.

47. As against a junior lien on the drawer's bank deposit, a check given for value and in due course of business operates as a pro tanto assignment of the deposit. Bos- well v. Citizens' Sav. Bk., 29 Ky. L. R. 988, 96 S. W. 797.

48. A draft for the entire amount due attached to a statement of the account constitutes an assignment to the payee of the amount due thereon, though not accepted by the drawee. Provident Nat. Bk. v. Hartnett Co. [Tex.] 17 Tex. Ct. Rep. 50, 97 S. W. 689.

49. An heir paying a mortgage on land owned by the decedent and procuring an assignment to be made to his sister becomes an equitable assignee of the mortgage. In re Heeney's Estate, 3 Cal. App. 548, 86 P. 842.

50. Order for money. Gray v. Bever, 122 Ill. App. 1.

51. See 7 C. L. 282.

52. An absolute assignment of an account not yet due will not be construed as a covenant to pay out of the proceeds of the contract assigned from the mere fact that the assignor agrees to act as the assignee's agent in collecting it. Cogan v. Conover Mfg. Co., 69 N. J. Eq. 809, 64 A. 973.

53. An agreement between the creditors of an insolvent partnership and a third person whereby the former agree to assign their claims to the latter upon payment of a certain per centage thereof is an assignment and not a composition agreement, notwithstanding an agreement between such third person and the firm that upon making such payment and a payment to one of the partners individually be was to become a member of the firm. Harris v. Zier [Wash.] 86 P. 928.

54. An informal indorsement on a bond for a deed showing an intent to assign followed by a transfer of possession will be construed as an assignment. Royce v. Carpenter [Vt.] 66 A. 888. The proceeds of an annuity provided by the assignor and her daughter do not pass by an assignment of the assignor's interest in the estate of a relative nor by an assignment of specifically enumerated chattels followed by a general fers to the assignee all the right, title and interest of the assignor in the thing assigned,<sup>55</sup> but nothing more;<sup>56</sup> hence, all set-offs<sup>57</sup> and defenses<sup>58</sup> available against the assignor are available against his assignee, but the assignee takes subject only to such equities as exist at the time of the assignment,<sup>59</sup> and is chargeable with notice of such equities only.<sup>60</sup> He is not bound by conditions other than those expressed in the contract with reference to which the assignment was made.<sup>61</sup> The rule operates conversely and, therefore, in an action by the assignor on an unassigned portion of the contract, the obligor cannot defend on the ground that compliance therewith would compel him to commit an actionable breach of the portion of the contract assigned.<sup>62</sup> An assignment by one of the parties to a contract without the consent of the other does not release the assignor.<sup>63</sup> Where the proceeds of an unperformed contract are assigned, and part of it is subsequently performed and accepted, the assignee is entitled to the payments made thereon to the extent of the performance.<sup>64</sup> Rights not incidental to the assignment and not expressed therein clause conveying all her personal property. Taylor v. Vail [Vt.] 66 A. 820.

55. Where an express company required its driver to pay for goods which he claimed to have delivered to a purchaser but which the latter denied having received, the company having paid the consignor their value, the driver on procuring an assignment from the consignor of his claim for the unpaid purchase price was held entitled to recover the value of the goods from the purchaser upon proving delivery. Buchholz v. Damick, 115 App. Div. 843, 101 N. Y. S. 17. An assignment of a contract to convey land vests in the assignee all remedies, all the rights and remedies which the assignor possessed. Moore v. Gariglietti [Ill.] 81 N. E. 826. An assignment transfers to the assignee all rights under the contract assigned possessed by the assignor. Strong v. Moore [Kan.] 89 P. 895. The assignee of a chose in action stands in the shoes of his assignor. Jack v. National Bk., 17 Okl. 430, 89 P. 219.

56. Washington Tp. v. First Nat. Bk., 147 Mich. 571, 14 Det. Leg. N. 36, 111 N. W. 349. The assignee of a contract for the sale of lumber has no greater right to enforce the contract than his assignor had. Demarest v. Dunton Lumber Co., 151 F. 508. Claim against an insolvent corporation. Watrous v. Hilliard [Colo.] 88 P. 185. An assignment based on a nominal consideration confers upon the assignee no greater rights than the assignor possesses. Rising v. Sebring, 104 N. Y. S. 486.

57. The assignee of a claim takes it subject to set-off against the assignor. Chung v. Stephenson [Or.] 89 P. 386. Where a purchaser's claim for damages for breach of contract exceeds the amount due on the claim assigned, the assignee is not entitled to a recovery. Earnshaw v. Whittemore [Mass.] 80 N. E. 520.

58. Insufficiency of a gambling debt as a consideration. Union Collection Co. v. Buckman [Cal.] 88 P. 708. The assignee of money due under a decree for alimony takes it subject to all defenses which would have been available against it while in the hands of the assignor. Cohen v. Cohen [Cal.] 88 P. 267. An innocent purchaser of a certificate for the purchase of state school lands takes it subject to defenses of fraud against his assignor. De Laittre v. Board of Com'rs, 149 F. 800.

59. Where the beneficiary under a life insurance policy assigned part of her interest thereunder to her attorney as a contingent fee for services in collecting the insurance, the fact that after payment of a final judgment on the policy the insurance company ascertained that the insured was not dead did not entitle it to recover the money paid to the assignee who had no notice of the fraud. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Clark, 203 U. S. 64, 51 Law. Ed. 91.

60. The fact that in an action on a life insurance policy the insurance company denied that the insured was dead does not charge an assignee of the policy who was the attorney for the plaintiff with notice of the plaintiff's fraud where after paying a judgment on the policy the company ascertained that the insured was alive. Fidelity Mut. Life Ins. Co. v. Clark, 202 U. S. 64, 51 Law. Ed. 91.

61. The assignee of a contract for the sale of land in determining his obligations thereunder is not bound to look beyond the terms of an escrow agreement signed by the vendor and the vendee and upon compliance with the terms of which a deed was to be delivered. Womble v. Wilbur, 3 Cal. App. 535, 86 P. 916.

62. Plaintiff had a contract with defendant for the exclusive right to sell beer in a certain village and a credit to be paid by the delivery of beer by defendant to them. They assigned the contract and exclusive right to sell beer to B. Held defendant could not refuse to deliver beer on plaintiff's order on the ground that such delivery would violate his duty to B., the debt not having been assigned. Harris v. Sheffel, 117 Mo. App. 514, 94 S. W. 738.

63. Bunch Grain Co. v. Law, 79 Ark. 375, 96 S. W. 196. The assignment by two members of a firm to a third of a contract with the United States for the construction of public works though valid as between themselves does not affect the government. It is effective only as an assumption by one of the firm of the debts of the firm in consideration of the receipts of the benefits to be derived from the execution of the agreement. Hardaway v. National Surety Co. [C. C. A.] 150 F. 465.

64. Assignment of payments under contract to deliver two condensers prior to the appointment of a receiver for the assignor, do not pass to the assignee;<sup>65</sup> hence where only the profits to be realized under a contract are assigned, nothing passes to the assignee where the contract is performed at a loss.<sup>66</sup> An assignment of half the amount realized on a claim does not limit the assignor's right to recover to the portion unassigned.<sup>67</sup> Where the debt for which an assignment was given as security is paid by the assignor, the assignee is not entitled to a recovery thereon as against the creditors of the assignor.<sup>68</sup> The assignor impliedly warrants that he has title and that the claim is not spurious,<sup>69</sup> but other warranties will not be implied.<sup>70</sup> The right of a surety of an assignor of a contract for government work to be subrogated to his rights to percentages withheld by the government on work completed prior to the assignment is superior to that of the assignees.<sup>71</sup>

§ 5. Enforcement of assignment and of rights assigned.<sup>72</sup>—Where the debtor's liability under an assignment is uncertain, demand is a condition precedent to the maintenance of the action<sup>73</sup> and must be alleged in the complaint.<sup>74</sup> Where one of the parties to a contract refused to assent to an assignment by the other party and both subsequently acted upon the assumption that the assignee was the agent for the assignor, the assignee cannot maintain an action for the breach of the contract.<sup>75</sup> Where the assignee clothes the assignor with the indicia of ownership, he is estopped to assert his title as against a subsequent bona fide assignee,<sup>76</sup> and he may also be estopped to assert an assignment against the debtor by acquiescing in payments by the latter to the assignor;<sup>77</sup> but mere failure to collect assigned accounts as they become due does not constitute such negligence as will work an estoppel.<sup>78</sup>

one condenser was delivered and payment thereof made to the receiver, held the assignee was entitled to such payment. Cogan v. Conover Mfg. Co., 69 N. J. Eq. 809, 64 A. 973.

65. Except where the common-law rules remain, the assignee of an express assignment may maintain an action thereon in his own name,<sup>79</sup> and the action is legal rather than equitable,<sup>80</sup> unless only an equitable assignment exists.<sup>81</sup> In the latter case, action in the assignor's name is allowed in Illinois.<sup>82</sup> The assignor may sue in the United States court of claims for the use of the assignee;<sup>83</sup> but the action will not fail merely because the assignor does not appear as a nominal party plaintiff,<sup>84</sup> and an amendment of the petition so as to bring in an assignor as a nominal party plaintiff will not be allowed.<sup>85</sup> In Texas the drawer and the drawee of an unaccepted draft operating as an assignment may be joined in an action thereon.<sup>86</sup> The action being against the original debtor, a tender by the assignor is unavailing,<sup>87</sup> and the equities of the assignor against the assignee cannot be set off.<sup>88</sup>

Defenses personal to the assignor are not available to the debtor in an action on the assignment.<sup>89</sup> Statutory provisions as to process in actions on assignments must be complied with.<sup>90</sup> A creditor's bill which does not allege the entire consideration for an agreement is not demurrable on the ground that the consideration alleged is inadequate.<sup>91</sup> In an action on an assignment, the complaint need not allege the corporate entity of the assignor.<sup>92</sup> Evidence of the unexpressed intention of the assignor at the time of making an assignment,<sup>93</sup> or showing notice on the part of an assignee, subsequent to the assignment,<sup>94</sup> is inadmissible. In an action by the assignee of wages earned and to be earned, the recovery against the debtor must be for the full amount due the assignor irrespective of the assignor's equity in a portion of such amount as against the assignee. In an action against the debtor on an assignment of wages as security, the fact that the amount justly due the assignee from the assignor is less than the amount due the assignor from the debtor cannot be raised by the latter. Independent Credit Co. v. South Chicago City R. Co., 121 Ill. App. 595.

§ 1. Nature of transaction in general.<sup>99</sup>—In the absence of any preference an instrument intended as an assignment for the benefit of creditors, and as an absolute transfer to raise funds for the payment of debts, will be held to be a general assignment;<sup>1</sup> but a transfer of assets in payment of a debt due the transferee is not an assignment for the benefit of creditors, though accompanied by an agreement to pay outstanding debts.<sup>2</sup>

§ 2. Statutory provisions and conflict of laws.<sup>3</sup>—A voluntary assignment executed in one state according to its laws is ineffectual as to real property in another unless so executed and recorded as to render it effectual if made in the latter state;<sup>4</sup> but one who participates in the proceedings may become estopped from questioning the title of a purchaser in good faith of realty in another state on the ground that the deed of assignment was inoperative for nonconformity to the law of that state.<sup>5</sup>

denture of assignment divests the assignor for the time being of all his right, title, or equity in all the property except the right of exemption reserved by law.<sup>9</sup>

§ 6. Legality and equitableness.<sup>10</sup>—A deed is not invalid for stipulating for a release of the debtor from personal liability for such part of his debts as the fund does not discharge,<sup>11</sup> or because it provides for the payment of debts inadvertently omitted and which may be admitted by the grantor or otherwise shown to be correct.<sup>12</sup> Likewise it may authorize the trustees to adjust and correct debts incorrectly stated and pay the same according to the true amount,<sup>13</sup> to accept the approval of a debt by the debtor as conclusive of its correctness,<sup>14</sup> to compromise and adjust disputed claims on such terms as they may deem proper or expedient,<sup>15</sup> and to take out of the fund fees properly due for services rendered by them as lawyers in connection with the affairs of the trust.<sup>16</sup> A description of the property is sufficient where it is as full as it can conveniently be made.<sup>17</sup> An inadvertent omission from the deed of a small amount of assets does not render it fraudulent.<sup>18</sup> A provision that the trustees may notify creditors not named to present their claims within a specified time does not apply to creditors whose names are listed in the deed.<sup>19</sup> It is sufficient that a reasonable time be given creditors wherein to decide to accept or reject the deed.<sup>20</sup> A Washington deed of trust for the benefit of creditors is not invalid as being within the "sales-in-bulk" law of that state.<sup>21</sup>

Under a statute requiring creditors, as a condition precedent to sharing in the assigned estate, to file releases of all their claims except the pro rata share to which they shall be found entitled, an agreement between the assignor and a creditor whereby the latter is to file his claim and allow any balance to be discharged in consideration of the promise of the former to subsequently pay such balance is fraudulent and unenforceable,<sup>22</sup> and where a debt has been thus voluntarily discharged, a new promise to pay it is without consideration.<sup>23</sup> One who seeks merely to foreclose an invalid mortgage is not in a position to question the validity of an assignment for the benefit of creditors.<sup>24</sup>

Preferences.<sup>26</sup>—An insolvent debtor may in good faith mortgage all his property to secure bona fide debts due to preferred creditors,<sup>27</sup> and such mortgage is not void as an assignment for the benefit of creditors attempting preferences if the debtor in good faith intended it as security only and did not intend to make a general assignment or to defeat the statute forbidding preferences in assignments.<sup>28</sup> A petition to have an alleged preferential conveyance declared an assignment of all the debtor's property for the benefit of creditors is properly refused where not filed within the statutory period.<sup>29</sup>

§ 7. Property passing to and rights of assignee therein.<sup>30</sup>—An assignment of all of one's property carries a defeasible fee subject to the conditions of the title and of the trust.<sup>31</sup> The dower right of a wife who does not join in the assignment is unaffected.<sup>32</sup> A statute allowing a resident householder to have set off exemption to a certain amount does not apply to one who is not a resident householder at the time he makes the assignment, though he becomes such before the property is appraised.<sup>33</sup> The right of an assignee to a surrender of property in another state as against creditors there is dependent upon the comity existing between the two states.<sup>34</sup> The assignee's rights in the property transferred are generally held to be identical with those his assignor had,<sup>35</sup> but in Mississippi a vendor's lien is not enforceable against the assignee after he has taken charge of the goods, made an inventory, and notified creditors to present their claims.<sup>36</sup> Before a creditor has become a party to the assignment the debtor's property is still attachable in Massachusetts, but when the assignee is himself a creditor his signature to the deed of assignment is an acceptance by him, as creditor, of the provisions of the deed<sup>37</sup> rendering the deed so far executed that after he takes possession the property is no longer subject to attachment as the property of the debtor.<sup>38</sup> Where a fraudulent conveyance made prior to an assignment for the benefit of creditors is not attacked by the assignee, and after the assignment a judgment is obtained against the assignor, the property fraudulently conveyed should be treated as having been acquired by the assignor after the assignment for the purposes of the levy of an execution thereon under the judgment.<sup>39</sup> As soon as the purpose of the assignment is accomplished, the legal title to remaining property reverts in the assignor by operation of law.<sup>40</sup>

§ 8. Liability of assignee; bond.<sup>41</sup>

and when a private sale is made no appraisalment under the statute is necessary.<sup>44</sup> The county court of the county where the assignee qualifies and not where the business is carried on has jurisdiction to order a sale of the assigned estate.<sup>45</sup> A sale by an assignee under his guaranty to furnish the purchaser with a person to take the property from him at the sale price is voidable at the election of the creditors regardless of good faith.<sup>46</sup> Before a trustee's sale is confirmed purchasers thereat have not such an interest in the property sold them as to entitle them to apply to a court of equity to have the title corrected.<sup>47</sup>

§ 10. Administration of trust in general.<sup>48</sup>—Reasonable prudence and good faith is required of the assignee in the administration of his trust.<sup>49</sup>

§ 11. Debts and liabilities of the estate.<sup>50</sup>—While debts due but payable in the future or damages for a breach of contract accruing prior to the assignment are claims against the estate,<sup>51</sup> debts arising after the assignment or dependent upon future contingencies are not.<sup>52</sup> In the absence of fraud or collusion, a judgment obtained against the assignor after the assignment of a claim existing when the trust deed was executed is binding on the trustee though he was not made a party defendant.<sup>53</sup>

§ 12. Presentment and allowance of claims.<sup>54</sup>—Only creditors who were such at the time of the assignment are entitled to participate in the proceeds of the estate.<sup>55</sup> A creditor who has property coming to him by way of compromise of a claim which the debtor considered exorbitant will be allowed a dividend based only on the market value of the property and not on the compromise valuation.<sup>56</sup> It is not an abuse of discretion for trustees to deny creditors who at first refused to join in the assignment the right to do so after the time allowed for that purpose unless they will pay certain expenses incident to unsuccessful litigation instituted by them in the meantime for the purpose of having the debtor adjudged a bankrupt.<sup>57</sup>

the assignor nor the trustee may thereafter apply the proceeds of the property to the payment of unsecured debts without the consent of the secured creditors.<sup>60</sup> Where, however, the proceeds are thus erroneously applied the application should be disturbed only to the extent that it may be necessary to protect the secured creditors.<sup>61</sup> One who furnishes materials or supplies to run a rolling mill, foundry, or other manufacturing establishment assigned for the benefit of creditors in Kentucky has a lien on such property<sup>62</sup> which arises when the assignment is made and not before,<sup>63</sup> and hence it is not material that more than sixty days elapse after the lienor ceases to furnish material or that his claim is not filed in the county clerk's office, such requirements having reference only to other liens provided for in the statute.<sup>64</sup> Where an assignment is made after the setting aside of prior bankruptcy proceedings, a court in another state wherein are funds belonging to the assignor can apply neither the bankruptcy statute nor the insolvent law of the state of assignment in determining the question of priority as between creditors in its own state.<sup>65</sup> The doctrine of marshalling assets will not be applied so as to require the holders of notes for whose benefit a contract had been assigned to the trustee to first resort to the proceeds of that contract before being entitled to share in the general estate, where such proceeds are uncertain in amount and may not be realized for a long time.<sup>66</sup> The trust fund must go to the creditors pro rata and no one of them can by garnishment subject it to the payment of all his claims to the exclusion of others.<sup>67</sup>

ASSISTANCE, WRIT OF.<sup>77</sup>

The interest of one not made a party to a foreclosure proceeding cannot be adjudicated on an application for a writ of assistance,<sup>78</sup> and if such person or his administrator is in possession of the property, he may have the execution of the writ restrained.<sup>79</sup> Nor will the writ lie to try the validity of a tax title acquired by an adverse claimant after the rendition of the decree which it is sought to execute.<sup>80</sup> On reversal of a decree for plaintiff in a chancery suit involving real property, the lower court should restore to defendant the property taken under the erroneous decree, and defendant has also a clear remedy at law;<sup>81</sup> hence a writ of assistance will not be granted by the appellate court to restore the possession.<sup>82</sup> Mandamus will not lie to compel a sheriff to execute writs which have become functus officio,<sup>83</sup> or writs which have not yet come into his hands and as to which there has been no dereliction.<sup>84</sup>

8. Where no appeal is provided for within the association, the action of the association tribunal may be reviewed by the courts.

the courts do not sit as appellate tribunals, their review being confined to matters of fraud and lack of jurisdiction.<sup>9</sup> Much is conceded to the decisions of association tribunals<sup>10</sup> and the evidence will be reviewed only to the extent of ascertaining whether there was any substantial evidence to sustain the charge.<sup>11</sup> Failure to appear in response to notice of charges does not confer jurisdiction to impose a penalty not authorized by the constitution and by-laws and not referred to in the notice.<sup>12</sup> nor is an unauthorized penalty validated by affirmance by the association's appellate tribunal.<sup>13</sup> Resort to the courts is not precluded by failure to object to the jurisdiction of the tribunal on the trial before it,<sup>14</sup> but objection to an association committee as a judicial board may be waived.<sup>15</sup> Where the association has jurisdiction, the members of the tribunal cannot be held liable for acts committed in their judicial capacity,<sup>16</sup> and when there is probable cause for the prosecution of a member before an association tribunal, the prosecutors will not be liable for either malicious prosecution or conspiracy.<sup>17</sup> A by-law providing for forfeiture of membership may be self-executing, in which case membership ceases upon the commission of the act constituting the ground of forfeiture.<sup>18</sup> When an association committee has acted upon a member's claim to the extent required by the by-laws, mandamus will not issue to compel further action.<sup>19</sup>

50. Where a contract of employment is broken by the employer and the employee elects to treat it as abandoned, the contract is deemed executed so as to authorize recovery under the common counts. Anglo-Wyoming Oil Fields v. Miller, 117 Ill. App. 552. Recovery for breach must be under special count. Thompson v. Hoppert, 120 Ill. App. 588. Recovery cannot be had under the common counts where plaintiff has failed to comply with a condition precedent but relies on an excuse, as where he relies on fraud to excuse the failure to obtain the architect's certificate of completion. Hart v. Carsley Mfg. Co., 221 Ill. 444, 77 N. E. 897. Contra. Hart v. Carsley Mfg. Co., 116 Ill. App. 159.

57. Harr v. Roome, 28 App. D. C. 214. Where the maker of a purchase price note assigned the contract of purchase to his surety who is given credit by the vendor for the amount of the note, the maker may recover in assumpsit upon paying the note. McGee v. McGee, 125 Ill. App. 436.

Petitions construed as stating causes for money had and received: A petition alleging a contract authorizing defendant to sell land in which plaintiff had an interest, fraud on the part of defendant that he could and had sold for a particular amount when in fact he had sold for more, that he was fraudulently withholding the balance due, etc. Crigler v. Duncan, 121 Mo. App. 381, 99 S. W. 61. A petition against the executor of plaintiff's mother alleging that by agreement between plaintiff and his mother the

Work, labor, and materials.<sup>64</sup>

The declaration on a special count should specifically allege the promise to pay,<sup>69</sup> but in indebitatus assumpsit such allegation is not necessary.<sup>70</sup> Matters necessarily implied from the nature of the transaction declared on need not be directly averred,<sup>71</sup> nor is it necessary to negative matters of affirmative defense.<sup>72</sup> A technical quantum meruit count is not necessary to a quantum meruit recovery.<sup>73</sup> While a specification following the common money counts limits them to the claims asserted therein,<sup>74</sup> the failure to file a statutory bill of particulars does not waive the counts.<sup>75</sup> Although a contract be pleaded specially, yet deceit in procuring payment of the consideration will support recovery under the common count.<sup>76</sup> former turned his wages over to the latter to be kept for him, after paying their living expenses, that the defendant had collected a deposit which belonged to plaintiff and refused to pay over the same. Stuyvaert v. Arnold, 122 Mo. App. 421, 99 S. W. 529.

Evidence held to show that money in hands of executor belonged to plaintiff and not to estate. Stuyvaert v. Arnold, 122 Mo. App. 421, 99 S. W. 529.

58. Action allowed against one receiving money on a note intrusted to him for collection. Harr v. Roome, 28 App. D. C. 214. For money received by defendant under a contract authorizing him to sell land for plaintiff and to receive the proceeds. Crigler v. Duncan, 121 Mo. App. 381, 99 S. W. 61.

59. City of Chicago v. Fisk, 123 Ill. App. 404. Notwithstanding that the special fund has been depleted. City of Chicago v. McCormick, 124 Ill. App. 639.

60. Indorsement for collection of draft made to the joint order of two, is not payment to indorse so as to defeat recovery of amount collected. Rawson v. Bethesda Baptist Church, 123 Ill. App. 239.

61. See 5 C. L. 299.

62. Unjust water rents paid under protest and under a threat of defendant to shut off the water are not voluntarily paid. City of Chicago v. Northwestern M. L. Ins. Co., 120 Ill. App. 497.

63. Where a tenant agrees to assume an unperformed contract but makes default, the lessor may recover in assumpsit for money paid on a judgment recovered against it. Pocono Spring Water Ice Co. v. American Ice Co., 214 Pa. 640, 64 A. 398.

66. Under Code 1899, § 2, c. 71 (Code 1906, § 3021), a smallpox patient transported under a contract executed between a railroad and the county court may sue in assumpsit for failure of the company to keep it warm as per contract. Jenkins v. Chesapeake O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 48. See also, Contracts, 7 C. L. 761.

67. Demurrable, Pennsylvania R. Co. v. Smith [Va.] 56 S. E. 567.

68. An express promise for work done under an executed special contract and the implied promise as to extra work can be declared on in one count. Donegan v. Houston [Cal. App.] 90 P. 1073.

69. The mere recital of the writing sued on is insufficient, and there is no distinction in pleading an express or implied promise. Wheeling Mold & Foundry Co. v. Wheeling Steel & Iron Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 826.

70. Potomac Laundry Co. v. Miller, 26 App. D. C. 230.

71. In indebitatus assumpsit for work and labor, a direct averment of indebtedness and that the services were rendered at defendant's request are not necessary, since the consideration and promise will be implied. Donegan v. Houston [Cal. App.] 90 P. 1073.

72. Special count on contract of sale need not allege fulfillment of warranty. Ryan v. Hooton, 122 Ill. App. 514.

73. Such recovery may be had under common counts in indebitatus assumpsit. Viles v. Barre & M. Trac. & Power Co., 79 Vt. 311, 65 A. 104. Though a complaint did not contain a quantum meruit count but there was evidence showing extra work as well as the agreed work, and no objection was made to the complaint or the evidence, the action in one count for the total sum was sufficient to sustain a judgment for the extra work. Donegan v. Houston [Cal. App.] 90 P. 1073.

74. Where specification is for money earned by services, etc., recovery cannot be had under count for money had and received. Carson v. Calhoun, 10 Me. 456, 64 A. 838.

75. Bill required by Code 1899, § 11, c. 125. Federation Window Glass Co. v. Cameron Glass Co., 58 W. Va. 477, 52 S. E. 518.

76. The waiver of the fraud by specially

Pleas.—Failure of consideration<sup>77</sup> and recoupment for nonperformance or breach of warranty<sup>78</sup> may be shown under the general issue. An affidavit of defense must connect the defense made with the claim sued on.<sup>79</sup> The withdrawal of the general issue leaving only a plea of off-set admits plaintiff's claim.<sup>80</sup>

§ 4. Evidence.<sup>81</sup>—In indebitatus assumpsit the special contract is admissible to establish the amount due,<sup>82</sup> though plaintiff need not prove a particular agreed sum.<sup>83</sup> In an action for money paid at defendant's request, a contract under seal is admissible to show that defendant and not plaintiff was under obligation to pay the claim.<sup>84</sup> There must be no material variance between the allegations and proof. Plaintiff has the burden of establishing all the essential averments.<sup>86</sup>

85. Where statement in assumpsit sets forth claim for services as bookkeeper and salesman and proof related wholly to alleged partnership, judgment for plaintiff must be set aside. Hale v. Hale, 32 Pa. Super. Ct. 37. There is fatal variance between proof of implied contract of carriage or contract between defendant railroad company and the county court for carriage and a declaration upon a special contract of carriage. Jenkins v. Chesapeake & O. R. Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 48. Where one sues for money had and received, recovery is not prevented by a misstatement of the contract under which defendant collected the money as plaintiff's agent, the particulars not being of the essence of the case. Crigler v. Duncan, 121 Mo. App. 381, 99 S. W. 61. Evidence to sustain demand for rent is not admissible under indebitatus counts for goods, etc., sold and delivered, work and labor, money lent, money had and received, and an account stated. Lawson v. Williamson Coal & Coke Co. [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 258.

86. In an action for money had and received against one who is alleged to have received the proceeds of a note intrusted for collection, plaintiff has the burden of showing ownership of the note, that defendant received the same for collection on plaintiff's account, and collection. Harr v. Roome, 28 App. D. C. 214. In order to recover under the common counts for goods sold and delivered, plaintiff must establish delivery by a greater weight of the evidence. *Kitchin v. an incorporation for more than one of the purposes specified therein.<sup>88</sup> nor is the charter of a charitable corporation rendered invalid because it is proposed to charge an entrance fee.<sup>89</sup> The superintendent of a county infirmary in Ohio is not the holder of a public office.<sup>90</sup> Upon the expiration of his term no order of the board of directors is necessary for his removal, and hence no cause need be assigned by the board for the termination of his term.<sup>91</sup>

§ 2. Establishment and maintenance of institutions and support of inmates.<sup>92</sup> The expenses chargeable to the inmates of detention hospitals under the Iowa statute are limited to expenses of attendance, nursing, board, and treatment. The expense of providing and furnishing the hospital is chargeable against the county.<sup>93</sup> A statute providing for reimbursement from the relatives of insane persons to the county for hospital expenses incurred in the public support of such persons is constitutional.<sup>94</sup> Under a statute making pension money exempt from seizure in legal proceedings, such money in the hands of the committee of an incompetent may be applied to the payment of current state hospital expenses,<sup>95</sup> though not of any arrears existing at the time the first pension money was received by the committee.<sup>96</sup>

§ 2. In what actions it will issue.<sup>8</sup>—A statutory substitute for an action at law will be considered as such an action within the attachment laws.<sup>9</sup> An implied contract comes within a provision authorizing an attachment in actions on contract,<sup>10</sup> and where the transaction giving rise to the implied contract is tortious, the tort may be waived, and the suit brought on the contract.<sup>11</sup> Actions for the recovery of money include actions for the recovery of unliquidated damages for a tort,<sup>12</sup> but an action in rem cannot be held to be an action for the recovery of money only.<sup>13</sup> Attachment is sometimes expressly authorized in actions ex delicto.<sup>14</sup>

Combs* [Or.] 87 P. 143. Conversion of personality. precise value of property being alleged. Hitson v. Hurt [Tex. Civ. App.] 101 S. W. 292.

12. Under Rev. St. 1899, authorizing attachments in civil actions for recovery of money, attachment will lie in action for unliquidated damages for unlawful and forcible entry. Collins v. Stanley [Wyo.] 88 P. 620.

13. Code Civ. Proc. § 635, authorizing attachments in actions for money only, does not authorize attachment in action under § 1843 against heir for debt of ancestor or certain kinds of such actions,<sup>15</sup> but even in such case the damages must be shown by the attachment papers with reasonable certainty.<sup>16</sup> Where the test is that the demand be in its nature definite and certain, claims ex delicto are generally excluded because indefinite and uncertain in amount,<sup>17</sup> but not merely and necessarily because not based on contract.<sup>18</sup>

Insolvency is ground for attachment in Kentucky.<sup>21</sup>

Absconding of debtor.<sup>22</sup>—The absconding of the debtor is usually ground for attachment.<sup>23</sup> where defendant has not alienated the property sought to be charged and the judgment therefore must direct, as required by § 1852, that the debt be collected out of the property. Avery v. Avery 104 N. Y. S. 290, rvg. 52 Misc. 297, 102 N. Y. S. 955.

Nonresidence<sup>24</sup> of the debtor is one of the most common grounds for attachment,<sup>25</sup> and the right to an attachment on such ground is not affected by the availability of other remedies.<sup>26</sup> Statutes giving debts due to nonresidents a local situs so as to be attachable are constitutional.<sup>27</sup> Actual residence and not domicile controls.<sup>28</sup>

fraudulent transfer of property.<sup>33</sup> Suspicious conduct is not alone sufficient to show fraud. A fraudulent intent must be shown,<sup>34</sup> but such intent may be implied from the character and effect of the transfer, and need not be a consciously fraudulent intent involving moral obliquity.<sup>35</sup>

§ 4. Attachable property.<sup>37</sup>—An interest in property in order to be attachable must be such as is recognized by law.<sup>38</sup> Equitable interests may be attached.<sup>39</sup> The individual property of a member of a partnership is not attachable in an action against the firm alone,<sup>40</sup> nor is a principal's property attachable for the debts of his agent.<sup>41</sup> Property in the hands of an officer under a prior levy may be levied on by the same officer under a subsequent attachment,<sup>42</sup> and if the interests of third persons have not intervened, the rule is the same where the officer has left the property in the possession of the person in possession at the time of the levy, thus making such person his bailee.<sup>43</sup> Property in custodia legis is not attachable,<sup>44</sup> but where the court in which the attachment action is pending has lawful possession of the property, it will retain such possession to await the result of the action, regardless of the manner in which such possession was acquired,<sup>45</sup> and as between several claimants a court of equity will recognize the attachment of property in its custody to the extent of giving priority to the senior attachment in the distribution of such property.<sup>46</sup> An attachment under state laws cannot reach either the instru-

32. Charge of concealment of property will be regarded as sufficiently proven when sustained by testimony of number of witnesses as to declarations made by debtor at different times that he was execution proof and that his property had all been placed beyond reach of creditors. Ravenna Nat. Bk. v. Latimer, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 563.

33. Evidence held sufficient to sustain attachment on ground of fraudulent transfer. Danker v. Jacobs [Neb.] 112 N. W. 579. Refusal to dissolve attachment sustained where it appeared that defendant had transferred by absolute conveyance over $15,000 worth of property to secure debt of $8,000. First Nat. Bk. v. Anderson, 101 Minn. 107, 111 N. W. 947. Mere offer to sell at low price and to accept notes and mortgage for all or large part of price not alone sufficient to show intent to make fraudulent transfer. Ravenna Nat. Bk. v. Latimer, 8 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 563. Failure to keep promise to deed property to creditor as security and sale and application of proceeds to payment of other creditors held not a disposition of property with intent to hinder, delay, or defraud creditors. Breeden v. Peale [Va.] 55 S. E. 2.

35. Placing one's property in hands of another with instructions to convert into cash and pay creditors justifies attachment by creditors excluded, regardless of any dishonest intent of owner. Frank v. Minsterketter, 30 Ky. L. R. 485, 99 S. W. 219.

36. Mere shortage of agent as to principal's property is insufficient to authorize attachment on ground of embezzlement. A willful and felonious conversion is essential. Stone Mill Co. v. McWilliams, 121 Mo. App. 519, 98 S. W. 828.

37. See 7 C. L. 302.

38. Where a mother conveyed property to one son by absolute deed on express understanding that no trust was to be created in favor of other son, mere verbal expression of desire that grantor would give other son a part created no leviable interest in favor of such other. Boyer v. Robison [Wash.] 86 P. 385.

39. Code Civ. Proc. 1902, § 253, makes equitable interests in personality attachable. Pelzer Mfg. Co. v. Pitts [S. C.] 57 S. E. 29. When partner contributed to firm capital by giving note secured by corporate stock as collateral, and firm endorsed note and had it discounted by a bank, the subsequent payment of the note by the partner with firm assets subrogated the firm to the bank's rights in the stock and rendered the stock attachable by firm creditors. mentalities of interstate commerce<sup>47</sup> or the proceeds resulting from the use of such instrumentalities.<sup>48</sup> Property exempted by statute is not attachable.<sup>49</sup>

§ 5. Procedure in general.<sup>51</sup>—The procedure in attachment materially differs from that in an ordinary action,<sup>52</sup> and under some of the statutes no complaint or pleading is necessary in order to obtain an attachment.<sup>53</sup> The amounts claimed in the various attachment papers must correspond,<sup>54</sup> but the affidavit may claim and the writ may issue for less than the amount claimed in the petition in the principal action.<sup>55</sup> Conditions precedent required by the statute must be complied with.<sup>56</sup>

Americus Grocery Co.*, 127 Ga. 672, 56 S. E. 762. See, also, Fincher v. Stanley Elec. Mfg. Co., 127 Ga. 362, 56 S. E. 440. Declaration in attachment held not subject to demurrer for uncertainty in setting out grounds of action. Brackett & Co. v. Americus Grocery Co., 127 Ga. 672, 56 S. E. 762.

53. Under Code Civ. Proc. §§ 636, 638, summons and affidavit is all that is necessary. Shepherd v. Shepherd, 51 Misc. 418, 100 N. Y. S. 401.

54. Damages laid in attachment declaration must not exceed amount claimed in affidavit. Brackett & Co. v. Americus Grocery Co., 127 Ga. 672, 56 S. E. 762. When amount claimed in the declaration does not exceed that claimed in the affidavit, the former is not defective because the aggregate of the items of the damages claimed exceed the amount claimed in the affidavit, where no question of jurisdiction is involved. Id.

moving to quash the attachment,<sup>65</sup> but it is otherwise where the appearance is general.<sup>66</sup> Where personal service is had, jurisdiction is not dependent upon the validity of the attachment.<sup>67</sup> No jurisdiction is acquired where neither the writ of attachment nor the summons is served by one shown to be competent.<sup>68</sup>

The same presumptions are indulged in favor of jurisdiction on attachment proceedings as in cases of personal service.<sup>69</sup>

§ 6. Affidavit and its sufficiency.<sup>79</sup> Necessity.<sup>80</sup>—An affidavit alleging legal grounds for the attachment is essential to the validity of the writ.<sup>81</sup> Provision is sometimes made for the issuance of several writs on a single affidavit.<sup>82</sup>

cases of necessity,<sup>89</sup> and when admitted it must not only be accompanied by its sources,<sup>90</sup> but as between sources of unequal value as evidence the best must be furnished.<sup>91</sup> As to what constitutes sufficient proof,<sup>92</sup> the test is whether the evidence presented in the papers would justify a verdict on the trial,<sup>93</sup> and in applying such test the absence of counter affidavits may be considered.<sup>94</sup> Matters of which the court will take judicial notice need not be alleged.<sup>95</sup>

Terms.<sup>3</sup>—A bond in double the amount claimed in the affidavit is sufficient.<sup>4</sup>

Liabilities on bond.<sup>5</sup>—Liability on an attachment bond is limited to damages naturally and proximately resulting from the attachment,<sup>6</sup> which includes expenses incurred in defense of the attachment proceedings,<sup>7</sup> but not of the entire suit.<sup>8</sup>

The clause of the act providing that laws applicable to attachments in superior court should apply "so far as the nature of the city court will admit" did not refer to its territorial limitations so as to prevent the return to it of attachment issued in another county. Id.

33. Under Comp. Laws, § 10,761, the return and must show that the property attached was that of the defendant.<sup>34</sup> and must describe or enumerate it.<sup>35</sup> The return is at least prima facie evidence that the property enumerated therein was attached,<sup>36</sup> and its effect in this regard is not affected by a further recital of the taking of statutory steps to preserve the attachment.<sup>37</sup> The return may be amended,<sup>38</sup> but an amended return will not relate back to validate a judgment entered when no legal levy appeared to have been made.<sup>39</sup> The failure of an amended return to repeat a recital of the original return does not necessarily negative such recital.<sup>40</sup>

§ 11. Custody, sale, redelivery, or release of attached property.<sup>41</sup>—On a motion to tax the expenses of keeping to the defendant he may oppose it on any ground not previously adjudicated against him,<sup>42</sup> and since such expenses do not become costs until allowed by the court, the defendant is not precluded as to them by previous taxation of the costs of the action.<sup>43</sup> The defendant is not liable for the expense of keeping property which does not belong to him.<sup>44</sup> The attachment plaintiff is not liable for the negligence of the officer in the care of property unless the attachment was wrongfully sued out,<sup>45</sup> nor is he liable for damages accruing from a delay in the sale when he did not cause such delay.<sup>46</sup> The defendant cannot complain that the sale was not made by the proper officer where he is not harmed by the departure from the regular procedure. The officer's deed to attached realty takes effect as of the date of the levy.<sup>47</sup>

of service on agent of nonresident owner of logs attached may be made before the return day where such owners are not parties to the action. Pepin v. Nalt [Mich.] 112 N. W. 959.

34. Return of writ levied on property of two defendants as having been levied on property of "defendant" is insufficient to sustain judgment on attachment against either defendant. Albright-Prior Co. v. Pacific Selling Co., 126 Ga. 498, 55 S. E. 251.

35. Levy on barrels "each about half full" held levy on barrels and contents. Parham & Co. v. Potts-Thompson Liquor Co., 127 Ga. 303, 56 S. E. 460.

36. In suit against officer holding execution for failure to demand within thirty days after judgement, the property attached from the officer who made the attachment, and thus preserve the latter's liability to the plaintiff in the manner required by statute. Kelly v. Tarbox [Me.] 66 A. 9.

37. Recital of filing of attested copy of return in office of the clerk of the town in which the attachment was made as provided by Rev. St. c. 83, § 27, held not to show that officer did not take property into possession or that he did not make an attachment. Kelly v. Tarbox [Me.] 66 A. 9.

40. In attachment under Comp. Laws, § 10,761, relating to logging leins, an amended return reciting that the owners of the logs were not found in the state, without reference to their nonresidence, did not negative a recital of nonresidence in the original return so as to render service on an agent and return before the return day premature. Pepin v. Nalt [Mich.] 112 N. W. 959.

47. Takes precedence over deed executed by debtor in meantime. Martinovich v. Marsicano [Cal.] 89 P. 333. Defendant not harmed by sale of property by commissioner as in equity instead of by sheriff upon venditioni exponas, since he has the right to object if the sale does not bring a fair price, whereas he would have no such right on a sale by the sheriff. Lemly v. Ellis, 143 N. C. 200, 55 S. E. 629.

48. Filing of statutory bond for dissolution terminates plaintiff's right to possession under attachment. Pearne v. Coyne, 79 Conn. 570, 65 A. 973.

49. Pearne v. Coyne, 79 Conn. 570, 65 A. 973. Where officer held property as agent for creditor, verdict was properly rendered against both. Id. Instruction that measure of damages was value at date of attachment instead of date of dissolution by filing of bond held harmless where it did not appear that values were different at the different dates. Id.

51. Dissolution bond. Pierce Co. v. Casler [Mass.] 80 N. E. 494.

52. Where forthcoming bond was not approved by court, as required by Rev. St. 1899, § 413, Ann. St. 1906, p. 501, the attachment as evidenced by an officer's receipt cannot be affected by a prior agreement to enter into a different contract<sup>54</sup> and cannot be changed or altered by a parol agreement,<sup>55</sup> and the parties thereto are estopped to deny the recitals thereof.<sup>56</sup> When the filling out and the execution of a dissolution bond constitute a single transaction, the order of the several steps taken is immaterial.<sup>57</sup> The bond is not necessarily vitiated by irrelevant and superfluous recitals.<sup>58</sup> Whether sureties are released by the failure to enter an order condemning the property for the satisfaction of the debt depends upon the provisions of the statute and the terms of the bond.<sup>59</sup> A waiver of exemptions in the bond is not affected by the filing of a claim for exemption in the attachment suits.<sup>60</sup> A judgment awarding the property to an interpleading claimant discharges the obligation of a forthcoming bond.<sup>61</sup> In an action on the bond the due execution of the bond must be proved by the plaintiff,<sup>62</sup> and a prima facie case is then made out by proof of refusal to deliver,<sup>63</sup> the plaintiff not being bound to prove that the debt has not been satisfied.<sup>64</sup> The time of the demand for delivery of the property, whether before or after the judgment against the attachment debtor, is not of the substance of the cause of action,<sup>65</sup> though it may affect the damages recoverable.<sup>66</sup> In any event defects in this regard relate merely to matters of form and may be waived.<sup>67</sup> Remedies available to enforce the obligations of a statutory bond do not apply where the bond is so effective as to be only was not dissolved, and special execution thereafter issued was proper. Wise Coal Co. v. Columbia Lead & Zinc Co., 123 Mo. App. 249, 100 S. W. 680.

53. Defense in action on officer's receipt that it was agreed between plaintiff and defendant that latter should sign receipt as director of corporate owner of property attached and should not be bound individually held insufficient to raise any issue of fraud in procurement of individual signature. Dejon v. Street, 79 Conn. 333, 65 A. 145.

54. Prior agreement that one who signed receipt individually should sign a receipt in capacity of director of corporation whose property was attached. Dejon v. Street, 79 Conn. 333, 65 A. 145.

55. Parol agreement that one who signed receipt individually should be held liable only in an official capacity held not to relieve from individual liability. Dejon v. Street, 79 Conn. 333, 65 A. 145.

56. Recital that parties were estopped to deny that property was owned by attachment defendant. Dejon v. Street, 79 Conn. 333, 65 A. 145. Recitals as to value of property attached. Id. Agreement in receipt that parties shall be estopped to deny ownership and value of attached property held valid. Id.

57. Immaterial whether seal be affixed before or after, in point of time, the signature, or whether a seal previously affixed by another is adopted by signer or is affixed by another at his request after signature. Pierce Co. v. Casler [Mass.] 80 N. E. 494. Not necessary for sealing to take place before approval by magistrate. Id.

58. Where attachment against partnership was levied on property of one of partners, and subsequent attachment was levied on property of other partner, a replevy bond given by the latter was not vitiated by recitals of first attachment and by being made to plaintiff's in both attachments, it being evident that it was intended to cover only property levied on under second attachment. Haas v. Cook [Ala.] 41 So. 731.

59. In absence of statute requiring such order in order to create attachment lien, failure to enter such order in entering personal judgment against defendant does not release sureties on replevy bond conditioned merely for surrender of property, and execution may issue on default of such bond notwithstanding failure to enter order against property. Reynolds v. Williams [Ala.] 44 So. 406.

60. Execution on default of replevy bond will not be superseded in such case. Reynolds v. Williams [Ala.] 44 So. 406.

61. Bond conditioned to satisfy any judgment against attachment defendant or, in alternative, to have property forthcoming. Ourand v. Johnson, 6 Ind. T. 361, 98 S. W. 127.

62. Instruction in action on dissolution bond, that bond was presumed to be correct and burden was on defendant to show that it was not properly sealed held to mean that defendant who had set up material alteration by affixing seals after delivery had burden of proof as to such defense. Pierce Co. v. Casler [Mass.] 80 N. E. 494.

63. Action on officer's receipt. Dejon v. Street, 79 Conn. 333, 65 A. 145.

64. This is matter of affirmative defense. Dejon v. Street, 79 Conn. 333, 65 A. 145.

65. Allegation of a demand made during the continuance of the attachment lien may be sustained by proof of demand made either before or after judgment against the attachment debtor. Dejon v. Street, 79 Conn. 333, 65 A. 145.

66. Damages not affected where amount of judgment exceeded agreed valuation of property attached. Dejon v. Street, 79 Conn. 333, 65 A. 145.

67. By failing to demur and by denying allegation as made and going to trial on merits. Dejon v. Street, 79 Conn. 33, 65 A. 145.

a common-law bond.<sup>68</sup> The verdict in an action on a dissolution bond should be for the amount of the penalty.<sup>69</sup>

A void levy is not validated by the execution of a replevy bond.<sup>70</sup>

§ 13. Lien or other consequences of levy.<sup>71</sup>—The scope of an attachment lien in so far as it relates to priorities between such lien and other liens or claims is treated in the next succeeding section, as is also the effect of an attachment as a waiver of other liens.<sup>72</sup>

§ 14. Conflicting levies and liens, and hostile claims.<sup>73</sup> A. Priorities in general.<sup>74</sup>—An attachment reaches only the debtor's interest in the property,<sup>75</sup> and is subject to all prior liens and claims, whether legal<sup>76</sup> or equitable.<sup>77</sup> An equitable lien in favor of the attaching creditor is waived by the attachment,<sup>78</sup> as is also any other inconsistent lien.<sup>79</sup> The effect of failure to record an equitable lien or interest depends upon the provisions of the various recording acts.<sup>80</sup> Priorities cannot be affected by amendment of the attachment papers.<sup>81</sup>

68. Rev. St. 1895, § 214, providing that when defendant has replevied the property, judgment in favor of plaintiff shall be entered against defendant and sureties for amount of judgment, interest, and costs, or for value of property, does not apply where bond so entirely fails to comply with article 204 as to be only a common-law bond but judgment may be rendered for foreclosure of attachment against attached property provided same can be found. *Elrod v. 76. Relationship between attachment debtor and purchaser at prior execution sale, and fact that property was in debtor's hands and that he was selling it, held insufficient to show transfer by such purchaser to debtor so as to render property liable to attachment for debts of latter. Lipschit v. Halperin, 53 Misc. 290, 103 N. Y. S. 202. Bank discounting purchase-money draft with bill of lading attached acquires right superior to that of subsequent attaching creditor of the maker of the draft. Seward & Co. v. Miller [Va.] 55 S. 79. Pasturer's lien under Wilson's Rev. & Ann. St. Okl. 1903, C. 3, §§ 108, 110, is similar to a chattel mortgage and is inconsistent with attachment by same person and hence is waived by such attachment. Crismon v. Barse Livestock Commission Co., 17 Okl. 117, 87 P. 876.

80. See post, this section and subsection, subdivision Between Attachments and Conveyances in General. Such acts held not applicable to trust resulting from purchase of land with claimant's money under agreement to convey to him. City Nat. Bk. v. Crahan [Iowa] 112 N. W. 793. Not applicable to trust resulting from investment by attachment debtor of claimant's money in property attached. Waterman v. Buckingham, 79 Conn. 286, 64 A. 212. Attaching creditor who did not extend credit on faith of debtor's ownership or record title held not bona fide purchaser for value as against owner of equitable interest. Id. One whose money was invested by attachment debtor in property attached not estopped to assert resulting trust. Id.

81. Where attachment against firm in firm name was levied on property of individual member, an amendment making the attachment against individual members also could not affect rights of intervening attachment creditor whose attachment was against firm and its members and who had realized thereon from property of such individual member. Haas v. Cook [Ala.] 41 So. 731.

Between attachments and mortgages.<sup>86</sup>—An attachment levied subsequently to the recording of a mortgage is subject to the mortgage.<sup>87</sup> A mortgagee in possession is not affected by the recording acts.<sup>88</sup> An assignment for creditors which has been accepted by the assignee and the creditors is superior to a subsequent attachment.<sup>89</sup> The rights of a foreign assignee, as against attaching creditors, depend upon the nature of the assignment, possession of property, notice and residence of the attaching creditors.<sup>90</sup>

Between attachments and receivers.<sup>91</sup>—Property in the hands of a receiver is not subject to attachment,<sup>92</sup> and while a release of the property from bankruptcy proceeding leaves the property subject to the claims of attaching creditors,<sup>93</sup> it is not subject to attachment while still in the hands of the receiver,<sup>94</sup> but the court will consider the attachments served on the receiver as notices of claims addressed to the court through its receiver and will distribute the funds according to general principles of law.<sup>95</sup>

85. Where at time of attachment of realty more than five days had elapsed since execution of claimant's deed, the attachment took precedence over the deed. Hains v. Connell [Or.] 87 P. 265. Under B. & C. Comp. § 301, requiring sheriff on attaching realty to deliver to county clerk a certificate containing the title of the cause, names of the parties, etc., the title and names need not be stated in the caption of the certificate if they are contained in the body thereof. Id. Where lis pendens was filed pursuant to Code 1887, § 3566 [Code 1904, p. 1903], an attachment against property as belonging to an original vendor took precedence over a deed executed by him, subsequently to the attachment, to one to whom his vendee had sold the property by verbal contract. *Breeden v. bankruptcy,<sup>97</sup> and a judgment thereafter rendered is void<sup>98</sup> and may be vacated on motion,<sup>99</sup> even after the expiration of the term at which it was rendered,<sup>1</sup> and though there was service on and appearance by the defendant.<sup>2</sup> The right of firm creditors to attach firm property is not affected by the bankruptcy of one of the members of the firm.<sup>3</sup>

(§ 14) B. Procedure. In general.<sup>4</sup>—In some states the right to intervene in the attachment proceedings is given to claimants,<sup>5</sup> parties in possession,<sup>6</sup> but a claimant cannot intervene as being interested in the subject-matter of the litigation.<sup>7</sup> Parties intervening and being made defendants on their own petition are not entitled as a matter of right to subsequently withdraw from the proceedings.<sup>8</sup> Except in so far as the validity of the attachment is affected by the title to the property, the proceedings on the attachment and on the claim are practically independent.<sup>9</sup> Intervention by the true owners confers jurisdiction to adjust and adjudicate the relative claims of the plaintiff and the interveners,<sup>10</sup> but when plaintiff has no claim upon the land as against the interveners, he will be nonsuited.<sup>11</sup> In order to protect the rights of a stakeholder in whose hands property has been attached in a Federal court, such court will compel the attachment plaintiff to appear in a state court and establish his rights as against a hostile claimant who has sued the stakeholder in the state court.<sup>12</sup> The trustee in bankruptcy is a proper party to a motion to vacate an attachment as having been levied within four months prior to the filing of the petition in bankruptcy.<sup>13</sup>

Retaining bond executed by claimant pursuant to Kirby's Dig. § 3268, is not forfeited until after issue of execution on original judgment against defendant, the practice being that if claimant then refuse to deliver property to officer holding such execution the bond is forfeited and has effect of judgment for appraised value, and hence where there has been no appraisement upon execution of retention bond, no judgment can be entered against the claimants in the proceedings on the interplea, and plaintiff must resort to action on the bond. Faulkner & Co. v. Cook [Ark.] 103 S. W. 384. Kirby's Dig. § 3268, providing for appraisement of property upon execution of retaining bond by claimant, does not contemplate appraisement

7. Code, § 50a, giving one interested in subject-matter of litigation right to intervene, does not authorize one who is interested in property attached to intervene in the attachment proceedings, the subject-matter of such litigation being the debt claimed by plaintiff from defendant and the grounds of attachment and not the property attached. *Danker v. tachment is treated of elsewhere,<sup>14</sup> as is also his independent remedies for a wrongful levy on his property.<sup>15</sup>

Pleadings.<sup>16</sup>—A claimant interpleading need not make defense in the original action.<sup>17</sup> Where the original pleadings of the claimant are sufficient to confer jurisdiction, they may be amended.<sup>18</sup> Where the complaint in an action on a claimant's bond alleges ownership in the attachment defendant, such ownership is confessed if it is not denied by the answer.

Evidence and questions for the jury.<sup>19</sup>—Where the claimant proves that he acquired the title to the property prior to the attachment, the burden is upon the plaintiff to show that the claimant has divested himself of such title.<sup>20</sup> Where the issues on a claim are required to be made up under the direction of the court, it has an implied discretion in fixing the burden of proof.<sup>21</sup> Where the return of the officer does not fully describe the property, its character may be shown by other evidence on the trial of the claim case.<sup>22</sup> The claimant may testify generally that he owned the property when it was attached.<sup>23</sup> A claimant intervening in attachment proceedings against a decedent's estate is competent to testify as to transactions with the decedent.<sup>24</sup> The intervener's interest<sup>25</sup> and fraud therein<sup>26</sup> are questions of fact to be disposed of as such.

Appeal.—When a claimant does not appeal from the denial of his motion to dissolve, grounds urged in support of such motion cannot be considered in support of an instruction complained of on an appeal from a judgment in his favor on the trial of the claim.<sup>34</sup>

§ 15. Enforcement and dissolution, vacation, or abandonment of attachment. A. Release or abatement.<sup>35</sup>—An attachment may be dissolved by filing a statutory dissolution bond,<sup>36</sup> by filing an exemption schedule,<sup>37</sup> or by operation of law on account of failure to take subsequent proceedings, such as the levy of execution within a certain time after judgment.<sup>38</sup> An attachment of devised realty by a creditor of the devisee is not affected by a subsequent order of distribution.<sup>39</sup>

(§ 15) B. Validity and grounds for setting aside.<sup>40</sup>—An attachment may be dissolved on the ground of lack of jurisdiction,<sup>41</sup> or on the ground that the complaint in the original action is incurably insufficient,<sup>42</sup> unless the attachment is issued on summons and affidavit alone as is authorized in some jurisdictions.<sup>43</sup> An attachment will not be dissolved on account of the consolidation of the principal action with one in which the plaintiff has obtained security,<sup>44</sup> or on account of a variance, as to the amount of the debt, between the petition in the main action and the attachment affidavit,<sup>45</sup> or a similar variance between the affidavit and the writ,<sup>46</sup> or between the bond and petition.<sup>47</sup> As a general rule only the debtor can contest the grounds of the attachment,<sup>48</sup> but an intervening claimant may contest the debtor's ownership of the property.<sup>49</sup>

claimant after judgment in his favor as provided by Rev. St. 1906, § 5446, takes place of attached property to extent of interest claimant may establish therein in suit on the undertaking, and value of such interest, with interest from date of delivery of undertaking, is measure of claimant's damages. *Adamson Co. v. attachment.<sup>53</sup> On a motion to vacate based on the original papers, all necessary inferences must be construed in plaintiff's favor and all facts stated are conceded.<sup>54</sup> As a general rule the plaintiff cannot recover without proving his claim,<sup>55</sup> and where default judgment is authorized the authorizing statute must be strictly complied with.<sup>56</sup>

Evidence.<sup>57</sup>—The burden is on the plaintiff to prove the grounds of the attachment,<sup>58</sup> and on a motion to dissolve he must produce additional evidence where the grounds are denied by counter affidavits.<sup>59</sup> Matters judicially noticed need not be proved.<sup>60</sup> The admissibility and sufficiency of evidence presented by the affidavit is considered elsewhere,<sup>61</sup> as is also the sufficiency of the evidence to support the grounds alleged.<sup>62</sup>

Judgment and decree or order.<sup>63</sup>—Where the defendant makes a general appearance, a personal judgment may be rendered against him,<sup>64</sup> even though he has executed a forthcoming bond.<sup>65</sup> As a general rule a default judgment cannot be rendered.<sup>66</sup> The judgment may be attacked on jurisdictional grounds by motion even after the term at which it was rendered,<sup>67</sup> but jurisdiction to sell the land of a nonresident without service of the writ on him personally cannot be collaterally attacked.<sup>68</sup> A motion to vacate the judgment for want of jurisdiction may be amended by adding additional grounds therefor.<sup>69</sup> The amount collected on the attachment should be credited on the judgment in the principal action.<sup>70</sup>

Appeal.<sup>71</sup>—Orders to discharge or refusing to discharge attachments may be taken up on petition in error before final judgment.<sup>72</sup> Refusal to consider, as ill timed, a motion to release the attached property as exempt is not a final order and hence is not appealable. Grounds of dissolution not urged below will not be considered.<sup>73</sup>

attachment.<sup>75</sup> Where the debtor's interest in the property is that of a conditional vendee, the title being in the seller, the attaching creditor does not, under his attachment, acquire any of the remedies of the seller,<sup>76</sup> and where he claims the rights to such remedies under an assignment from the seller, he cannot enforce them without performing the conditions of the contract.<sup>77</sup>

§ 17. Wrongful attachment.<sup>78</sup>—The attachment plaintiff is liable to the defendant for a wrongful attachment,<sup>79</sup> where the attachment was issued without probable cause,<sup>80</sup> but he will not be liable for an excessive levy unless he advises, requires, or encourages it.<sup>81</sup> According to the circumstances and under the various statutes, one whose property has been levied on as the property of another<sup>82</sup> has several remedies, regardless of any question of malice or lack of probable cause,<sup>83</sup> such as intervention in the attachment proceedings,<sup>84</sup> an action for damages for the trespass,<sup>85</sup> trover,<sup>86</sup> replevin,<sup>87</sup> claim for damages in the attachment proceedings,<sup>88</sup> or injunction to restrain the attachment proceedings<sup>89</sup> or a sale thereunder,<sup>90</sup> unless the attachment was without notice of the claimant's title,<sup>91</sup> or his title is vitiated

75. Court has inherent power to punish for contempt for moving attached property beyond its jurisdiction, attachment writ being a mandate within Code Civ. Proc. § 3343, subd. 3, and an order within § 767, and the officer levying the attachment being an officer charged with duty of enforcing the mandate or order, Lowenthal v. Hodge, 105 N. Y. S. 120. 79. Fact that sheriff may be liable for allowing conversion by plaintiff after levy does not exempt plaintiff. Abernathy v. Meyer-Bridges Coffee & Spice Co. [Ky.] 103 S. W. 342.

80. The judgment in the attachment suit in favor of the defendant therein is conclusive evidence that the attachment was wrongful. McGill v. Fuller & Co. [Wash.] 88 P. 1038. Mere fact, however, that the attachment was wrongful is not alone sufficient to sustain the action, lack of probable cause being an essential element. Id. Malicious motion and favorable termination not alone sufficient. Cahoon v. Hoggan [Utah] 86 P. 763.

85. If an attorney, on behalf of himself and of his client, causes an attachment to be levied on the property of a stranger, both may be joined as joint trespassers in a suit by such stranger. Williams v. Inman [Ga. App.] 57 S. E. 1009. A grantee of the attachment defendant cannot invoke the doctrine of trespass ab initio by reason of acts of the sheriff subsequent to the levy, as where sheriff levied on mortgaged property, the fact that he sold it at place other than that advertised did not deprive him of right to defend action of trover by mortgagee on ground that mortgage was fraudulent as to creditors. Ryan v. Young [Ala.] 41 So. 954.

88. Rev. St. 1895, art. 5311, providing that one availing himself of provisions thereof relating to method of asserting claim to attached property waives damages on account of the levy, will not be extended to claims for damages otherwise asserted, as where claimant is made defendant in attachment proceedings and recovers judgment for the property, damages being allowable in such case against the officer. Terry v. Webb [Tex. Civ. App.] 96 S. W. 70.

89. See Haines v. Connell [Or.] 87 P. 265.

90. Where entire tract owned by two persons is attached for debt of one, but only the interest of the defendant is exposed for sale, the other owner is not affected and cannot complain. Burris v. Craig, 34 Colo. 383, 82 P. 944.

91. Verbal reservation of title by seller of personalty held insufficient to give him right of action for attachment of the property, where contract of sale not only did not reserve title or any lien but by its terms by fraud,<sup>92</sup> or the identity of the property has been destroyed by confusion with other property which is subject to the levy, and the claimant, claiming it all, refuses to point out that to which he is entitled,<sup>93</sup> or is unable to identify it so that the jury may make a proper separation with reasonable certainty.<sup>94</sup> The officer is protected by the writ so long as he keeps within the mandates thereof<sup>95</sup> provided he makes a proper return thereof,<sup>96</sup> but this protection does not extend to one at whose instance the attachment is issued for the purpose of causing the trespass to be committed.<sup>97</sup>

Pleading.<sup>98</sup>—An allegation that the plaintiff owned the property on a certain day is a sufficient allegation of ownership.<sup>99</sup> Actual seizure of the property need not be expressly alleged.<sup>1</sup> It seems that a statutory third party claim is not essential to the maintenance of a suit by a stranger for a levy on his property.<sup>2</sup> The complaint in such an action may be sufficient as against a general demurrer though it states a cause of action for nominal damages only.<sup>3</sup> Special damages must be specially alleged,<sup>4</sup> and money paid to recover possession of the property cannot be recovered in the absence of a sufficient allegation of duress.<sup>5</sup> Under some circumstances damages for a wrongful attachment may be recovered by way of set-off.<sup>6</sup> A cause of action for maliciously suing an attachment cannot be joined with one on an indemnifying bond.<sup>7</sup>

Evidence and questions of fact.<sup>8</sup>—The burden of proving the wrongfulness of the attachment is on the party alleging it,<sup>9</sup> and so also as to an allegation of fraud in the attachment,<sup>10</sup> and one who has confused property subject to levy with that not subject has the burden of identifying the latter.<sup>11</sup> The burden of proving that negated the validity of verbal agreements relative to the sale. Tripp Bros. v. Hymer, 30 Ky. L. R. 624, 99 S. W. 330. In suit by bona fide purchaser to restrain attachment proceedings, the burden on defendant to prove that his attachment was without notice of complainant's deed was sustained by uncontroverted averments of answer, though such notice was alleged in complaint and was denied in the answer, absence of notice in such case being an affirmative defense which was admitted by complainant's failure to deny it, and the averments of the complaint not being a sufficient denial. Haines v. Connell [Or.] 87 P. 265.

96. Evidence in trover against sheriff by attachment defendant's mortgage held not to show that return was not made in attachment suit, but, on the contrary, to show that such return was made, and hence sheriff was not deprived of protection of attachment writ or of right to assert invalidity of mortgage. Ryan v. Young [Ala.] 41 So. 954.

1. Allegation of levy and seizure under attachment sufficiently shows dispossession and invasion of the plaintiff's rights, the only method of attaching personality being by taking actual possession of them. O'Brien v. Quinn [Mont.] 90 P. 166.

2. Plaintiff, where property was attached as belonging to another, need not make verified third party claim under Code Civ. Proc. § 906, at least where his title is denied by defendant's answer. O'Brien v. Quinn [Mont.] 90 P. 166.

10. In action on replevin bond the burden of showing fraud in attachment proceedings relied on by defendant as justification for the replevy is on the plaintiff. Smith v. Berz, 125 Ill. App. 122.

11. Where defendant in action on replevin bond, having such burden, falls to identify the attachment was without notice of the plaintiff's title is on the defendant.<sup>12</sup> Evidence of submission of the cause to competent counsel and acting on his advice is admissible to rebut allegations of malice.<sup>13</sup> In trover against the officer by a mortgagee of the property, the defendant may show that the property was left in the possession of the mortgagor,<sup>14</sup> and the attachment writ, when properly identified,<sup>15</sup> is admissible under the general issue.<sup>16</sup> The general rules as to secondary evidence apply,<sup>17</sup> and as to conflicting evidence.<sup>18</sup> The sufficiency of the evidence is treated elsewhere.<sup>19</sup>

Instructions.<sup>20</sup>

Damages.<sup>21</sup>—The plaintiff in an action for wrongful attachment must have done everything reasonably possible to avoid damage,<sup>22</sup> and only such loss as is caused to the plaintiff himself is allowable.<sup>23</sup> In such an action only actual, compensatory damages can be recovered in the absence of fraud, malice, oppression, or other special aggravation,<sup>24</sup> and substantial damages will not be allowed on account of the mere issuance of the writ without other evidence of actual<sup>25</sup> damages, and where actual damages are not shown, exemplary damages cannot be allowed.<sup>26</sup> In some states exemplary damages are not allowable in any case in a common-law action for wrongful attachment unless authorized by statute.<sup>27</sup> Only such damages can be recovered as naturally and proximately result from the issuance of the attachment and the taking and detention of the property, and the measure of damages for the taking and detention is the value of the use of the property,<sup>28</sup> some-with reasonable certainty the property not subject to the levy, he cannot complain of charge to jury to find value of all the property at the date of the levy. Mugge v. Jackson [Fla.] 43 So. 91.

§ 2. Duties, privileges, and disabilities.<sup>43</sup>—An attorney at law is an officer of the court.<sup>44</sup> He is, however, charged with specific duties to his client and cannot be held in contempt for their proper and respectful performance.<sup>45</sup> It is not reversible error to permit an attorney in a criminal case to testify as a witness.<sup>46</sup> He is, however, held to a high standard of ethics in the conduct of his business.<sup>47</sup> An attorney, by virtue of his admission to the bar, acquires a right of office to appear in all courts of record of the state,<sup>48</sup> but an attorney who is confined in jail pending an appeal from a conviction of felony, without bail, may be forbidden by the court to appear as counsel for another.<sup>49</sup>

§ 3. Suspension and disbarment. Grounds.<sup>50</sup> Proceedings in general.<sup>51</sup>—Statutes regulating the suspension and removal of attorneys from their office are penal in their nature and should be strictly construed,<sup>52</sup> though it has been held that a statute providing for the disbarment of attorneys does not limit the court's power of disbarment to the causes specifically mentioned therein, but an attorney may be disbarred for any good cause.<sup>53</sup> Attempting under guise of professional duty to subvert justice,<sup>54</sup> infidelity to clients,<sup>55</sup> defrauding client,<sup>56</sup> conversion of

52. In re Bickley, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 129. A charge of unprofessional conduct involving moral turpitude, which sets forth conduct which does not involve a professional act, but the conduct of an attorney as a private citizen, is insufficient in law and does not state a cause under the statute, for removal or suspension from office and a demurrer thereto will be sustained although the act charged amounts to a crime involving moral turpitude. Collecting exorbitant attorney's fee from himself as administrator. Id. But for an attorney, who is an administrator, to falsely represent to creditors of the estate that he had been ordered by the probate court appointing him to pay but three per cent. interest on a note, when in fact no such order had ever been made, as he well knew, is unprofessional conduct involving moral turpitude for which he will be held to answer. Id.

53. Ingersoll v. Coal Creek Coal Co. [Tenn.] 98 S. W. 178. A statute providing for the suspension or removal of an attorney for any violation of his oath, or of his duties as attorney, includes all acts involving his honesty or reliability in his professional capacity. State v. Martin [Wash.] 87 P. 1054.

54. An attorney, who goes to another state to prevent an extradition of his client, and after obtaining bail for him conspires to get him to a foreign country, and when forced to return endeavors to avoid the officers by an assumed name, should be disbarred. In re Kaffenburgh, 115 App. Div. 346, 101 N. Y. S. 507. The submission by an attorney to a litigant of a third party's proposition, to change the opinion of the court which had been found but not rendered, is ground for disbarment. People v. Reaugh, 224 Ill. 541, 79 N. E. 936. After an attorney has been instructed by his client to discontinue an action as he had no just claim, and his associate counsel has withdrawn from the case, it is ground for suspension for him to make affidavit that his client had a good cause of action, and that another attorney was counsel, and thereby obtain an order to extend time to serve complaints. In re Hansen, 105 N. Y. S. 159. Suspension for ninety days for commission of perjury under extenuating circumstances. State v. Tanner [Or.] 88 P. 301. Though improper, it is not ground for disbarment for an attorney to pay money as a consideration for the withdrawal of a criminal charge against his client, without distinctly informing the magistrate of the circumstances. In re Woytisek, 105 N. Y. S. 144.

55. Attorney may be deprived of license for unprofessional conduct in acting for both parties to a suit without reasonable excuse. People v. Keithley, 225 Ill. 30, 80 N. E. 50.

56. Disbarment for willful misconduct in office. State Board of Examiners in Law v. Byrnes, 100 Minn. 76, 110 N. W. 341.

client's money,<sup>57</sup> intrusion into a case,<sup>58</sup> procuring admission to practice by fraud,<sup>59</sup> or practicing under the name of one who has been disbarred,<sup>60</sup> are among the grounds for suspension or disbarment. It is no defense, to disbarment proceedings for forging legal papers, that the defendant believed them to be mere antiquated matters of form and not binding and that he benefited the state by such act.<sup>61</sup> For an attorney to undertake the defense of a case with the prosecution of which he has previously been concerned is not necessarily ground for disbarment.<sup>62</sup> Suspension in one Federal circuit does not require like action in another.<sup>63</sup> In Kentucky it is held that an attorney cannot be disbarred for a crime not connected with his professional conduct,<sup>64</sup> but the general rule is otherwise,<sup>65</sup> and neither acquittal<sup>66</sup> nor pardon<sup>67</sup> of the criminal offense will prevent disbarment.

Procedure.—Disbarment charges should be clear, specific, and stated with great particularity, that the defendant may be fully appraised of their nature and enabled to prepare his defense, and to authorize a disbarment not only must the improper act be clearly proved but also the bad or fraudulent motive for its commission.<sup>68</sup> If deficient, charges are subject to demurrer.<sup>69</sup> Attorneys are presumed to be innocent of disbarment charges, hence, to warrant a disbarment, the court should be satisfied to a reasonable certainty that they are true.<sup>70</sup> Disbarment proceedings may be instituted on motion of the members of a county bar association where the statute

57. An attorney will be disbarred for converting money collected for his client to his own use, and for receiving money for costs to prosecute an appeal and pay the court stenographer, and failing to pay the costs and stenographer thereby causing his client to pay the judgment and costs. In re Stern, 105 N. Y. S. 199. The misconduct of an attorney in converting $1,389.63 intrusted to him for deposit by a client not restoring it until under stress of commitment for contempt six years later, and in giving false testimony relative thereto, is ground for disbarment. In re Cohn, 105 N. Y. S. 84.

58. Three years' suspension. State v. Martin [Wash.] 87 P. 1054.

59. An attorney who was admitted to practice on a showing that he had practiced in another state, suppressing the fact that subsequently he had been removed from the bar of that state, where he had practiced under an assumed name, should be disbarred. In re Marx, 115 App. Div. 448, 101 N. Y. S. 680. In disbarment proceedings on the ground that the attorney when admitted to practice concealed the fact that he had been disbarred in another state for manufacturing a divorce decree and delivering it to his client, it is no excuse that his client knew that the paper was void and not a bona fide decree. Id.

60. It is also ground for disbarment for an attorney to practice under the assumed name of one who has been suspended from practice for conviction of crime, and even if a statute permit the carrying on of a business under an assumed name, it does not apply to attorneys, as practicing law is not a business. In re Kaffenburgh, 115 App. Div. 346, 101 N. Y. S. 507; In re Kaffenburgh, 188 N. Y. 49, 80 N. E. 570.

61. Ex parte Turner [Or.] 89 P. 426.

62. Not ground for disbarment for an ex-district attorney to defend an accused against whom he had filed the information while district attorney, where the court permitted it without objection from the new prosecutor. People v. Johnson [Colo.] 90 P. 1038.

63. Not ground for disbarment of attorneys by a Federal court that the circuit court of appeals of another circuit has suspended them indefinitely for filing a brief containing scandalous and insulting matter. In re Watt, 149 F. 1009.

64. Making a false affidavit in a case in which he was not acting as counsel. Beckner v. Com. [Ky.] 103 S. W. 378.

65. See note 3 C. L. 378.

66. People v. Thomas [Colo.] 91 P. 36.

67. But where he avers that he did not get a fair trial, and was pardoned because innocent, judgment should not be given on the pleadings, and he should be allowed to offer proof of his defense. People v. Burton [Colo.] 88 P. 1063.

68. But an appellate court will not interfere with the conclusions of the lower court upon the evidence unless it be insufficient to support them. Zachary v. State [Fla.] 43 So. 925; In re Kaffenburgh, 188 N. Y. 49, 80 N. E. 570.

69. An appellate court will not reverse the lower court for overruling a demurrer to part of disbarment charges where there was sufficient evidence introduced under the part not demurred to to justify the disbarment. State v. Martin [Wash.] 87 P. 1054. Though the Ohio statutes make no provision for any demurrer to be filed to a charge of disbarment, the right is indirectly recognized in that state. In re Bickley, 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 129.

70. In re Parsons [Mont.] 90 P. 163. They must be clearly and satisfactorily established. People v. Thornton [Ill.] 81 N. E. 793. Insufficiency of proof of fraudulent misappropriation of client's money. Bar Ass'n of Boston v. Casey [Mass.] 81 N. E. 892. Sufficient proof of unprofessional conduct. People v. Stirten, 224 Ill. 636, 79 N. E. 969. Insufficiency of proof that attorney fraudulently collected money from his client under false representation that it was required for costs. People v. Johnson [Colo.] 90 P. 1038.

requires them to be instituted on the court's own motion or on information of another.<sup>71</sup> Where the accused is acquitted, there is no necessity of perpetuating the evidence.<sup>72</sup>

§ 4. Creation and termination of relation with client.<sup>73</sup>—The relation of attorney and client can only be created by contract, express or implied,<sup>74</sup> but in some states the court may appoint an attorney to defend an accused, who is unable to employ counsel, and the legislature may adopt reasonable regulations for such appointment. The assistance of counsel, however, cannot be forced on an accused not desiring it.<sup>75</sup> A client may employ one or more attorneys to represent him, and the fact that he has one attorney does not deprive him of the right to employ others.<sup>76</sup> Any person competent to contract may employ counsel for himself,<sup>77</sup> and a fiduciary has been held entitled to do so without leave of court.<sup>78</sup> A contract for legal services is personal in its nature, hence it cannot be assigned by one party without the other's consent,<sup>79</sup> and is annulled by death.<sup>80</sup> An attorney's relation to a suit is terminated by an assignment of the judgment by his client, unless he be re-employed by the assignee.<sup>81</sup> A client may dispense with his attorney's services at will, subject to the latter's lien, upon funds brought into court or judgment obtained through his services.<sup>82</sup>

Substitution<sup>83</sup> of one attorney for another will only be authorized by the court on the giving of security by the client to protect the rights of the discharged attorney.<sup>84</sup>

§ 5. Rights, duties, and liabilities between attorney and client. Loyalty and good faith.<sup>85</sup>—In making contracts of employment with clients, attorneys should exercise the highest order of good faith and disclose all information in their possession which might influence the client in entering into or declining to execute the contract.<sup>86</sup> Also, after the relation of attorney and client is established, the highest degree of good faith is required from the attorney.<sup>87</sup> He cannot represent

76. An Indian nation is entitled to the same privilege. Love v. Peel, 79 Ark. 366, 95 S. W. 998.

77. An incompetent person, prior to judicial determination of his incompetency, has a right to employ an attorney, such a contract being at most only voidable, and even after being declared incompetent he may in effect retain counsel to secure his release or discharge. But the determination of a client's incompetency terminates the relation. In re Stenton, 53 Misc. 515, 105 N. Y. S. 295.

78. Personal representatives have a right to employ counsel without an order of court authorizing it. Ward v. Koenig [Md.] 67 A. 236.

79. Corson v. Lewis [Neb.] 109 N. W. 735.

80. The death of an attorney terminates all rights under his contract of employment, although his fee was to be contingent, and his personal representatives have no right to employ another attorney to perform the services contracted for. Rights of representatives in event of such employment, as to advancements, etc. Love v. Peel, 79 Ark. 366, 95 S. W. 998.

81. In such case the attorney is not disqualified to purchase real estate sold to satisfy the judgment after the termination of his attorneyship. Caldwell v. Bigger [Kan.] 90 P. 1055.

82. The right to control the discharge of an attorney is within the discretion of the court trying the case, and will not be reviewed unless it clearly appears that such discretion was abused. Kelly v. Horsley [Ala.] 41 So. 902. Mandamus will not lie to compel the lower court to refuse to recognize the discharge of an attorney until his fees are paid, where there is an adequate remedy at law to recover them. Id.

both sides of a litigated case,<sup>88</sup> and if he has been employed by one side and been paid by them, he cannot accept a retainer from the other side, though in performing the new duties he violates no confidence of his first client.<sup>89</sup>

Diligence.<sup>90</sup>—An attorney is liable to his clients for failure to exercise ordinary care, skill, and diligence,<sup>91</sup> but the failure of an attorney to undertake and attempt to prove a futile defense involves no lack of reasonable diligence or breach of professional duty to his client,<sup>92</sup> nor is an attorney liable for negligence of the clerk of court.<sup>93</sup>

Dealings between attorney and client<sup>94</sup> should be closely scrutinized by the court, and the client should be relieved from any undue consequences where the good faith of such dealings does not clearly appear.<sup>95</sup> To insure his fidelity to his client an attorney will be prevented from profiting from a sale of his client's property which he was employed to prevent,<sup>96</sup> nor will the client be bound by recognition of the attorney's title to property which he has improperly acquired from the client,<sup>97</sup> nor can an attorney act for his own profit in a transaction which he might have turned to the profit of his client, if such transaction was within the purview of his employment.<sup>98</sup>

tention of $15 as fee for collection of $66 by suit held not bad faith on part of an attorney. Davis v. Farwell [Vt.] 67 A. 129.

88. But the dismissal of a suit by defendant's attorney under authority from plaintiff is not an improper representation of both parties. Ex parte Randall [Ala.] 42 So. 870.

89. A settlement by an attorney representing both sides of the controversy is void. Whitcomb v. Collier [Iowa] 110 N. W. 836. Attorneys for a testatrix in a transaction between her and her confidential adviser may also act for him in drawing the necessary papers to effect their purpose and give him the necessary advice for his protection. *Taylor v. It is for the jury to decide whether an attorney is liable for neglect of duty in advising his client to plead guilty to a misdemeanor, which has been settled with the person injured and the indictment for which was clearly insufficient. Cleveland v. Cromwell, 110 App. Div. 82, 96 N. Y. S. 475.

92. Reich v. Cochran, 102 N. Y. S. 827.

93. An attorney for a judgment creditor who receives a draft payable to the order of the clerk of the court for the amount of the judgment and delivers it to such clerk is not responsible for the latter's misappropriation thereof. Missouri, etc., R. Co. v. Ferris [Tex. Civ. App.] 99 S. W. 896.

94. See 7 C. L. 326.

cured by unfair dealing of attorney with client. Holtzman v. Linton, 27 App. D. C. 241.

96. If, after agreeing to purchase property of his clients for their protection, the attorney purchases it for himself, such purchase inures to the client's benefit to the amount of the surplus value over the amount paid by the attorney. Nichols v. Riley, 103 N. Y. S. 554. An attorney who purchases land belonging to his client, after having improperly caused it to be sold under execution, acquires no rights as against his client. Misrepresentations by attorney to client. Bucher v. Hohl, 199 Mo. 320, 97 S. W. 922.

98. Where an attorney for a judgment creditor purchases the debtor's land at an execution sale, he is presumed to purchase it for his client's benefit. Malone's Committee v. Lebus, 29 Ky. L. R. 800, 96 S. W. 519. But an attorney who purchases land, after the refusal of his client to purchase it at his advice, does not hold it in trust for such client. Webber v. Wannemaker [Colo.] 89 P. 780. Where an attorney employed to purchase land for his client buys it for himself and takes a deed in the name of a third party, who sells it to the client at a large advance, the latter may recover from his attorney the difference in price. Roberts v. Gates, 146 Mich. 169, 13 Det. Leg. N. 724, 109 N. W. 264. An allegation that an attorney in purchasing land acted for his client and holds it in trust for him, but which fails to allege fraud or wrong on the attorney's part, is insufficient. *Webber v. credited as such, an inference is justified that the amount thereof was agreed upon.<sup>2</sup> An attorney who collected money for a client, who afterwards went into bankruptcy, is justified in refusing to pay the money to the trustee until his compensation is ascertained.<sup>3</sup>

A client may compromise or dismiss<sup>4</sup> a claim or suit, without or against the consent of his attorney, even after the action has commenced, if not done for the purpose of depriving the attorney of his compensation,<sup>5</sup> and a contract, providing that the client shall not dismiss or settle a suit prior to the rendition of judgment, is against public policy and void,<sup>6</sup> but a collusive settlement between the parties to defraud plaintiff's attorney may be set aside and the attorney allowed to proceed in his client's name to determine and recover the amount of his fee.<sup>7</sup> Though a party may appear by attorney or in his own proper person, he cannot do both, and if he have an attorney of record he can act only through him, and the court will not recognize any other person as having control of the action.<sup>8</sup>

§ 6. Remedies between the parties.<sup>9</sup>—An attorney may be compelled by summary proceedings to pay over money belonging to his client if it came through his employment in his professional character,<sup>10</sup> and the order therein may be enforced by contempt proceedings,<sup>11</sup> but the client's right to such summary proceeding is not absolute, and is subject to the court's discretion,<sup>12</sup> the alternative remedy, being by accounting.<sup>13</sup> On a motion for the summary discharge of an attorney, the question whether he has broken his contract of employment will not be determined where the facts are in dispute, but will be left for determination in a plenary action for the breach.<sup>14</sup> The lien of an attorney on a fund in his hands does not prevent an action by his client to recover such fund.<sup>15</sup> In New York, where an attorney retains money collected, claiming a lien thereon, the supreme court has jurisdiction to determine the amount to which the attorney is entitled and to summarily order payment of the balance.<sup>16</sup>

against public policy and void, as it amounts to an employment to collect the fruits of a crime for compensation.<sup>33</sup> A contract to assist in defending a suit is not limited to services in actual trial, but also contemplates the rendition of services necessary in preparing therefor.<sup>34</sup> An attorney who renders services to a county, under a contract which was void for want of authority, cannot retain part of the overery as compensation under an implied contract.<sup>35</sup> Nor is a county liable for the services of a special attorney relating to matters in charge of the county solicitor, unless there has been a special contract entered into between him and the proper county authorities prior to the rendition of the services.<sup>36</sup>

Contingent fees.<sup>37</sup>—If an agreement for such fees is invalid it is because it violates the law against champertous contracts, and the subject is accordingly elsewhere treated.<sup>38</sup> The right of an attorney to demand payment for his services depends upon whether he was employed, and he cannot recover from one who did not employ him, however valuable the result of his services may have been to such person, especially if the person was not a party to the suit.<sup>39</sup> Nor do third parties become liable to an attorney for fees by reason of the fact that they are equally interested in the case with his clients and accept the benefit of his services.<sup>40</sup> But a person consulting an attorney concerning property of another is personally liable for the legal services where the ownership of the property was not known by, or disclosed to, the attorney,<sup>41</sup> and one employing another is not relieved by the fact that his services were to be rendered for the benefit of a third person.<sup>42</sup> An attorney is not precluded from recovery for services by his failure to make a charge when they were rendered, as the debt is not created by a charge but precedes it.<sup>43</sup>

Quantum meruit.<sup>44</sup>—An attorney whose services are accepted and are satisfactory is entitled to reasonable compensation therefor, though there was no specific contract as to his fee.<sup>45</sup> An attorney for defendant in a criminal prosecution has a right to quit his client's service where the latter attempts to modify the contract of employment so as to make the fee contingent upon his acquittal; and such withdrawal does not preclude the attorney from recovering at least for the services performed.<sup>46</sup> Where a client agrees to a fee account but refused to pay it because of other items charged, the attorney cannot recover on a quantum meruit.<sup>47</sup>

The amount of allowance by court.<sup>63</sup>—An order of court fixing an allowance for attorney's fees is presumptive evidence that they are not exorbitant, but is not conclusive against persons not parties to the suit.<sup>64</sup> The extent of the assets coming into the hands of the receiver may be considered in fixing the amount to be allowed as attorney's fees, but the amount should be fixed at a sum which would have been a reasonable charge against their own clients for the services rendered.<sup>65</sup> The United States Bankruptcy Act, providing for the allowance of reasonable attorney's fee, does not authorize an allowance for all legal work the attorney may do, but only for that required by the provisions of the law and the necessities of the proceeding.<sup>66</sup> A judgment will not be reversed for a slightly excessive allowance in taxing the attorney's fee.<sup>67</sup>

Evidence as to value of services.<sup>68</sup>—In fixing an attorney's fee the court may hear evidence as to the value of his services.<sup>69</sup> The testimony of expert lawyers is admissible as to the value of legal services.<sup>70</sup> In fixing the value of legal services, the nature of the controversy, the results dependent thereon, the magnitude of the interests involved, and the responsibility assumed, should all be considered.<sup>71</sup> In

Proceedings to recover.<sup>73</sup>—An attorney may sue his client for breach of contract of employment for not paying an agreed retainer, for the loss of contingent fees contracted for, and for money expended under an agreement to reimburse him.<sup>74</sup> Where there is no dispute as to the agreed amount, but only as to the mode, time, and condition of payment, a judgment for less than the agreed fee is erroneous.<sup>75</sup> In an action for legal services the defendant is entitled to offset money collected and not turned over to him.<sup>76</sup> In a suit for legal services in defending an action, under a contract by which the fee was to be fixed after an investigation of the matter, an answer that no services had been performed and that the contract had been canceled by agreement is not objectionable.<sup>77</sup> A defense which is not pleaded, in a suit to recover for attorney's services, cannot be proved.<sup>78</sup> In a suit to recover for services rendered in a Federal court, proof of services in another action in a state court is inadmissible.<sup>79</sup> Where an attorney fully performs his contract until discharged without cause, his measure of damages is the unpaid balance which was agreed upon.<sup>80</sup> In an action for legal services the plaintiff is not required to specify the charge for each item of service rendered, but only the value of each service performed as far as he is able.<sup>81</sup> Where the parties to a suit settle it without the knowledge of plaintiff's attorney, he may, under the Kentucky statute, proceed against the defendant in the original action if still pending, or bring an independent suit against him.<sup>82</sup> An attorney who has contracted for one-half the recovery is entitled to one-half of a compromise made without his consent, but cannot recover for more except by suing for breach of contract in another suit.<sup>83</sup> In an action by an attorney against his client for breach of contract, the burden is on the defendant to prove that he was induced to enter into it by fraud.<sup>84</sup>

Lien.<sup>85</sup>—In the absence of statute, an attorney's lien on his client's cause of action but only on the fruits thereof.<sup>86</sup> It is held in Minnesota that an attorney's lien cannot be created upon a mere right of action for a personal tort.<sup>87</sup> Attorneys may assert a lien on money in their hands as attorneys, for services not paid for, and hold it until their compensation be agreed upon and paid or tendered.<sup>88</sup> An attorney has a lien on a judgment obtained by him for his client for services in the case, the amount of which is fixed by special contract, though under the terms of the contract payment cannot be had until the money is actually recovered.<sup>89</sup> But an attorney who defends an action to recover land is not entitled to a lien thereon, though he succeeds in saving it.<sup>90</sup> Drafts placed with the owner's attorney, in order that the owner might realize on them and apply the money to the payment of debts as he thought best and to prevent the fund from being levied on, are not subject to a lien for services of the attorney.<sup>91</sup> An attorney's lien on a judgment is assignable and may be enforced by the assignee, though the assignor by his assignment has lost the right to enforce it.<sup>92</sup> Where, pending an appeal, the parties settle the claim without fraud or collusion, the appellant's counsel has no lien that entitles him to enter judgment against the appellee for his fee.<sup>93</sup> A defendant who clandestinely settles with plaintiff and agrees to settle the lien of his attorney, which was for one-half of the recovery, is liable to such attorney for an amount equal to that paid plaintiff.<sup>94</sup> If a settlement between litigants be honestly made, and plaintiff's attorneys was to receive a percentage of recovery, the amount of his lien is controlled by the settlement, and not by a judgment which has not become final.<sup>95</sup> Attorneys have a lien upon all suits brought by them and all judgments obtained upon a real cause of action, in behalf of their clients, but they have no right to enforce a judgment obtained by surprise when the defendant has been, by the act of their client, deprived of the right to be heard on the existence of a cause of action at the time of their employment and the institution of the suit.<sup>96</sup> Statutes providing for attorney's liens are constitutional, remedial, and should be liberally

E. 276. But if a client has to expend money to realize on a judgment for the common benefit of himself and his attorney, the latter must contribute ratably to his share of such expense. Id. construed.<sup>97</sup> The Missouri statute providing for attorney's liens is not invalid either as class legislation, or as destroying defendant's right to contract; nor does it violate the constitutional requirement that no bill contain but one subject, clearly expressed in its title.<sup>98</sup> An attorney's lien under the Kentucky statute cannot be divested by a compromise between the parties without the attorney's knowledge or consent, unless made in good faith without the payment of anything of value.<sup>99</sup> An attorney employed on a contingent fee has no lien for his services before judgment, under the Oregon statute.<sup>1</sup> In Alabama no attorney's lien attaches to lands or any other thing except moneyed judgments.<sup>2</sup> Under the Arkansas statute, a defendant who compromises a case with one of plaintiff's attorneys, knowing that another of plaintiff's attorneys has contracted for a contingent fee, is liable to such other attorney for a reasonable fee.<sup>3</sup> The lien of plaintiff's attorney, under the New York statute, attaches to the fund in litigation, and is not affected by defendant paying all of it to plaintiff under a settlement.<sup>4</sup>

Loss of lien.<sup>5</sup>—An attorney releases his lien by acceding to his client's demand that he pay over the amount collected, but he does not thereby disentitle himself to any claim for the services rendered.<sup>6</sup> The termination of the relation of attorney and client by the client's being declared insane does not destroy the attorney's lien,<sup>7</sup> nor does the assignment of the judgment after plaintiff's attorneys have filed their lien thereon,<sup>8</sup> and the lien attaches to money paid into court to satisfy the judgment.<sup>9</sup>

Enforcement of lien.<sup>10</sup>—If an attorney render services in a court having no jurisdiction to enforce his lien, he may maintain an action thereon in a court having such jurisdiction.<sup>11</sup> A proceeding to enforce an attorney's lien, being in rem against the fund, may be maintained in the state court where the original suit was brought, though the defendant be a foreign corporation, and before the settlement the suit was removed to a Federal court.<sup>12</sup> Where parties to a suit compromise it between Jurisdiction of Missouri supreme court to determine issue raised to establish attorney's lien. Wait v. Atchison, etc., R. Co. [Mo.] 103 S. W. 60. An attorney's lien may be established in equity where the law gives no adequate remedy, and if, pending an appeal, the suit be settled without his assent, such settlement will be set aside to the extent of his lien, and the lien is enforceable by execution in the original suit. Id.

12. Oishel v. Bonaddio, 117 App. Div. 110, 102 N. Y. S. 368. The New York statute providing for an attorney's lien on the client's cause of action creates a right and themselves, the right of an attorney to enforce his lien is regulated by statute in some states,<sup>13</sup> and summary proceedings for the enforcement of liens are sometimes authorized.<sup>14</sup> A judgment obtained by an attorney to enforce his lien on the proceeds of a settlement between the parties need not provide that execution shall first issue against his client who was insolvent and without the state, though all the proceeds were paid to him.<sup>15</sup> Where there are mutual judgments, an attorney's lien against one of them is subject to the right to set off the judgments.<sup>16</sup>

§ 8. Authority of attorney to represent client. Creation, proof, and termination of authority.<sup>17</sup>—The professional obligations of an attorney at law raise a presumption that he has authority from his client to institute a suit or appear in a pending case in his client's behalf,<sup>18</sup> though the filing of an affidavit or other evidence of authority is sometimes required.<sup>19</sup> Though an attorney be generally retained, his assumption of authority to act for his client outside of the due and orderly conduct of litigation, does not create a presumption of actual authority.<sup>20</sup> The authority of an attorney is not terminated by judgment in the cause so long as the court retains control thereof.<sup>21</sup>

Where the parties to a suit compromise it, and the plaintiff is insolvent, his attorney may recover from the defendant in a separate action the percentage of recovery agreed to be paid him by plaintiff without further prosecution of his clients' suit. Taylor v. St. Louis Transit Co., 198 Mo. 715, 97 S. W. 155. In an action by plaintiff's attorney to enforce his lien under the New York statute, where there has been a settlement between the parties, the plaintiff is a necessary party. Oishei v. Bonaddio, 117 App. Div. 110, 102 N. Y. S. 368. Under the New York statute providing that an attorney's lien on his client's cause of action from the commencement thereof cannot be affected by any settlement between the parties, testamentary trustees who were sued for an accounting and construction of the will, and the suit discontinued by consent, are not proper parties to a proceeding to fix the lien of plaintiff's attorney; but after the amount is established the attorney may present his claim against the estate. Sullivan v. McCann, 115 App. Div. 146, 100 N. Y. S. 739. In discontinuing a partition suit pursuant to a settlement between the parties, the court can only impose a lien for the services of defendant's attorney on his client's interest in the land. *Horn v. he had no authority to make, nor can such a contract be ratified by any other authority than the legislature.<sup>51</sup> The Indiana statute authorizing the attorney general to employ assistants does not empower him to continue such employment beyond his official term.<sup>52</sup> The employment of an attorney for a private interest to assist in the prosecution of a suit by the United States in the public interest is in the discretion of the attorney general, and should not influence the action of the court if the object of the private party and the United States is one and the same.<sup>53</sup> Though a court may compel an attorney general to grant leave to prosecute a suit, it should only do so where his refusal of such leave is extreme and clearly indefensible.<sup>54</sup>

(§ 11) B. District and state's or prosecuting attorneys.<sup>55</sup>—A constitutional provision that county attorneys may be elected or appointed as provided by law does not create such office until the legislature determines it is elective or appointive.<sup>56</sup> Prosecuting attorneys are usually so far regarded as general officers that their compensation must be fixed by general law,<sup>57</sup> and their districts need not be coterminous with those of the court in which they act.<sup>58</sup> Special prosecutors appointed on the disqualification of the regular attorney<sup>59</sup> have all the power for the purposes of the case that the regular prosecutor would have had,<sup>60</sup> but have no authority to take charge of any other matter before the grand jury.<sup>61</sup> A statute imposing on a county from which venue is changed costs of criminal trials does not include the fees of a special prosecutor appointed on disqualification of the district attorney.<sup>62</sup> A county attorney who is required to institute proceedings for the benefit of the county may bind the county to pay the necessary and reasonable expenses thereof,<sup>63</sup> but a statute providing that all necessary expenses incurred by

57. Prosecuting attorneys are not local officers, but are a part of the permanent organization of the government of the state, hence a statute providing for their compensation, which specifies the maximum amount thereof in certain counties, and fixes the salary in other counties on a basis of population, is unconstitutional and void as being a law of a general nature lacking uniform operation throughout the state. State v. Lucas County Com'rs, 7 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 519.

Barber* [Idaho] 88 P. 418. Under a statute providing for the appointment of a special prosecuting attorney when the regular prosecutor's interest in a case is inconsistent with his official duties, a recital that the regular prosecutor had been employed by defendant is sufficient to sustain the appointment. Sale.<sup>87</sup>—The authority of the auctioneer may be revoked any time before a valid sale is consummated,<sup>88</sup> especially if the revocation is brought home to the bidder.<sup>89</sup> Until accepted a bid is a mere offer, and the property may be withdrawn by the auctioneer<sup>90</sup> unless he is bound to sell.<sup>91</sup> Where a sale is upon condition that the purchase money be paid in cash or by a secured note, title does not pass until the production of such note, if possession of the property is retained.<sup>92</sup>

BAIL, CIVIL.<sup>23</sup>

§ 1. Jurisdiction to Grant (319).

§ 2. Rights and Liabilities of Sureties on Bail Bonds and Recognizance (319).

The law of arrest in civil cases, including the bond given on discharge of insolvent debtor from body execution, where that practice obtains, is elsewhere treated.<sup>99</sup>

§ 1. Jurisdiction to grant.—Where the warrant of arrest issues from a Federal court, application for bail must be made to a United States commissioner.<sup>1</sup>

§ 2. Rights and liabilities of sureties on bail bonds and recognizance. Validity of bond.—A valid recognizance can only be entered into on a legal arrest.<sup>2</sup> and the invalidity of the arrest is not waived by an application to take the poor debtor's oath.<sup>3</sup> Mere irregularities in procedure do not affect the validity of the bond.<sup>4</sup>

Surrender of principal.—The right of the bail to the custody of and the power to seize and surrender his principal is incidental to the relation.<sup>5</sup>

Breach.—Where a defendant was not originally liable to arrest, he surely cannot be held even upon a surrender of him by his sureties.<sup>6</sup> The failure of the defendant to surrender within the time<sup>7</sup> and in the manner<sup>8</sup> provided by law, and to render himself amenable to such process as is contemplated by the bond,<sup>9</sup> constitutes a breach, and the burden is upon the debtor to see that all conditions relative thereto are complied with.<sup>10</sup> Discharge by a court having jurisdiction cannot constitute a breach.<sup>11</sup> Where petition for discharge is denied, no order of remand is necessary to constitute defendant's failure to surrender a breach of the bond.<sup>12</sup>

Conclusiveness of judgment against principal.—The judgment against the principal is conclusive upon the surety in an action on the bond.<sup>13</sup>

Discharge.—Surrender of the principal by the bail releases the latter from

7. The default of the debtor fixes the liability of the sureties on his recognizance. Sureties on recognizance of poor debtor. Carpenter v. Goddard, 191 Mass. 54, 76 N. E. 953. Bond of insolvent debtor, conditioned upon his surrender in default of obtaining his discharge upon a day certain, is forfeited where he does not surrender within statutory period after the entry of order denying discharge, irrespective of notice of such entry. Surrender within eight days after entry of order and immediately upon obtaining knowledge of its entry is not a defense in action on bond, the statute requiring surrender within forty-eight hours after entry of order. Marks v. Willenski, 31 Pa. Super. Ct. 177.

8. Surrender by principal within required time after his arrest does not release bail where no notice thereof was given to judgment creditor. Ryder v. Ouellette [Mass.] 79 N. E. 820.

9. Under a bond conditioned that defendant at all times render himself amenable to such process as might be issued to enforce the judgment, the fact that he was in attendance upon court during term in which judgment was rendered and for a short time thereafter is not a defense. Banning v. Roy [Or.] 82 P. 708.

10. Debtor takes upon himself the risk of proper notice being given. That court refused to issue notice is not a defense. Ryder v. Ouellette [Mass.] 79 N. E. 820.

further liability,<sup>14</sup> if in the manner provided by law,<sup>15</sup> hence, when the right of the bail to seize and surrender his principal has ceased, the relation terminates.<sup>16</sup> At common law the liability of the bail is fixed by the issuance of a capias ad satisfaciendum, and the return thereof and a discharge in bankruptcy of the principal prior thereto releases the bail,<sup>17</sup> as such discharge prevents the subsequent issuance of the writ,<sup>18</sup> and the entry of a formal exoneration is not essential to the maintenance of such a defense in an action on the bond,<sup>19</sup> but an adjudication in bankruptcy of the principal subsequent to default does not affect the liability of the sureties for substantial damages.<sup>20</sup>

sulting from the grant of a certificate of reasonable doubt and not that authorized pending application for such certificate.<sup>31</sup> An order admitting to bail at a time when accused was not entitled thereto will not be affirmed, because pending the appeal he has become so entitled.<sup>32</sup> A committing magistrate is usually authorized to fix bail<sup>33</sup> after he has acquired jurisdiction of the prosecution<sup>34</sup> and before he has relinquished it.<sup>35</sup> Entering into recognizance before such magistrate to await the action of the superior court impliedly waives a commitment trial.<sup>36</sup> The sheriff is bound to accept bail in the sum fixed by the magistrate,<sup>37</sup> and on surrender by the sureties he must accept a new bond in the sum originally fixed.<sup>38</sup> United States commissioners have power to accept bail, the amount having been fixed.<sup>39</sup>

§ 2. Making of recognizance and sufficiency thereof.<sup>40</sup>—The sufficiency of a bail bond before a court of the United States is determined by the laws of the state where the proceedings takes place.<sup>41</sup> A statutory requirement that the bond state whether accused is charged with a felony or a misdemeanor is satisfied by averments from which the degree of the offense appears.<sup>42</sup> A recognizance is not invalid because the principal failed to sign.<sup>43</sup> It is sufficient if it clearly state the offense charged without mention of any particular facts,<sup>44</sup> but the offense cannot be designated by name only unless it is an offense eo nomine.<sup>45</sup> Provision for acknowledgment before magistrate does not prohibit acknowledgment before any officer authorized to administer oaths.<sup>46</sup> Unimportant errors in a bail bond do not invalidate it or release sureties, but are treated as surplusage,<sup>47</sup> and alterations in a bail bond made with the consent of the sureties do not avoid the bond.<sup>48</sup> It must contain no conditions more erroneous than the statute requires.<sup>49</sup>

One under recognizance in the United States district court may be ordered to appear in any division thereof within the district.<sup>51</sup> A recognizance is discharged by appearance at the day fixed,<sup>52</sup> or by surrender of principal and giving of new recognizance,<sup>53</sup> but a surrender to a magistrate who has no authority to receive it does not discharge sureties.<sup>54</sup> Imprisonment of principal in another county is an "uncontrollable circumstance which prevented appearance without fault on his part."<sup>55</sup> Amendment of information does not discharge sureties.<sup>56</sup> Deficiency in the acknowledgment of the bond is no defense to sureties if the bond is accepted and the principal released thereon.<sup>57</sup>

§ 4. Enforcement of bond or recognizance.<sup>58</sup>—A bail bond unsigned by the committing magistrate can be proved by his identifying the signature and stating that he saw them made by the principal and surety,<sup>59</sup> and where the bond is lost it may be proved by secondary evidence.<sup>60</sup> A judgment rendered against a surety on a recognizance was void where the record failed to show that he was a surety or that any summons had issued against him directing him to show cause why judgment should not be given against him.<sup>61</sup> The scire facias takes the place of a declaration and its sufficiency as such must be determined from its averments unaided by the record.<sup>62</sup> Scire facias is "process awarded in court" which need not be made returnable within ninety days.<sup>63</sup> Slight variance between writ and recognizance may be disregarded.<sup>64</sup> Citations issued to sureties on a forfeited recognizance must state the date of the recognizance.<sup>65</sup> Where a scire facias fails because not issued in time for the return term, a new forfeiture is not prerequisite to the ordering of a second scire facias.<sup>66</sup> Judgment of forfeiture may be rendered at the term at which scire facias is returned.<sup>67</sup> Affidavit of defense that he "never became surety for anybody by the name of" the alleged principal is not a good plea of non est factum.<sup>68</sup> An action on a forfeited recognizance not being a criminal proceeding the prosecution may appeal.<sup>69</sup> The principal and surety are liable for clerk's costs in the court of appeals although a scire facias case was on such appeal dismissed on account of the bail bond being insufficient, the rule in civil cases that appellant is primarily liable therefor being applicable.<sup>70</sup> On appeal by the state from a judgment admitting defendant to bail, it is not necessary that the state show that it reserved an exception to the judgment at the time it was rendered.<sup>71</sup> A judgment in assumpsit on a forfeited recognizance is not a judgment on contract within the Pennsylvania exemption law.<sup>72</sup>

BAILMENT.

§ 1. Definition and Mode of Creation (323).

§ 2. Rights and Liabilities as Between Bailor and Bailee (324).

§ 3. Rights and Liabilities as to Third Persons (327).

The rights and liabilities arising from particular kinds of bailments are more fully treated in topics appropriate thereto,<sup>77</sup> this topic including only the general rules and cases arising from such relations as that between storekeeper and customer around which no such body of law has gathered as to permit of topics dealing therewith.

§ 1. Definition and mode of creation.<sup>78</sup>—A bailment is a delivery<sup>79</sup> of personal property for some particular purpose,<sup>80</sup> or a mere deposit,<sup>81</sup> upon a contract express or implied that after the purpose has been fulfilled the property shall be redelivered to the person who delivered it,<sup>82</sup> or otherwise dealt with according to his directions,<sup>83</sup> or kept until he reclaims it,<sup>84</sup> as the case may be. Generally there can be no bailment unless the identical thing bailed is to be returned to the bailor,<sup>85</sup> but the rule is not absolute, as the intention with which the subject-matter is placed in the possession of, or is held, by the alleged bailee, controls.<sup>86</sup> It is often difficult to determine whether a given transaction is a bailment or a sale.<sup>87, 88</sup>

74. A Russian sailor was arrested for desertion at the instance of the vice-consul and discharged on habeas corpus. On appeal by the vice-consul the sailor gave bond to the amount of $200 pending the appeal. The case being finally remanded to the district court by the supreme court for further proceedings, the vice-consul petitioned to have the bail applied to payment of his costs as the money had been paid into court, the sailor failing to appear. The petition was denied on the ground that the money belonged to the United States. United States v. Alexanderoff, 148 F. 652.

75. Ky. Code Cr. Prac. § 96, 98. Defendant was charged with murder and gave bail and appeared at the time mentioned, but soon left the state fearing an attack on his life. The grand jury indicted him for murder and the court on his failing to appear ordered the bond forfeited, awarding summons against the sureties. Before judgment against them had been given he returned for trial explaining his absence. Held that the court did not err in setting aside the forfeiture. Commonwealth v. Hillis, 29 Ky. L. The inherent character, not the name, of the transaction must be considered,<sup>89</sup> and depends on the real intent and purpose of the contract,<sup>90</sup> being a question of law, when it turns wholly upon the construction of a written instrument,<sup>91</sup> and, in the absence of evidence of subsequent conduct of the parties, must be ascertained from the terms of the instrument.<sup>92</sup> In determining the intent, negotiations leading up to the contract out of which the litigation arises may be considered,<sup>93</sup> or, if the terms of a written instrument under which the parties act leave in doubt the true meaning and intent, resort may be had to the construction which the parties put upon it.<sup>94</sup> The relation of bailor and bailee does not exist between a passenger in a quasi public conveyance and the owner thereof.<sup>95</sup>

§ 2. Rights and liabilities as between bailor and bailee.<sup>96</sup>—Measure of damages for loss, injury, or conversion is elsewhere treated,<sup>97</sup> as are such general matters as limitations,<sup>98</sup> verdicts,<sup>99</sup> and the like. A bailee is not an insurer,<sup>1</sup> the obligation imposed by law requiring the exercise of ordinary care or diligence,<sup>2</sup> the bailment and sale is that, when the identical article is to be returned in the same or in some altered form, the contract is one of bailment, and the title to the property is not changed. On the other hand, when there is no obligation to return the specific article, and the receiver is at liberty to return another thing of value, he becomes a debtor to make the return, and the title of the property is changed, and the transaction is a sale. *Chisholm v. On the termination of the bailment it is the duty of the bailee to restore the property to the bailor within a reasonable time thereafter,<sup>27</sup> and there is an implied agreement to return property borrowed in substantially the same condition that it was received.<sup>28</sup> The right of the bailor upon duly terminating the bailment to remove the subject-matter of the bailment from premises leased by the bailee is not dependent upon his payment of rent in arrears due by the bailee, as tenant, to the owner of the premises;<sup>29</sup> nor the restoration of another's property to the place from which it was removed by the bailee upon installing the subject-matter of the bailment for his use.<sup>30</sup> Where a purchaser of goods ships them back to the seller without any notification, or any previous agreement in regard thereto, and the seller in order to protect the goods stores them, he is a gratuitous bailee, and the buyer is liable to him for necessary storage charges actually paid.<sup>31</sup>

§ 3. Rights and liabilities as to third persons.<sup>32</sup>—A bailee may recover from third person for negligent destruction of the property,<sup>35</sup> even though being a gratuitous bailee he was not liable to the bailor therefor.<sup>34</sup> It is the duty of the bailee of the finder of a bill, if he ascertains the intention of the finder to convert it, to retain the bill until the ownership is determined.<sup>35</sup> If there are rival claimants to the property bailed, the bailee may maintain a bill of interpleader to determine, in a single suit the question of ownership.<sup>36</sup> The bailor is not liable to a third person for an injury resulting from the negligent use of the property bailed if it was used at the time independently of his control and business.<sup>37</sup> A sale of the subject-matter of the bailment confers on the purchaser an immediate and valid title, and the possession of the bailee becomes that of the purchaser without any formal delivery of the subject of the bailment to him, a mere notice to the bailee of the sale being sufficient.<sup>38</sup>

General powers.<sup>46</sup>—As a general rule a bank may not engage in the business of buying and selling chattels.<sup>47</sup> It may enter into a contract of leasing for the purpose of procuring a building suitable for its own needs.<sup>48</sup> Only the state can raise the question of ultra vires as to a completed transaction.<sup>49</sup>

Personal liability and duty of officers and directors.<sup>50</sup>—The relation of officers and directors of a bank to stockholders and creditors is that of trustee<sup>51</sup> and if by their gross mismanagement and neglect loss is incurred they are liable therefor to them.<sup>52</sup> Directors of a bank are charged with the duty of reasonable supervision over its affairs.<sup>53</sup> It is their duty to use ordinary diligence in ascertaining the condition of its business.<sup>54</sup> They are not insurers or guarantors of the fidelity and proper conduct of the executive officers of the bank, and they are not responsible for losses resulting from their wrongful acts if they have exercised ordinary care as directors.<sup>55</sup> Ordinary care in this matter as in other departments of the law means that degree of care which ordinarily prudent and diligent men would exercise under similar conditions.<sup>56</sup> If nothing has come to their knowledge to awaken suspicion that something is going wrong, ordinary attention to the affairs of the institution is sufficient,<sup>57</sup> but if they know or by the exercise of ordinary care should know any facts which should awaken suspicion and put a prudent man on guard, then a degree of care commensurate with the evil to be avoided is required.<sup>58</sup> It is incumbent upon them in the exercise of ordinary prudence to cause an examination of the condition and resources of the bank to be made with reasonable frequency.<sup>59</sup> Ill health and other business engagements do not relieve a director from exercising his duties.<sup>60</sup> While a director should not be held liable for conduct of the business from the very day of his election, he becomes responsible from the time he acquires knowledge of the affairs of the bank.<sup>61</sup> In some states the liability of directors who wrongfully declare a dividend is prescribed by statute.<sup>62</sup> Directors may purchase with their own money stock owned by other stockholders at as low a price as they can.<sup>63</sup> Officers who execute their personal notes to procure funds for the bank are liable thereon,<sup>64</sup> regardless of the notice of the lender as to the character of the transaction.<sup>65</sup> The statutory liability of bank officers for deposits received after insolvency of bank is penal rather than contractual.<sup>66</sup> The members of a voluntary association are liable as partners.<sup>67</sup>

Erskine*, 131 Iowa, 444, 109 N. W. 13. Where a depositor after a conference with the president of the bank gave him a check for the amount of his deposit and receipted his personal note, believing that it was the obligation of the bank, evidence held to show that the bank was liable thereon. Patterson v. First Nat. Bk. [Neb.] 110 N. W. 721. In an action by a bank on a note given in payment of a draft on a bank which failed before the draft was presented, evidence that the director of the bank advised him to purchase the draft before it was needed is admissible if it appears that the advice was communicated to and acquiesced in by the bank. West Branch State Bank v. Haines [Iowa] 112 N. W. 552. In an action by a bank on a note given in payment of a draft on a bank which failed before it was paid, evidence held for the jury whether the bank in issuing the draft could reasonably presume that it would be honored if presented within a reasonable time. Id.

Stockholders' individual liability.<sup>92</sup>—An assessment in receivership proceeding is a proper method to enforce a stockholders' liability.<sup>93</sup> A statutory liability imposed on stockholders cannot be enforced while the bank is not dissolved until reduced to judgment.<sup>94</sup>

§ 3. National banks; officers and examiners. Powers.<sup>95</sup>—A national bank has no power to enter into a general contract of guaranty,<sup>96</sup> and if it does so the contract is ultra vires and void.<sup>97</sup> If a national bank exceeds its powers as to investment of funds it is for the government to call it to account, and private parties cannot directly or indirectly usurp this function of the government.<sup>98</sup> The statute

88. In a suit by creditors who are also directors and officers of an insolvent bank to marshal and distribute assets and charge stockholders with their statutory liability, the claims of such creditors may be postponed where it appears that the insolvency is due to their mismanagement and negligent acts. Elliott v. Farmers' Bank of Philippi [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 242.

89. The bank, its creditors or stockholders, are not estopped to offset against the debts of other claimants their indebtedness to the bank not involved nor adjudicated in a former suit between the same parties. Elliott v. Farmers' Bank [W. Va.] 57 S. E. 242.

90. Where trustees of a dissolved bank sue a stockholder to recover a dividend that should have been paid to creditors, and the complaint shows that he was not a trustee, his liability cannot be predicated on breach of duty as trustee. Daugherty v. Poundstone, 120 Mo. App. 300, 96 S. W. 728. Trustees of a dissolved bank cannot maintain suit to recover a dividend paid a stockholder which should have been applied to a judgment against the trustees in favor of a depositor whose funds had been wrongfully paid out until they have exhausted their remedy against the culpable officers. Id.

91. Their acts as directors prior to the passing of the bank into liquidation, if subject to attack by stockholders, should be advanced in some other proceeding. In re liquidation of Shreveport Nat. Bk., 118 La. 664, 43 So. 270.

92. See 7 C. L. 363.

93. Under Code, § 1882, creating double stockholders' liability, an assessment in a receivership proceeding is a proper method to enforce such liability. Elson v. Wright [Iowa] 112 N. W. 105. Under the provision of such statute that all persons interested shall be brought into court, a stockholder must be brought in individually before the assessment. Id. In action by receiver to recover from stockholders on their statutory liability, an amendment to the original complaint held not to set forth a new cause of action and that the complaint as amended stated a cause of action. *Reid v. 94. Under Banking Laws 1892, p. 1913, making stockholders individually liable for debts of a corporation defaulting in the payment of its debts, where a trust company was not dissolved and was liable to suit, it was necessary for the holder of the claim to reduce it to judgment before suing the stockholders. Gause v. Boldt [N. Y.] 80 N. E. 566.

requiring directors of national banks to make reports to the comptroller of currency renders them liable for injuries sustained because of reliance on a false report.<sup>99</sup> A national bank which assumes the liabilities of a state bank is liable to a subscriber for stock of such bank but cannot be compelled to issue him stock in the national bank.<sup>1</sup> Where one asserts a lien on or ownership of a fund in the hands of a receiver of a national bank, it is discretionary with the court to retain the property within its jurisdiction until issues are determined, and the receiver may be enjoined from transmitting it to the comptroller of currency in the usual course as required by statute.<sup>2</sup> Knowing violation of law is essential to the civil liability imposed on directors by the national bank act.<sup>3</sup> Such liability may be enforced in a state court,<sup>4</sup> but the denial in such a suit of an immunity claimed under the act presents a Federal question for purposes of review.<sup>5</sup>

Rights of stockholders.<sup>6</sup>—Stockholder of record at time of reduction of capital stock is entitled to benefit of proceeds of doubtful assets then charged off as against stockholder of record at time of realization.<sup>7</sup>

Enforcement of stockholders' liability.<sup>8</sup>—The trustee of an estate which is stockholder in a national bank is not personally liable as a stockholder.<sup>9</sup> The pledgee of national bank stock has been held beneficial owner and subject to stockholder's liability.<sup>10</sup>

A receiver of a national bank is an officer of the government,<sup>11</sup> and an action by him to recover assets of the bank is not within the statute denying costs to one who recovers judgment for less than a prescribed amount.<sup>12</sup>

State interference and powers of state courts.<sup>13</sup>—National banks are subject to state control as regards the construction of contracts, transfer of property, or creation of debt and liability to suit.<sup>14</sup>

Payment of deposits.<sup>20</sup>—A savings bank is authorized to pay a deposit to a joint owner of the fund who has control of the pass book.<sup>21</sup> The bank must exercise ordinary care to avoid paying a deposit to the wrong person.<sup>22</sup> Ordinary care in such case means a high degree of care,<sup>23</sup> and whether it has been exercised is often a question of fact.<sup>24</sup> Whether a deposit should be repaid without production of the pass book or the giving of an indemnity bond is a question for judicial triers and not for officers of the bank, under the Michigan statute.<sup>25</sup>

§ 5. Loan, investment, and trust companies.<sup>26</sup>—The organization of trust companies and their powers is a subject of statutory regulation.<sup>27</sup> An officer of a trust company who makes an accommodation for the president of the company is liable thereon unless it appears that the company itself agreed that he should not be liable.<sup>28</sup>

the rate of interest national banks may charge, superseding all state laws on the subject of usury, and providing for forfeiture of all interest for usury, is a valid exercise of the powers of congress. Schlesinger v. Gilhooly [N. Y.] 81 N. E. 619. As no penalty is imposed by the banking laws of New York or the national banking laws of congress for the bona fide purchase of a note void for usury, and the only penalty is where the bank acts knowingly, usury is no defense against a state bank's receiver, in an action on a note discounted by it before maturity, in due course and for value. Id.

17. Under the statutes of New York the penalty for usury can be recovered against a state bank only in an action of debt and not as a set-off or counterclaim to the original obligation. State banks are on an equality with national banks, and the national banking act applies. Schlesinger v. Lehmaier, 117 App. Div. 428, 102 N. Y. S. 630.

19. Code Pub. Gen. Laws 1888, art. 81, § 86, imposing a franchise tax on savings banks, etc., applies as well to savings banks having a capital stock, subject to taxation, as to banks which have no capital stock. Fidelity Sav. Bank v. State, 103 Md. 206, 63 A. 484.

20. See 7 C. L. 371. See, also, post, § 6, as to rules common to all banks.

21. Where a savings bank pass book showed a deposit in the name of father and daughter, and it was kept in a common receptacle in the household and the daughter could get it whenever she desired, held insufficient to show that the book was not in the daughter's possession and the fund under her control. Carlin v. Carlin [N. J. Eq.] 64 A. 1018.

22. A savings bank which has paid out all of a deposit on a forged order, accompanied by a stolen pass book, is liable to the depositor for the amount thus paid out, if the forged signature varied from the real signature on a signature card and the bank neglected to compare said signatures. Hough Ave. Sav. & Banking Co. v. Anderson, 9 Ohio C. C. (N. S.) 12.

23. Anderson v. Hough Avenue S. & B.

Co., 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 22. The fact that a young man earning wages every day, with no family to support, and in good health, should place his bank book in his trunk and not look for it again for nine months, does not constitute negligence as a matter of law contributing to mistake in repaying the deposit. Id.

24. Whether, a bank book having been stolen, the payment of the deposit to another constituted negligence on the part of the bank is a question to be determined by the jury under all the circumstances of the case. Anderson v. Hough Avenue S. & B. Co., 4 Ohio N. P. (N. S.) 22.

25. Comp. Laws, § 6117, provides that no payment or check against a savings bank account shall be made unless entered in the pass book, except for good cause and on assurances satisfactory to the bank, held that where the pass book is not produced the question of "good cause" and "satisfactory assurance" is for judicial triers, and not for officers of the bank. Vincent v. Port Huron Sav. Bk., 147 Mich. 437, 111 N. W. 90. This statute does not authorize refusal to pay unless the pass book is presented or indemnity given where the pass book is not negotiable, the demand being made by the administrator of the depositor's estate, though several months have elapsed since death of the depositor. Id.

treated.<sup>31</sup> Title to a check remains in the drawer until delivered unless the payer directs the drawer to send it to him by mail, in which case title passes when it is placed in the mail.<sup>32</sup> The drawer of a check, the payee of which has negligently failed to present it for payment, may upon the drawee becoming a bankrupt present a claim for his deposit without waiving its claim of payment against the payee.<sup>33</sup>

Relation of banker and depositor.<sup>34</sup>—The relation between banker and depositor is that of debtor and creditor,<sup>35</sup> and the obligation of a banker to keep money for and return it to a depositor is that of a debtor.<sup>36</sup> This is the rule though the fund deposited belongs to the public.<sup>37</sup>

Repayment of deposits.<sup>38</sup>—A deposit raises an implied promise to repay the same.<sup>39</sup> When a bank receives a deposit, it is to be paid to the depositor, or his order, or for his use or benefit,<sup>40</sup> or to the person for whose benefit it is made.<sup>41</sup> The bank assumes the duty of seeing that it is so paid.<sup>42</sup> If it pays out the money otherwise it is liable to the depositor to the amount of such payment.<sup>43</sup> The depositor of money is prima facie entitled to withdraw it.<sup>44</sup> A bank is justified in paying bearer paper to one who presents it.<sup>45</sup> Money deposited to the credit of a third person unconditionally may be withdrawn by him on demand,<sup>46</sup> but if the de-

44. Where a deposit is made by a person as "Atty." if the bank has no further notice as to ownership of the fund, it is justified in paying it to an officer levying a writ against the attorney. Cunningham v. Bk. of Nampa [Idaho] 88 P. 975. In such case as between the bank and the attorney it is liable to pay the money to him, and the same relation exists as between any other general depositor. Id. Where a bank places the proceeds of a check payable to a beneficiary to the credit of the trustee who indorses the check pursuant to power to do so, it is not responsible to the beneficiary for the proper application of the money. Mills v. Nassau Bank, 52 Misc. 243, 102 N. Y. S. 1119.

45. Where a depositor sent check payable to and indorsed by him to the bank by his messenger for deposit, and the bank cashed the checks and the messenger absconded, the bank was not liable. Peerrot v. Mt. Morris Bank, 104 N. Y. S. 1045.

46. A certificate of deposit, issued by a posit is subject to conditions such conditions must be performed.<sup>47</sup> Where a deposit is attached, it may be withheld by the bank until final determination of the cause.<sup>48</sup> A check does not operate as an assignment of the fund upon which it is drawn until it has been accepted or certified.<sup>49</sup> Nor does the mere fact of presentment entitle the holder to priority where the drawer subsequently becomes insolvent,<sup>50</sup> and if he receives payment he may under some circumstances be required to return the money.<sup>51</sup> A demand deposit does not bear interest in the absence of special contract<sup>52</sup> or refusal of the bank to repay the same.<sup>53</sup>

bank, certifying that a stated sum of money is deposited to the credit of a third person, subject to the check of such third person, and over which no control is reserved by the depositor, is the equivalent of a promise by the bank to pay such third person the amount on presentation of the certificate. Lamar, Taylor & Riley Drug Co. v. First Nat. Bk., 127 Ga. 448, 56 S. E. 486.
